Xmas Carols For Pre-Exam Recital

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB WILL GIVE CHRISTMAS PROGRAM NEXT THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Following the precedent of the Men's Glee Club of the University, the University Women's Glee Club on Thursday will offer a Christmas program. The Glee Club has been preparing its concert for many weeks and bids fair to rival the Mens Club for vocal honors. Under the leadership of Miss Denny the girls have been practicing at odd hours, and the music they dispense will be well worth hearing. It is understood that their offering will consist solely of carols and Christmas music. This work of Miss Denny is distinct from her services as teacher of music in the College of Education, and the University is greatly indebted to her for her time and effort in giving the women a vocal club.

Juniors-Freshmen Classes Elect for Final Game

SEMI-FINALS FOR INTERCLASS CHAMPIONSHIP HELD IN GYM SATURDAY

The basket-ball games held in the gym Saturday, beside giving a good line on the new material, decided definitely the matter of basket-ball supremacy between the senior-junior and soph-freshman classes. When the first game began it seemed as if both teams had an even break, but the first-year men soon hit their stride and were never in danger. Team work was rather conspicuous by its absence, but the individual work of Stewart, Jones and Hill made up for any lack of unity. The final score of 28 to 0 gives a good idea of the respective playing of the two teams.

The line-ups:
Freshmen—Guards, Martin, Cusick; center, Stewart; forwards, Jones and Hill.
Sophs—Forwards, McIver, Rice and Hood; center, Wiley; guards, Chism and Rice.

JUNIOR-SENIOR

The game for which the spectators had long waited commenced when Referee Ross called Captains Painter and Henningsen to toss for goals. The juniors chose the west goal and elected to guard the east. The game was a fast one from start to finish, the zeal of the seniors making up to some extent for their inability to shoot baskets.

The juniors put up a good guarding game as well as feeding their forwards the ball. Henningsen and McCubbin played the best game for sixteen, doing the requisite team work as well as registering the points. The junior guards are to be commended for fine work. The score at the end of the first half was 9 to 2. The seniors played better basket-ball the second half—not as a team, but individually—scoring nine points to the juniors' eleven. Final score: Juniors, 20; seniors, 11.

Juniors—Guards, Hovey and Healy; center, Henningsen; forwards, Krummes and McCubbin.

Seniors—Guards, Trabert, Painter; center, Ferris; forwards, Neeld and Sheehy.

Referee, Ross; timer, Constable; scorer, Abbott.

John Heard, '17, has been forced to drop his studies at Nevada for a time on account of overwork. Besides his regular course he was taking extra work in preparation for the next Rhodes scholarship examination. He was representative of the sophomore class on the executive committee of the A. S. U. N. and a member of Sigma Alpha fraternity.

Classes Elect Team Captains

EXPERIENCED PLAYERS ARE CHOSEN TO DIRECT THE CLASS TEAMS

During the past week the four classes chose their basket-ball captains under whom the teams will play the schedule outlined by the varsity captain and graduate manager. The games Saturday prove that the selections are qualified to lead the various squads to the best advantage. The men who were chosen captains are: For 1915, Painter; 1916, Henningsen; 1917, Chism; 1918, Cusick.

Convention Plans Are Progressing

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE TALKS OVER DETAILS OF EVENT WITH DEAN SCRUGHAM

During the past week the recently appointed executive committee of the Engineers' Club—Swain, Abbott, Nick Dondero, Wiley and McQuiston—met with Dean J. G. Scrugham to discuss ways and means for the entertainment of visitors during the engineers' convention. A committee was appointed to get suggestions from managers and engineers who were in attendance at the last convention, in order that a closer co-operation might be effected to the benefit of both. On this committee E. M. Swain was appointed chairman.

E. S. Abbott and Ted Wolford were appointed as committee chairmen to prepare plans for suitable souvenirs for the visitors. Several novel schemes are being considered by them for the making of souvenirs directly by the students in the presence of visitors, who are promised a very agreeable surprise.

During the convention all the equipment of the mining and electrical laboratories will be in operation. Dondero and Borchert will oversee the mining laboratory work, while all the electrical and mechanical students will be assigned to various tasks in the mechanical building and machine shops.

Harold McQuiston will have charge of the testing machine during the convention and will give demonstrations of the strengths of various materials. Dr. Hartman has also kindly consented to give a demonstration of high-frequency electrical discharges, which made such an impression on the various audiences during the safety-first convention.

