CALIFORNIA FRESHMEN OUTPOINT NEVADA

PROSPECTOR'S SHORT COURSE IN MINING

Our Team Puts Up Hard Fight But Lose to Heavier Opponents

NINETEEN TO EIGHT SCORE

Royal Reception Accorded the Team by the California Students

By a score of 19 to 8 the California freshmen trimmed our team in a clean, fast and hard-fought game on the Berkeley field Saturday. The freshmen won because they were more aggressive and because they had us outweighed 24 pounds to the man.

The game was fast, from a forward standpoint, but the elements that characterized the best rugby were woefully lacking. The ball would be put into play in the back field and before it had been handled by two men, a fumble, a knockon or a forward pass would necessitate a scrum.

Of the two scores made by Nevada in the first half neither was from a clean passing rush such as characterized the play against the Olympic club two weeks before. The first resulted from the successful blocking of a kick by Trabert, who scooped and made a neat run and dive over the line. The second try resulted from a loose dribbling rush, in which the ball was kicked toward the sideline, where McPhail secured it and after a 30-yard dodging run placed it behind the goal posts.

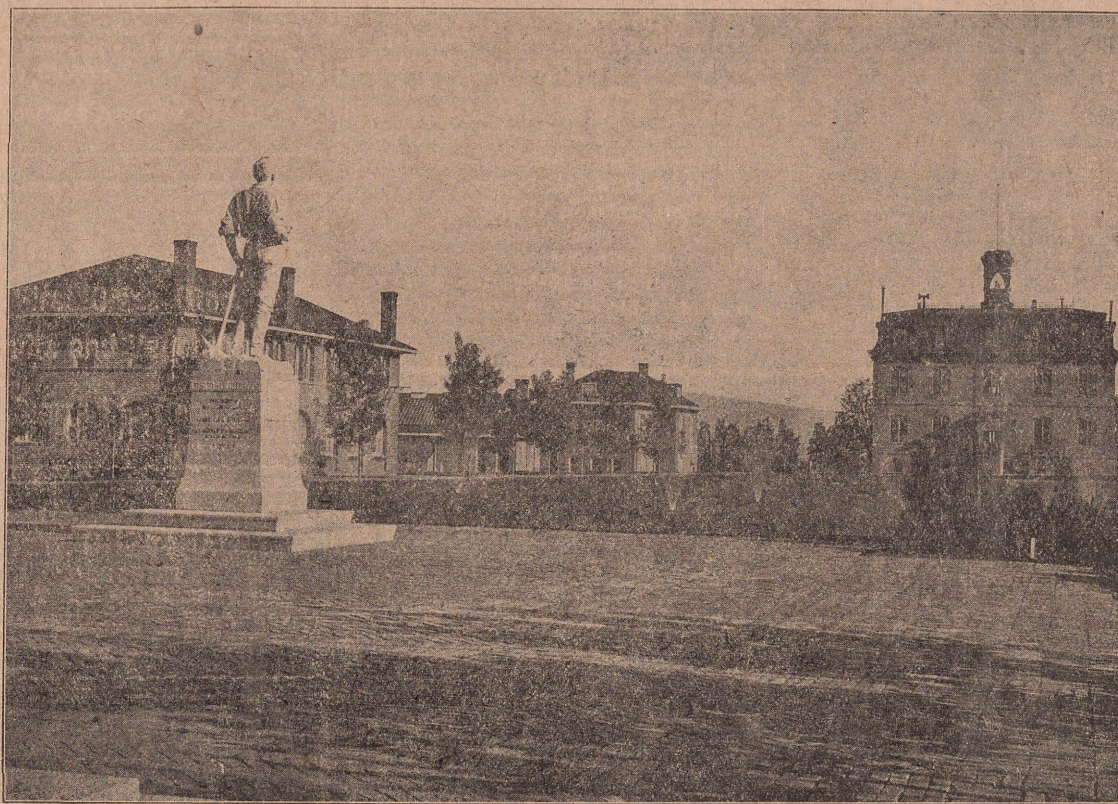

To the Californai scrum in general and Bender, the heavy side ranker, in particular, the freshmen can attribute their splendid victory. The scrum was heavy and always on the ball, the breakaways did good work in smearing our halfback, and their halfback, Harper, initiated a couple of tires and made one unaided.

