FIRST MEETING STUDENT BODY ON FRIDAY UNIVERSITY WELCOMES GREATEST FRESHMAN CLASS

DANA C. KING DROWNED THURSDAY WHILE SWIMMING IN CAMPUS LAKE

Accident Occurs at the University Pond Last Week.

UPPER-CLASS MAN DROWNS

Funeral Ceremony Held From Mackay Quadrangle Last Sunday.

The faculty and students of the University were shocked and stunned by the accidental drowning of Dana C. King, '18, in the campus lake on last Thursday evening. King, with four of his fraternity brothers, Richard Sheehy, Frank Fake, Moorman Parks and Bob Farrer went to the lake for a swim as had been his custom for several days.

King had swam the length of the lake and was coming back, swimming in advance of the others, when he suddenly cried feebly for help and disappeared from sight. The point where he sank was only about thirty feet from shore but the water was deep and muddy and his companions dove for some time without securing a hold on his body. Finally a rope was secured and with this tied about him Sheehy, after several attempts, secured the body and was pulled to shore.

The pulmotor at the Mackay School of Mines was rushed to the scene and first aid methods were employed but the body had been under the water for above ten minutes and life was extinct.

King was one of the most popular men at the University. He was a member of T H P O and was assistant manager of the Sagebrush. He would have been advanced to the managership in his senior year.

The funeral was held at 4 o'clock on the quadrangle in front of the Mackay statue. Preceding the funeral a company of the University cadets escorted his body from the Perkins-Gulling undertaking parlors to the University gymnasium, where a military guard stood over the remains for an hour and a half. At 4 o'clock the body was carried by the pall-bearers to the awning on the quadrangle. Reverend Samuel Unsworth, vicar of Trinity church, read the service and Reverend Brewster Adams pronounced the eulogy. Dean Scragham of the college of engineering, in which King was registered, spoke in behalf of the faculty and Harry Hovey, president of the Associated Students, spoke in behalf of the students. Several hymns were rendered by a quartet of University students.

Following the reading of the service the body was conducted to the city limits under the military escort. From there a firing squad accompanied the body to Masonic cemetery, where a prayer was offered by Rev. Trout, after which the firing squad fired a salute of three volleys and taps were sounded by Band Director Darcy.

There was a profusion of beautiful flowers from friends and the various University organizations.

The pall-bearers were six of King's fraternity brothers, Frank Fake, Robert Farrer, Richard Sheehy, Moorman Parks, Elwood Bane and Frank Petersen.

EDUCATION SECURES DEPARTMENT HEAD

GEORGE HENRY JAMES, NATIONAL AUTHORITY AND SCHOLAR, COMES TO TEACH.

The department of education has been greatly strengthened during the summer. Professor George Francis James, for ten years dean of the college of education at the University of Minnesota, has been made head of the department and also director of the summer school. Professor James is a widely-known authority on educational matters and Nevada can count herself fortunate in securing such a scholar and leader.

Professor James will have as assistants Mr. James Resd Young and Mr. Fred W. Traner. Mr. Young has degrees from Berea college and Stanford university. He has taught at Stanford university, San Diego normal school, University of Chicago and Oberlin college. Mr. Traner is a graduate of Beloit and has been superintendent of schools in Lancaster, Wisconsin, for five years. He will have charge of the work of supervising the practice teaching and will be a critic teacher.

ing Co., accompanied by his wife, was at the funeral, having arrived Friday morning after traveling all night. Miss Phoebe King, '18, a sister, arrived Friday evening, and was met at the depot by her sorority sisters of the Delta Rho.

In addition to his family King leaves to mourn his death a host of friends both at the University and at his home.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL WILL BE THEME FOR RALLY FRIDAY

BIG MEETING OF ALL MEN IN GYMNASIUM IN THE EVENING AT 7:30.

There will be a big football rally and smoker at the gymnasium on Friday evening at 7:45. Dean Scragham, Prof. Haseman, Coach Jack Glasscock and Captain McCubbin will make speeches and outline the campaign for the coming year. Nevada will play the old game this year and enthusiasm regarding the season's success is already rife. There will be "smokes" at the rally and the new and old men will have a good chance to shake hands, get acquainted and become imbued with some good old Nevada "pep."

FACULTY RESOLUTION

Whereas, in the death of Dana C. King the University of Nevada has lost one of the most promising and loved of its students, who through his faithful work in the class room, his generous aid in student activities, his active interest in college life, and above and throughout all his upright character, had endeared himself to his instructors;

Be it therefore resolved, That the Faculty of the University of Nevada in general meeting assembled express to the family of their beloved pupil and friend their profound sympathy in this time of trial and the hope that the memory of his manly life may in increasing measure bring to those whom he has left behind comfort and peace.

