GREAT CONCERT OF THE GLEE CLUB IS NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

Jack Kniffen Rochesterite

Nevada Man Lost in the Wilds on Way to Military

"The fellows at Rochester are making good," was Leslie Kniffen's word of greeting when he appeared on the campus Friday morning. Kniffen's first trip to Reno since leaving school to try his luck in Humboldt's booming mining town was an adventurous one. The story is as follows:

Kniffen left Rochester about the first of the week and moved his outfit to Velvet, where he is the sole owner of a promising claim called the Croesus. Here with camp comfortably established "Jack" was enjoying life and doing some location work upon his property when suddenly it dawned upon him that Friday was the 21st—the Military Ball. Thursday morning, bright and early, he set out for that Reno town and the dance. Now the road from Velvet to Lovelock, the nearest railway station, makes a long horseshoe curve in the effort to avoid some of the hills with which the region abounds. Kniffen struck off straight through the hills to cut off this curve by traversing the shorter distance from point to point of the horseshoe. In that barren, monotonous region everything looks the same. The afternoon was not far gone when Jack realized he was lost. He tramped on. The afternoon passed and still no sign of that road appeared. Visions of that military ball began to be replaced by visions of a night in the wilderness. "Knif" was getting nervous. Suddenly he came upon a landmark and got his bearings; he had been walking for hours in a direction at right angles to the one he had wanted to go. Retracing his steps he sought the right direction, and after hours of toil he reached the road. When within a short distance of Lovelock he was picked up by a friend and rode into town. His short cut had cost forty-four miles of strenuous, tedious walk.

Leslie Kniffen brings interesting tales of Rochester. The camp is rough and rich, and possesses every indication of permanency. He describes it as a second Tonopah. Kniffen has kept his eyes and ears open and succeeded in making several fortunate turns since entering the camp. Also, he is in on the inside of several propositions which bid fair for his

University's Big Day for Officials Opens Many Eyes

Legislative Day has come and gone, and with it one of the greatest days the University of Nevada has ever experienced. The special train arrived at 11:20 Friday morning and the Governor, the legislators, the state officers and their leaders were conveyed to the campus by means of the numerous automobiles which had been procured for the occasion. As had been arranged, the gentlemen were received at the Mackay School of Mines and the ladies at Manzanita Hall, then, in spite of the snow that whitened the quadrangle, a large number gathered there to witness the review and drill of the cadets. As is usually the case when the U. of N. battalion makes a public appearance, it created an impression most favorable. The Governor and others of our guests were greatly pleased and many remarks, complimentary to Captain Applewhite and his corps of commissioned officers, were present.

Luncheon.

After the drill the guests gathered at the dining hall, where Manager Scott Jamison awaited them with a feast worthy of the day. During the progress the luncheon the Glee Club, a band of entertainers hard to beat, sang song after song and enlivened matters by some husky Nevada yells. When that part of the dinner had arrived when people like to lean back comfortably in their chairs and listen to able speakers, Dr. H. E. Reid, the toastmaster, called upon President Lewers. President Lewers made the address of welcome; it was short, but if there were any in that crowd who had not felt perfectly at home before the speaker began, that feeling was dissipated when he had resumed his seat.

Governor Oddie was called upon. The Governor is on record as a friend of this college and his short, pithy speech at the Dining Hall was thoroughly in accord with his reputation. Judge Norcross' address was a feature of the day. He aroused everyone by his enthusiasm. Judge Norcross, the present Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Nevada, is an alumnus of this university and he said that he would rather have his daughter a graduate of Nevada than

A Summary And Some Comments Of Nevada's First Short Course

The Sagebrush, together with the Reno papers, has taken a great interest in the Farmers' Short Course which was commenced here on last Tuesday. The Reno papers have given in detail the daily work and therefore the Sagebrush will restrict itself to a brief summary of the course, so far as gone, and will take the liberty of divulging in a few comments thereon.