Our backs lacked the snap, and the knowledge of defensive tactics which has been drilled into them by Jack Glascock was not displayed at any time.

For having the fight and displaying the Nevada spirit that characterized our teams, no one who witnessed the game can give the team too much credit.

The teams lined up as follows:
FRESHMEN Position NEVADA
Bruener front rank Hill
Reith front rank McDonald
Liversedge rear rank Heward
Bender side rank Ferris
Tilden side rank Henningsen
Leggett rear rank North, Root

DEMONSTRATOR OF HOME ECONOMICS CARRIES MESSAGE TO AGRICULTURISTS.

The work of demonstrating more up-to-date methods of dealing with the farmer's wife's problems, inaugurated under the Smith-Lever bill, is being carried on throughout the state by Miss Norma Davis. Thus far in her work Miss Davis has been enthusiastically received in all the towns she has visited and she reports great interest amongst the farm women in her work. The past week was spent by the demonstrator in lecturing throughout the fid-eastern and eastern portion of the state. The following itinerary was adhered to:

October 14—Fernley.
October 15—Lovelock.
October 16—Winnemucca.

At these places Miss Davis spoke before women's clubs and children of the rural schools, organized home economics clubs and developing interest in the solution of home problems of the ranchers.

Regents Meet

Wednesday

PREX HENDRICKS WILL REPORT AND OUTLINE CERTAIN POLICIES.

A meeting of the regents of the University of Nevada has been called for this week. At this meeting there will be presented a report by the new president of the university, A. W. Hendrick, which, it is estimated, will recommend some drastic changes in the general conduct of the university's affairs, both internal and external.

Evidence that Dr. Hendrick harbors a marked difference of opinion from that which has established many of the precedents and customs at the university, has not been lacking, it is said, by members of the faculty and the student body, and Dr. Hendrick himself has declared that many changes in the general university management will be recommended by him.

The disposition of the resignation of Si Ross, assistant professor and

Weddings Mark U. of N. Romance

The marriage of Ellsworth Bennett, '10, and Ruth Graham, both old Nevada students, took place the tenth of this month. Few friends of the couple were present at the ceremony, which was performed sooner than was generally expected. Mr. Bennett is now mine foreman at the Seven Troughs Coalition, where the couple are to take up their residence after a short honeymoon.

While at Nevada Ellsworth Bennett was always foremost, both in athletics and scholarship. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, and was a member of the All-American rugby team that toured Australia in 1909.

Another wedding was celebrated Sunday afternoon at the parish house of Father Tubman, two former university students being the principals. They were Miss Alma Morrow and John Edward Freeman, both of Yerington, and both members of the 1913 class. Miss Lucile Gallagher and Daniel McLeod, both of Yerington, came to Reno with the prospective bride and groom and were present at the wedding.

Second Varsity Teams Loses

SATURDAY'S GAME A RAGGED EXHIBITION OF RUGBY—Y. M. C. A. WINS, 8 TO 3.

In a cold, wild Saturday afternoon the stay-at-homes were defeated by a motley array of local rugbyites. The game, as an exposition of rugby, was more a farce than a real effort. About 3 o'clock the two teams were dressed and lined out to answer Referee Hardin's whistle. Each man on the second varsity shouldered the responsibility of the team and did his utmost in giving advice, directing the play and umpiring, and even found time to direct the play of the opposition. As a consequence of so much told and so little work the Y. M. C. A. and their aids marked up two tries. Patterson, after a brilliant dribble unassisted, scooped and scored in the second half. The first half being a forward game entirely they were responsible for th try. The ball seldom came out in the second half and when it did both backfields knew not how to handle it. Wolford, for the second varsity, after a good run, scored a try, which was not converted.

