

Department of Meteorology and Climatology.

The Director,

Nevada Agricultural Experiment Station,

Sir: -

The report of the Department of Meteorology and Climatology for the year ending June 30, 1907, has been presented for publication as a bulletin of the Station under the title: "The Mt. Rose Weather Observatory, 1906-1907."

The work of the Department has been confined to projects contemplated under the Adams Act, and includes

1. The Study of Frost Forecasting from Mountain tops, and
2. The investigation of the ^{Influence} Relation of Mountain Forests ^{upon} the Conservation of Snow.

The publications of the Department since the inception of the work include

"The Mt. Rose ~~Weather~~ Observatory" ... Monthly Weather Review
xxxiv, No. 6 (June, 1906), pp. 255-263.

"Summit Temperatures in Winter in the Sierra Nevada" ...
Appalachia Vol. XI No. 3, pp. 239-248.

Respectfully submitted,

Signed:

J. E. Church, Jr.,

Cooperative Observer.

Department of Meteorology and Climatology.

The Director,

Nevada Agricultural Experiment Station.

Sir:-

The report of the Department of Meteorology and Climatology for the year ending June 30, 1907, has been presented for publication as a bulletin of the Station under the title: "The Mount Rose Weather Observatory, 1906 - 1907". The work of the Department has been confined to projects contemplated under the Adams Act, and includes

1. The Study of Frost Forecasting from Mountain Tops, and
2. The investigation of the Influence of Mountain Forests upon the Conservation of Snow.

The publications of the Department since the inception of the work include

"The Mt. Rose Observatory" . . . Monthly Weather Review

XXXIV, No.6 (June, 1906), pp. 255 - 263.

"Summit Temperatures in Winter in the Sierra Nevada"

Appalachia Vol.XI, No.3, pp. 239 - 248.

Respectfully submitted,

Signed:

J.E.Church, Jr.,

Cooperative Observer.