

CLOSE GAME WITH RED MEN

Second Team Triumphed Over Stewart Institute Yesterday.

While the Varsity team was being defeated at Stanford, the men of the second eleven were winning laurels for Nevada upon the oval at the Stewart Institute. The game was an interesting one from start to finish, especially in the first half, while the second only lacked speed on the part of the Nevada men. The score of 6 to 0 indicates that the game was closely contested and that the redskins, although inferior were well versed in the art of football.

Griswold, early in the first half, made the phenomenal buck over tackle which won the day and decided the season. Captain Scott endeavored in the latter part of the game to score a goal by place-kicking but failed by a small margin, leaving the score unchanged. This makes the second victory for the heroes of the scrub team within the last week, demonstrating that although small they are mighty.

New Books for Library.

A consignment of books were unloaded at the library last week. The new volumes are chiefly on sociological and mining subjects. A number of bound volumes of University publications was also received.

Changes Will Be Made in Drill

Captain Robert M. Brambila, commandant at the University, has drawn up a set of regulations governing the military department. They have been prepared in compliance with the orders of the War department, and have received the approval of President Stubbs. They have been put in printed form, and will be delivered to the cadets tomorrow in the Chemistry room. Several new rules have been introduced, and are all quite severe.

Absence from an examination or inspection will condition a cadet in the term's work. Infractions of discipline are subject to punishment by extra drill. Every absence must be made up by extra drill. Seniors are subject to duty when called upon. No cadet can be assigned to the band until he has had some experience in drill. Cadets must salute professors and cadet officers. Cadets in submitting excuses must hand in the certificate of a reputable physician.

At Church Dinner.

The girls of the Senior class entertained and refreshed themselves at the Church Dinner Thursday evening. Nearly all the young ladies of the class were present and enjoyed the repast at a specially reserved table.

21 STANFORD WINS GAME 0

Nevada Gridiron Heroes Go Down to Defeat

Nevada was on the short end of a 21 to 0 score in the annual football game with Stanford University yesterday afternoon on the Stanford gridiron. The sagebrush players were unable to overcome the onslaughts of their opponents, and succumbed to inevitable defeat. The dispatches from the scene of the conflict indicated that Nevada held her own for the first few moments of playing. Every inch of ground was fiercely contested and the scrimmages were so rough that "Dad" Skinner, Nevada's plucky guard, whose back was injured in the Reliance game, was compelled to retire from the combat at the close of the first half.

Nevada fumbled quite frequently, and two of the fumbles proved disastrous as Stanford converted them into touchdowns. Four touchdowns were made by the California teams before the struggle was brought to a close. None of the Nevada players were injured.

The Student Record received the first news of the game in town. C. C. Taylor, the special representative of the Record, sent the first telegram at 3:39 p.m. A large number of students and friends had gathered in front of the Western Union office to hear the reports of the game. When the message came announcing that Nevada was holding her own, they were anxious to hear the final result. The telegrams arrived slowly, and the crowd became impatient. The missive which announced Nevada's downfall was received at 6:30 o'clock, and was eagerly awaited by the students.

The first telegram received at 3:39 p. m. was as follows:

Student Record,

J. S. Case

Game is on. Boys are holding them pretty fine.

Signed

Dick

The last message told the final result of the game.

Student Record,

J. S. Case

Final score, Stanford 21: Nevada 0. No one hurt. Skinner went out at end of first half. Two fumbles cause of two touchdowns.

Signed

Dick

SECOND TEAM WINS FROM RENO HIGH

Sturdy Bunch From High School Defeated By 19 To 0

Although the game of last Friday between the second eleven of the University and the Reno High School was but a practice game, it had many characteristics of the larger matches that have been played on the University gridiron. From the beginning of the game the second eleven made repeated gains by a series of end runs and line bucks and when the whistle sounded the end of the first half the score stood 10 to 0 in their favor.

The second half was but a repetition of the first, for the High School, although strong, was unable to stop the progress of their opponents from consecutively making their downs from one goal to the other.

A spectacular feature of the game was the end runs by Powers, the right-half of the second eleven. His speed furnished with good interference seemed good for a touchdown whenever the quarter saw fit. In the last half, after two more touchdowns had been made, Scott, Captain of the second eleven, was successful in kicking a place-kick, making the total score 19 to 0.