The program of this first agricultural short course in Nevada is a splendid one. It is comprehensive and to the point and the printed folders sent out indicate good taste and judgment in design and matter. Professor Kluick, once agronomist at Ames, now agronomist at Macdonald College, Canada, writes: "Congratulations; that is a grand course you people are putting in."

We may safely say that there has not been a weak number during the past week. Every address showed interest and preparation and the discussions were earnest. The outstanding features of the course were the autopsy and the address by D. O. Lively. The autopsy was highly successful and Dr. Mack is justified in feeling pretty well satisfied with the results. The address of Mr. Lively was only partially devoted to live stock interests at the Panama Pacific. He gave a most able talk to young men on the necessity for more agricultural students, pointing out that no profession offered such advantages or possessed so bright a future.

And yet the attendance is small. Why? The promoters are not at all discouraged because there never yet in any state has been a large attendance at the first agricultural short course. It is the thin edge of the wedge. Dr. H. E. Reid prophesied that it is the beginning of the biggest thing the university has yet undertaken, and his comment is a good one. When those now attending carry the messages home, when the members of the agricultural faculty and their friends shall have done a year's quiet boasting, when the interest in co-operative experiment shall have drawn college and farmers closer together, it will be seen that those who have the interest of the present course at heart have builded better persons than they knew. Healthy growth is rarely rapid, and so there is no feeling but one of satisfaction and confidence in the future.

As D. O. Lively said in effect: "I have had many opportunities to observe and I find it a significant condition that the universities that are not standing still, that are making their mark, that are attracting wide attention, are those that foster the productive courses of Agriculture, Horticulture, and Domestic Science."

SANTA CLARA --vs-- NEVADA

Saturday night, March 1, is the date for the first intercollegiate basketball game under the four-year contract between our university and Santa Clara. Santa Clara is sending strong team to Nevada and intends to put forth the hardest and best efforts of the season to take the scalps of the Sagebrushers. The Nevada men are just as determined to hold the long end of the score and are not leaving a stone unturned that they may accomplish this end. With this sort of feeling existing between the contending teams the game Saturday night promises to be the fastest and most stubbornly fought game of the season. The game will be exceptionally interesting to the local admirers and that combination play which has not heretofore been needed will be put into execution. Coach Holway and the members of the team are intent on leading by a goodly score and they realize that real basketball is necessary so that their desires may materialize.

The Santa Clara team arrives Saturday morning on train No. 6. The members are to be entertained in the morning by student committees who will show the visitors the buildings and grounds and Reno. In the afternoon at 5 o'clock the Santa Clarans, Father Ryan and Father Tubman are to be the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Burke at their home on Lake street. The game is called for 8 o'clock, after which all will be entertained at a social dance.

FRESHMEN MAKE PREPARATION FOR GLEE

A large part of the freshman class met at the home of Ruth Miller last Wednesday evening for the purpose of making decorations for the Glee. All was going smoothly until in some unexplained way the sophomores got word that the annual freshman party was in progress. They immediately gathered their members and proceeded to raid the party. Unfortunately for the sophs, the refreshments had been hidden. When the party was found to be only the meeting of a committee the second year men left for their deserted beds, resolved to reserve their pep for a later date.

Ohio Strongly Anti-Fraternity

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 25.—Membership in fraternities and sororities at Ohio State University, Miami University, and Ohio University, will subject students to a fine of $25 to $100 after September 1, 1913, if Bill No. 161, introduced in the House of the Ohio Legislature last week becomes a law. This bill is the culmination of a fraternity fight among the students of Ohio State University extending over two years.

Ohio State is one of the most democratic schools in the country," said a leader in the anti-fraternity party, "but it is in spite of the fraternities. Fraternities lead to vanity, snobbery and luxury. They raise false distinctions between students. They do not pick their men on merit. The fraternity must go."

The bill is "to abolish and prohibit fraternities, sororities, and all like secret societies among students or pupils in all educational institutions supported in whole or in part by the state." The bill takes the enforcement of the anti-fraternity policy out of the hands of the university authorities by making the infraction of the law a misdemeanor. The student may be expelled from the institution at the discretion of the court without consulting the executive authority of the school.

