OFFICERS ELECTED FOR NEXT YEAR

Skinner Elected Major,
Company B Men Chosen For Captains.

The officers of the Cadet battalion met in the Chemistry building Friday afternoon, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Major, L. D. Skinner; Captains, H. L. Jones Co. B; B. G. McBride, Co. A; Adjutant, L. E. Elliot; First Lieutenants, C. C. Taylor and W. J. O'Brien, G. A. Hoffman, band; Second Lieutenants, A. H. Hamlin and H. H. Casier; Commissary, J. D. Scott.

F. B. Stewart was elected Sergeant-major.

The sergeants for next year according to rank are as follows: James Hart, C. A. Hart, M. B. Kennedy, Robert Sawyer, Waite Borden, J. D. Leavitt, Earl Harrington, A. M. Boyle, J. A. Champagne, J. M. Spencer, (band) Andrew Curran, J. M. Ezell (band) Milo Davidovich.

The corporals for next year rank as follows: Jack Davis, T. F. O'Brien, Frank Ryan, Austin Cheatham, Fred Freeman, E. I. George, J. P. Arnot, Charles Roeder, P. W. Wilson, P. W. Parker, Louis Kline (band.)

Later advices from military headquarters are to the effect that further appointments in the band have been made as follows: Second Lieutenant C. Jameson, Third Lieutenant H. L. Updike, Fourth Lieutenant John S. Case. The military authorities feel that the services of the above named gentlemen would be indispensable to the band next year, hence their action in the matter.

"The encouraging fact about the men who work their way through Northwestern University," said Professor John H. Gray, head of the department of political economy, "is that their social standing does not seem to suffer by the fact that they earn all or part of their expenses. Another fact worthy of note is that they are good students and do creditable college work. In fact, the best men we have in college are those who work their way."

INSPECTION DAY WAS A SUCCESS IN EVERY WAY

Standard Attained by Cadet Battalion at Inspection
Last Friday Was the Subject of Much Favorable
Comment from All Sources

The annual inspection of the cadet battalion occurred last Friday and in every respect was a decided success. The weather was all that could be desired, being neither too warm nor too cold, but just cool enough to lend snap to the movements of the men. Promptly at a quarter to nine the assembly call sounded and the two companies and the band fell in. After the preliminary inspection of the companies by their respective captains, the battalion moved off to the parade ground. Here it was necessary to wait for a time owing to the non-arrival of Captain Winn, the inspector. After a delay of perhaps a quarter of an hour, the inspector, accompanied by Captain Boyd, appeared and the work of the day immediately began. Battalion review was the first thing on the tapis. This was carried out in a creditable manner and was followed by the inspection of the battalion. Every cadet was given the attention of the inspector, and his arms, uniform and general appearance given a thorough examination. The inspector made but very little comment during the time this work was in progress, although he commended the band on the neat appearance of their new instruments. It will be remembered that Captain Winn inspected the battalion last year and the sharp contrast between the appearance of the band last year and the appearance this year must have been especially noticeable to him.

After inspection came battalion parade and guard mount. Parade was perhaps the crowning feature of the day. The line of the two companies was perfect and Captain Winn remarked that the line of either company was the best he had seen on the coast this year. After guard mounting came battalion drill. With one exception this was very nearly perfect, the exception being in the platoon drill, and was due to a certain extent to the change in tactics and the lack of time to perfect many of the new details.

Mrs. Sullivan has a fine display of summer millinery.

The competitive drill of the two companies followed the battalion drill. Company A took the grounds first and went through the many movements connected with the marchings and then the manual of arms and the setting up exercises. Company B followed and went through the same movements and while the judges were deciding upon the relative merits of the two companies, the latter were busily engaged going through outpost drill and the firing regulations. It was in these that the battalion was especially wanting, and the inspector was somewhat severe in his criticisms of this department of the drill. The failure of the companies in this respect can be best attributed to the early inspection which made it impossible to give enough time to this department.

At about noon the companies were drawn up in front of the Chemistry building to hear the verdict of the judges. Captain Boyd read there, or announcing that in the best judgment of the three judges and the inspector, Company B was entitled to the palm and therefore the two companies have won the cup an equal number of times. Next year will decide which company is entitled to the permanent ownership of the trophy. After lusty cheers for the two companies and the two captains had been given, the cadets were dismissed and the inspection was over.

It seemed to be the general verdict that the drill this year was the best ever witnessed on the parade ground of this university and it is thought that the report of the inspector will be exceedingly gratifying.

GLEE CLUB GIVES FIRST CONCERT

Citizens of Verdi Appreciate the Entertainment
Given by the Students

The University Glee club played before a crowded house at Verdi last Friday evening, and the proceeds will net them a neat sum in prosecuting further work. Considering that this entertainment was their initial appearance before an outside audience, their success was indeed gratifying to the manager of the club. The people of Verdi were not slow in recognizing the leading features of the evening, and every selection that was deemed worthy of merit was encored. The specialties and the selection by the quartette were especially appreciated by the audience, and came in for a large share of the applause.

The men went through the various parts of the lengthy program, and the frequent encores showed that the hearers were not wearied by the efforts of the students. Geo. Smith brought down the house by the rendition of a difficult part, and several other selections received almost as much applause.

About twenty students took the trip to Verdi, and were well satisfied with the entertainment they received. They returned to Reno early yesterday morning.