All That Glitters Is Not Gold

Well, I called on her last night. She lives in an apartment, and somehow it just matches her. There were magazines and soft pillows and flowers all over the room, and the smell of perfume was everywhere. Even the tea tasted like sachet powder smells. She had on another clingy gown.

It is for some reason or other I could never associate Marcia with a rough-neck sweater, or a blue woolly Tam-o'-Shanter, no more than I could associate Nell with "Mary Garden" perfume.

I haven't seen Nell since the dance. I hope she won't take this too hard. I don't think she will, because we were just good chums.

But to come back to my visit to Marcia. There was a man there; a rather good looking fellow in a dress suit. You talk about spick and span. He looked like a tailor's dummy, and his necktie was so prim that it looked like the bow on a dead man. And he had pumps on his little feet. I hate a man with little feet. You'll generally find that there's the same discrepancy at the other end. And he was so darned patronizing. He patted me on the back and called me "Sonny."

I'd like to swing on him once, and I told Marcia so, after he had gone to his stag supper. She asked me where I buried my dead.

Then we went out to get some ice cream. She had a way when she takes hold of your arm of making you feel that she is putting herself wholly in your protection, and, gee, it just makes a fellow feel as if he would lay down his life for her.

Of course Bill and the bunch had to be in the "Bonbonierre." Just my beastly luck. Nell was with them, too, and some new fellow that I didn't know. I tried to catch her eye, because I want her to know that we are still good friends, but she never looked toward me once.

Bill was waiting for me when I got to the room, and he asked me if I'd been out to the "Home for Old Ladies." The fresh guy. Then he began sniffing and looking around, and I said, "What's the matter? What's eating you?" and he said, "Oh, nothing; I was just looking to see if something crawled in here and died." I knew what he meant, but I never answered him. I thought the best way was to treat him with the silent contempt that he deserved. Then in a few minutes he started again.

"Something around here needs fumigating," he said. "And he'll get it, too—in the ditch."

That made me pretty sore, and I said, "The thing that needs fumigating the most around this joint is your grammar. It's about the rottenest thing I know of." That shut him up pretty quick, but this morning I found all my clothes out on the fire escape.

Monday, Sept. 14th.

I met Nell last night and she was with her new friend. He sure thinks he's smart. I can tell by his looks. He was carrying his hat in his hand, and he has a pompadour that stands straight up like the mane on a roached mule; and he had on white socks, and skin tight breeches, turned half way up his skinny shanks. I suppose he thinks that looks classy. I think it looks as if they were picked too soon. The breeches I mean; not the shanks.

Nell was laughing and cutting up, just as if she didn't have a care in the world; and he's just the type that she used to pretend she despised. That goes to show you the perfidy of girls. I'd just like to get one swat at him. I'd eliminate a little of that conceit.

I am going to see Marcia tomorrow night.

Wednesday, Sept. 16th.

Well I called on Mrs. Long last evening. I think I forgot to say before that Marcia's name is Mrs. Marcia Long.

There's a little veranda right in front of her apartment, with French windows opening on to it from her dining-bed-living room. There was a little tea table set for two, on the porch, but as it had already been used, I could see that it was not for me; but I could also see that they had kindly condescended to feast off the fruit and candy I had so thoughtfully sent up in the afternoon. They had just finished and gone in. I could tell by the rose on the table, and the "Mary Gardenesque" atmosphere.

Just as I stepped on the veranda I put my foot on something soft and squashy; it felt just like stepping on a fat, live frog. I jumped back expecting to see the thing hop. But it didn't. I picked it up and saw it was a bunch of rolls. Not breakfast rolls. Puffs, I guess they call them. Three puffs of hair. They were yellow and shiny and odoriferous, and were shaped like three fat weiner-wurst sausages.