If this bill passes it will destroy the mother chapters at Miami, where Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Chi were founded. All three institutions own thousands of dollars' worth of property for the housing of their men, as the schools have not been provided with dormitories.

An effort was made this Fall by the fraternity men to have a conference with the anti-fraternity forces, but Mr. Jenkins, opposition leader, refused, saying that no conference was necessary. Herbert E. Payne, New York City, tried to make arrangements for this meeting. Mr. Jenkins says:

"The fraternity is the great modern separator. It is a parasitical growth upon the system of education and defeats the very purpose of correct training for useful living. It breeds snobbery, incubates hate, fosters foppery, educes favoritism, and crushes individualism."

The bill was introduced by George M. Hoaglin of Paulding County, whose son was on the staff of the Weekly. The bill is still in the committee.—N. Y. Times.

THE LURE OF THE SAGEBRUSH
Have you ever scented the sagebrush
That mantles Nevada's plains?
If not, you have lived but half your life,
And that half lived in vain.

No matter where the place or clime
That your wandering footsteps stray,
You will sigh as you think of her velvet fields
And their fragrance of leveled hay.

You will loiter awhile in other lands
When something seems to call,
And the lure of the sagebrush brings you back
And holds you within its thrall.

You may tread the halls of pleasure,
Where the lamps of folly shine,
Mid the sobbing of sensuous music
And the flow of forbidden wine.

But when the revel is over
And the dancers turn to go,
You will long for a draught of her crystal streams
That spring from her peaks of snow.

You will sigh for a sight of her beetling crags
Where the Storm King holds his sway,
When the sinking sun with its brush
of gold
Tells the tale of the dying day.

And when you die you will want a grave
Where the Washoe zephyr blows,
With the green of the sagebrush
above your head,
What need to plant the rose?
—SAM P. DAVIS.

The second meeting of the Trowel and Square, the Masonic Club of the University of Nevada, was held last Monday evening at the home of Professor J. G. Scragham. An interesting program had been arranged for the evening, after which refreshments were served.

New Occupation For College Men

A new occupation is opening now to college men if they care to go into it when they are ready for work. William J. Burns, the detective, has discovered it. In fact, he has created it. It is nothing short of his own business of a detective. It sounds a little weird at first, but, as Mr. Burns works out the plan and prospect, it becomes quite attractive and seems to be entirely fitted to the abilities and sensibilities of a cultured man.

In days long gone by a college man might wish for no more cheerful prospect at the end of his college days than to have his name appear in the City Directory with "occupation, gentleman," after it. That occupation has ceased to be popular and the word is not much used now, and scarcely ever is printed in description of any one in particular, but Mr. Burns has an idea that the business of detective has come to be so important to the welfare of the country, apart entirely from the life of the criminal world, that he could have his name put in the directory now, followed by "occupation, detective," the "gentleman and scholar" being understood.

Modern conditions have made a place for high-grade detectives, and the assumption is that it takes high-grade men to fill it. Experience, also, it seems, has demonstrated the fact. Now Mr. Burns argues that in order to get a given number of high-grade men it shortens time to select the number from a list of eligibles presumed to measure up to a necessary standard. He does not say that the man who is not a college man may not be the best detective of his generation or that self-educated men may not have every qualification desired for the highest-class service, because he admits that some of the best men on his staff are that kind, but he does say that an eligible list of college men will yield a greater percentage of first-rate detectives, an eligible list made up of even the best elements that drift naturally into detective work.

There is a distinctive work for the detective that the police detective cannot do. It is beyond him. Sometimes it is beyond reach of the law. Men are wanted, Detective Burns says, who have no cut-and-dried methods of detecting crime, but who can apply common sense and original methods to meet situations that baffle most people. That is what that modern detective is for: to find out what the employer or the city, or possibly the government, has been unable to find out. His pursuit can't be followed by any of the tricks or practices of the "old gumshoe" man. There's no room in the profession for the burly person with the big mustache who looks the part of the fighting policeman promoted. What is wanted now is the suave, genteel, calm-voiced individual, who can look any man, no matter what his authority, straight in the face and ask significant questions without betraying his purpose.

