

COMMITTEE ARRANGES DEBATES

The debating committee, which was appointed for the purpose of arranging a schedule of class debates, met and decided upon the following dates:

Senior-Junior debate November 18.

Final debate between the winners of the above debates for the interclass championship of the University, December 9.

An effort will be made to obtain permission from the college authorities to hold the championship debate during the period of general assembly. This will insure a good attendance of students and should awaken a lively interest in debating.

As was stated last week the question to be debated will be submitted by the challenging class and unless the classes agree otherwise between themselves the ranking class will challenge. The trophy, which will be awarded the class winning the final debate, will be hung in room 6 upon the graduation of the class.

Trip Postponed.

On account of the inclemency of the weather the geology trip which the Seniors had intended to take to Lake Tahoe last week has been postponed. The party expected to leave for Tahoe Friday and return to the University Monday. No definite date has been set for the trip.

Recollections of the Days of '49.

Those of the University students who attended the lecture of Joaquin Miller, experienced a rare treat. The poet lectured upon the "The Days of Old, the Days of Gold, the Days of '49." The lecture was full of sympathy for the "forty niners." In fact, some of the words that he spoke respecting these pioneers, approached a eulogy. The habits and way of living in early California were vividly described. The audience itself was transported back to the early days of the West, as the inspiration of the poet led them.

The poet dwelt also upon his own life. He told of his coming to the "wild west", and the hardships that he and his parents experienced. The poet described different events that came back to his memory, that happened when he himself was one of the "forty niner." It was all so clearly told that the audience could see the picture as the poet saw it. This, together with the beautiful poetic language employed, made the lecture one that will have a lasting influence on the hearers.

Y. M. C. A. MAY BE ORGANIZED

J. A. Champagne Will be Instrumental in the Redemption of Vast Numbers of Transgressors

H. O. Hill an organizer for the Y. M. C. A. was at the University last Sunday and addressed a number of Lincoln Hall men on the benefits to be derived from an organization of this character. He asked for and received the views of a number of students present regarding the outlook for an association being established at the University. All present expressed their sympathy with the movement, but the consensus of opinions was that the time was not yet ripe for organizing. Mr. Hill then advised that a number of men, representative students of the University be sent to the W. M. C. A. conference in Pacific Grove next January in order that some idea of the work accomplished by the association might be obtained and thus pave the way toward the installation of a chapter in the University some time next semester.

During the past week there has been considerable activity among many of the prominent students and at present there seems to be a good prospect for the organization of a chapter before the end of the present school term. J. A. Champagne, an influential Junior and a student who has never been noted for his piety, has identified himself with the movement and has succeeded in interesting a number of other men whose attitude toward the principles of religion has always been of a somewhat doubtful character. College students as a rule are not especially religious and the fact that an impression has always existed that a member of the Y. M. C. A. is of the "goody goody" variety has in the past proven a very serious stumbling block in the path of those who are interested in the work. Mr. Hill's remarks last Sunday exploded this theory as far as those present at the time are concerned and the minds of many are now infused with a thorough understanding of the true aim of the association. In order to accomplish any results it is necessary to interest the ordinary student and as such seems to be the case at present, there is every reason to hope that the initial step toward the organization of a Y. M. C. A. in the University of Nevada will soon be taken.

Broke His Nose

The first accident to take place on the football field this year occurred Friday afternoon when J. D. Scott, captain of the second eleven, had a cartilage of his nose broken in a football scrimmage. In a tempting to tackle Otto Hussman, a halfback on the first team his nose came in contact with Hussman's pedal extremities with disastrous results. At first it was thought that his nose was broken, but an examination by a physician disproved that theory. The injury will keep him from the gridiron for several days.

Nevada Man Is Made General Manager in South Africa

F. C. Frey who has been employed for the past ten years by the Simmer and Jack Mining company in South Africa has been appointed to the position of general manager of the entire operations of the company during the absence of T. P. Cazzan, the regular general manager, who is spending his vacation at the Portland Fair. The magnitude of the position can only be realized when it is considered that over thirty thousand men are in the employ of the company, and that the facilities for handling the ores of that mine are enormous in comparison with some of our Western mining projects.

