

SAN JOSE WINS ONE SIDED CONTEST

‘VARSITY MAKES POOR SHOWING AGAINST A BETTER-COACHED TEAM

(By The Prince)

Lamentable! Such is a description of the basketball game, which resulted in the defeat of the girls' basketball team of the University of Nevada, by a team representing the San Jose Normal school, the final score reading 32 to 9.

Dora Nelson as a jumping center has excellent capabilities, but of how much value they are without team work, was all too evident on Saturday night when, though her work throughout the game was admirable, it failed to accomplish anything. Martha Noble and Lena Haus played rather shy of their usual form, due to lack of system. In fact, the latter does not play as good a game now as she did when she came to Nevada. The reason for this is very apparent. Lyle Rushby was taken out of the game at the end of the first half, and replaced by Sylvia Bower.

There is little use in chalking up Nevada's faults, for the girls are blameless in the matter, and merely played (if one may use the word) as they have been taught. An old adage tells us, "Every cloud has a silver lining." The girls' basketball team is a cloud, and will remain a very dull one, until the silver lining is produced by proper coaching.

San Jose Normal girls are probably as likely a bunch as there is on the coast. Their team work and individual work was excellent, without exception, and the pity of it is that Nevada has not had the same advantages as the N.-D. G. W.

In such an event, Saturday night's game would probably have had another ending. The Nevada girls have got the grit, and played against a team that had them so far outclassed, that it was a shame to take the money.

And in spite of this they played on doggedly—even brilliantly, quite frequently—and made the large crowd of spectators get onto their feet in their excitement.

Boggs kept the rooting section in high good humor and is to be commended for his efforts.

The 'varsity can use a lot more fellows with the same kind of spirit as Boggs possesses.

Nevada was beaten but not disgraced. The game merely served to show how utterly impossible it is to go against a team that understands the game, with an aggregation (even though every individual member be as good as they are made) which lacks system.

The teams lined up as follows: San Jose—Goals, Vena Holmes, Edna Clover, Helen Marsham; centers, Ada Thornburg (captain), Agnes Urban; guards, Pearl True, Ella Wilson.

Nevada—Goals, Martha Noble (captain), Lena Haus; centers, Dora Nelson, Lyle Rushby, Sylvia Bower; guards, Frances Smith, Ethel Brown.

It will be noticed that five of the girls who represented Nevada are freshmen. Isn't there something peculiar about such a circumstance? Authentic reports tell that there are only eleven girls out for practice.

Something wrong here, too, isn't there?

I can name twenty girls that have shown that they are good basketball players, but none of them are out for practice.

Will someone please tell me why this is?

College Tradition Is Upheld

Last Wednesday at noon four of the college men came to grief as a result of their forgetting that there is a tradition on the hill as regards to smoking on the quad. Three of them were freshmen and the other was of senior rank.

The affair started when one of the seniors caught the three freshmen smoking near the Physics building. He told them to desist as they were violating college tradition. Instead of throwing away their "pills" they blew some smoke in his direction.

This seemed to be a polite invitation for said senior to take up his abode where the climate was warmer. Naturally this did not sound well, coming from the new men.

