FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Bonese Turner's "Sushi Series" is featured as the August exhibit in the University of Nevada School of Medicine's Manville Gallery. Turner's work is described by Louise Lewis, director of the Art Gallery at California State University at Northridge (CSUN), as "exemplifying stylistic qualities attributed to Southern California. Using a realistic style that echoes advertising graphics, with an emphasis on upbeat colors, her works are a witty commentary on contemporary urban life where East meets West. Turner adroitly captures the sensory appeal of her subject in both two- and three-dimensional works, shifting easily between watercolors, monoprints and assemblage sculpture."

Turner earned bachelor's and master's degrees in education from the University of Idaho and a master of arts from CSUN, and attended the University of California-Los Angeles, California State University at Los Angeles and Eastern Washington State University.

Currently, she is an art instructor at Pierce College in Woodland Hills, CA, and is a consultant to Warner Brothers/Burbank Studios.