Dance in Gym Saturday Eve

FANCY AND ORDINARY DANCES TO BE ALTERNATED IN AN INFORMAL EXHIBITION

A dance and exhibition of gymnasium class work is announced for next Saturday evening at eight o'clock by Miss Sameth, woman's physical director. Interspersed in the regular dance program between the regulation two-steps and waltzes are several specialty acts to be presented by the various members of Miss Sameth's classes, who in the past have won so much praise for their finished work. Russian national dances, English hornpipes, an Irish lilt and various other attractive dances are to be staged in a way that will show the work of the department of physical education for women, and especially the work during the past semester.

The music is to be the best, and all who come will be sure of a good time. Sure, and it isn't every night you get a chance to dance with a real Irish lassie, or English, or Russian either, for that matter; so the old gym is pretty sure to have a crowd next Saturday.

The cause is a good one, and the small charge is only enough to defray the expenses of decorating, which is to be one of the features of the affair. The programs of the dance are to serve as tickets, so all that is necessary to find the numbers of the schottisches is to deposit 25 cents and buy a program and ticket combined.

Nevada Songsters Please Students

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB GIVES NEW PROGRAM TO APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE

For the first time this year the students of the University heard their Glee Club in a concert staged by the organization. For forty-five minutes the members of the vocal club pleased the assemblage, which consisted of the faculty, practically every student and a few friends of the members. A meritorious diversion came after the third number in the way of remarks by City Attorney Summerfield. As a rally talk it differed from the usual effusions of the pep artists. Mr. Summerfield had the spirit, and along with it a plan—something tangible to present.

The Glee Club appeared under its organization, known as the warblers, of which Tom Walker is chief songster and Louis Rose the secretary bird. The club offered the following program:

- (a) "Jolly Boys".....Rhys-Herbert
- (b) "I Love You Truly".....

Officers Are Elected For Next Semester

During the last week the members of the freshman and sophomore classes met and elected their respective class officers. The freshman election was quite a lively affair and resulted in the choice of four former Reno High students in the persons of Fogel for president, Bob Donovan for vice-president, Vira Calhoun for secretary and Frank Harriman for treasurer.

The sophomore election was quite a tame affair, unanimous votes being recorded in all but three or four instances. For president Pierce was elected; for vice-president, Herbert Squires; secretary, Elsie Humphries; treasurer, Bart Hood. After disposing of minor business details the meeting disbanded.

Seniors Celebrate at Informal Dance

DIGNIFIED DONES SHOW YOUNGER GENERATION A THING OR TWO IN SOCIAL LINE

The senior class, recalling their first jolly get-together when they were freshmen, decided to have one more such meeting before the end of the semester, which will be the last for some of the members of the 1915 class. The party was scheduled for Wednesday night at the Wilson studio. All the members were present and truly enjoyed the jolly informal dance and the refreshments served at midnight. Mesdames Kaye, Bird and Williams were patronesses. Others present: Misses Ruth Aiken, Ada Hussman, Pearl Stinson, Jessie Hynton, Laurena Williams, Carna Damm, Dorothy Bird, Lella White, Ethel Brown, Gertrude Shade, Lyle Rushby, Elsie Herz and Mrs. Preston. Since the senior class contains more boys than girls, the following misses were invited: Ruth Pyle, Pearl Watson, Golda Reilley, Helen Smith, Elda Barber, Grace Myers, Mary Leon, Helen Howell, Helen Hobbins and Adele Norcross, Messrs. Tom Walker, George McCreary, Nield, Cazier, McPhail, Painter, Kemper, Ferris, Krumms, Pfingst, Evans, Pruett, Steele, Ogilvie, Abbott, Parks, Wiley, Barton, Barker, Dondero, Preston, Peterson and Swain were present as senior class members and guests.

DEAN SCRUGHAM INSURES ATTENDANCE OF NOTED ENGLI- AT WELFARE CONVENTION

The plans of the executive committee of the efficiency and general welfare convention of engineers are progressing favorably, and by early February all will be in readiness to entertain the engineers who will be present. Among those who have signified their intention of being here is Dr. Francis Patterson, chairman of the Public Safety Commission of the city of Philadelphia and director of the welfare department of the J. G. Brill Car Company, the largest car manufacturers in the United States. Dr. Patterson's interest in the convention and his intention to be present shows in a measure the importance of gatherings of this character to the engineering fraternity.