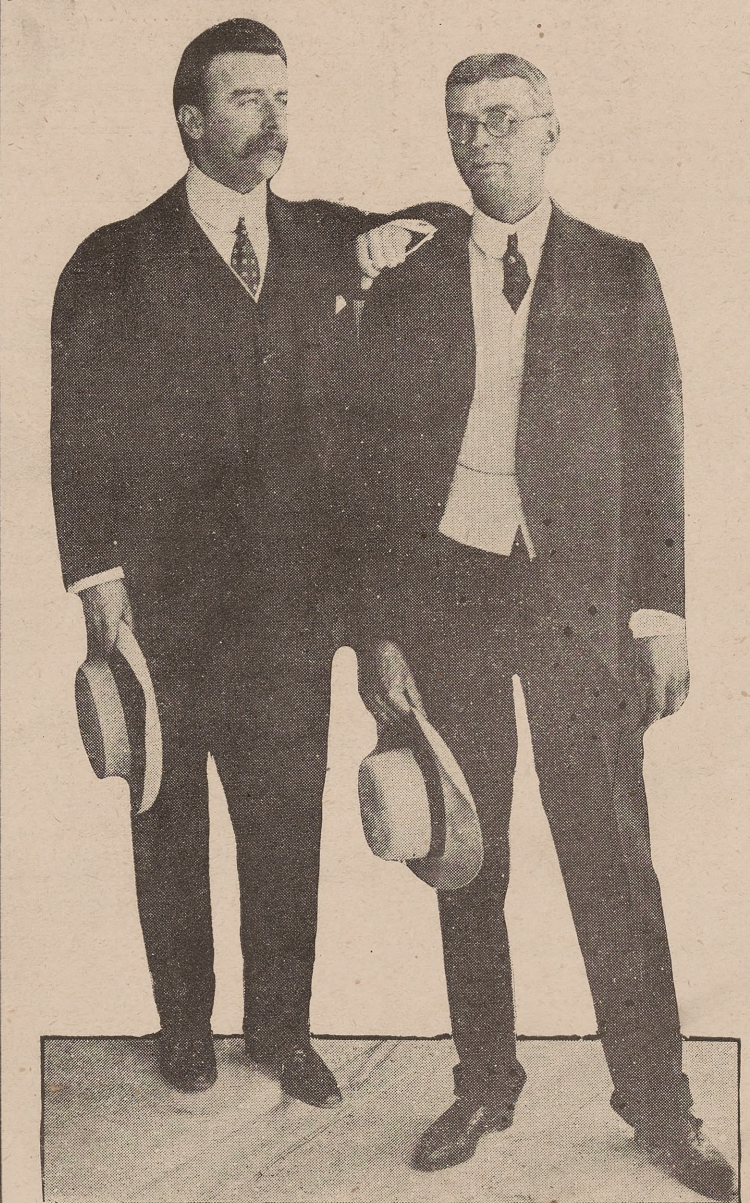

At the noon the upper classmen rounded up these three and proceeded to administer a much needed immersion in the campus lake.

The first of the four to take his bath was the senior, Katsuma Mitamura, of the Japanese empire. He and one of the freshmen were in the toils at the same time. The freshman said that he was willing to take his ducking but he hoped that the upper classmen would not put him in the same tub with the older culprit. As his logic seemed good the freshman was put in the pond and the other took his swim in the ditch. When these two were safely on land again the other two freshmen were rounded up and each was given his swim in the cooling waters of the pond.

During the course of the proceedings with the man from the Island kingdom several remarks as to the character of the upper classmen were made. He made many claims that he had done nothing and that this was a free country and that he could smoke where he pleased. This availed him nothing and he got his swim for all his words, not all of which were in English.

The freshmen took their ducking in good part for they knew that they had it coming to them. Mitamura was an old offender. He had been told several times that such practice was not tolerated and saw fit to disregard all warnings. It is to be hoped that this will serve as a lesson to all those inclined to use the quad as a smoking room.

PRESIDENT STUBBS RETURNS

CLARENCE H. MACKAY AND COLONEL GEORGE HARVEY, FRIENDS OF THE UNIVERSITY

Writes Interesting Account of Trip

Mr. Mackay Will Visit U. of N. in Spring

Sees Old Grad

The alumni and some of the older members of the faculty will readily call to mind Richard Tobin, or "Dick" Tobin, as he was familiarly known to the students.

I believe he graduated in 1901. He is a native of Virginia City and while he was in college he took a great interest in student affairs and in everything that made for the interest of the purely student body. He was naturally a very fine musician, playing the cornet and singing. He was very highly esteemed by everybody, both in the college and in the town, because he was ready to give his services to help along every good cause. After graduating he went to Boston and studied music in the New England Conservatory of Music, from which institution he graduated. Since that time he has made music his profession and has done well in it. He has given special attention to his voice and has sung in the churches in and about Boston and New York.