Company Has Invented Burner

Prof. J. G. Schrugam has been experimenting with a new oil burner, which is being put on the market by a company that was recently organized with a view to determining whether it will be a commercial success. He does not believe that the machine would prove a success, but is preparing certain modifications which he thinks will do away with the difficulties and make the burner so it will be accepted by the business world. The changes will be finished soon, and the trial of the new burner will be made tomorrow.

If Prof. Schrugam decides that the invention would be a commercial success, it will be adopted by the V. & T. Railway company, the Sampson Gas Engine Co and the Insane Asylum. Experiments have proven that the introduction of the machine would reduce the cost of fuel one-half.

The company which is promoting the new scheme is known as Eureka Hydro Carbon Company. General Agramonte, of Mexico, is president of the concern, and Sam P. Davis, of Carson City, is General Manager.

Misses Susie Rand, Mae Kane, Ruby Williams, Louise Barker, Hazel Marsh and Florence Blake went to Carson to witness the football game.

Planning Trip To Chico

Manager H. L. Bonniel of the second eleven, who has been for some time corresponding with Manager Bryan Ames of the Chico Normal, has secured a game with them to take place on Thanksgiving Day. As the Normal is unable to pay all the expenses of bringing our team down there, it will be necessary for Nevada to have some aid from the athletic association.

Mr. Bonniel has also been corresponding with the manager at the Sacramento High School. He is endeavoring to have the game with Sacramento on the way to Chico. If he is successful in so doing, it will probably settle the question of expense most satisfactorily, for the sum to be paid by the Sacramentans should at least make up the difference.

SENIORS CHALLENGE JUNIORS.

At the meeting held last Thursday the Senior class decided to challenge the Juniors to a class debate according to the arrangements of the debating committee. The following question was deemed to be suitable for debate: "Resolved that in American education too much emphasis is placed upon the individual benefit and too little upon the public welfare." Note—It is assumed that a good education is beneficial to the man educated and also to society in which he lives. The question was proposed by Debating Manager Alfred Hamlin.

After the Juniors receive the challenge, they have the right to select the side they expect to defend on the rostrum. The challenge will be sent to the Junior class in a few days. The debate will occur in the evening on November 18.

ON EVOLUTION

Dr. Pritchard, of Reno, was the speaker at General Assembly last Friday, and took for his subject "Evolution." He emphasized his belief in the ideas of the survival of the fittest, and that there was nothing new under the sun. His belief in the teachings of the agnostics was clearly shown, and he showed that all our ideas come from things of great magnitude. He asserted that people were not necessarily bad because they did not go to church. New and original ideas appealed to them, and he stated that their introduction was not painful. The three ideas which the doctor had received from various sources were: that man came up from the ant; that electricity is the soul of man, and that there is no sin but ignorance.

Hon. Sam Davis Will Discuss Mark Twain

Sam Davis, the famous Nevada humorist, will be the principal speaker at the next session of the English club tomorrow evening. He will enlighten his hearers with a discussion of Mark Twain. Controller Davis is acquainted with many of the interesting reminiscences of Nevada's greatest humorist when he was doing his first reportorial work on the Enterprise during the palmy days of the Comstock with Goodwin, McEwen and others who have become famous in journalism. The lecture should prove exceedingly valuable.

Hunting Party.

B. J. Mc Bride, '06, H. H. Cazier, '06, and Charles Sparks returned recently from a bear hunt in Grizzly Valley. They were in company with Governor Sparks and several other prominent people. They had a pack of bloodhounds and were successful in bringing down a large bear.

Freshmen Entertained Yesterday

Naughty-nine was entertained Friday evening at the home of Miss McNair. Many games were indulged in, Drop the Handkerchief, Pussy in the Corner and Peek-a-boo being particularly enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served—a novel entre, being food, a-la-mellin, as it were.

The Freshies were delayed till rather a later hour than is good for the youngsters by a barricade of doors, gates, etc., set up by representatives of the Senior and Sophomore classes (so to speak.) After hewing their way out, the Freshies returned home and cuddled down in their cribs, tired but happy.

A fair coed of the Junior class desires "nursing" by the evening. Terms reasonable. Chain the dog. Apply to E. S. '07.

ETHNOLOGY BUREAU VISITS INDIAN TRIBE

Miss J. E. Weir returned the first part of the week from Lovelock where she spent last Saturday and Sunday in that town on an investigation for the Bureau of Ethnology at Washington, D. C. The bureau is securing material for a handbook on the Indian, and desired information regarding Sarah Winnemucca. She was very successful in her quest, as the pioneers of that section had a large fund of information on some of the peculiar traits of the Nevada Indians.

