Carson City Physician gets med school post

Carson City physician Susan R. Pintar has been appointed Assistant to the Dean for Continuing Medical Education for the University of Nevada School of Medicine. Dr. Pintar, a 1981 graduate of the school, began her duties Oct. 1.

In the new position, Dr. Pintar will develop and evaluate the medical schools continuing education programs for physicians. "Continuing medical education is a vital part of helping physicians to stay current about medical issues and diseases," Robert M. Daugherty, Jr., M.D., Ph.D., dean, said. "Dr. Pintar will bring a practicing physician's unique perspective on continuing medical education."

The medical school currently offers 35 continuing medical education programs annually throughout the state. Dr. Pintar joins the director of continuing medical education, Jamie Anderson, M.S.N.