EARLY MORNING RATTLE STARTS HOSTILITIES WITH THE FRESHIES

PROSPECTS BRIGHT SEASON'S FOOTBALL

WEALTH OF OLD AND NEW MEN INDICATES STRONG TEAM THIS YEAR.

Prospects were never brighter for a winning football team than they are this year. Nevada, with her small number of men, can more easily pick a team of eleven stars instead of fifteen as was the case with the old game. Many of the men who will get out have had experience in the old game. Hardin and Root have both played stellar games in their high school days at the old game and ought to make a great pair of ends. Both are big and fast. Jones, who was a substitute last year, has also played the American game and Healy played with Goldfield high school in 1909. The freshmen class will contribute some big husky men for the line and a fast heavy team will be developed under the tutelage of Coach Glasscock. Jack has been on the coast studying the fine points of the game for the past few weeks and he has some trick plays and mass formations to spring at the proper moment. With speed, weight, fighting spirit and good coaching Nevada promises to be victorious in a majority of her contests.

NOTICE.

The management wishes to announce that the Sagebrush will appear next Wednesday, due to the difficulties arising from the Labor Day vacation. After next week the Sagebrush will appear each Tuesday as before.

New Students Have More Muscle but Less Knowledge.

MIDNIGHT BATTLE ON LAWN

Numerals Painted on Donkey Arouse Ire of Yearlings.

Strenuous clashing took place between the incoming freshmen and the sophomore classes on Tuesday night. The sophomores were lacking in numbers but they more than made up for their lack of muscle by their knowledge of each other and the campus. Early in the evening the freshmen, having organized the night before, went down town in a body leading a "jack" with the numerals "18" painted in bold black relief on the donkey's sides. After parading through town and shouting their defiance of all the sophomores they returned to the campus with "jack" placidly in tow.

But in the meantime the sophomores had not been idle. Armed with gorgeous posters and hastily manufactured paste they sallied forth and placed in public places in town and on the campus their instructions for the future conduct of the freshmen. With the words "19 Beware '19" the posters announce to the freshmen the rulings of the sophomore class and picture in awful terms the results of disobedience. A skull and crossbones ornament the announcements and the ending is an exhortation to the freshmen to obey their lords and masters.

The freshmen were ignorant for a time of the stealthy work of the sophomores and seemed unwilling to leave their "jack" under the campus flagpole. On one occasion "jack" became very much dissatisfied with his surroundings. He snorted and kicked and reared and almost escaped. Freshmen heads containing raw but precious brains were endangered by flying heels. Whether "jack" was delighted or angry because he wore the sophomore numerals or whether some sophomore slipped in with something which made the donkey very uncomfortable is not known. Finally, however, by the use of much freshmen eloquence and patting he was restored to normal humor.

When the sophomores had tired of

T. H. P. O. RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, the Divine Providence has deemed it fitting to remove from our midst our friend and brother, Dana C. King, who during his life with us had, through his generous and far-reaching sense of duty, endeared himself to us all, and added greatly to our fraternity.

Be it therefore resolved, That T H P O extend to the family of their beloved friend and brother our profound sympathy in this their time of sorrow, and

Be it further resolved, That the work so nobly begun by our beloved brother be carried on to its fullest extent and thereby build a memorial to his name; and

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the fraternity, a copy be sent to the family, and a copy published in the U. of N. Sagebrush.

DANA KING.

There were many fine things in the life of Dana King, '18, who was drowned in the University lake last week and none were finer than the instance brought out by Rev. Adams at the funeral. King worked in the mines at Rawhide during the summer. Many of the men with whom he worked had received no opportunity to learn the higher technical knowledge which miners and mining engineers need and use in their profession. Each night after the day's work King met these men and gave to them the knowledge of assaying, mining and surveying which he had received in his courses at the University. With him the possession of education was not something to enable a man to beat other men in the game of life. He did not believe that knowledge was solely for the purpose of making money. Education was to him something to be used to help other people, something to be received and passed on. To the man who looks on learning from this viewpoint education becomes bigger than money and place. It is something which enriches his inner life.