BARBARIANS LOSE FAST CONTEST BY THE CLOSE SCORE OF 8 TO 3

After an absence of two years, the club rugby championship returned yesterday to the Olympic Club, the wearers of the Winged O emblem taking a fast and interesting game from the Barbarians by a score of 8 to 3.

The game was played at Recreation Park. It was the final contest of a series in which the Barbarians and Olympics won their way into the final by winning from the Tital club of Berkeley. The teams that met yesterday were well matched, and the Olympics won out through the ability of the club backs to take advantage of scoring opportunities.

As it happened the two scores of the Post-street clubmen were made by Hawks, a young back with a quick eye for an opening and a quicker pair of legs to make use of the chances he sees.

Hawks Shows His Speed

The first time Hawks went over the line he only ran about ten yards with the ball, but in doing it he made a swerve of at least five yards which would have excited jealousy in the breast of Billy Wallace or Dick Roberts. New Zealand's marvels at the art of making a tackler grab the air when he thought he was to get a runner.

The second try was partly due to Hawks' speed and partly to an Alphonse-and-Gaston stunt pulled by Norton and Templeton of the Barbarians. On a long, high kick the Barbarian backs stood back and let the ball bounce when either of them could have taken it on the fly. The ball bounded high, and Hawks dashed in, leaped in the air, took the oval and raced twenty-five yards down the field to a try.

On the day's play there was little to choose between the teams, but the Olympics showed a lot of fighting spirit when they were forced back on their own lines, and the Winged O players must be given credit for playing the game for all that was in them from start to finish.

Rick Templeton Absent

When the teams lined up it was noticed that the Barbarians were without Rick Templeton, who had examinations to take at Stanford University and could not be present.

His brother, Bob, played fullback for three-fourths of the game and then gave way to West, another Stanford boy. The Olympic team was minus McGuire and Stafford, but the presence of Darsie in the forward line braced up the club fifteen.

The Barbarians started off at a fast clip. For eighteen minutes they besieged the Olympic Club's territory and had the defense badly worried. The ball was finally kicked over the Olympic line, and Montgomery picked up. In trying to kick out from behind his own line he was tackled by Kirksey and dropped the ball. Kirksey fell on it for the first and only score of the Barbarians. Templeton tried for the goal, but his kick went wide.

A bit of hard luck befell the Barbs when Morsen went over the line after taking a perfect pass from Davidson and dropped the ball before he could put it on the ground.

Ideal Farm to be Shown in Exhibit

EXHIBITS CLASSIFIED AND ARRANGED UNDER DIRECTION OF DEAN KNIGHT ABOUT READY

That the agricultural interests of the State will be fittingly shown at the Panama-Pacific Exposition is the opinion of all who have seen the plans and talked with the men in charge. At this time most of the material that Nevada will show in this department is ready to ship. The agricultural department has finished its work with the wool samples, natural and prepared, alfalfa, a variety of grains and divers other products.

A very complete and pleasing detail of Nevada's offering is the one showing an ideal farm, with the proper proportions for acreage in the several crops displayed in growing grain. The woodwork of the "farm" is made to scale and is being done by Reno High School students under the direction of the manual training teacher, Mr. Bronson. The farm will be four by eight feet, inclosing a patch of growing grain two by three feet, alfalfa two by four feet and potatoes one by two feet. Bluegrass and clover will occupy two by four feet, and a reserve alfalfa patch will be two by four feet. The garden, house and barns for the stock will occupy the remaining one by two feet. Irrigation ditches, roads and various other details finish the model of a perfectly subdivided farm.

WHY ARE YOU IN COLLEGE?

Why are you in college? Perhaps your father answered this question for you before you entered the university, or perhaps you laboriously worked out the problem for yourself in an English theme. At least you are conscious of some excuse for postponing your entrance into real life for four years. But are you sure that it is more than an excuse? Are you sure that you have a definite purpose in obtaining your education? Are you sure of what a college education will really do for you or what it ought to do?

The purpose of a college education, we once heard some one say, is to train for leadership. Of this fact you should never lose sight. The ability you acquire here to think, to work with concentration, to work with a calm mind in the midst of things that tend to be distracting, is a training that should mark you as a leader in any work that you may take up on leaving the university. But of one thing you must be sure—you must be really working and not trifling; you must give yourself wholeheartedly to your task during each hour of the working day. This does not mean that you should hide yourself in some den from seven o'clock in the morning until twelve at night, for a great part of college work consists in getting acquainted with your fellows, in taking part in college activities, in adapting yourself to the small college world, so that you may enter the bigger world outside naturally and gracefully. If you can not find your place of leadership in this highly organized life of the university you surely can not expect to be a leader outside. Many students leave the university not only unable to lead, but so bewildered by their four years of misspent leisure that they can not even follow intelligently.