He is the same kind of a man that he was a boy in college—that is, genial, helpful, ready to lend a hand in every enterprise that will make things go. He is married and just before I left New York he brought his wife down to the hotel for me to pass judgment upon, I suppose. She is a very pretty, attractive woman, and I judge that she helps Dick with his work, and Dick is supremely happy.

I saw Tobin several times, once he took luncheon with me at the hotel, and then called upon me twice thereafter to talk about old times at the university and his own plans for the present and the future. He is now teaching music and singing in one of the New York churches on Sunday. He wants to get an opportunity to sing before the director of the Metropolitan opera house, and I was very glad to be instrumental in securing him that privilege. He has in his possession a cordial letter from Mr. Mackay and about the fifteenth of April he will present this letter and get the opportunity that he has long stiven to secure.

It does one a world of good to meet our graduates wherever they may be and find them, men and women, striving to make the best of themselves, and finding the also always loyal to the University of Nevada and interested in everything that concerns the student life of the university.

Glad to Return

I am very glad indeed to be at home again after almost two months' absence in New York and Washington.

The students and the faculty, of course, have a keen interest in everything that was done with a view to advancing the interests of the University of Nevada. I was detained much longer than I expected to be on account of meeting several people that I wanted to see.

It is a somewhat difficult matter to get appointments with various people as soon as one would like. They are all extremely busy men and have appointments for weeks ahead.

Saw Mr. Mackay

I saw Mr. Mackay twice, once the latter part of January and the second time on the 16th of February. Mr. Mackay's interest in the students of the University of Nevada is just as keen and he inquires for them with as much interest as he did on the two important occasions when he was here, the first time being the occasion of the dedication of the Mining building, when Mrs. Mackay was with him; and the second time in October, 1909, when he dedicated the training quarters and the grand stand and watched our boys carry off the honors in a game of football with the Barbarians.

It is in evidence on every hand that his affection for the University of Nevada is constant, that his plans for its improvement and growth are far-reaching. It was a delight to go over with him, as I did, the progress of the University this year in the number of students, in interest in student activities, growth in scholarship

RAILWAY RATES IN STATE OF NEVADA

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER SIMMONS ADDRESSES CLASSES IN ECONOMICS

On Tuesday evening, February 27, W. H. Simmons, of the Nevada State Railroad commission, gave an excellent address to the members of the classes in economics on the subject of railway rates and rate regulation, as affecting the business interests of Nevada.

As no notes were taken at the time it will not be possible to give an adequate report of the address, but some of the more interesting facts brought out were as follows:

When the Central Pacific railroad was built through Nevada the state furnished a very small freight tonnage.

The road was built to connect California with the east, and Nevada was considered only as a bridge. All Nevada freight from the east was carried to tidewater, and shipped back to Nevada, the Nevada shipper paying for the through haul to the coast and the local rate back. Thus originated the famous "back haul" charge. The Nevada people who had suffered great inconvenience from the slow and expensive ox team transportation were so glad to get the railroad service that they did not stop to question the justice of the rates.

In the course of time the railroad consented to drop Nevada freight at Nevada points, thus giving the people of the state quicker service. A merchant no longer had to wait for his New York goods to be carried to San Francisco and then back over the range.

The rates, however, remained unchanged. In other words the Reno shipper paid for the "back haul" when there was no back haul.

After the creation of the state railroad commission there arose a demand for a reduction of rates on interstate traffic.

The function of the state commission is legally confined to the regulation of rates for traffic wholly within this state, but the commission voluntarily undertook to act as attorneys in fact for the people and in this capacity collected full statistics as to the cost of the service and all other matters relevant to the question at issue and presented the case to the interstate commerce commission.