The modern detective is not much engaged in the pursuit of criminals of a low order. He is a pursuing the criminals in respectable places who have long been getting away with the goods and defying detection. These are not the men who steal watches and pocketbooks, but those who rob corporations, or possibly their partners, or even the government. Sometimes it is one and frequently it is a band, and there are positively no traps, no footprints, no thumb marks, no clues whatever on which Hawkshaw, Old Sleuth, Nick Carter, and their imitators could fabricate their theories. Nothing less than a Sherlock Holmes will do for the big jobs. Some people say that William J. Burns is a greater detective than Sherlock Holmes was ever represented to be and that he has worked out more mystifying cases than Doyle has made for his hero. Sherlock Holmes did most of his exploits among his criminal class. Burns has worked against the most powerful influences in various communities, men of the highest repute and interests of the greatest financial strength being merged with them. The Oregon land fraud cases and the San Francisco graft cases are examples. In each he was entirely successful in uncovering the frauds and exposing the perpetrators of them. Another example was the dynamite cases, where a powerful labor union, with scores of men who did not falter at taking human life, was his opponent.

These are not exactly the kind of cases, however, that describe the new work for the new detective. Big institutions sometimes find a great leak in their expense accounts, with everything apparently open and aboveboard. They used to go to expert accountants and everything would be checked up. Occasionally they hired efficiency engineers and still the leak went on. In such emergency now they hire a detective, and not the kind of one who floats about with rubber heels. It is for such work that Mr. Burns thinks the college man is fitted, and yet he thinks the college man is not fit for that work if he feels himself above any kind of work that comes to him in the line of his duty. There is where he draws the line between the fit and unfit college man. He thinks the successful detective must regard his calling seriously, and must look upon it as an honorable one in which he is afforded an opportunity of doing good and righting wrongs.

There are three essential qualifications for the work. He gives them in this order: "Honesty, common sense, persistency." There are other characteristics that the detective must have to achieve distinction or get the large reward that he probably will expect to come to him if he is worthy of it, but these three are presumed to cover all the rest and in each of these three he must pass at close to 100 per cent.

Mr. Burns believes the reward for success is just as great in his line of business as it is in any other, that a young man can enter it after he leaves college, unless he expects to be an overwhelmingly dominant figure in the world, and the immediate return for his services, if he is capable, will be quite equal to if not more than he would get out of any job.—N. A PLAN.

By way of editorial this week the Sagebrush is going to suggest a little plan for making more people pay their athletic fees. Incidentally this plan will serve the function of a student body pin. Listen!

The treasurer will have on sale, at a low price, with the A. S. U. N. cards, attractive little buttons and pins—buttons for the boys and pins for the girls the purchaser of a card is entitled to wear this A. S. U. N. insignia for that semester. Thus the button, purchased by the Freshman, may be worn during the whole of his four years of college if he keeps up his athletic dues. Persons who have not paid their fees and who have the audacity to wear their buttons still, can easily be identified by means of the posted notice.

A system of punishment or hazing, awful in its severity, should be devised and enforced for any such offender.

Under such a system atrocious of non-citizens of the university would be more practicable. If exceptions were to be made in favor of persons unable to pay, they could be made as easily then as now.

Naturally, insignia of this kind would make the non-wearer desire to be a wearer. The loyal member would hail the opportunity to reveal to the world his loyalty. Such a scheme may be a remedy. Think it over.

Student Boost Scheme Began

NOVEL SCHEME TO BOOST REAL RESIDENTS FOR RENO IS STARTED BY PAPERS.

A movement that is the best veer opened for the general benefit of the University of Nevada is that just begun by the Nevada State Journal in connection with the Alumni Association, the University and this paper.