Habits of carelessness acquired in college are the cause of the majority of these failures. Students become slipshod and haphazard in their methods, caring little whether they do their work to-day or to-morrow, and generally ending up by not doing it at all. The result is a lot of ill-time cramming and coco-cola drinking at the end of the term, an unsatisfactory grade a little later and a weakness of will and carelessness of habit that will stay with them always. These are the things that have caused practical business men to turn college graduates from their doors; these are the things that have brought so much criticism upon the college man.

There is nothing so important as to do your work thoroughly and efficiently, to see every undertaking through to the end and to feel responsible. Upon this point there are no more pertinent words than those of William James, the psychologist: "Let no youth have any anxiety about the upshot of his education, whatever the line of it may be. If he keep faithfully busy each hour of the working day he may safely leave the final result to itself. He can with perfect certainty count on waking up some fine morning to find himself one of the competent ones of his generation, in whatever pursuit he may have singled out."—Indiana Daily Student.

Since the first practical tests of the nitrogen headlight, which were made under the leadership of Dean J.G. Scrugham about a year ago, during the initial safety-first convention, the practical value of this form of illumination has been widely recognized. Ten new headlights of this kind are being placed on the engines of the N.-C.-O. Railroad as a result of tests made.

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR GLASSCOCK

At the meeting of the board of regents, held yesterday, the work done by Jack Glasscock as football coach during the past season was favorably commented on and he was appointed physical director for next semester. His duties will be in gym work and swimming mostly, but he contemplates taking up spring football as soon as the weather permits.

Olympics in Lead, 5 to 2

Then the Olympics got busy. A fine gribbling rush down the field in which Partridge, Meyer and Quill were prominent, put the ball on the Barbarian ten-yard line.

From a scrum Worswick passed out to Hawks, who made a clever swerving run through the Barbarian backfield and grounded the ball near the posts. Montgomery kicked the goal and the score was 5 to 3 in favor of the Olympics.

At half time the score was unchanged.

The Barbs attacked in the early part of the second half and were having the better of the play when Schroder sent a long kick across the field. While Templeton and Norton were waiting for each other to take the ball Hawks rushed up and took the oval on the first bounce.

Before his opponents could get up their speed Hawks had established a clear way to the goal line and went over near the corner for a try. Montgomery failed to convert from a difficult angle, leaving the Olympics in the lead by 8 points to 3.

Excitement at the Close

The last five minutes of the game were full of excitement. Brown and Harry Smith got into a mix-up in which blows were exchanged, but, as the referee could not place the blame, he made the boys shake hands and allowed them to remain in the game.

A minute later Glasson, who claims that he was trying to punch the ball out of an opponent's arms, was pulled off for swinging his closed fist in dangerous proximity to the opponent's nose. In the last minute of the game the Barbs came within five yards of the Olympic line, but the clubmen battled bravely, and when time was called the ball was in touch at mid-field, the result of a long kick by Montgomery.

The club championship of the season and the trophy donated by the Rugby Union goes to the Olympic Club, which resumes its place at the top of the local club teams. Two years ago the Barbarians won from the Olympics and have held the title since, no game having been played last year.

VOL. XXII. RENO, NEVADA, December 15, 1914 No. 17

EDITORIAL

It is not always pleasant to come out of the land of dreams and pleasant thoughts to land with a thud on this cold hard, material old world of ours. But for this sequence of events, this awakening, however, no worthy actions ever would be started.

Which brings us back to the subject of these paragraphs: Last Friday while the Glee Club was recovering its collective breath, after a particularly strenuous part of their program, Lester Summerfield, a Stanford grad of keen intelligence and perception, quietly related experiences of other schools in somewhat the same position as Nevada. Mere size of buildings and number of students may convince some that the big is best, but why? In what way does a thousand extra students help a school, except possibly by a paltry appropriation or two from an unwilling Legislature?

The man or woman who feels that attending a small university is a hardship is wrong. The pity of it all is that they must graduate or leave the school to realize and fully appreciate their mistake. How many students graduating from a large college know at all intimately any fellow-students except the several he has had daily classes with? And how many graduate from Nevada without knowing practically every student on the hill? Very few, as we all know. It is this daily association which builds up a community of interest resulting in a school spirit for which many a larger university would pay dearly. At times it may flicker and wane, and to the pessimistic seem extinct, but 'ware the blaze of loyalty when all realize the need.