The main reason in favor of the discrimination in rates against Nevada points and in favor of the coast cities as give by officials of the railroads, is that the coast rate is a special rate forced by water competition. By way of meeting this argument the Nevada commission pointed out that:

1. That the rate from points east to San Francisco, if given to Reno would be an amply remunerative rate.
2. That except for points near the Atlantic coast there is no real water competition. What water competition could there be between Denver and San Francisco? The Nevada commission asked that there should be no recognition of water competition where none in reality existed either actually or potentially.

The result of the whole matter is that the interstate commerce commission took the view of the Nevada commission and granted in the main, the rates requested. These reductions which apply only to class rates have been in effect over a year and have resulted in important savings to Nevada consumers. Under the new system Nevada rates from middle west cities are even lower than to San Francisco.

Most heavy freight, however, comes in car load shipments under special rates, known as commodity rates. These rates were not affected by this first decision. Later the Nevada commission in a similar manner sought a reduction of these rates as applied to about six hundred commodities.

After a full hearing the interstate commerce commission ordered a reduction in rates to Nevada points based on the San Francisco rates. It was recognized that water competition actually existed for Atlantic coast points and the commission ever recognized the possibility of such competition for all points east of Duluth and Omaha. For such eastern cities the railroads are by this ruling permitted to charge a rate to Nevada somewhat in excess of the rate to San Francisco, but in every case there is a reduction from the present rate. From western cities such as Omaha and Kansas City the "back haul" is entirely eliminated.

This ruling has not gone into effect, as an injunction has been granted by the interstate commerce court on the ground that the form of the ruling was not in accordance with law. The case is now before the U. S. supreme court. If the court sustains

Track Prospects Are Bright

Every night the men out on the track are showing a marked improvement in their work. The way that the material is developing is astonishing. Coach Si Ross is more than pleased with the way that the men are showing up.

Last week a letter was received from the University of Utah relative to the arranging of regular meets with this college. They want to hold the meets with this college. They want to hold the meets on the home field alternate years. This would mean that the team would get a trip to Salt Lake every other year. The track men and Coach Ross think very favorably of this proposition and Manager Kennedy has written to the manager of the Utah team to see if they will take our team to Utah this year.

It is to be hoped that this arrangement can be effected as it will mean a great deal for the school. If the team makes this trip it will mean that next year we will have the Utah team here for a meet. This is a thing that all the students should boost as it means the revival of track athletics.

The commission we will secure the reductions according to the above plan, while if the supreme court decides against the commission's ruling, it is probable that the commission will then proceed in another way to accomplish the reduction.

A saving of approximately a half million dollars a year for the people of Nevada has been effected by reductions already in effect. As most of this saving is on things imported for consumption, the benefit comes to everybody and not merely to special classes of business men.

Some of these reductions were ordered directly by the state commission, while others were secured by direction of the interstate commerce commission as a result of the presentation made by the state commission.

N Society Holds Meeting

Wednesday night's meeting of the Block "N" society, was full of "pep." A number of the alumni members were present, in addition to a large bunch of student members, and every post was made a winning one.

The style of certificate that is to be given to wearers of the block "N" was decided upon, and is very neatly gotten up.

Imitation parchment will be used, and at the top, in the center, will appear the block "N" in blue ink. In fact, all the lettering will be in blue.

The size of the paper will be eight and a half inches by eleven, and at the bottom will appear the seal of the state of Nevada, in gold, holding the colors of the U. of N.

There seems to be a great deal of doubt as to what our colors are, but the matter will receive immediate attention.

A letter has been sent to the board of control of the academic field meet league, thanking them for the interest they have shown in the society, and stating that all men wearing block "Ns" will be at the service of the board, to fill positions as officials, at the track meet. In the meantime, these men will receive quite a lot of coaching from Si Ross, who will have them officiating at his track trials every Saturday, until the track team leaves for St. Mary's.

Varsity Plays Fallon Saturday

Next Saturday on the Mackay athletic field at 2 o'clock the 'varsity baseball team will clash with the fast Fallon aggregation for the first scheduled game of the season.