RELIANCE AND NEVADA PLAY NEXT GAME

The Reliance Athletic Club of Oakland will be Nevada's next opponent on the gridiron and the two teams will struggle for supremacy on October 14. The Reliance team is composed of former Berkeley and Stanford stars, and compares favorably with either of the two California teams. Nevada and Reliance have met on the gridiron for the past four years and the scores have been close. The contest will be full of interest as the chances the home team has with the Californian universities will be determined.

Manager Taylor will make a determined effort to have the team from the University of Colorado stop over a day here on their way to California, and play a game. Colorado was the champion of the Middle West last year and should arrangements be made, the game would prove a drawing card.

JUNIOR CLASS ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Reid entertained the Lincoln Hall Juniors for a few delightful hours last Sunday evening. Conversation and refreshments were indulged in and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. A marvelous display of wit and repartee on the part of the students in Liberal Arts as compared with the somewhat desultory remarks and clumsy phrases of the engineering students was also a feature of the evening. The party came to an end at 10 p. m. with earnestly expressed hopes of the guests that a repetition of the festivities would be an order for the early future.

F. A. E. Weller, formerly a member of the class of 1904, was greeting his friends on the campus yesterday.

IN THE FIELD OF JOURNALISM

Press Club Organized By Students Interested in Active Journalism and Will be Prominent Function

A number of the students who are prominently identified with college journalism succeeded in perfecting an organization last Wednesday evening known as the University Press Club. The purposes of the club are to stimulate an interest in journalistic work at the University, and to discuss subjects of special interest to the profession.

The following officers were elected: H. M. Standerwick '06, president; D. M. McDonald '06, vice president; J. M. Ezell '07, secretary and treasurer. Nine students became charter members of the society and it is the intention of the instigators of the scheme to limit the membership to ten.

The meetings of the club will be held weekly, and at each session some topic of interest to the printing craft will be fully treated. The editors of the city papers will be invited to give a short address on their experiences in news paper work. The instruction received from attending the meetings will be the primary purpose of the organization.

The following students are members of the new club: H. M. Standerwick '06, J. S. Case '06, D. M. McDonald '06, J. M. Ezell '07, J. P. Arnot '08, Harold J. White '08, Stoddard P. Southworth '09, George R. Liedy, L. S. Spellier.

An Envious Bench For Seniors.

The desires of the class of 1906 to obtain a bench that would become sacred to the Senior class have at last been gratified through the kindness of Superintendent Richard Brown. The bench occupies a prominent position near the steps in the rear of Morrill hall, and will be used exclusively by the Seniors when they have no recitation periods. This custom which has prevailed in all the large Eastern colleges will be perpetuated at the University, and each year at Commencement week the bench will be turned over to the coming Senior class with fitting ceremonies. The bench was dedicated by the Seniors last Thursday, and the giving of the class yell and three cheers for Mr. Brown closed the program. The bench will soon be treated to a fresh coat of black and red paint, the colors of the Senior class.

REGENTS AT GENERAL ASSEMBLY

The general assembly of the faculty and students was enlivened last Friday by the presence of President J. E. Stubbs and Regents Oscar J. Smith, W. W. Booher and H. S. Starrett, and those who attended were entertained during the hour by short speeches from these gentlemen.

Chairman Smith was the first speaker, and confined his remarks chiefly to the subject of hazing. In order to ascertain how many members of the faculty and Board of Regents were present at assembly, he called the roll, and assumed that the same percentage of students were in attendance. In regard to hazing he said that it was lots of fun for the hazers, but, as the older universities had eliminated this feature, he advised the students to cut it out. He expressed the opinion that it made no better man or woman out of a person to have them humbled to the earth or the pond. He recommended that the students join the Y. M. C. A. instead of pursuing their nefarious practice. He went on record as being in favor of having a creditable rifle corps established at the University.

