FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Twelve alumni from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, were among the 47 granted medical degrees from the University of Nevada School of Medicine at ceremonies held recently in Reno. Among those were Tracy Wakefield Fauerbach, a Las Vegas native, who garnered four academic honors and was the highest ranked female (out of 22) in the graduating class.

Fauerbach received the Janet M. Glasgow Memorial Award for being the highest ranked female student in the class. She also received the Outstanding Family Practice Student Award, the Outstanding Student in Obstetrics and Gynecology Award, and was inducted into Alpha Omega Alpha, the national honorary medical society that "recognizes and perpetuates excellence in the medical profession." Fauerbach will begin a residency in Internal Medicine this summer at the University of Nevada Affiliated Hospitals in Las Vegas.

Other UNLV alumni to receive academic awards were Sean Barlow, who received the Richard Blurton Award for Overall Excellence in Psychiatry and Behavioral Science;