Just then Marcia and the tailor's dummy came out and I had presence of mind enough to drop the thing and kick it under the chair. I manoeuvred until I got a good look at the back of her head, and, sure enough, there was the space where the three missing links should have been; but that wasn't the worst of it. He hair was dark at the roots; almost as dark as my own head.

Somehow or other I had a feeling all the time I was there that they were laughing at me. I stood it for a while, in fact, until I thought the only way I could save my face was to make a flying tackle at the T. D. and mop up the porch with him; but I didn't. I just reached down under the chair, picked up the golden treasure on the end of my fountain pen and said, "Is that yours, Marcia?"

"Mrs. Long, if you please," she snapped back at me; and it was the faint, clinging Marcia who made the flying tackle—at the puffs. By this time the atmosphere was so frigid that I thought it was time to beat it for home and mother; which I did.

For the last time I dedicate a verse to a woman:
"Marcia, your hair is a aureole of light,
Which, alas, was not pinned on tight."

Monday, Sept. 21st.

I went out to see Nellie last night. I didn't have the gall to go any sooner. It seemed that the strange fellow is her cousin, and he appears to be a pretty decent kind of a snap. Lots of people are that way. They improve on acquaintance.

Nell is just the the same good old pal. It's funny that I never noticed

Mrs. Frances G. Newlands, wife of the senior senator from Nevada, has extended an invitation through Associate Professor Bardenwerper to all the young women taking courses in the department of Home Economics to come to "tea" with her at her charming home on Newlands Heights. The invitation has been gladly accepted for some of the students have enjoyed during previous years; the hospitality of this delightful lady and all are eager to avail themselves of this opportunity to meet her. About thirty will visit Mrs. Newlands on Wednesday of this week and as many more are looking forward with pleasure to a "tea-party" on Friday afternoon at four-thirty.

DEATH FROM HAZING WILL BE INVESTIGATED

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 19.—Branding the death of Cadet William Bowlus of Middleton, Md., from a hazing escapade at St. John's college here on May 26 as murder, Judge Brashears today urged the grand jury to investigate the tragedy.

The five freshmen who are held responsible for the death of Bowlus are George H. Weaver, New York; Henry L. Valdez, Havana, Cuba; Fendwell Marbury, Baltimore; R. A. Jones, Cambridge, Md., and John M. Noble, Preston, Md.

Eastern Football Games

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. -- Harvard's crippled team today defeated a lively eleven from Tufts, 13 to 6.

The visitors showed new variations, not only of the forward pass, but also of rush. One formation in which ten men stood five yards behind the line with the quarterback standing over the ball and passing it direct to the rushers, enabled Tufts to march fifty yards down the field for a touchdown. Harvard's scoring was the result of line bucking by Bradlee, the only regular member of the crimson backfield able to play.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Princeton defeated Lafayette here, 15 to 0. The Tigers forced the play the greater part of the time, but the backs were unable to get away because of the poor work of her linemen. On the defensive, Princeton's forwards put up a stubborn resistance. Thomas was the strong point in the Lafayette line, and he was ably supported by Luhr and Maxfield.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale lowered Notre Dame's colors with unexpected ease, 28 to 0, although the visiting eleven was slightly heavier, well balanced and fast. His forward passing was brilliant and effective, but this play was discarded at critical moments in favor of the old-fashioned line plunging, which the blue forwards smothered. Errors in judgment in electing to rush the ball on the last down, instead of punting, proved fatal, for Yale held and took quick advantage.

PHILADELPHIA—A fine 60-yard run by Mike Avery, who had intercepted a forward pass, gave the University of Pennsylvania football team the victory over the Annapolis midshipmen on Franklin field by a score of 13 to 6. Up to the time Avery placed the ball behind the navy's goal line the midshipmen had fought Pennsylvania hard and it looked as though the contest would go to a 6 to 6 tie.

