

Item Miser

Lynne D. Williams, medical school information
Feb. 28, 1990

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE students in pathology and laboratory medicine will be offering free cholesterol screenings to the first 200 university students that visit their booth from 1 - 4 p.m. in Jot Travis Student Union on Wednesday, March 11. The screenings are being done as part of National Laboratory Week.

STUDENTS TEACHING AIDS TO STUDENTS (STATS), a group of medical students from the medical school, is available to make informational presentations about AIDS to university and community organizations. To make an appointment or for more information, please contact Frieda Hulka at 784-6001.