The scheme briefly is this: A new or possible student is heard of wants information, his or her name is sent to any of the interested parties and the name is placed on the regular list of those who receive regular correspondence from the university. The desired information is sent out and the student's interest in this institution is aroused.

As the same time the name is turned over to the student from the same district and he writes personal letters to the prospect, telling of the life here at the University of Nevada and the students' side of the college. Each week the college paper is received and the prospect is very close to the operation here. If there is any possibility of favorable results the inducements will be strengthened. This plan is based upon a few cold facts, which, briefly stated, are these:

No Nevada student ever failed to make good. Every single Nevada student has a good position.

The advantages offered to the student here are greater than elsewhere. The chances for personal contact between students and instructor are greater, hence the student gets the Nevada spirit more than that same student would at other colleges.

The blanks that may be mailed are found elsewhere in this paper.

"IT'S UP TO US."

Next Saturday is that Santa Clara game—the first basketball game of the series. Santa Clara is now one ahead of us—she won in football. Remember that we have to win next Saturday to tie the record. Get in and boost that Nevada five. It's up to us.

MORE STUDENTS.

The Nevada State Journal with an article and editorial last Tuesday morning started a campaign for a greater attendance at the university. What this college needs is just this kind of support. With Reno papers to lead, others will fall into line. The campaign is to be state wide and it means more students.

Read the Sagebrush for all the college doings.

Kniffen reports that Chapman and Bradner are in on the ground floor at the new camp of Velvet. This is the scene of Kniffen's Croesus claim and he predicts that a rush to that camp is bound to come. Gilbert Tyler is also interested in a group of Velvet claims. Goat Curtin is interested in the Ford automobile business in Lovelock.

Leslie Kniffen expects to carry through his plans in the Humboldt country by next August and then he hopes to resume his work at the University of Nevada.

 of any university in the land.

Among those who responded are: Lieutenant Governor Ross, a former student; Frank Williams, formerly a regent of the university and now in the legislature as an assemblyman; from Clark county; Senator Bergman, also from Clark county; Senator Fulmer, of White Pine; Senator Morris Mack, of Douglas; Assemblyman Wilson, the father of Joe Wilson, '13, of Lyon; Senator Horsey, of Lincoln, and Speaker Brandon, of Humboldt.

An account of that luncheon at the Dining Hall would not be complete without a few words devoted to the talks of the two speakers last mentioned. Senator Horsey's speech was eloquent. He endorsed the work the university is doing enthusiastically. The keynote of his address was struck when he said he was proud to be a graduate of the University of Virginia, but he regretted that he was not a graduate of the University of Nevada. Speaker Brandon's speech was of a somewhat different character. He was a graduate of the college and dwelt upon conditions and told interesting anecdotes of Nevada twenty years ago. In the course of his remarks Speaker Brandon singled out a pennant of the T. H. P. O. fraternity, which hung with others upon the wall. That pennant, he said, made him feel more at home than anything at the university because it carried him back to the escapades of those pioneer days at Nevada. Speaker Brandon concluded his remarks by praising the improvements that have since been made. "Improvements," he said, "of which the college is deserving."

The Afternoon.

The afternoon was spent by these guests of the university in inspecting the grounds and equipment. The mining building attracted a deal of favorable comment. Its collection of minerals, the mining and milling machinery, and its assaying equipment were all explained and enjoyed. Each of the buildings was examined in turn and some found interest in the work of that afternoon in the Farmers' Short Course.

At length the upward of a hundred visitors gathered in the mechanical and electrical department. Here Professor Scragham had sixty students at work and every bit of the apparatus with which the two buildings are equipped was in motion. The Rhie testing machine, in the electrical building, with a capacity of 200,000 pounds, was a new thing to many of the visitors and it attracted a great deal of attention.

The Military Ball.