Truly, when Daniel Webster said "Though she be a small school, I love her still" he little realized that he uttered a phrase which may well become the motto of modern students and alumni alike.

Commissioners to Exhibit Pictures of Mines, Ranches and Cities

While a direct appeal will be made to the thousands who will visit the expositions at San Francisco and San Diego next year, both through the exhibition of the products of the mines, ranches and factories of the state and descriptive literature setting forth the great resources, potential and developed, those in charge have succeeded in developing an attractive scheme of inferential advertising which is designed to attract not only the homeseeker, but the tourist and sightseer.

Several hundred photographs of Nevada scenery, taken by the expert artists employed by the Southern Pacific railway, and collected with a view of exploiting the magnificent beauties as well as the substantial resources of the state, and which never have been exhibited publicly, have been loaned to the officials in charge for the purposes of the expositions. These views will be greatly enlarged and framed for the adornment of the walls of the state buildings both at San Francisco and San Diego, and will thereafter be available for use in a permanent collection.

Even the experienced globe-trotter finds in Nevada's scenery much that is as unique as it is beautiful. Many of the chief points of interests have heretofore been virtually inaccessible. But now the automobile has made it possible for the cross-country tourist to visit points remote from the railroads and from civilization. The collection of photographs being prepared is designed, in part, to exploit these heretofore unfamiliar beauty spots. Incidentally, the agricultural and industrial resources will be as attractively exploited.

First Heat in the State Championship Race

Last Friday the boys' basket-ball team journeyed to Fallon and played there, coming out on the long end of the score. According to statements made by the local boys, the game was fast throughout. This is the first game that has been played which counts toward the State championship. The contest for championship will probably rest between Gardnerville and Reno, the former having lost through graduation only one of last year's championship five.

Last Monday Dr. Brainerd of the Chautauqua Circuit gave us an interesting little talk. He was well received, and the students hope to hear him again in the near future.

The first regular meeting of the Associated Students was held on last Thursday. Only matters of importance were discussed. Debate on the leading topic was so lengthy that the meeting adjourned until 3:30, when it was continued. The next day a special meeting was called for further discussion. The debate, however, contained too much personal mention to be considered good.

The Sagebrush has our hearty thanks for publishing our constitution in the last copy. E. S. L., 1915.

NEWSPAPER STYLE

There are some people in this world who carry with them an air of literary superiority that they are not entitled to and have no right to flaunt. These persons are willing to condemn a newspaper or newspaper English because they find a typographical error or a hurried caption on a news article. They do not take time to consider the great haste and strain under which a newspaper is made and the many possibilities for mistakes. But they hasten to pour forth a flood of talk on the perfection of literary style attained by their favorite authors and many laments that newspaper English has fallen to a pitiable level. The probability is that the authors to whom these literary cads refer owe their success in literature to a long, grueling newspaper training and continue to hold a place in popular favor because they write in a true journalistic style.

Thackeray was a newspaper writer and magazine contributor before he became a novelist. He wrote at a time when conciseness and directness were not known in journalism. News could not be had in the quantities it can at the present day, and reporters were forced to pad their stories. Had Thackeray received a modern newspaper training the probability is that "Vanity Fair" and "Henry Esmond" would have been told in half the words and, from the standpoint of the reader of today, far more attractively.

Kipling is a notable example of a journalist in literature. While reporting for Anglo-Indian papers he developed a strong, terse, direct style that has served to make him one of the greatest writers of compact stories. O. Henry, who climbed to a position as one of the best short story writers, clearly illustrates the power of newspaper style in literature.

Irving Cobb, Jack London, Richard Harding Davis, Alfred Henry Lewis, Mary Roberts Rinehart, etc., all serve as examples of reporters and news writers in present-day literature. The tendency of contemporary literature is toward the short story, and the newspaper office has served as one of the best schools for producing writers in this line. There is no more forceful or attractive way of telling a story than in newspaper style and newspaper English. Simplicity, directness, sincerity are demanded. The literary cads who go about criticising newspaper style and English do not understand the meaning of the words, or, perhaps, are unaware that they are ignorant.—Daily Illini.