Regent Starrett endorsed the sentiments of Mr. Smith in regard to hazing. He expressed a dislike for the extravagance exhibited by the different classes at their dances, and claimed that the parents of the students were not able to stand the expenditure. He told how the regents had assisted athletics this year, and hoped that the same acme of success would be attained.

W. W. Booher, the senior member of the board, dwelt mainly upon the injuries done to the University by two recent occurrences during his short address. He said that the state was not supporting a school for educating hazers but for the active duties of life. According to his opinion the committing of such an offense injured the institution beyond calculation. He claimed that no upper classman had the right to interfere with the personal rights of any other student. The feeling in the state against the school was narrated by the speaker, and he said that when further appropriations were desired, the University would be confronted with the recent hazing acts. After the close of the regular speeches Dr. Stubbs and Regent Smith gave short talks to the male students.

Crucible Club Meets

The Crucible Club held a meeting last Wednesday night and elected officers of the club for the year. Professor George D. Louderback was chosen president; Wilson McManaman was elected vice-president; Leslie Elliott and W. J. O'Brien were elected secretary and treasurer respectively. Besides the professor the other officers are all well known mining students.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1905

Editor of the Reno Evening Gazette Changes His Views.

Last March a prominent student and yell leader at the University of California became mixed up in a breach of promise suit and details exaggerated and enhanced with pictures of the principals were published in the Bay City papers. It was then that the editor of the Reno Evening Gazette wrote the following editorial on March 18, 1905:

Rejoicing at University's Misfortune.

"There are always many people to rejoice when something untoward happens at a university. There is some strain in them which finds satisfaction in an unfortunate incident which if it had happened anywhere else would pass unnoticed. The doctrine of "no-lesse oblige" has nothing to do with their criticism of the university's misfortune. They simply find in it a theme for gloating their censure originating in envy and natural dislike for the institution of higher learning and in railery at the young man or woman who is obtaining a college education. This attitude is particularly acute among those whose chief joy is that they are "self made."

"We esteem lightly those who would throw stones at a great university because two of its students strayed from the way of decency. The newspaper harpies and others who are finding a delectable mess in the University of California's misfortune are fit guests to the feast which gives them pleasure. The right thinking, however, will not attach odium to the college because of a wayward son and daughter whose actions have brought sorrow to their alma mater.

The Gazette has always been known as the more conservative of the two City dailies. When a conservative paper takes up an unfortunate incident of its home University, the University of the State to the welfare of which it emphatically states it is devoted, and in bold face type pads and exaggerates it in a front page article, but one conclusion can be drawn, that it is distinctly rejoicing because something untoward has happened at the University of Nevada and that it is finding satisfaction in the unfortunate incident which had it happened elsewhere, would have passed unnoticed. Shall we not say also that the Editor of the Gazette simply found in the University's misfortune a theme for gloating his censure, originating in envy and natural dislike for the institution of higher learning, and in railery at the young man obtaining his college education?

What we have to say here is not said in a bantering spirit or with any desire at railery, but with due respect to the Editor of the Gazette. We as college undergraduates look upon the issue of the Gazette of last Friday, September 29, in the same light as its Editor, who is himself an ex student of the University of California, in his editorial, views the action of the San Francisco Press.

Our Alumni

Miss Cordie Hayes, sister of D. W. Hayes '00, is principal of the Bridgeport schools.

J. S. Mayhugh '02 is drafting in the office of the Oregon Short Line railroad at Wells, Nevada.

Miss Elloise Elliott, Normal '04, is teaching in the primary department of the Bridgeport Schools.

A. S. Sadler '01, J. W. Hall '01 and F. J. Delonchant, '04 are employed in the office of the Surveyor General at Reno.

R. H. Frazer '99, who has been conducting an assay office in the basement of the Overland hotel for the past two years, has removed his fixtures to the more commodious quarters in the new Dean Building.

J. P. Olding ex-'06, now a student at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, was greeting his friends and classmates on the campus the first part of the week. He will graduate from the Academy next January.