Sheehy, the wiry freshman, will occupy the mound for the collegians, with Bringham behind the bat.

Johnston brothers will likely compose the battery for the sugar beet growers.

Fallon is coming determined to wipe out the defeat handed them last spring and a fast snappy game is anticipated. Coach Bennett has his eyes on some promising timber that will be given a chance Saturday. The line up has not been announced as yet, but the following will likely start the game moving for the 'varsity: Bringham, c.; Sheehy, p.; Delahide, 1st; Madden, 2nd; Grayson, s.s.; Abbott, 3d; Percival, l. f. The following will be given a chance also: Duddleson, c.; Bowler, 2d; Dewar, r. f.; Manion, 2d; Wiley, l. f.; Seitz, c. f.

On the trip to Reno Fallon will also play an all-star team composed of some of the fastest players in the county. This game is scheduled for March 10th at Moana Springs, at 2:30 o'clock. Admission 25c. Grand stand, 50 cents.

Graduate Manager Kennedy has just received word from Manager Farmer of U. C. stating that April 13 had been set down on their schedule for the Nevada-U. C. game at Berkeley.

Some tall hustling will have to be done in order to get the team in proper shape by this time and Coach Bennett will enforce stringent rules about coming out to practice from now on.

The return games with California will be played on the Mackay field on May 4.

for a big excursion to the annual conference at Capitola, Cal.

Students and faculty will be received at the Methodist church and will be granted the privilege of imbibing in the many delicacies that only college girls and domestic science training can prepare. All of this as well as a social evening will be donated to the visitors for the large sum of 35 cents.

STAY OFF THE GRASS

There is supposed to be a rule on campus as regards the use of the lawns for walks. There are walks provided for the use of the students and if they were not intended for use it is not likely that they would have been put in and kept up.

Some of the college people seem to have the idea that it is quite the proper thing to use the lawns for walks. This applies more to the under classwomen than any one else. If it were the men it is quite likely that some measures would be taken to see that this stopped or some swimming matches would be in order. This can not well be applied to the college women, but this fact does not give them any more right to wear trails in the lawns than it does the men. If you must have short cuts across the quad make application to the people in charge of the grounds and perhaps they will see that some walks are put across the lawns especially for your use.

If you could see yourselves as others see you as you go trailing across the lawns perhaps it might be some inducement to stay on the walks.

KEEP UP CAMPUS RULES

The action of the upper classmen last week in emerging the four people who were smoking on the quad is the best thing that has happened here in some time. The good work needs to be kept on the go. It will serve as an object lesson to some of those who are prone to think that campus rules are established only for them to brake. The campus rules that we have here are not at all harsh and can well be observed by all. The students should take a pride in seeing that all the laws and traditions on the campus are kept intact. If you can not do this there is a whole lot lacking in your quota of college spirit, in fact it is a minus quantity.

WELL WATER IS GOOD

Dr. O. P. Johnstone and Dr. W. E. Mack of the state hygienic laboratory, have just completed a analysis of the water from the well on the campus. They found that the water had a particularly low bacteria content. The bacteria that were present were not of any suspicious character.

In regard to the examination of water Dr. Mack said:

"In the examination of water throughout this state the chemical water needs to be examined for bacteria also. The well water was given both.

"Most waters in Nevada contain a considerable amount of nitrogen and chlorine which are usually considered indicative of sewage contamination. This is due to the fact that the state is highly mineralized. Water which will show nitrogen and chlorine content will at the same time show a very low bacteria content. The chlorine and nitrogen is of an inorganic and not organic origin."

TENNIS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The Girl's Tennis club held a busy session on the last day of February. At this meeting the following officers for this semester were elected: Elda Barber, president; Clara Smith, vice president and secretary; and Isabell Schuler, treasurer.

At this meeting there were ten of the old members of the club present and over twenty new ones. The club is growing rapidly in membership and they expect to have all the money for their new court-raised this spring.