REGENTS PLAN WIDER SCOPE FOR UNIVERSITY

Two Experts Added to Veterinary Department to Be of Service to Stockmen

REPORT TO BE PREPARED

Survey of Condition and Outline of Plans to Be Given Soon to the Public

The increase of the working power of the veterinary department at the university; the consideration of the budget for the coming year; plans for a general report of progress and condition; steps toward increasing the volume of education given; a report by President Hendricks on his recent eastern trip; the appointment of a permanent architectural advisory firm; measures to permit student loans by the university and an order for a complete audit of university books as relate to state funds, formed the sum total of a rather full day's meeting of the board of university regents at the office of President Hendricks yesterday.

The first-named act, the increase of the force having to do with veterinary problems in the state, is regarded as a further recognition of the importance of the livestock industry in this state and marks the furtherance in a more powerful way of plans to stamp out stock disease here if possible to the saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

The board approved the appointment of two men in the veterinary department, Dr. Edward Record of Pennsylvania and Dr. Stephen Lockett of Kingston, Jamaica. Both of these men are regarded as valuable acquisitions and come with the highest of recommendations. Dr. Record is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and worked in the laboratories of the Pennsylvania State Livestock board under Professor Meyer, now of the University of California. He was later serum expert for the Mulford laboratories, Glen Olden, Pa. He was recommended by Professor Richel, head of the Mulford laboratories and Professor Marshall, president of the American Veterinary Association, who is also state veterinarian of Pennsylvania. Dr. Record will be occupied here as a laboratory worker under Dr. W. B. Mack.

Dr. Lockett is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and was highly recommended by Professor Marshall and by Dr. Meyer as a strong field man.

A great part of yesterday's meeting was taken up with the consideration of the budget outlining the needs of the university for the future. The amount of expense and the method of presenting it to the legislature was discussed in detail with the help of the statistics and estimates.

Plans were made by President Hendricks and the regents to compile report incorporating the progress and purposes of the university with a list of the actually essential demands required of the state if the university is to be put in position to perform the service that is in sight for it to do. President Hendricks showed that practically double the work can be done by the university with but little added expense through the medium of short courses for miners, agriculturalists and stockmen. A means could be provided whereby young men could take a six months' course at the university securing information and direction that would prove almost invaluable in their every day work.

The regents listened to a report from President Hendricks on his recent trip east wherein he described new means of service to be found in other states, bringing home ideas which will serve to guide in many new undertakings to be tried out.

The appointment of Bliss & Faville, a San Francisco firm of architects, as university architects to carry on the permanent plan of building outlined some years ago, was confirmed by the regents. Mr. Bliss of that firm participated in a conference with Clarence H. Mackay several years ago as to a progressive and uniform plan of building and it was thought well to retain that firm for future work.

The rule of the university requiring non-resident students to pay $18 for board in the dining hall while resident students paid no more for room and board at the dormitory was changed to make the rate for board $16 a month leaving $2 for the roomers.

Leave of absence was granted Assistant Professor George Powers until July 1 on account of illness.

The university will encourage the debating society by making up any deficit that may appear on the holding of two debates annually. The bill in congress whereby the university will receive $10,000 from the federal government for projects in research, extension work, etc., in connection with the engineering department, was endorsed.

The president was authorized to loan to deserving students in his discretion, sums not exceeding $50, where actually needed for expenses in college.

An audit of the university books relating to state funds was ordered at a time suiting the convenience of the controller or not later than the close of the books for the year.

Governor-elect Emmet D. Boyle and former Governor D. S. Dickerson called on the regents during the meeting and discussed plans for the future of the university, giving the president and the regents the benefit of their views.

Dr. Hendrick expressed himself last night as well pleased with the move in the direction of strengthening the force in the veterinary department. He said it was important to assure the livestock interests protection against infectious and contagious diseases which is a serious problem in this state. He said that according to Dr. Mack's statement the annual losses due to disease among livestock was many hundreds of thousands of dollars a year and Dr. Mack promised that with sufficient equipment in material and men he could probably control 90 per cent of this loss.

"As to Dr. Mack," said President Hendrick, "I find that his value is not fully understood by the people of this state because little has been said concerning his ability and his standing in the country. He is held in the highest estimation by veterinarians all over the United States. He is considered one of the few really first-class men. He recently declined positions in two of the front-rank veterinary schools of the country, giving as his reason that as the state of Nevada gave him back his health he had decided to show his appreciation by keeping on working for the state. So well-known is Dr. Mack that the problem of getting suitable assistants for him is simplified for the reason that there are so many men who count it a privilege to work in his laboratory."

