Medical student works with local doctor

BOULDER CITY-- A University of Nevada School of Medicine student began working with Dr. Herve Bezard this month.

Senior medical student Lisa Yao began a four-week stay with Dr. Bezard, a long-time local family practice physician, Jan. 15.

Yao, along with all fourth-year students, is required to complete a month-long stay with a family practice physician in rural Nevada. She will work side-by-side with Dr. Bezard to learn more about the practice of rural medicine through Feb. 9.

The students' rural rotation is coordinated by the School of Medicine's Nevada Area Health Education Center program.
