Medical student works with local doctor

BOULDER CITY-- A University of Nevada School of Medicine student will begin working with Dr. Herve Bezard this month.

Senior medical student Joseph Schifini will begin a four-week stay with Dr. Bezard, a long-time local family practice physician, this month.

Schifini, along with all fourth-year students, is required to complete a month-long stay with a family practice physician in rural Nevada. He will work side-by-side with Dr. Hardy beginning March 15 to learn more about the practice of rural medicine.

The students' rural rotation is coordinated by the School of Medicine's Nevada Area Health Education Center program.