The Owl Cafe requests your appearance at meal time.

MILITARY SCHEDULE

The following schedule of drill is announced for this week:

Monday—Company drill, extended order. Band to practice marching.

Tuesday—Same as for Monday.

Wednesday—Ceremony of guard mount.

Thursday—Company drill, close order. Band to practice marching.

By order,

NEW SHOES FOR 1912

The latest arrivals of the season are in stock at the Reno shoe factory this week. These "Just Wright" shoes are the latest that any manufacturer has put before the buyer. The name of this shoe is the Swagger Last, and the name is the game. To the collegian that is always looking for something these shoes are the best, there is no doubt of it. Mr. Flett, the genial manager, has said that he would startle the people that have been patronizing his store, and he has at last succeeded. Those who come just to look will be pleased to say the least.

Held Rally Friday Night

Friday evening during the dinner hour Bib Hix arose an d requested that every one keep their seats at the tables until after the dishes had been cleared away, when a few short speeches would be made relative to the basketball game to take place the following night between Nevada and San Jose normal.

Everyone stayed as requested, with the exception of one or two, who evidently couldn't postpone their "dates" for a few minutes.

After the tables were cleared Hix lead a few college yells and then announced the first speaker of the evening as "Si," meaning Prof. Ross, who was to speak on "Basketball, As It Used to Be."

Mr. Ross then told of how, in past years, the women of the college turned out every evening with hardly one missing, those not physically able giving their support by being present in the gym and cheering those in suits to do their best. Mr. Ross also spoke of the difference between those days and the present time. Then all the college women turned out—now but a handful, and a small handful at that.

Prof. Haseman was next called upon for a talk, and said that he had simply been requested to tell a few jokes, which he proceeded to do and the jokes were good ones and appropriate to the occasion.

Miss Meighan, Miss Reid and Miss Martha Noble were then heard from and after "three" had been given up for each one of the basketball team, and "six" for the captain, Miss Noble, the rally was declared adjourned.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Dr. H. W. Hill addressed the assembly last Friday morning, taking for his subject, "Dickens, the Humorist."

David Copperfield and Peckwilk Papers were taken as presenting the two extreme types of Dickens' humor. David Coppedfield presents, he said, thoughtful laughter produced by sympathetic presentation of true characteristics through incongruous externals.

Pickwick Papers, on the other hand, presents humor of lower order. The laughter depends upon introduction of the most obvious of externals which do not in any way present character. The speaker read many short sketches to illustrate and emphasize the points referred to in the address.

Dr. Hill said in closing that it was not because curious types existed today nor was it because he makes us laugh that Dickens enjoys popularity today. It was rather because beneath the exterior often curious, sometimes grotesque, there generally beats a human heart.

FACULTY SCIENCE CLUB MEETING TUESDAY

The Faculty Science club will hold its next regular meeting on Tuesday of this week at 4:40 in the lecture room of the Mining building. Prof. S. B. Doten and Prof. Maxwell Adams will hold forth on the subject of "Honey Dew." This honey dew is the sweet honey-like substance that is found on the leaves of the elm trees.

Prof. Doten will take up the production and physical properties of the honey dew and it's extracts and Prof. Adams will discuss their chemical composition and chemical properties.

Prof. Doten and Adams have made quite a study of this subject this year and the talks will be interesting. All those interested are invited to be present.

President Stubbs Returns Home

—everything that contributes to the advancement of the university every year toward an ideal, an ideal that is in the minds of the students, an ideal that is in the minds of the faculty, an ideal that is in the minds of men of wealth and character that are today giving so much to promote the interests of higher education.

Mr. Mackay Sends Regards

Mr. Mackay said to me on parting that he wished I would give his most cordial regards to the students and the faculty of the university, and I take pleasure in doing this through the columns of the Sagebrush.

Mr. Mackay expects now to visit the university some time in April or May. His plans are somewhat indefinite for the reason that he may be called in other directions and cannot carry out his wishes, but he is going to come if he can, and then the opportunity to see him and to hear him, as he with some friends will spend a day or two at least with us.