Issued Invitations.

Misses Alwine Sielaff and Irene Peterson have issued invitations for a party to be given the Senior class next Friday evening.

Miss Obeline Souchereau '05 spent Saturday in Reno.

Misses June Kane, Amy Parker and Kate Lonkey are spending the week end in Verdi.

Wrong Impression.

There is a rather prevalent notion abroad that high scholarship is more or less incompatible with success in practical affairs of life. This notion is easily refuted however, by simple reference to the careers of those who, in their college course, stood the highest in scholarship. The University of California, for example, gives what is called a medal to that graduate each year who has maintained the highest standing in his classes. Below is given the careers of the medalists of the University of California since 1895.

1896—no medal given. '97—medal offered but refused. '98—Rome Montrose Hathaway, of Sebastopol, B. S.; was made assistant in Mathematics at U. C. '99; is now gone abroad to study. '99—Lilly Hohfeld, of San Francisco—A. B.; is now a successful teacher of Latin and Greek in the Mission High School, S. F. 1900—James Daniel Mortimer of Riverside—B. S.; was made assistant in Electrical Engineering the first year after graduation. '01.—Wesley Newcomb Hotfield, of San Francisco—A. B.; now studying law in Harvard. '02.—Bernard Alfred Etchevery, of Ramona—B. S.—you know his career. '03—Mary Edith Mc Graw, of Cambridge, Mass.—A. B.; was reader in Latin at U. C. for two years; has gone to Chicago University to study for Master's Degree. '04—Max Tholan—College Social Sciences; now studying law at Harvard.

Making Envious Record.

Miss Emily Berry, '05, now studying in the University of California, is making an enviable record in scholarship. In one of Professor Gayley's classes of about two hundred she is one of the few who obtained in the first test an "A". Some idea of the amount of work done by classes at the University of California may be gathered from the following. Miss Berry writes:

"In that class, since the beginning of the term, we have read 370 pages of poetry in that big book—British Poets of the Nineteenth Century, about 100 pages in Gayley and Young's Principles and Progress of Poetry. Then in Mile's Poets and Poetry of the Nineteenth Century. I have read all of Crabbe, Hogg, Goldsmith, Coleridge, Bloomfield, Blake, and Rodgers, besides an account of the lives of all of these men.

Good Opportunities

The editor-in-chief and business manager of the Student Record expect to resign their positions on the staff on March 1, 1906. For that reason the contest for the vacancies is now open to all members of the Junior class. All who desire to try for the editorship of the college paper should announce their intentions immediately. The contestants must hand in some material for each issue of the paper, for that will be the only method of judging the journalistic abilities of the competitors. Personal likes or dislikes or other influences will not enter into the competition, but everything will be conducted in a fair and impartial manner, and the most worthy student will receive the honor. It is desired that a large number of students try for the position, as a higher standard can be attained in this way. No individual has been seated for the editorship, and all students in the Junior class who possess any talent for newspaper work have an equal opportunity. The same methods will be used in selecting the next business manager.

Dispute Over Cornmeal

A disagreement between the Railroad Commissioners of the State of Texas and the Interstate Commerce Commissioners has taken place on the subject of rates on corn meal. The Texas Commissioners fixed a differential of 5 cents. The Interstate Commerce Commissioners ruled that a differential first taxed by the railroads, 3 cents per one hundred pounds was reasonable and that the differential favored by the Texas Commissioners was unreasonable. A better illustration of the difficulties that will beset the business interests of the United States, if the power to make rates should be given to the Interstate Commerce Commissioners, can not easily be found. Such conflicts of opinion between the Federal and State Commissioners would be common and the questions at issue must be taken into the courts, exactly as in the Texas instance.

The alumni of Stanford University are planning to have a portrait of Dr. Jordan painted by the famous artist John Singer Sargent, who is to come from London to perform the work. The sum to be contributed by the members of the alumni has been limited to ten dollars, so that each can subscribe.

Communication From
Dr. J. E. Stubbs

The best hour of the day is the hour of sunset. Then come forth from their hiding places in our subconscious nature those calm thoughts and higher feelings to which the fever heat of the day's activities does not give any expression.