Another instance is remembered of King. Each year he got out for track. He never was a star and unless the unusual happened he never would have been. In the track meet with Santa Clara he ran against a man much better than he was. For a time he held the pace but finally his stride became slower and shorter, and exhausted, he stumbled and fell, unable to rise for a time. After the race someone said, "You ran a good race, Dana." "Oh, I didn't have the stuff," he said. And yet, after all, he had the "stuff." It was of the kind that kept him training day after day, knowing that other men might beat him. It was the "stuff" that made him stay with a thing to the end, doing all he could, giving all he had. It was the "stuff" that in the end wins the things which are worth while.

FRESHMEN PROBLEMS.

The problems that a man or woman has to face when they enter University are among the most serious of life. For some it is the first extended stay away from home; for all a new life is opened up and a kind of existence known only to University life is begun. Some who enter college fail to get a grip on the essential factors and for them University is an entire failure. More often a freshman will grasp at one or two of the essentials and fail to seize the rest.

One of America's foremost educators, a man now retired from active life, once said that a student got as much out of his associations with his fellows as he did from the faculty and books. Educators scoffed at the idea at first, now they realize that there was some truth in the statement. A freshman, if he gets from the University all there is for him, must realize that there is an opportunity for him to study the life about him and to learn from it; that it is life with which he must always deal and that to deal with life he must know it. For the University man there is an endless source of education in the lives and personalities of his fellows.

There is a peculiar thing called college spirit, often known as "pep." Some few freshmen fail to acquire it, others do not get much of it and the uninitiated scorn it. But no man who has passed through the experience of acquiring a lot of college "pep" will deny that it was a good thing for him. He learned that lesson that comes from standing shoulder to shoulder with young, strong life in devotion and loyalty to an institution and its traditions.

Last of all there are studies. Some men get the idea that they come to school to learn cold facts and life becomes for them a printed page and a set of books instead of live men and women. Others slight their books and they fail to acquire a knowledge of the material world which will enable them to mold their existence.

The man who becomes educated to some extent at a University is the fellow who finds not one or two sources of knowledge but many, and who takes from all these sources for his own use.

MISS 'BOB' O'NEILL LATELY MARRIED

The month of June was rife with the weddings of Nevada grads. Numbered among the prettiest of weddings was that of Miss Mary "Bob" O'Neill, '09, to Mr. Cecil P. Lyon of Long Beach, Calif. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home on the 30th of June by Father Clancey. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Clara O'Neill. Later they left on a honeymoon trip to Tahoe, San Francisco and San Diego. The newlyweds will live at Long Beach, California.

Y. W. C. A.

New girls!!! The new year has begun with a flourish, but with all the bustle of registration we haven't become very well acquainted. For that purpose the Y. W. C. A. is giving a tea Saturday afternoon at Manzanita hall for both new and old girls. Everybody come and bring your friends.

The Young Women's Christian Association is an organization, both religious and social, for all college girls, if they wish to join. If you wish to find out more about it before the first meeting, September 8, ask some of the old girls.

STUDENTS, NOTICE.

We deem it necessary to announce at this time that hereafter the Sagebrush will be delivered only to those who have subscribed for the paper for the coming year. We do this, not from a mercenary standpoint, but because we think that every loyal Nevada student owes it to his school to aid in the publication of Nevada's greatest booster, and because we think it unfair to the subscribers that every person should receive a copy whether or not he has obtained a subscription.

The money to cover cost of uniform will be deposited with the commandant or comptroller before any uniforms are ordered.

EXTENSION WORK ACTIVELY BEGUN

DIRECTOR NORCROSS STARTS ACTIVITIES OF STATE-WIDE IMPORTANCE

Extension work in agriculture and domestic science, under the Smith-Lever Act, is now being systematically organized under the new director of the extension division, Charles A. Norcross, B. A., Nevada, who was appointed on July 22d. This work is entirely in the field, covering the problem of improving the agricultural welfare of the farmers of the state and, as well, the welfare of the women, girls and boys on the farms.

The extension work under the Smith-Lever Act in the United States is scarcely a year old but in its short period of trial has demonstrated its remarkable value as a new departure in the public service. It is supported chiefly by federal appropriation so that there is very little burden on the people of the states.

The extension service has its headquarters in the dairy building, University campus. The organization at present consists of Mr. Norcross, director; Miss Norma J. Davis, state leader in home economics and girls' club work; Dr. Stephen Lockett, in animal disease control, and Prof. Verner E. Scott, in dairying. In addition to the foregoing the following specialists of the college of agriculture and experiment station on occasions will assist in extension work: Dr. W. B. Mack, Dean Charles S. Knight, Prof. S. B. Doten, Prof. F. W. Wilson, Dr. Edward Records and Prof. Phillip A. Lehenbauer.

