WILL ATTEMPT PERILOUS FEAT

Dr. J. E. Church Will Try to Ascend Snowy Summit of Mt. Whitney.

Dr. J. E. Church has been granted a short vacation, which he will spend in an effort to climb Mount Whitney. The Doctor has cut out for himself a very difficult feat and one that is fraught with hardships and dangers. But he has anticipated this trip for several months past and has been making very careful preparations for it. By climbing high mountains round about Reno, sleeping out in snow banks, and making experiments relative to the amount of food required, he has clearly ascertained how much covering he will need, that he can carry a ten days supply of food without serious difficulty and the kind of snowshoes required. His bed will consist of a sleeping bag and a rabbit blanket. The only difficulty he anticipates will be from the soft snow, as it is almost impossible to make any provision against this.

He will be accompanied on the expedition by Dr. Marsh, the noted explorer and scientist, who established the trail to the summit. The ascent will start from Lone Pine in Inyo Co. and will gradually work around to the west side of the mountain, it being impossible to make a direct ascent on the east side. Far up on the trail, where it traverses a rocky slope, the winter snow has frozen solid in the passages between the jagged stones. Here they will find it necessary to cut their way with axes. It is not their intention to build any fires for warmth during the entire ascent, as they feel that heat obtained from such a source does not impart the proper degree of vigor. In the event of a storm arising, which would hinder their further upward progress, instead of turning back, they will remain encamped, where the storm overtakes them, until it is passing.

Dr. Church has two objects in view in attempting this undertaking. The primary object and the one which inspired the trip, is a statement by Prof. McAide, coast weather observer, to the effect that

TOOK PART OF ROMAN PAGAN

John McElroy '03 Was a Character in Play Given at Santa Clara.

John A. McElroy, a member of the class of 1903 at the University of Nevada, who has been attending Santa Clara College for the past two years, took the part of Potitus, a Roman senator in the play, "The Light Eternal", which was given by the students of that college in one of the prominent theatres of San Francisco. The scene of the play is laid in Rome and Campagna during the early years of the fourth century. The tale of the persecution of the Christians by the Roman pagans is the underlying theme of this ancient play. When it was presented before a San Francisco audience, its success was almost instantaneous, and it proves the ability of the students in a dramatic line.

if it were possible to climb Mount Whitney in winter it would be an ideal place to establish a weather observatory. It is Dr. Church's intention to establish the feasibility of the project. His second object and the one which he feels will amply repay him the many hardships, is to get some photographs of the magnificent scenery to be found in this vicinity. It is our intention, upon Dr. Church's return, to get a detailed account of the trip, as we feel it will be of general interest to the University, as well as to many outsiders.

Debate in Room 6 Tonight

The University Debating Club meets tonight in Room 6. The topic for discussion is "Resolved, United States senators should be elected by direct vote of the people." Speakers for the affirmative, D. M. McDonald '06, Alfred Hamlin '06, Louis Goldstein '07, Milo Dividovich '07, Geo. R. Leidy '08, for the negative John S. Case '06, W. Macmanaman '06, D. W. Leavitt '07, Arthur StClair '08, Wm. Arms '08. Faculty and students are invited to attend.

FINAL PLANS FOR DEBATES

Question And Tentative List of Judges Submitted To Stanford

Monday Nevada submitted to Stanford the following question for the intercollegiate debate, which is to be held in Reno April 22nd, "Resolved, that laws relating to marriage and divorce should be uniform throughout the United States and that for that purpose Congress should be given power by constitutional amendment to pass such laws". Stanford has a week in which to select the side she will defend. A tentative list of judges comprising W. A. Massey, ex Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, G. F. Talbot, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Sardis Summerfield United States District Attorney, Geo. Martinson, A. E. Cheney and W. D. Cooke, Attorneys of Reno and W. B. Craig, District Attorney of Washoe County, was also forwarded.

The debating manager has received a letter from Miss Elsie Abeel of the San Jose Normal, stating the conditions under which they are willing to enter the proposed debate, which Nevada will offer them in return for the Alpha Beta-Normal debate held last year in San Jose. All the conditions stated are satisfactory except the date they have set April 15, on which the debate is to be held. In view of the completed arrangements for the Stanford debate it will not be convenient for Nevada to meet the Normal on that date. May 6th has been considered a suitable date on which to hold the debate and the manager has written to San Jose, asking for it.

Prof. J. E. Weir, of the history department, will deliver the assembly address on Friday morning. Her subject will be, "The Goal of the Golden West". Miss Weir has made an exhaustive study of this subject and will have much of interest to impart to her hearers.

1905 ARTEMISIA STAFF NAMED

C. L. Smith Selects Those Who Will Assist Him in Editing College Annual

C. L. Smith, who has been selected by the Senior class to edit the Artemisia for 1905, has already chosen the staff that will assist him in the great undertaking. The members have been selected only after careful consideration, and will render a good account of themselves. The following is the list of students who will edit this year's Artemisia: C. L. Smith, Editor in Chief; Mary Bacon, Associate; W. A. Pearson, Joshes; Walter Palmer, Photographs; F. D. Bradley, Business Manager; A. H. Steckle, Assistant.