In the evening Governor Oddie and many members of his staff in full uniform, legislators, state officers, civilians, cadets and fair ladies gathered in the gym. for that military ball. Captain Clafin and his band were certainly "there" on that Friday night. The music was the chief feature of the dance. The decorations, too, were good. Everything was red, white blue and military. It was one of those scenes that pleases, but it is difficult to segregate just the detail that does the pleasing. "Huskey" Sinai's programs made a hit—and so did the punch.

Altogether, Legislative Day was a grand success. Probably Governor Oddie expressed it best when he said, toward the close of the ball, "We have had an enjoyable time and we should like to come again."

"Jeff and Mutt" Please Many

Yes, Mutt had it over Jeff on the waiter stunt and as far as jokes are concerned they both kept the entire show in convulsions so that the music could not be appreciated by the audience.

Mutt was there. That is the way to say it shortly. Jeff had the proper system of spoiling the dangerous schemes that Mutt prepared, but he could not keep the long one from cracking new jokes.

The show was full of action and had a lively company augmented by two excellent entertainers. It was the action and the clever music that kept the audience in continued laughter from curtain to curtain. The music and the silent acting of the choruses was the best that has been seen in Reno for some time.

Clarence Sadler, a popular attache of the legislature and well known upon the hill, enjoyed the ball Friday evening.

PRINCETON CHAPEL TROUBLES.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 8.—The controversy over the advisability of compulsory Sunday chapel for the students of Princeton has been revived here during the past week by an article appearing in The Nassau Literary Magazine on "Compulsory Chapel and Other Religious Divergences." According to the present requirement Princetonians must be present at one-half of the Sunday services during each term, and in recent months some of those opposed to this method have placed the matter before members of the faculty in the hope that this body would make the services optional. The article in the student magazine, which is contributed by Charles W. Hendel, '13, gives the undergraduates' sentiment of the visiting audiences and makes his appeal in metaphors taken from football, and the distinct interests of the students.

The Princetonian in his essay says: "Somehow nobody seems to realize that students can appreciate true idealism, especially the kind manifested in the silent acts of everyday life," and again: "Those vivid analogies are charming enough for political effects in the hands of the inimitable Theodore, but in the hands of the thin-skinned theologian, they are grotesque * * * religion ought not to be all gargoyle, all comphorated football metaphor."

In reviewing this number of The Literary Magazine, Prof. Stockton Axson, a member of the English department and a brother-in-law of President-elect Woodrow Wilson, "emphatically recommends this essay to his colleagues in the Faculty, to all university preachers, all Philadelphian Society speakers, all Trask lecturers, and all who address students in any way and on any subject, excepting only the orators at football mass meetings."

It is generally believed that, in the event of the abolishment of compulsory chapel being favorably voted on by the university Faculty, the movement would meet opposition in the Board of Trustees.—N. Y. Times.

WHY IS AN EDITOR

To run a newspaper all a fellow has to do is to be able to write poems to discuss the tariff and money question, umpire a baseball game, report a wedding, saw wood, describe a fire, make $1 do the work of $10, shine at a dance, test whiskey, subscribe to charity, go without meals, attack free silver, wear diamonds, invent advertisements, sneer at snobbery, overlook scandal, praise babies, delight pumpkin raisers, minister to the afflicted, heal the disgruntled, fight to a finish, set type, mould opinions, sweep the office, speak at the prayer meetings and stand in with everybody and everything.

This isn't half of it either. We have to side in with the faculty, agree with the students that the faculty members are a lot of dead ones; run jokes for some people and explain to others why we print such trash, keep enough religious news going to satisfy the preachers and still not offend the laws, explain to some indignant contributor why his poem was not on the front page and in general, keep everybody in good humor till they pay their subscription. In the meanwhile we all carry fifteen hour's work and sometimes study.—Dakota Daily Delphic.

Reno High School Notes

THE TRIP TO GARDNERVILLE.

On Friday at 1:30 the Girls' and Boys' Basketball teams left for Gardnerville. There was something doing all the way to that place, if Dean wasn't yelling, Aub was. Coaches Bruner and Charles were kept busy convincing the conductor that the bunch were not occupants of the Redhouse between Reno and Sparks, but members of the Reno City High School.