PITTSBURG—The University of Pittsburg continued its winning gait today by defeating the Carlisle Indians, 10 to 3. Pitt made the first score with a goal from field in the first period and added seven more points with a touchdown and goal from touchdown in the second period. Penalties kept Pitt from scoring in the last half. The Indians made their points with a goal from field in the last period.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—The army defeated Colgate by a score of 21 to 7. Fumbling by the visitors led up to two of the army's touchdowns. McEwan, the Army center, got the ball when Warren fumbled a pass early in the first period. With the ball on the two-yard line Benedict went through for the score.

Reno High School Notes

The Sacramento High School team will arrive next Friday morning to clash with the local boys. On account of some unknown difficulty which has arisen in Sacramento the game may have to be called off. While here, the Sacramento boys will be royally entertained. A general plan for their entertainment is as follows—Friday morning an auto ride to interesting points, noon lunch given by the girls in the domestic science quarters, in the afternoon a rally in the Assembly hall. Friday night an entertainment in the gym, Saturday dance Saturday night.

There is to be a moving picture and vaudeville show in the High School gym Friday evening. A splendid program has been arranged consisting of four acts of vaudeville of school talent and four acts of first class moving pictures secured through the courtesy of the management of the Grand theatre. A dance will follow. An admission fee of twenty-five cents is to be charged.

David Booce was elected editor-in-chief of the senior annual and Harold Henry business manager, at a meeting of the senior class held last week. They have not yet announced the selection of their assistants.

The new constitution for the student body is now rapidly nearing completion and will be voted soon.

"Gross Immoralities and Diabolical Offenses" Are Charged Youths.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 19.—Expulsion of three men students of the University of Washington for "gross immoralities and diabolical offenses" was announced here today by President Henry Landes. Their names were withheld, but it was said they were members of the freshmen and sophomore classes.

The offenses charged are said to have taken place at a house party at Vashon island, where the men took three girls, whose ages ranged from 15 to 18 years.

Week-end parties at Vashon are "not uncommon" the president says in his statement, some of them being "deliberately planned to indulge in vice and wrongdoing."

The island is a large one, lying between Seattle and Tacoma.

CHEER UP!

We went to California and lost a game and everyone is gloomy. Cheer up, ye down-hearted striders; somebody has to be on the short end of the score and the Fates gave us the choice.

Don't forget this, that the winning and losing of these games are not due to the team alone. Surely, the squad in suits are the only ones to touch the ball; they must run and tackle and fight their hardest. [But any football man will tell you that the biggest part of his inspiration comes from the sidelines. If a man is doing well, he wants to know that his work is appreciated; if he is losing, he wants encouragement to help in the uphill fight.

So don't withdraw your backing because of one lost game, for the prophecy is made herewith that it will be the last in the lost column. Get out and root and let the team know that the student body is still behind its fighting players.

manager of the student body, will be one of the matters to be discussed at the meeting of the board. A recommendation in the matter will be made by the president, but what will be the trend of the recommendation Dr. Hendrick will not indicate.

A radical change in the line-up of the different department heads is a possible result of the coming meeting of the regents, and a reassignment of certain members of the faculty is probable. Some of these changes, it is said, will be the result of internal agitation coming as the aftermath of Instructor Ross' resignation.

FOOTBALL ON THE COAST

Stanford Varsity Plays Strong Game

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 17.—Stanford won and lost at rugby today, the freshmen being defeated and the varsity taking the Titans into camp by a 35 to 6 tally.

In a hard fought game, in which honors, score and ball zigzagged throughout, St. Mary's college of Oakland defeated the Stanford freshmen this afternoon on Stanford turf by a score of 14 to 9. The cardinals also put up the best exhibition of their career as a freshmen fifteen in this, their last appearance as a unit this season.

The Oaklanders were too strong, however, and put forward a brand of concentrated attack that the baby collegians could not solve. The contest was ragged, taken as a whole, but proved interesting from the side lines.

