UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

FOR THE GOOD HEALTH OF NEVADA

Neyland release

Arlee Fisher, medical school information
March 26, 1996

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

On April 1, 1996, Beverly Neyland, M.D., will take on the duties of associate professor of clinical medicine, Department of Pediatrics at the University of Nevada School of Medicine. She is currently the chief of pediatrics of Sunrise Hospital and Medical Center and Sunrise Children's Hospital.

Dr. Neyland is a long-term advisor and advocate for the school's minority student programs and recruitment efforts. She also has served for many years as a member of the school's admissions committee, a charter member of the subcommittee on minority student affairs, a member of the Southern Nevada Area Health Education Centers board, and is one of the founders of the original Minority High School Scholar's Program.

In addition to the honors she has been accorded by the school, she was awarded the Humanitarian Award in 1993 by the committee, "100 Men Helping Boys" for "exemplifying the spirit of altruism to the Greater Las Vegas Community." In 1992, she received a certificate of recognition by the Professional Black Women's Alliance, and in 1984, she was named Woman of Valor in Las Vegas by B'nai B'rith for accomplishments in pediatrics and in the community.

"I look forward to working with residents in a teaching capacity and moving forward with the school's endeavors in Las Vegas," said Dr. Neyland. Dr. Neyland will join the school's faculty and begin seeing patients in the Pediatrics Clinic at University Medical Center. The telephone number she has had through 21 years of private practice will remain the same.