BABY CONTEST.

Miss Davis, the head of the home economics extension department, is planning a "better babies contest" to be held at Elko during the big rodeo week, which begins September 6. Babies from Elko and vicinity will be graded according to weight, muscular development, mental activity, digestion, teeth and all points that go to make up a perfect baby. Ribbon prizes will be awarded to the winners. As an Elko scribe puts it, the contest bids fair to be a "howling success."

WOMEN'S MEETING

NEW LINGUIST BEGINS WORK

MR. CHARLES GOGGIO WILL TEACH ROMANCE LANGUAGES.

The department of romance languages has received as instructor Mr. Charles Goggio. Mr. Goggio has studied in Italy and at Harvard and Wisconsin. He has taught at Dartmouth, Trinity, Swathmore and Wisconsin and is a linguist of high order. It will be part of his work to give to the engineering students who expect to take up work in the Spanish-American countries a knowledge of idiomatic and conversational Spanish and French which will greatly aid them in their work. The problems of engineers are often increased by the lack of an intimate knowledge of the language of the men with whom they are working. Mr. Goggio will endeavor to give to the men in the engineering colleges an understanding of the language and customs of the people among whom many of them will begin their work.

MANAGER ROSS MAKES SCHEDULE

MANY GAMES OF AMERICAN FOOTBALL IN RENO THE COMING YEAR.

Graduate Manager Ross announces that a tentative football schedule has been arranged. In the first part of the season most of the games will be played at Reno. Later the team will go on the road for several games. Prospects are bright for a good team this year and the much needed competition will be furnished in a measure by the following schedule:

September 25—Nevada vs. Sacramento Athletic club at Reno.
September 29—Nevada vs. Reno team at Reno.
October 2—Nevada vs. Stewart Indians at Reno.
October 9—Nevada vs. Olympic club at Reno.

MORE CHANGES AGGIE COLLEGE

GROWTH OF THIS DEPARTMENT MAKES MOVING NECESSARY.

The continued growth of the college of agriculture and the department of biology has made the need of larger quarters for biological laboratories and lecture rooms an urgent necessity. During the summer these departments have been moved from their old situation in Hatch station to larger and more commodious quarters on the second and third floors of Stewart hall. They will doubtless remain there until the agricultural building is built.

The office of the dean of the college of agriculture has been moved to the dairy building. The office of director of agricultural extension, Mr. Norcross, is adjoining that of Dean Knight's.

The dean of women will occupy an office adjoining that of the president. The president will occupy the president's house instead of living in town, as was the case last year when the house was being renovated.

This will enable him to keep in closer touch with University life and he will be able to meet the students on those intimate terms which are helpful to student and president.

WOMEN CLAIM HIGH OFFICES

The administrative officers of co-educational institutions throughout the United States in the last few years have recognized the claims of the women students for special treatment. It could not but be true that institutions officered by men largely would have their general direction very largely suited more to the men students than to the women. The phenomenal increase of women students in the state universities forced upon the administrative officers a consideration of the distinction between a woman's qualifications in education and a man's, since the vocations open to women are of necessity different from those which men pursue. The office of dean of women, therefore, has been growing in importance until it is second only to the president.

That the general public may understand what is conceived to be the duty of the dean of women, we quote from a recent book, entitled "The Dean of Women," by Lois Kimball Mathews, Ph. D., dean of women of the University of Wisconsin, wherein the duty is set forth as follows: "The underlying principles upon which the office proceeds are: first, the right of a woman to the highest possible development, intellectual, moral, social and spiritual, to the end that she may be the best kind of woman; second, the right of a woman to the highest social development in the sense of responsibility to and realization of the group in which she finds herself—the family, the civic community, the economic group and the state. The organization of the office should be the attempt to realize in a practical way the ideals their underlying principles represent. More than charm and natural social gifts are required of a leader in woman's education; the times call for an intellectual, spiritual and social equipment of the highest order on the part of those who are to contribute a sane, clear-cut and large-minded point of view.

"The work of a dean of women is susceptible of a classification which may be helpful in clarifying a discussion of its place and its value in a community, as well as giving concrete forms to the ideals which are its foundation and in the last analysis its justification. This classification divides her duties into administrative, academic and social. Sometimes these divisions overlap, but on the whole they are distinct. Since this organization is already in operation in at least one state university, it has the advantage of being a reality and not a theoretical scheme.