At 4:30 the teams left the train at Minden, some rode to Gardnerville and some walked. At the hotel we were politely informed by the landlady as a result of previous visits made by former teams that there was to be no "rough housing." She was assured that no such actions should take place.

While awaiting supper we entered the parlor and had some music by Miss Means and Miss Humphries; it ceased when the supper bell rang.

In the dining room Messrs. Bruner, Charles and McCubbin easily surpassed all in the art of eating.

After supper we had more music; Chism was called for a song and he responded much to the distress and disgust of the rest.

At 8 o'clock the whistle sounded starting the girls' game. The game was the Reno girls from start to finish, all the members playing fine ball, especially Miss Phyllis Davis, captain of the team. Whenever she threw the ball it generally netted two. Final score was 37-16.

When the whistle announced the start of the boys' game, Bryan Lavaga was missing. The building was searched except the corner where the Indians were. After a careful search there his smiling face was found amongst the redskins.

The game in the first half was all to the Douglas county boys. The Reno team made 3 points to 16. Cusick was put in the second half in Bryants' place. The team took a brace and the final score was 27-10 in Gerdnerville's favor. After the game a dance was given to the teams. All enjoyed themselves immensely.

The bunch tiptoed to bed and soon all were asleep. About 5 o'clock in the morning a scream was heard. It came from one of the rooms. All the occupants of the hotel rushed to the place from whence the sound came. Another cry, and all recognized the barbarian voice of Bryant. Cusick and Aug had tried to kick Bryant out of bed.

At 7 o'clock the breakfast bell sounded and all "piled out" and slowly made their way to the "eats." Agnes, Robert and Ruth, all delicate persons, displayed wonderful eating qualities, and left only when they were invited out of the eating-room by the waitress.

At 10:15 the two teams left for Carson. After luncheon the crowd went to the Nevada state prison. Miss Francovitch was greatly impressed by the prison and expressed a desire to live in the prison's dungeon.

At 6:10 all departed for home, arriving there at 7:35.

PAPER GIVES NEVADA DISTINCTION

The Western Stock Journal, a paper devoted exclusively to the stock-raising industry and claiming to be the only journal on the Pacific coast published in the interest of this industry, has given the university some very encouraging compliments of late. Two of them, perhaps the most prominent, are to be found on the front covers of two issues of the magazine. Frank Peterson, who took the photographs from which the half tones were made, is justly elated at the appreciation of his efforts. The following extracts from the "Journal" are explanatory and they are taken from the respective issues in which the pictures appeared:

"Queen of the Plains"

"Out in Reno where ringside amusements abound and divorces grow by the roadside, there has come a new and more substantial industry. The raising of blooded livestock. Leading in this work the University of Nevada at Reno, takes first place, and we picture on the front cover of the January issue of the Journal, the real queen of the plains, 'Pearl', a senior Champion Hereford cow, property of the University."

Wonders Wrought by Man and Nature

Our cover picture this issue may nearly be styled "The Masterpiece," so nearly does it resemble an oil painting by one of the "Old Masters." A beautiful animal, and a valuable one, Tuebie Pietertje Colantha Lad, 1st prize, Junior and Champion, California State Fair, 1910, and was the first prize aged Bull this year. This beautiful specimen of foundation stock was bred and is owned by the University of Nevada, at Reno.

TO CARSON.

A quartet of the University Glee Club accompanied the "How the Vote Was Won" company go to Carson today. The suffragette play, which made such a hit in the Reno High School gym a few weeks ago, will be repeated for the benefit of the Carson people tonight.

The quartet accompanying the show consists of Rose, Walker, Haseman and Ferris. While in the capital Director Haseman will complete definite arrangements for the Glee Club concert and Student Day, which is to be held in Carson City in March.

DEATH OF TRENMORE COFFIN.