Those who will have charge of the college annual will enter upon their duties immediately. Owing to the fact that the work was begun this year somewhat later than is customary, the members of the staff will be compelled to work conscientiously in order to have the book appear on the usual date.

The chief failure of the different Artemisias edited by the various Senior classes lies in the fact that originality is never attempted. Each editor follows in the footsteps of his predecessors, and individual features are entirely lacking. If the class of 1905 wishes to achieve an everlasting reputation, the field is open to them. By placing in this year's Artemisia some ideas entirely original, they will be remembered by succeeding classes as having introduced an innovation in college annuals in this university.

Manager Bradley has posted a notice to the effect that all societies, clubs etc. desiring picture space in the Artemisia should see him at once so that he can make the necessary arrangements for the taking of the pictures before Washington's Birthday. The work will be done this year by F. P. Dann, of the Riverside Gallery, who will give the customary reduction to students wishing pictures for their own use. This seems to be rather short notice considering the number of organizations in the University desiring space.

The establishing of an English club at the University is one of the inevitable signs that we are progressing, and the movement has met with general favor among the Liberal Arts students. Organizations having for their purpose the study of the evolution of art are common to other Universities. We have long been in need of such an institution, and now that the plans for its organization have been completed, many enthusiastic discussions have been heard on all sides.

The study of English is primarily the object of the club. It will work along the same lines and with the same purpose in view as the Crucible club. Reviews and discussions of English works from the Middle Ages to the present time, and fine delineations in the comparisons of the different authors are to be the main features of the meetings. The dramatization of the old Mystery plays such as the English club at Stanford is studying at the present time will be taken up at different times.

Besides having this purpose in view the club aims secondarily to revive interest in the classical department of our college, and the need of such a movement is apparent. The A. B. degree has not been highly regarded in the past, and yet it can be safely said that the training for it has been as thorough and concise as for any degree in the University.

Nevadans as a rule favor the Science courses which is not peculiar considering the lines along which the state has developed. All the students live in farming and agricultural districts, and are unable to see anything in education except what corresponds to the environment of their homes.

The few B. A. graduates, the little interest taken in oratorical and debating contests, and the dearth of candidates for the Cecil Rhodes bequest are but a few of the many proofs of this. The effort of the English Club to bring into general favor the College of Arts is wise and beneficial.

COMING HOLIDAY

Washington birthday is rapidly approaching, and yet no arrangements have been made by the student body for the celebration of the day. The matter of properly observing the birthday of the Father of our Country should be brought before the meeting of the studentory tomorrow, and suitable arrangements should be made. In-past years exercises worthy of the day have taken place on February 22, and the custom should not be neglected this year. The students will not be given a holiday unles-they decide to pay Washington the respect that is due him. Should the students fail to honor his birthday, the usual University classes will be held on that day.

SOPHMORE-JUNIOR

GAME POSTPONED

The final game of baseball between the Juniors and Sophmore for the championship of the school will probably not take place next Saturday. The Juniors intend to leave for Steamboat Springs on geology trip, and, as the majority of the members of the class will compose the party, it will not be possible to have the game on the late that the baseball manager had intended. Weather conditions might interfere with the proposed geology trip, but, if such a thing happens, the game could not be played. When the Sophmores learned of the geology trip, a conference was held with the Juniors, and February 22 was decided as the date on which the championship game will be played.

The Crescent Club members will gather Friday evening in their social room, to enjoy a few leisure hours. A interesting program will be rendered. After which buisness of importance will follow. The president will appoint a committee of three, to select suitable trophy pins for their three earnest debaters, who will battle Saturday evening with the Reno High School.

JUNIORS TAKE GEOLOGY TRIP

The Junior students in the Mining Department at the University went on a geology trip last Monday afternoon with Professor J. A. Reid. This was the second of the many excursions the class of 1906 intends to take before the close of the present semester. The foothills west of Reno were examined, and special attention was paid to the rock formation and the old lake and river deposits of that section. After wandering over the hillsides for several hours, the members of the party returned to the University. They admit that each one secured much valuable experience as a result of the trip.

The Juniors will depart for Steamboat Springs next Saturday in company with Professor J. A. Reid. The members of the party will leave Reno in a bus, and only a short time will be required to finish the trip. Shortly after their arrival, the geological formation of the locality in the near vicinity of the springs will be studied thoroughly. At 12 o'clock a delightful repast will be served. When the lunch is over, the students will examine all the interesting features of the surrounding country. The whole day will be devoted to the trip.

ANNAPOLIS MAN CAMPUS VISITOR

Herbert B. Maxson, ex '04, who left the University for the Naval Academy at Annapolis and who is now a graduate of that institution, was a visitor on the campus Tuesday. The odor of his native sagebrush seemed delightful to his nostrils, but still, being so far away from the effects of the soft sea breezes and hot feeling accustomed to the quiet sidewalks as compared with the frolicky motion of the hurricane deck, he already feels strongly the call of the spreading sails. Mr. Maxson has been assigned to service with the Pacific fleet.

Henry H. Davis, ex-'06 has passed the recent examinations at Annapolis with flying colors, and his record at the Naval Academy surpasses that of any Nevada student who has attended that institution.

The Philomathean Literary society will meet Saturday evening, Feb. 10, 1906. A lengthy and and interesting programme has been posted on the Morrill Hall bulletin board.