"Under administrative duties come the participation in the work of trustee's committees, concerned with affairs affecting women, in the work of faculty committees dealing with the curriculum, discipline, loan funds and scholarships, hygiene and special committees with students on all kinds of student problems. There falls also under administrative duties the organization of an annual vocational conference for setting forth opportunities of which students may avail themselves in occupations other than teaching; the work of vocational guidance in so far as such work is advisable; the oversight of rooming-houses, and the task of finding employment for young women who must wholly or in part work their way.

"Under academic duties come the actual teaching work which the dean of women may do and any other tasks which her colleagues as faculty members may perform. Her academic and administrative duties overlap in such matters as investigation of reported absence of students from class, of failure to make up back work, and of the cause of failure in a given course.

"Her social duties are limited only by her strength and the hours in the day. She must meet freshmen and returning students informally at the beginning of the year, both in her office and out of it. She must be present, when possible, at student functions, but as a guest of honor, not as chaperon. She must keep an "at home" day once a week throughout the year in a place where students may come readily and without embarrassment for the simple hospitality which she dispenses. She must dine out with students as she may be asked; she must entertain at times for university guests as well as for her own. She must try to see the parents when they come to visit their children. In and around her social duties, using that phrase in its broadest sense, is her constant obligation to meet organized students or groups on their invitation, that she may set before them as an older woman the problems which confront them in college and out of it. Administrative, academic, and social, such is the three-fold aspect of the work of a dean of women in a state university."

With this interpretation of the functions of a dean of women the administrative officers of the University of Nevada agreed and, therefore, they have elected to carry out this function, a lady trained with this concept of her duties in view. Miss Louise Fargo Brown, Ph. D., was elected to this position at a recent meeting of the Board of Regents. Miss Brown's academic career is a very brilliant one. She probably has the distinction of having won some of the most signal honors of our great universities and learned societies. Miss Brown took her A. B. degree at Cornell University in 1903 and her Ph. D. degree at the same institution in 1909. She twice won the Andrew D. White traveling fellowship; has done research work in London and Oxford and at the universities of Geneva, Zurich and Basel; and was a student in the London School of Economics. Miss Brown also has been the winner of scholarships and prizes in her undergraduate work and in 1914 was awarded the Alice Freeman Palmer Memorial Fellowship of the Association of Collegiate Alumni, which scholarship has been postponed until conditions in Europe are more favorable.

LATE WEDDINGS

U. N. ALUMNI

ETHEL THOMPSON WEDS ED. ZIMMER—PAUL ARNOT MARRIED.

Miss Ethel Thompson, '12, was married on June 27 to Mr. Frank Zimmer of Franktown. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Brewster Agams. After the marriage the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip in California. Miss Thompson was a member of Delta Rho sorority.

J. P. Arnot, formerly a student at the University, was married in August to Miss Hope Beach of Placerville, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Arnot will reside in New York, where Mr. Arnot is on the cartoonist staff of the Hearst papers. Mr. Arnot will be remembered as cartoonist and artist for the Sagebrush and Artesmesia. Many of his drawings appear in old issues of these University publications.

HAND—LUKE.

Frank H. Luke, '03, and Miss Catherine Hand, '05, were married at Golden Gate park, San Francisco, on June 3rd. The marriage was the outgrowth of an old college romance. Mr. Luke has been in Africa for eleven years. When he returned he found his old sweetheart waiting for him and it required no urging for him to make her his wife. Mr. Luke is superintendent of the Albontia Koon mines, Tarquah, West Africa. The mines are operated by an English syndicate.

LEE—BARRETT

Amid an assemblage of Reno's smart set, Miss Marjory Lee, former student at the University, became the bride of Mr. William E. Barrett. The ceremony was performed at the Congregational church. Following the marriage rites a reception was held at the Lee home. The young couple left for a visit to the expositions. Mr. and Mrs. Barrett will live in Massachusetts.

CHANGES ENGLISH DEPT.

The following changes have been made in the English department by Prof. H. W. Hill, with the approval of President Hendricks:

English 21 will not be given this year.

English 31 will be given by Professor A. E. Hill instead of Professor H. W. Hill.

English 2 a is a three-hour course instead of a two-hour course, and it will be given by Professor H. W. Hill instead of Professor A. E. Hill.

English 1, section 1, will be given by Professor A. E. Hill instead of Professor H. W. Hill.

DR. BOYD HAPPY.

Dr. Mark F. Boyd of the department of biology was made happy during the summer by the birth of a lusty son.

