FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Paintings and drawings by Glendale, California artist Olga Seem will be the October exhibit at the University of Nevada School of Medicine's Manville Gallery.

Seem explains that she "takes forms from nature and transforms them into ambiguous landscapes." Her intent is to draw the gallery visitor into "captivating and mysterious explorations of nature, its enigma and its processes." She manages this with colors and shadows that move along lines and geometric planes, creating the nuance and essence of trees and branches, boulders and mountains.

The artist received both her B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of California at Los Angeles. Seem has exhibited at Goski Gallery in Los Angeles, Leonard Heller Memorial Gallery in the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, Brand Library Art Center Gallery in Glendale, and the Orlando Gallery in Encino.
