FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Henderson residents Sean Barlow and Robert Rudolphi are among the 47 members of the Class of 1992 at the University of Nevada School of Medicine. On Friday, May 15, the two new physicians received their academic hoods, symbols of their acceptance into the profession of medicine.

Dr. Barlow, who is the son of Gary and Diane Barlow of Henderson, attended Basic High School and earned his undergraduate degree at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. During the school's awards ceremony on May 14, he was given the Richard Blurton Award for Overall Excellence in Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences. He will be doing a psychiatry residency at the University of California, Davis Medical Center in Sacramento.

While attending medical school, Dr. Barlow was class treasurer, was a member of the Student Executive Committee and the American Medical Student Association.

Dr. Rudolphi, who is the son of Glen and Mirella Rudolphi of Henderson, attended Eldorado High School and earned his undergraduate degree at the University of Nevada, Reno.

While attending medical school, Dr. Rudolphi serves on the school's Admissions Committee, and was a member of the American Medical Association and the American Medical Student Association. He will do an internal medicine residency at Brooke Army Medical Center at Fort Sam Houston, TX.