AUGUST BRIDE

SENATOR AND MRS. THATCHER VISIT CANAL—WILL LIVE IN ELKO.

Miss Vira Calhoun, a student last year at the University, was married to State Senator L. R. Thatcher of Eureka county at Elko on August 19. The romance had its inception during the last session of the legislature, where Miss Calhoun was assistant secretary of the senate. Senator Thatcher is a mining engineer of some note and was prominent in activities of the last legislature. Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher will enjoy a sailing trip from San Diego to New York through the Panama Canal and will later reside in Elko.

PROF. LINCOLN'S SUMMER TRIP

DIRECTOR OF MACKAY SCHOOL INSPECTS MANY NEVADA MINES.

Prof. Lincoln, director of the Mackay School of Mines, made an extended trip during the summer. In the early part of vacation he inspected an antimony property near Jungo, Nevada, which is being operated by a New York syndicate. Later Prof. Lincoln visited New York and Boston. He also published in the last few months articles in the Mining and Scientific Press, Mechanical Mining Journal and Mining Journal. The last, on the recent strike at Volcano, near Tonopah, is of interest to mining students. The country rock is rhyolite, the ore is a dark quartz showing free gold. The dark color of the quartz is caused by the presence of silver sulphides. An assay made at the assaying department of the University gave $200 per ton in silver and gold. Sufficient work has not been done to determine whether the values will persist in depth but there are strong indications of a paying mine.

BIGGEST FRESHIE CLASS.

The new freshmen class is the biggest in the history of the University. On the days of registration the halls and committee rooms in Morrill hall were crowded and the registration committees were unable to register all those who desired admission. The number of students at the University has been growing rapidly in the last few years and the per cent of increase this year promises to be bigger than ever before. The make-up of the new class is gratifying. The men are big and husky and the co-eds are all that could be desired.

MODERN DANCE

COURSE IN BALL-ROOM DANCING TO BE STARTED IN GYM NEXT WEEK.

Among the many new courses on the hill, that of "ball-room dancing," although not included in the regular curriculum, is attracting considerable attention. Mr. and Mrs. Van Roosendael have been authorized by President Hendrick to form classes in the latest dances in the University gymnasium.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Roosendael have had long experience as dancing instructors and have made college work a specialty. Among the universities where they have completed the course in dancing are Washington State College, Oregon Agricultural College and the universities of Oregon and California. Their latest success was the winning of the dancing contest at the P. P. I. exposition.

As a guarantee to the students, Harry Hovey, A. S. U. N. president, will place the money in the bank until the full course is completed. The course comprises six lessons, Mondays and Wednesdays, or Tuesdays and Thursdays, and will extend over a period of three weeks. Registration is now open in the comptroller's office. Instruction begins September 7.

EARLY MORNING BATTLE STARTS HOSTILITIES

(Continued from page 1) Pasting posters they suddenly became imbued with courage and attacked the freshmen under the flagpole. They were greatly outnumbered and for a time it looked as if they would be beaten. But at last sophomore brains triumphed over freshmen brawn and the youngsters were tied hands and feet and piled in a heap. Sometime before dawn the freshmen were loosed and trooped home sadder but wiser men.

PLANS FOR SWIMMING POOL ARE SERIOUSLY CONSIDERED

Miss Elsie Sameth, instructor in physical education for women, is agitating for an open-air swimming pool to be built on the campus. A swimming place of some kind is greatly needed. Few of the University students know how to swim and the lake with its abrupt changes of depth, its extreme temperature and muddy water is not suited for the teaching of swimming. The pool could be conveniently situated on the northeast of the gymnasium where it would be close to the dressing rooms and showers. According to Miss Sameth, a commodious cement pool equipped with an adequate heating plant could be built for $10,000.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The faculty desire to announce the following course:

FINE STATIONERY FOR STUDENTS' USE

MOTT STATIONERY COMPANY

DINNY IS MOVED.

The fact that the University is growing is attested by the removal of the state hygienic laboratory and the foods and drugs departments to the brick building on Sierra street which was formerly used by the Episcopal church as a parish house. The inside of the building has been rearranged and convenient quarters installed.

The home of Prof. Walter S. Palmer of the mining department has been gladdened during the summer by the arrival of a fine, healthy boy.

NEW PUMPING FUND

The president's office reports that a fund of $8000 has been secured to be used by University experts to carry on pumping experiments. The money will come directly from the federal bureau of irrigation investigation and it is understood that it will be available immediately. The money will be expended under University guidance and will be used in experiments to ascertain the best methods of tapping Nevada's underground sources of water.
