

Med school chooses new chairman of internal medicine

Lynne D. Williams, medical school information
June 9, 1989

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Dr. Roy Stanley Shane has accepted the position of chairman of internal medicine at the University of Nevada School of Medicine. According to Dean Robert M. Daugherty, Jr., Dr. Shane will direct the internal medicine programs in both Reno and Las Vegas.

Prior to coming to Nevada, Dr. Shane, an endocrinologist, was associate dean and professor of medicine at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha. He also was medical director of Ambulatory Care and Managed Health Care Systems at the Center.

Dr. Shane earned his undergraduate degree from the University of Kansas and his medical degree from the University of Kansas School of Medicine. He completed an internship at Los Angeles County General Hospital and residencies at the University of Kansas in Lawrence and West Virginia University School of Medicine in Morgantown.

The doctor is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and was governor of the American College of Physicians, West Virginia Region, from 1979 to 1983.

He also served as chief of Endocrinology and Metabolism and as associate chairman of the Department of Medicine at WVU School of Medicine.