The influence of the evening hour rests with gracious power upon the soul. Our aspirations are upward. Our reflections are pervaded with the feeling that only our best selves are worthy a place and a part in the business of life.

Then, if ever, "we covet earnestly the best gifts." We are eager "to deal justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with our God." Then nature reveals herself in aspects of beauty and harmony to our sensitive moods.

Riding along the highlands of Eastern Nevada, the sunset hour was a revelation of the beauty and majesty of the heavens and the earth. I said to myself, "Is there anywhere in the world so inspiring a view?" The sinking sun fills the western sky with a shimmering sheen of pale crimson light. Soon the night deepens and the crimson glow is turned into a solid band of dark red clouds which quickly fade away into the light blue of the sky.

It is a fine tribute to the divine in our common humanity that all men respond to the teachings of the sunset hour. Its sweet influence falls upon all alike. It assuages grief and soothes the restless and troubled spirits. When the sunset hour is past, we are renewed and invigorated for better living.

What shall I say then,
Of the day's parting hour?
Is it not God's voice
Still, small, saying, "Higher?"
J. E. STUBBS

On board train at sunset, Oct. 14, 1905.

Last Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 12, with my family, I went over from Pacific Grove to the new and slightly Presidio of Monterey. Located near the historic town of Monterey, the Presidio presents an attractive view. Its grounds slope gradually from the water's edge of the Bay of Monterey back quite a distance to the higher hills with the sombre pine woods.

In this government camp reside one regiment of infantry and one troop of cavalry which are drilled daily into efficient soldiers of the greatest democratic country in the world.

We started early to have time to call upon Lieutenant Lowe McClure, formerly of Carson, and wife; not finding them at home, however, we passed the hour until evening parade enjoying the music given by the regimental band.

At ten minutes till five, trumpets at the different soldiers' barracks sounded the call to get ready for the parade. Quickly the soldiers lined up, each company in front of its own barracks. It was a beautiful sight—these twelve companies each man of which was well groomed and with spotless gloves and black shoes. Their guns flashed their neatness in the rays of the evening sun. And now to the music first of the trumpets and then of the band one battalion marched to the parade ground, the other two battalions being dismissed.

Under the command of their major they went through the manual of arms with precision. When they marched and counter-marched the work was a little ragged. But as I looked at them—men and officers—I thought with considerable pride of our own university cadets.

I wish the drill were loved by every cadet at the Nevada State University—that not a man nor boy sought to escape his military duties. The results of this training are very far reaching and very beneficial to the pursuits of civil life. It trains the body to erect carriage. It inculcates the primary virtues of obedience, promptness, order, neatness, truthfulness, personal honor and love for flag and country.

I was impressed too by the regard shown for the flag. At sunset the signal gun was fired, and the flag was lowered slowly from the flag-staff while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

The regimental flag was taken from the office of the post commander by the color sergeant and escorted to its place in the battalion by two soldiers. Whenever the colors passed the reviewing officer, caps were taken off, and with heads bare and swords uplifted, the colors were reverently saluted.

It was a good day and we turned our horses homeward with a feeling that we had again been taught lessons which can never grow old.

Regular Meeting

The Congress club held its weekly session in Room 6 last Wednesday evening. The subject for discussion was, "Resolved that publicity is the best method of dealing with corporations." Miss Etta Webb was leader of the negative side and M. B. Kennedy led the affirmative. The decision of the Congress was that the negative side won the debate. D. M. McDonald was elected speaker for the next two meetings.

Redeemed Themselves.

There has been some comment this year concerning the lack of college spirit shown by the girls on occasions when college songs and yells are in order. They redeemed their reputations Thursday evening by starting the cheering for the football boys when the train pulled in. The men awoke to their responsibilities at the feeble sound of the girls' voices in their heroic effort to give the team a good send-off.

Support Glee Club.

The Girl's Glee Club which started so auspiciously and did such good work last semester is now passing through a crisis in its career. It will require faithful support from young women and faculty alike to keep it on its feet. It has proven itself a good thing and it would be wrong to let it break up on account of lack of funds or faithful attendance of its members. Sacrifices must be made for every good cause and the least the members can do for the Glee Club is to forget everything of less importance and turn out in numbers at 4 o'clock every Thursday.

Dr. Stubbs Will Speak.