Just before the game started, Frank Walker, formerly of the California school of mechanical arts of San Francisco, was elected captain of the Stanford freshmen, an honor deserved both for his personality qualities and for the stellar brand of ball he has been exhibiting.

The freshmen drew first blood when Winters ran around the wing for 30 yards and scored. Fisher failed to convert. The play was even for the remainder of the half, neither side gaining permanent advantage.

The freshmen scored, however, when Morris Kirksay, formerly of Palo Alto high, ran 60 yards through a scattered field. The play was thrilling and easily the star performance of the day. Fisher converted, making the score 9 to 0, where it remained at half time.

St. Mary's Comes From Behind.
Coming from behind, St. Mary's rushed to victory during the closing session. The freshmen offered a stubborn defense and rallied at the last, but were unequal to their task. Moy, Robertson and Gusto each scored a try. Robertson converted two of the three.

Bob Moy, Burkhardy, R. Brandon and Nevis played well for Coach George Falconer's victorious Oakland boys. Greve, Stafford, Kirksey, Walker, Henry and Wylie, who played but the latter part of the second half, started for the freshmen.

All the freshmen who played today will be awarded sweaters bearing their class numerals. The teams lined up as follows:

St. Mary's College—H. Brandon, Cummings, Burkhardy, front rank; A. Brandon, Anderson, middle rank; Guisto, Nevis, Fallon; McGee, halfback; Moy, Bowden, five-eighths; Robertson, center three-quarters; Mariola, Fleming, wings; Randall, fullback.

Stanford Freshmen—Henry, Bihlman, Slocum, Stevick, front rank; Coleman, Eaton, R. Johnson, middle rank; Earl, Wylie, Card, rear rank; Captain Frank Walker, halfback; Greve, Stafford, five-eighths; Kirksey, center three-quarters; Winters, Weeks, wings; Fisher, fullback; Bill Fletcher, referee.

Varsity Beats Titans.

The Varsity-Titan game was a forward battle throughout, with the husky and clever scrummers of the cardinal wearers taking the long end of the 35 to 6 score, as might be expected of so fast a corps of forwards. The contest was one-sided, as the score indicates. The Titans made a game defense, but were helpless before the opposing scrum, while the Stanford backs had no difficulty in staving off the Titan backfielders. The university men behind the scrum did not get started as a unit.

This is explained by the fact that Austin and Lachmund, the five-eighths, are both on the sick list. With them out of the game, the smooth passing and aggressive backfield tactics were never started.

The score at half time was 14 to 3. Urban, Bard, Andrews and Branden scored a try each. Templeton converted. The Titans' tally of three points resulted from a 25-yard place kick by Mickey Forbes from a penalty.

During the second half the cardinals swept the Titans off their feet. Soper, Branden, Hall and Wylie (the latter made two tries) did the scoring for Stanford, and Ric Templeton converted enough to make the score total 35.

U. C. Defeats Barbs

Taking advantage of one Saturday in the football season when the varsity game is of secondary importance, the big team made the best of its opportunities to go easy after the freshmen game last Saturday. The Barbarians were beaten—even blanked to the tune of 11 to 0, but it was not an especially glorious victory. In fact the play of the clubmen was often the more interesting.

A general rearrangement of the varsity lineup was undoubtedly influential in taking the polish off of the team's performance. McKim was back in the front rank after two weeks' rest, and Lockhart was sent in at lock after an even longer rest.

Both teams were exceptionally hard on the rules. Referee Mullineaux is somewhat stricter in interpreting the rules than many of the local officials, and his duties were made harder than usual by repeated off-side and illegal plays by either side. His whistle was almost worn out by the end of the game, as were the patience of the players and spectators. Deluges of scrums and free kicks clogged up the game and broke up the going value of the varsity.

