FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Marie McCormack, a second-year student at the University of Nevada School of Medicine, has been elected treasurer of the American Medical Student Association (AMSA), the largest representative of medical students in the United States today.

McCormack has been active in AMSA both at the School of Medicine chapter and at the national level as a regional trustee. This year, as national treasurer, she will have the final responsibility for writing the budget of the association and, under the direction of the board of trustees, overseeing the expenditures of the association.

McCormack, who earned her undergraduate degree from the University of Nevada, Reno, is the daughter of Roger James McCormack of Reno.