Dr. Stubbs Goes to Washington

I was at Washington, D. C., two different times. The first visit was on business for the experiment station with Dr. A. C. True, the director of the office of experiment stations, and also with a few members of the bureau of plant industry, inquiring of the specialists in that department about the eel worm, or Nematode, or root knot, which is infecting Nevada potatoes and has caused the California people to quarantine, to subject any potatoes shipped into that state from Nevada to a rigid inspection. I found that this Nematode is widespread and it is a very injurious pest. Some two hundred and fifty different plants are subject to its attack under favorable conditions.

It attacks a large number of green house plants, the sugar beet, the potato, and alfalfa. However, I think that in the course of two years, with proper treatment, we can rid Nevada of this pest. At least we are going to try it.

On the 15th and 16th of February I was in Washington again in attendance upon the seventh annual conference of weights and measures, which was held at the bureau of standards, Dr. S. W. Stratton, director and president.

A fine body of men were present and this was a very excellent meeting of the various sealers of weights and measures throughout the country.

The secretary of commerce and labor, Mr. Nagel, made a very interesting talk at the opening of the conference, and he was followed by a brief address by Director S. W. Stratton.

Then came the report of the secretary and the report of the committee on legislation. After this they gave five minutes to each representative of the various states which have enacted weights and measures laws. When it came under the call of the roll, the state of Nevada was represented by myself and I took great pleasure in showing what the legislature had done and the determination of the department to enforce these laws in a reasonable manner. At the end of the first day's session they had a banquet at the Hotel Raleigh, and, in addition to the seventy or more delegates present there were present the congressman from Georgia, chairman of the weights and coinage committee of the house; and Mr. Tuttle, the congressman from New Jersey and several other men prominent in official ways.

At the conclusion of the banquet, without previous warning, they called for a number of short toasts, the president, Dr. Stratton, prefacing his remarks by saying that he had notified none of the gentlemen that they would be called upon. He called upon the representative from the state of Nevada, referring, as quite popular, to our divorce laws and the ease with which people get divorce. These remarks really cut out my address for me, for I took occasion to say in a pleasant way that Nevada people were the best people on earth, that Nevada needed no defense, and that I was not there to defend her, that any one who is familiar with the history of the battleborn state from the time it was admitted to the union, knows that the history of men and measures is a worthy history and one that makes every citizen of the state of Nevada proud.

I claimed, and I think truly, that in progressive legislation, such as the weights and measures law, the pure foods and drugs law, in our school system, in the character and the intellectual qualities of the men who represent us in congress, the state is fully abreast with the older states of the east; that the law requiring residence in the state for six months had been the law for citizenship since the state was admitted into the union, but that some people and some lawyers took advantage of this law to fasten upon our courts easy divorce.

We were willing as a state to take care of our own matrimonial troubles, but we do object to untangling the matrimonial skeins of the people from New York and New Jersey who make a large part of the so-called "divorce colony," who come to Nevada not to make their residence, but simply to get a divorce as soon as they can and then fit to other climes.

CONSTITUTION TO BE AMENDED

The following amendment to article 9, section 3, of the constitution of the Associated Students, will be offered at the next student body meeting.

"Amendment of article 9, section 3:

"At the close of the Women's basketball season, the captain and coach of the team shall recommend to the executive committee those members of the team entitled to the privilege of wearing an "N," other than the block "N" of any dimension. This privilege shall be granted subject to the following regulations.

"1. The persons recommended must have participated in half, or time equivalent to a half, of a women's basketball game or they must have been in the original team, entering such a game, and have been prevented by injury from playing the specified time.

"2. And the games which they played, must have been with the teams of the University of California or Leland Stanford Jr. University."

The above was posted on the bulletin board of the Associated Students on Monday, February 26, 1912, and will be voted on at the student body meeting on Friday, March 8, 1912.
