Medical student works with local doctor

ELY-- A University of Nevada School of Medicine student will begin working with Dr. Tim McHugh this month.

Senior medical student William Chau will begin a four-week stay with Dr. McHugh, a local family practice physician, this month.

Chau, along with all fourth-year students, is required to complete a month-long stay with a family practice physician in rural Nevada. He will work side-by-side with Dr. McHugh beginning Feb. 15 to learn more about the practice of rural medicine.

The students' rural rotation is coordinated by the School of Medicine's Nevada Area Health Education Center program.