If that Purdue University girl who was hazed and brought suit against seven of her fellow-students to recover damages in the sum of $7000 should win her case it might serve to protect other aspirants for higher education. The young ladies welcomed her to their alma mater by taking off her clothing, painting her chest and neck with red ink, pouring mucilage down her back, sticking her with pins and throwing her into a tub of cold water while she was ill.

Infectious pneumonia has broken out in the herd of William Bickle, near La Crosse, Wis. It was at first thought to be foot and mouth disease. An inspector examined the herd, and the animals have been ordered killed.

STATE TEACHERS HOLD ANNUAL INSTITUTE IN RENO

John Edwards Bray, State Superintendent of Public Instruction

The public schools of the State will close for a week commencing Dec. 21, so that all teachers may attend the institute. This year, in order to make the attendance of the teachers less costly and more convenient for them, there will be sessions of the institute held both in Reno and Elko. State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Edwards Bray will have charge of the two meetings and has secured instructors to lecture to the teachers.

WHERE THE WEST BEGINS

Out where the hand clasps a little stronger,

Out where a smile dwells a little longer—

That's where the West begins.

Out where the sun's a little brighter, Where the snows that fall are a trifle whiter,

Where the bonds of home are a wee bit tighter—

That's where the West begins.

Out where the skies are a trifle bluer, Out where friendship's a little truer,

That's where the West begins;

Out where a fresher breeze is blowing, Where there's laughter in every streamlet flowing,

Where there's more of reaping and less of sowing—

That's where the West begins.

Out where the world is in the making, Where fewer hearts with despair are aching—

That's where the West begins.

Where there's more of singing and less of sighing,

Where there's more of giving and less of buying,

And a man makes friends without half trying—

That's where the West begins.

—Arthur Chapman.

BAD SEED SPREADS POTATO EEL

The eel worm is described as a thread worm not over a twenty-fifth of an inch in length. Its presence is discerned by a wrinkled surface, dotted with circular or oval protuberances smaller than a pin-head. In the early stages the nodules may not be noticeable and the potato may be full and firm. Upon cutting off slices of the potato, however, dry, brownish spots somewhat smaller than a pin-head and extending into the potato from a sixteenth to a quarter of an inch from the surface are found. Badly affected potatoes may shrivel to half normal size and will be found soft and lacking in nutrition.

The potato eel worm which, Yerington reports say, has caused the condemnation of shipments of Nevada potatoes to California, affects potatoes in a manner easily distinguished, according to a bulletin by Director S. B. Doten and Professor Frandsen of the Nevada experiment station. At the same time, no specific treatment to secure immunity is known at this time, the bulletin says, although deep plowing to crops immune from the pest, such as grain or alfalfa are suggested.

Junior Prom Is Great Success

JUNIORS ARE HOSTS AT ANNUAL DANCE FOR STUDENTS AND TOWNFOLKS

The class of 1916 always has known how to give dances, and the one this year proved the best of all. It will be a long time before those who attended will forget about the junior prom and the wonderfully good time they had. The class colors are gold and purple, and this color scheme was carried out perfectly in the decorations. Overhead strands of purple crepe paper were woven and interwoven, forming a close network ceiling, curving gracefully down to the electric lights, over which were hung festive Japanese lanterns, shedding a golden light over all. The three large center lights were entirely covered with purple paper. The purple and gold mint wafers served with the punch made it even more delicious than ever. The programs were attractive with their purple ribbons and white N's on a purple background. The juniors originated a novel and successful plan in seating the orchestra in the balcony. This not only afforded the dancers more room, but the strains of the music floating down seemed to give more of an incentive than ever, if such were necessary, to keep on dancing. When the classes gave their respective yells, finishing with one large skyrocket for the juniors, it expressed the feelings of every one present, and all repeated: "S i x t e e n, s i x t e e n, s i x t e e n Nevada, s i x t e e n!"

Freshmen Girls Win Semi-Final Game

FIELD FOR WOMAN'S FACULTY CLUB TROPHY IS NARROWED DOWN BY MONDAY GAME

The semi-finals in woman's basketball were played off Monday afternoon in the gym, when the freshmen and senior teams lined up for the fray. Despite the experience and the clever team work of the seniors, the freshmen girls won the game, 17 to 8. These class games are having the expected effect, for interest is now intense in both branches of basket-ball. The date for the finals has not as yet been set, but a pre-exam date is expected. The winners of this series will be awarded the handsome trophy offered by the Woman's Faculty Club for the girls' class champion.