The National Association of State Universities will meet at Washington D. C. on November 13 and 14, to discuss university work in general. It will be the tenth annual session of the Association and thirty-two college presidents will deliver addresses. J. E. Stubbs, of this university will be at the session and will speak on "Loan Funds and other Help for Students with Information from the West"

Miss Bertha Knemeyer, president of Senior class, was elected basketball manager last Thursday to take the place of Mrs. Hurley, nee Lulu McMullen, who has left school. Rene Ross and Laura McDermid were the other candidates, and two ballots were required for the election. The first ballot stood: Knemeyer 11; McDermid 9; Ross 8. The result of the second ballot was: Knemeyer 14; McDermid 13.

Executive Committee Pass Many Bills

Considerable business of importance was transacted at the meeting at the Executive Committee last Thursday afternoon. The principal subject for discussion was the engaging of an assistant coach for the remainder of the season. Manager Taylor was empowered to enter into negotiations with Edward Bishop, half back of the Reliance team, and formerly coach of the Polytechnic High School at San Francisco. The final details have been completed, and Bishop will assist Coach Rudolph in preparing the team for the Berkley game.

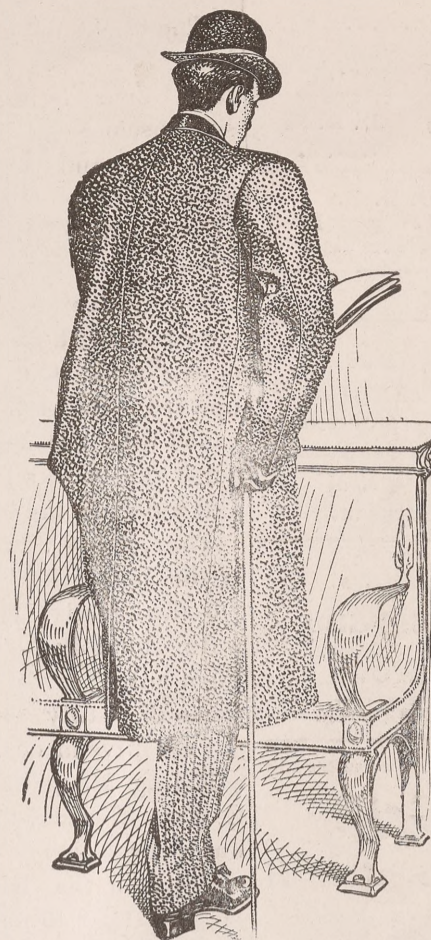

The reports of the Treasurer and Football Manager were read and adopted. The receipts of the Reliance game was $190.50 and the Southern Pacific bill of $139.50 was ordered paid. A deficiency of $9 for the university canes was paid.

The committee set aside $189.50 for the trip to Stanford, and Manager Taylor was given $100 to pay for the personal expenses of the players.

The secretary was instructed to write a card of thanks to Walter Wright of the firm of Gray, Reid, Wright Co. for the interest he has taken in university affairs, and for the excursion from Carson and Virginia which was under his supervision. Manager Taylor was commended for the manner in which he had conducted the Reliance game.

The new constitution of the association was discussed, and some opposition was forthcoming from some of the members. It will be read to the students at the next meeting of the student body meeting. The different managers were requested to hand in the amount of money which would be necessary to conduct their special branch of athletics.

FALL FURNISHINGS AND CLOTHING FOR MEN

Styles and Fabrics that will Appeal to Your Good Taste. Prices that will Appeal to Good Sense

The constant increase of business in our ready-to-wear clothing strikingly illustrates the above facts. The garments are made by the best makers in the country after patterns produced in many cases by the highest salaried designers in the world. With the economy of large production they come to you as good or better than a tailor could make them and at a quarter or third less price.

Fall Styles in Clothing

Mens Suits at $11 and $14

Here is a striking illustration of the extra fine values we are able to offer in men's suits at prices which do not begin to denote their worth. This line we purchased from a manufacturer who makes Good Clothes for little Money, but who demands spot cash for his merchandise. This explains the low prices. The suits come in a large variety of stylish fabrics—fine tweeds and worsteds in swell fall patterns and shades and black Clay Worsteds and Thibets in Single or Double breasted styles. Our guarantee goes with every suit.

Men's Overcoats at $12.50

We purchased from the same manufacturer who made our $11 and $14 suits, a swell line of cravenette overcoats in lengths of from 48 to 52 inches and in medium and heavy weights. The same can be said of these overcoats as of the suits. They are good coats for little money, bought by us for spot cash, which accounts for these low prices.