After the inspection Friday, the inspector, the commandant, the commissioned officers, certain members of the faculty, a member of the regents and a few of Reno's citizens repaired to the banquet rooms of the Elk's home and indulged in a sumptuous banquet which had been prepared for them at the expense of Dr. Stubbs. It was somewhat in the nature of a farewell banquet to Captain Boyd as he left the same evening for St. Louis. Toasts were responded to by a number of the gentlemen present. The banquet was of about three hours duration and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Yet there was a certain element of sadness connected with it, because among the party were Captain Boyd, Cadet Major Smith and Professor Hastings, of the band, all three of whom would be in the near vicinity but a short time longer. The first two being destined for the Phillipine Islands and the latter will shortly leave for Berkeley.

Editor Today J. M. Ezell

The cadet battalion has attained a standard of excellence this year of which the University and her friends can well be proud. This notable record can be attributed to many things and to many persons, but the two men who stand out as being the most directly responsible for the praiseworthy results are Captain C. T. Boyd, commandant, and Major Cassius C. Smith. To begin with Captain Boyd is the first commandant assigned to this post who remained to the full extent of his assignment. During all the time he has been with us he has worked with but one end in view—the good of the battalion, and it would be but to recount ancient history to renumerate the inestimable services he has rendered this institution from a military standpoint. He was considered by the government too valuable a man to be allowed a further sojourn in this peaceful clime and he is ordered to at once report for duty in the Phillipine Islands, where he will more directly serve the interests of his country.

It is as needless to speak of the good services rendered by Major Smith, but out of sheer respect for the man we cannot refrain from saying just a word. During the first semester of this term he was virtually commandant. Owing to the absence of Captain Boyd, the duties of the latter as well as those of his own devolved upon Mr. Smith, and being obliged to carry these as well as his studies he certainly personified the strenuous American of the twentieth century. His strict demeanor and his thorough nonpartialness during the drill period commanded for himself the same respect accorded the regular commandant. In fact the remarkable contrast from his ordinary mood reminded one strongly of A. Conan Doyle's famous novel, 'The Strange Story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.' His efforts in behalf of the battalion were not only appreciated by the cadets, but the United States government recognized in Major Smith, a valuable servant and a commission in the regular army is his reward. All this goes to show that no matter where merit may be found it is always recognized and the RECORD, Major Smith, as well as the whole University extends to you a most respectful salute.

W. P. Catlin recently made a strike in the Silver Bow district. He uncovered a six foot ledge that assays as high as $450. The average on the surface was $38. The highest surface assay was $79, and fourteen feet down the ledge went $456.

Mr. Catlin graduated with the class of 1904 and has many friends in college who will be gratified to hear of his startling success.

PROFESSOR
HASTINGS

Afer two years of faithful service Professor Walter Hastings will sever his connections with the cadet band. During the time he has been with the band, that organization has made remarkable progress. He has been employed at a salary that is hardly worthy of being called such, and yet his work has been of such a high order that it should warrant a much better remuneration. All spring he has been at work endeavoring to raise a sum sufficient to buy new instruments for the band and now that he has succeeded the whole University should feel toward Mr. Hastings the very kindest of feelings. The members of the band showed their appreciation of his efforts by presenting him with a very beautiful present. Mr Hastings will leave shortly for Berkeley, Cal. and for a time will be at home on Dana St. where he will be pleased to receive any of his friends. The University has lost in Professor Hastings a valuable servant and to none is this more apparent than to the members of the band.

GYMNASIUM DECORATED

As the students were wending their way to the dining hall Friday morning, the first object that attracted their attention were the class numerals of the Sophomores which had been placed in a conspicuous spot on the roof of the gymnasium. Contrary to expectations, the Freshman class made no attempts during the day to remove the work of art so odious to them. The day was very suitable for the carrying out of such a task. The '07 occupied a prominent position on the roof of the gym, was soon noticed by the large crowd that had gathered to witness the annual inspection, and adverse comment was expressed on all sides at the action the baby class had taken in regard to this matter.

The class of '96 was the last to accomplish this feat, and every class since that date has failed to leave a sample of their handwork on the gym roof for the oncoming generations. Several members of the Sophomore class were engaged yesterday in removing the numerals, as they felt that no honor is attached to having them in so conspicuous a position.

A club has been organized at Harvard to entertain visiting athletic teams.

PENCIL PUSHER HAS VERY THRILLING EXPERIENCE

Last Sunday John S. Case, Editor of the Record and Student Body president-elect while fishing fell into the Truckee River and had a very narrow escape from drowning. Owing to the retiring disposition of Mr. Case it is impossible to learn the exact details of the affair, but because of the anxious inquiring of his many friends it was deemed best by to-day's editor to make a note of the accident and set at rest the fears of the students.

As near as we can learn the details are as follows: The weather appearing propitious on Sunday morning, Mr. Case decided to take advantage of the opportunity to don his new spring suit and to celebrate the event with a little attempt at angling. A well founded rumor has it that he was accompanied on his expedition, but to the best of our knowledge, he was not; at any rate it seems that while the editor was dangling his line in the swift waters of the Truckee, he was at the same time perfecting the details of an editorial inspiration and while in this state of perfect oblivion to his immediate surroundings, the hook was seized by one of the finny tribe and given such a violent jerk that the unsuspecting fisherman was pulled into the water. We are not acquainted with the manner of his escape, but it is thought that it was through the friendly aid of an overhanging branch. Mr. Case stole on the campus under cover of darkness thoroughly overjoyed because of his timely deliverance.

The last of a series of parties given by Professor J. A. Reid of the mining department to the Senior mining students was given at his home last Friday evening. Various forms of amusements served to pass an enjoyable evening. The future of each member of the Senior class was discussed, and many interesting comments were brought forth. A delightful repast at the close of the evening's festivities was appreciated by those present, and was a gentle reminder of the hospitable spirit of Prof. and Mrs. Reid. Those present were: C. C. Smith, C. L. Smith, W. A. Pearson, Walter Palmer, C. W. Stark and W. J. Pope.