It is with deep regret that the Sagebrush announces the death of Tremmore Coffin, whose funeral occurred in Reno a week ago Monday. Tremmore Coffin was at one time a representative of Nevada at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis; he was a brother of Miss Emily Coffin, a former student of this university, and he was a son of the late Tremmore Coffin, an er-regent of the University of Nevada.

Seumas MacManus, Irish lecturer, will entertain the students at faculty in the gym. on March 3.

GAVEL PRESENTED.

Speaker Brandon has been presented with a gavel by the wood working department of the university. The gavel, made by the students in the wood working laboratory, is neat in design and workmanship. The wood of which it is made was obtained from the first desk which graced the office of a U. of N. president.

Theta Theta Of Tri-Delts

This week end has just brought a series of events terminating in the installation of the first national sorority in the University of Nevada. Miss Kemp, dean of women at the Bradley Polytechnic Institute of Peoria, Ill., was chief installing officer, representing Mrs. E. N. Parmelee, the national president. The other installing officers were the national treasurer, Miss Perrin of the University of Nebraska, and a national vice-president, Miss Alice Porterfield of the University of California. Others who aided in the installation were Mrs. W. M. Hackley, the Misses Beckwith, Traill of University of California, Miss Hopkins of Colorado and Miss Frary of Stanford.

Thursday afternoon the members of Theta Epsilon were formally pledged to Delta Delta Delta. That evening a formal reception was held at the home of Miss Clara Smith, giving the faculty and students of the University of Nevada the opportunity of meeting the national officers of the new fraternity.

The first degree was given Friday afternoon, and Friday night the visitors were entertained at the Military Ball. Not only did this prove a most enjoyable function, but it gave the installing officers and delegates an opportunity to compare Nevada college balls with those of other institutions.

Saturday morning the second degree was given and in the afternoon the graduate or Alliance degree was given to those who were qualified to take it. The visitors were also shown over the campus and the city in automobiles, that they might become better acquainted with the home of Theta Theta chapter, and were very favorably impressed with all they saw.

A banquet at the Century Club closed the installation. Thirty Delta Delta Delta members sat around a table decorated in silver, gold and blue. The cloth was strewn with violets and jonquils laid in Greek symbols, while the menu carried on the color scheme as well as the idea of the Delta. Place cards in the shape of the old Theta pin bore the colors and symbols of the new fraternity, and at each plate stood a miniature pine tree. The idea of installation was further carried out in the toasts, as the following were given:

Theta Epsilon's Idea of Delta Delta Delta.....Maud Price
The Mystery of Iri—Delta Trunk.....Dorothy Bird
Our Baby.....Alice Porterfield
The Infant Speaks.....Mary Raitt
Delt Delta Delta.....Harriet Kemp

The visitors left for San Francisco Sunday morning, voting Nevada hospitality truly genuine.

Glee Concert February 28

Everything is now in readiness for the Glee Club concert. Professor Haseman has his men trained to a note. Team work is exemplified to the last word. A Sagebrush representative was permitted to watch for a few moments the rehearsal of the opening number. The idea of the stunt as suggested by its name, "To Drive Dull Care Away," is carried out to the letter. If the Glee Club's portrayal of an evening in a fraternity house doesn't succeed in quelling the glooms, an undertaker is strongly advised.

Tickets have been printed and have already been part on sale. Any member of the Glee Club can supply them, and for the benefit of townspeople, Dalton Clifford and Wilsons and Canns have been supplied with a few. The box office at the Majestic will be open on Thursday and Friday from 10 a. m. until 9 p. m. Holders of tickets may have seats reserved then.

Students who will have an opportunity to place a few tickets can earn one incidentally do some boosting for a U. of N. activity.

The program follows:

"To Drive Dull Care Away".....Glee Club
Cocal Solo.....Mr. Perry
"Landsighting".....Glee Club
"Swingin' in de Ev'n!".....Quartet
Piano Solo.....Professor Carris
"The Viking's Farewell".....Glee Club