The Girls' Glee Club will appear for the first time this year in a Christmas recital, to be given in the University gymnasium Thursday, Dec. 17, at 4:30 o'clock. The program will be as follows:

- "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem"..... Conant Glee Club
- "Holy Night," from Larghetto to Second Symphony..... Beethoven The Sextet
- "Tryste Noel"..... Bullard Glee Club
- "Christmas Bells"..... Cantor Glee Club
- "Remember Now, O Virgin Mary"..... Massenet Misses Reilly, Walker and Taylor
- "All My Heart This Night"..... Gow Glee Club
- "Holy Christmas Night"..... Lassen Glee Club

Don't forget your box of Orange Blossom candy for Xmas.—CANN'S.

Military Schedule

The following schedule of instruction for the week commencing Monday, Dec. 14, is hereby announced:

Monday, Dec. 14—Juniors' F. S. R., paragraphs 63 to 83, inclusive; sophs' I. D. R., 708 to 727, inclusive; freshman Small Arms Firing Manual.

Tuesday, Dec. 15—Juniors' F. S. R., paragraphs 84 to 95, inclusive; sophs' I. D. R., 732 to 734, inclusive, and 745 to 753, inclusive (omit 747); freshman Small Arms Firing Manual.

Wednesday, Dec. 16.—Company inspection; blue uniform.

After Wednesday, Dec. 16, all military work will be suspended for the remainder of the semester.

By order of the commandant of cadets.

Director Lincoln of the Mackay School of Mines has arranged with Walter Harvey Weed to assist in the collection of material concerning the copper mines of Nevada for the forthcoming number of the Copper Handbook. This book is well and favorably known throughout the mining world, the next number being volume XII. Professor Lincoln hopes that all those interested in copper mining in Nevada will assist him in giving the Nevada copper mines their full share of representation in the new edition of the Handbook.

In a letter from Paul Schrapps, '11, who is now located at Guayquil, Ecuador, he mentions several Nevada alumni who are employed in the same vicinity by the South American Development Company. Among them are Jerome Higgins, Mortimer Pratt, R. M. Hess and Leland Claffin. All are more than satisfied with their present positions.

Y. W. C. A. Meeting

Next Wednesday Y. W. is to hold a Christmas meeting in room six. Dorothy Hempton is to entertain the members with a short talk, after which a special musical program will be rendered, including the Y. W. C. A. hymn. Half past four is the time, and Morrill Hall is the place for this interesting meeting.

Director F. C. Lincoln of the Mackay School of Mines has just returned to Reno after a two days' visit to Goldfield. The trip was undertaken in furtherance of President Hendrick's policy of promoting close relations between the University and the mining men of Nevada. Prof. Lincoln inspected the Goldfield Consolidated mill and went underground in the Mohawk and Jumbo Extension mines, besides making the acquaintance of many of the Goldfield mining men.

You may talk about your heroes,
'Bout your man behind the gun,
But I'm going to name the fellow
Who has 'em all outdone.

He's the man who doesn't star in life,
But calmly plugs along—
Takes all the knocks that come his way,
But keeps going with a song.

The moral, folks, is plain to see—
A growler never wins.
Just buckle to your chosen task;
Forget your neighbor's sins.

WE VOUCH FOR THIS

In handling the slugs which make up the lines in a newspaper, and in separating the various lines, the makeup man sometimes gets the lines mixed up and they naturally read rather queer. As an illustration of what can happen, we cite the mix-up of the Bangor (Pa.) paper a few days ago, when the printer got a wedding and an auction sale mixed up, with the following results:

"William Smith, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, and Miss Lucy Anderson were disposed of at a public auction at my farm one mile east, in the presence of seventy guests, including two mules and twelve head of cattle.

Rev. Jackson tied the nuptial knot for the parties, averaging 1250 pounds on the hoof. The beautiful home of the bride was decorated with a sulky rake, a feed grinder and two sets of work harness, nearly new, and just before the ceremony was pronounced the Mendel and Sons wedding march was rendered by one milch cow, five years old, one Jersey cow and one sheep, who, carrying a bunch of bride's rses in her hand, was very beautiful. She wore one light spring wagon, two crates of apples, three racks of hay, a grind-stone of mouseline de soie and trimmings with about a hundred bushels of spuds. The bridal couple left yesterday on an extended trip. Terms, spot cash."—Exchange.

"Phat" Barton is again on the campus, having fully recovered from an attack of tonsillitis and near-pneumonia.
