UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

FOR THE GOOD HEALTH OF NEVADA

Lynette Hein, medical school information
January 29, 1993

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT :30

You can admit it. At least once in your life you thought you could be the next Marcus Welby. You probably even thought it might be swell to move to Port Charles to join the staff of General Hospital.

Well dream no more.

The University of Nevada School of Medicine will be offering a free, four-session Mini-Medical School for people like you. Beginning February 23rd, you'll have an opportunity to sample some of the things you would have learned in medical school. And you'll learn without ever studying for an exam, losing sleep, incurring debt or worrying about malpractice.

Mini-med sessions will take place evenings at the West Charleston library and enrollment is limited. So for additional information or to reserve your seat in the Mini-Med class of '93, call Joannie at three-eight-three-two-six-three-eight.