Glee Club on First Trip

A party of more than fifty of Reno's most prominent business men, many of them accompanied by their wives and other members of their families, will leave at 8 o'clock this morning on the special train provided by the N. C. O. for the "get acquainted" excursion to Lakeview, Ore., and intermediate points. The train will include a Pullman for the members of the University Glee club, a diner and buffet car, and three chair cars. General Manager Ramsey Cox will be the party's official guide, assisted by other officials of the road. Mayor F. J. Shair will officially represent the city of Reno. Prof. J. G. Schrugham will represent the university.

At noon the party will stop at Hot Springs, where an old fashioned country picnic, with its attendant surprises in the way of home cooked delicacies and home made garnishings, will be served between speeches by representatives of the community and Reno business men. From Hot Springs the party will proceed to Alturas, where a special evening's program has been arranged in honor of the visitors.

At Lakeview the town is being transformed into a festival scene for the entertainment of the Reno party. A varied program of amusements, banquets and speech making has been arranged. The key of the city will be formally presented to Mayor Shair and special entertainment will be provided for the feminine members of the party. The party will leave Lakeview for the return to Reno Wednesday morning.

It is expected that the results of the excursion will be evident in a closer co-operation between Reno commercially and the communities that dot the line of the N. C. O. This improved condition will be of co-operative benefit say those who have promoted the excursion, and the cities that will be visited have prepared to royally further the "get acquainted" idea upon which the excursion is based.

MADELINE, Cal., Oct. 19.—Honey Lake ranchers at noon today gave Reno's business men on the N. C. O. excursion to Lakeview and wayside points a memory of school days with an old-fashioned picnic dinner served under the trees at Hot Springs. The 75 members of the excursion party passed the afternoon with the Honey Lakers and then entrained for the second stage of the journey to Alturas for the night.

The committee in charge of Honey Lake's picnic arrangements was: Mrs. Gall H. James, Mrs. J. J. Fleming, B. L. Taylor and Harry Fitch. Rev. C. W. Pogue gave addresses of welcome which were responded to by Robert M. Price and J. M. Fulton. The University Glee club sang many selections and was enthusiastically received. Miss Thelma James, an accomplished elocutionist of Honey Lake, entertained the visitors with pleasing recitations.

Mrs. W. M. Munsey, famous throughout the countryside as the champion preserve maker of the valley, presented each member of the excursion party with a jar of preserves, jelly, catsup or grape juice as a souvenir of the day.

Manager Ramsey M. Cox of the N. C. O. was unable to accompany the party because of an injury to his foot sustained Saturday night. The road was represented by Superintendent H. O. Whatley and Agent E. G. Ryder.

The country which the excursion party is passing through on its way to Lakeview is one that has but one settler to each 1000 acres of tillable land. The meaning of this opportunity for closer settlement can best be understood when it is remembered that in Europe, in the sections now being devastated by the war carnage, there is more than one inhabitant to each acre.

On the arrival of the team at Berkeley on Friday morning they were taken to the Hotel Shattuck for breakfast and from there a bus took them to the Chi Phi fraternity house. The entire house was turned over to the Nevada men, and Coach Glascock given the privilege of ordering anything he wanted. Friday morning was spent in playing cards and other diversions and in the afternoon a baseball game between Portland and Oakland served as amusement, though it was a rotten game. Friday night it rained, and kept raining for two hours and Saturday morning dawned dark and dismal but by ten o'clock the fog had lifted and the sun shone once more. Five automobiles drove up to the house and the team was taken for a two hours spin around Berkeley, Piedmont and Oakland. In the afternoon the memorable game was played, and following it the Skull and Keys took charge of the Nevada men at an informal reception. From here the team individually and collectively drifted into the night, and all met again on the train Sunday. A few suit cases were left behind but to compensate each and every member of the squad brought back with them only praise and a kindly feeling towards the men of California.

Coach Jask Glascock, Trainer Si Krummes, Manager S. E. Ross, Dale Pruett, Earl Swain and Professors Charles Haseman, Schrugham and Preston accompanied the team to the coast.