D. C. Seagraves '99, who graduated from the Military Academy at West Point last June, is now a second Lieutenant in the American army, and has been ordered to report to the Pacific Division with headquarters at the Presidio near San Francisco.

Jerome Higgins '97, who has been in the service of the Knight Deep Limited company at Germiston, South Africa, for the past three years, will return to the United States shortly, and expects to help the alumni celebrate Founder's Day on October 12.

Joseph Durkee '95 was a visitor on the campus Thursday. During the last six years Mr. Durkee has been engaged in mining in South Africa. He held a very good position with the Simmer & Jack Company, in that country. He has, however, given up his position because the work became detrimental to his health.

W. H. Seagraves '96 sailed from London August 16 for South Africa, where he has been employed by the Simmer Jack Mining Company as a mining captain at a salary of $650 per month. The underground work has proven detrimental to his health, and for this reason he has been promoted to the position of Assistant Manager.

C. C. Larson, one of the first members of the T. H. P. O. Fraternity, was a visitor on the campus last Thursday. Twelve years have elapsed since he was a student at the University, and since that time he has been employed by the Southern Pacific company. He was recently promoted, and will leave in a few days for Ogden to take up his new duties.

E. E. Hardack, the first Nevada man to secure employment in South Africa, accompanied by his wife, is now at Portland, Ore., and expects to visit his Alma Mater about October 1. Mr. Hardack has been employed in South Africa for the past twelve years and during his short vacation will take part in the exercises to be held October 12 in honor of the thirty-first anniversary of the founding of the University.

Many Improvements To Be Made

There are several improvements to be made about the grounds on the completion of the new dining hall. Between the dining and Manzanita halls a lawn will be started. The path now leading along the pond from Lincoln Hall will not be used but instead a walk will be constructed running along the outside of the fence. This will be done to protect the grass. The walk that leads from Manzanita Hall to Stewart Hall, will also be taken up and in its place a walk will extend in a straight line between the two buildings. If the plans are carried out as schemed, the campus will by spring present a very finished appearance.

Educator Coming

P. W. Search, an educator of eminence, will give three lectures on next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings under the auspices of the University authorities in the Congregational church. His topics will be "Face to Face with Great Ideals," "Greatest Pictures in the World," "Music in the Fatherland." The faculty and students are promised a treat and they should not miss it.

Girls Fill Air With Sweet Melody

Great interest is being taken among the college girls in the Glee Club, which was organized last year and furnished music for so many college gatherings, including Bacclaireate Service and Commencement. The tryout for admission took place last Tuesday evening and many new and valuable names were placed on the roll. Mrs. Layton who rendered such excellent service last year will continue to direct the Glee Club. The weekly meetings are to be held on Tuesdays at 4 o'clock in room 6. All girls who have not joined should come and have their voices tried. The club expects to give a concert soon and needs a large chorus.

Pirates

The Pirates, an organization composed of old football players, who had challenged the second eleven to a game of football, were not able to show what they could do yesterday afternoon as business interests demanded their attention elsewhere. Their adversaries were in a similar predicament, and for that reason the gridiron contest did not come off as scheduled.

Senior Control

Senior control at the University of Nevada was instituted last Wednesday evening when the Senior and Junior classes drew up a set of rules governing the underclassmen and preparatory students at Lincoln Hall. The idea was advanced by Prof. J. A. Reid, Master of Hall, who believes that better order can be secured in the hall when the upperclassmen are almost entirely responsible for the conduct of the other students.

The rules drawn up by L. D. Skinner, L. E. Elliot and W. J. O'Brien, of the Senior class, are very rigid. No underclassmen is allowed to be out after 10 o'clock in the evening without the consent of the master of the hall and then only on special occasions. Visiting the saloons and gambling dives is especially prohibited. Any violators of these rules will be severely punished.

Under the new regulations each floor of the hall will be under the supervision of a Senior, and all transgressors of the law will be reported to Prof. Reid or dealt with by a committee of upperclassmen.

Journalistic Benefits.

