

Elizabeth Bernheimer wins Thornton Peace Prize

Lynne D. Williams, medical school information
July 11, 1981

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Elizabeth Bernheimer, M.P.H., assistant professor of family and community medicine, is the 1989 recipient of the Thornton Peace Prize awarded by the University of Nevada-Reno.

The Thornton Peace Prize is awarded to those members of the university community whose work contributes to the idea that the use of force is not an acceptable means for settling disputes. Bernheimer, who has specialized in family and community medicine for 11 years at the University of Nevada School of Medicine, is a member of Physicians for Social Responsibility and served as an advocate for senior citizens in the medical cost containment struggle in Nevada. She has been described as "the social conscience for the medical school."

Bernheimer attended the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, MA, for her undergraduate degree in music, and the University of Hawaii, School of Public Health for her master's degree in public health.

In addition to the Thornton Peace Prize, Bernheimer has received the Sarah Mazelis Award from the American Public Health Association in 1988; was the recipient of the Ann Wilson Haynes Award, 1977 "Outstanding Health Educator" at the University of California, Berkeley; and has been listed in Who's Who in Health Care and Who's Who in American Women.

NEWS RELEASE

University of Nevada School of Medicine

Public Relations Office
Savitt Medical Sciences Building
Reno, Nevada 89557-0046

(702) 784-6001

FOR THE GOOD HEALTH OF NEVADA

Elizabeth Bernheimer wins Thornton Peace Prize

Lynne D. Williams, medical school information
July 11, 1981

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Elizabeth Bernheimer, M.P.H., assistant professor of family and community medicine, is the 1989 recipient of the Thornton Peace Prize awarded by the University of Nevada-Reno.

The Thornton Peace Prize is awarded to those members of the university community whose work contributes to the idea that the use of force is not an acceptable means for settling disputes. Bernheimer, who has specialized in family and community medicine for 11 years at the University of Nevada School of Medicine, is a member of Physicians for Social Responsibility and served as an advocate for senior citizens in the medical cost containment struggle in Nevada. She has been described as "the social conscience for the medical school."

Bernheimer attended the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, MA, for her undergraduate degree in music, and the University of Hawaii, School of Public Health for her master's degree in public health.

In addition to the Thornton Peace Prize, Bernheimer has received the Sarah Mazelis Award from the American Public Health Association in 1988; was the recipient of the Ann Wilson Haynes Award, 1977 "Outstanding Health Educator" at the University of California, Berkeley; and has been listed in Who's Who in Health Care and Who's Who in American Women.