The organization of a Press club at the University, which has for its special object the thorough study of the most important questions in journalistic work, indicates that our school is on the upward trend. In the new society the social features which have been prominent in many of our literary societies will be lacking. The members of the club are interested in journalism, and anything but a serious discussion of journalistic subjects will not be tolerated in the society.

The primary object of the organizers will be to increase their knowledge of journalism, and the intellectual benefits derived therefrom will be eagerly grasped by the young journalists. The services of men who have had years of experience in the craft will be secured, and the members expect to profit by this intercourse with the old timers. The latest books on the subject of journalism will be studied, and an attempt will be made to secure all the information possible concerning the latest ideas in the printing art. Nearly all the members of the club expect to take up journalism as a life profession, so the prospects of the new organization are indeed glittering.

A Zephyr From the Whirl of Society.

Miss Gulling entertained the Misses Jones, Dewar, Pike, Mayhugh, Ivory and O'Neil and Messrs Gulling, Magee, McBride, Pike and Evans at her home on Friday evening.

Miss Irene Mack entertained some friends last evening by an auto ride. Among the invited guests were Miss Edna Southerau, Miss Cecilia Houlahan, Mr. Mulcahy, Mr. Armstrong of Denver and Mr. DeVare of Bolder Cal.

TALKED OF HIS ECCENTRICITIES.

Numerous Papers Read Concerning the Poet of the Sierra

The meeting of the English club last Monday evening was marked by an unusually large attendance. The subject of the evening was the life and work of Joaquin Miller. An original biographical sketch was read by D. M. McDonald, '06, followed by an interesting newspaper clipping by Miss Beulah Hershizer, '06. Several selections of his poems were read by J. D. Scott, '06. Miss Ada D. Morse, '06 gave an account of a visit she once made to his home at Dimond Heights. As the closing number of the program, Professor Cushman related several incidents of Mr. Miller's present stay in Reno.

At the close of the meeting ten new members signed the constitution, making the present membership twenty-two. The next meeting will be devoted to discussing the advisability of giving prizes for the best story, essay, and poem that may be submitted to the club during the school year. Alfred Hamlin, '06, and Ada Morse, '06, will speak in favor of the proposition.

CONGRESS CLUB HAS BEEN ORGANIZED.

In order to stimulate interest in debating at the university the nature of the class in Forensics has been entirely changed. The class will be known as the Congress club and it was decided at a meeting of those interested in debating last Wednesday evening that the organization would be regulated by the rules of the United States Congress. The question for discussion is: "Resolved, That expansion in the United States is expedient."

Our Guarantee

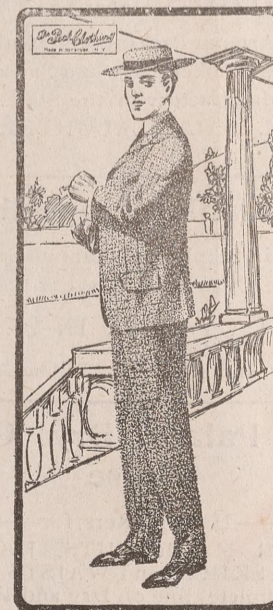

To guarantee these Suits to be brand new goods, cut in the late Fall Styles for 1905 that they wear well, fit well, retain their shape and give the best of satisfaction in every way. Your money back or a new Suit if dis-satisfied.

How Can We Afford To Do It At These Prices

That's about as absolute a guarantee as we could possibly give. Is it not? You who are used to paying high prices for your clothing, or else have been getting poor clothes for bigger prices than these, no doubt wonder how we can do it.

ITS Just this way. We bought these suits from a manufacturer who can afford to make good clothes for little money by demanding spot cash for his clothing. In this way he takes no risks and can sell on a very close margin of profit. Besides we have already sold a great many of these suits and have not heard the slightest murmur against them, but lots of praise for them. That is why we feel perfectly safe in guaranteeing them as we do.

THE SUITS—They come in a large variety of stylish fabrics—fine tweeds and worsteds in swell fall patterns and shades.
