

BARRACKS IS BEING RUSHED TO COMPLETION

New Building Will Accommodate Two Hundred Fifty Men

The barracks to be used by the two hundred and fifty Section B men that are coming on the fifteenth of October are located at the rear of Lincoln Hall.

The building is a two-story structure built of pine. The upper story to be used as a dormitory and it is divided into two spacious rooms which will accommodate one hundred men each. The lower story is to be primarily the mess hall though there will be at the west end a small dormitory to accommodate fifty men, and also a row of rooms for the officers in charge. At the east end is an addition to the main building which is to be the mess kitchen.

The building in general was planned to be as warm as possible and the sides are made of rough pine, covered with building paper and then with rustic. The floor is rough pine over which a tongue-and-groove flooring has been laid. According to government regulations plenty of light and air is required so this is supplied by many windows and doors which make up a great part of the sides of the structure. To insure warmth each of the dormitories and the mess hall have been supplied with a large hot blast stove which will be located in the middle of each room.

The rooms will be well lighted at night with several rows of electric lights in each. There will be no water in the building with the exception of the mess kitchen. At the rear of the barracks is a small building which contains showers and other plumbing facilities.

The mess hall will be furnished with pine benches and tables, built so they can easily be taken apart and scrubbed after each meal. The mess kitchen has a long counter in the front part and the sinks and two big ranges are in the back with plenty of tables in the center to facilitate the handling of all eatables.

The training detachment now at the University has been a big help in building the barracks as there have been ten men from the detachment on the job since it started. The college men helped at several times also. It is expected that the building will be completed and ready for the new detachment when they arrive here on the fifteenth.

NEVADA STUDENT SEVERELY WOUNDED

As the paper goes to press word is received that Virgil Roullard, of Clovis, Cal., has been severely wounded. He will be remembered by the old students as a popular member of the class of '20.

FUTURE BERNHARDTS PLANS THEIR PLAY

Delta Alpha Epsilon Will Give a Benefit

The first meeting of Delta Alpha Epsilon, the girls' dramatic society, was held Wednesday evening in the study at Manzanita Hall. As Zelma Francis has left Reno the society elected Isabel Slavin to fill her place as president, and Laura Ambler was elected vice-president. The members were most enthusiastic and all were of the opinion that the organization should give a benefit play during the semester, the proceeds of which shall be given to relief work. Owing to the wide choice of plays no one play was singled out for production but several possibilities were selected to be read and tried out.

Delta Alpha Epsilon is a girls' honorary society and its membership is limited to those girls who are majoring or minoring in English with an average grade above eighty-five per cent. Several successful plays have been staged the last three years and the members hope to be as fortunate this year as in the past. Dr. H. W. Hill is faculty director and advisor.

BLUE TRIANGLE BEGINS DISCUSSION CLUBS

Beginning the fourteenth of October the Y. W. C. A. will start a series of discussion clubs for the girls on the campus and it is to be hoped that every girl will be able to join one or the other of these clubs, under the general direction of Alice Boynton. The leaders of the different groups will be Dorothy Higgins, Evelyn LaKamp, Laura Ambler and Edna Greenough.

The purpose of these clubs is to bring the girls together to discuss the issues of the day in relation to the moral and ethical growth that will surely be the outcome of the great war. The thinking world must recognize that great changes will come in religion and the general viewpoint of all phases of life and it is the purpose of the Y. W. C. A. to bring these probable changes before the college women in the discussion clubs.

Hours and names of the leaders will be posted in a prominent place and it is requested that the girls sign up as soon as possible.

FORMER COMMANDANT ADVANCED IN RANK

Friends of Captain Applewhite, who was commandant at the University three years ago, will be glad to hear that he has been advanced to the rank of lieutenant-colonel and that he is head of a military academy of considerable size at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, New York.

NEVADA MEN ADVANCED

Word comes from different ends of the country that the worth of Nevada men has again been recognized in the promotions of Paul Barker and William Malarky. Both were second lieutenants but they have now received the rank of first lieutenants. Lieutenant Barker is still at Camp Gordon and "Bill" Malarky is at Camp Fremont.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE STARTS IN SECTION A

Section B Will Start After the Middle of the Month

There is assurance that Nevada will have a good season of athletics as soon as things are settled. The collegiate division will begin training soon, but the present vocational detachment will not commence as they have only five more days to remain here.

The plan is to start the collegiate division and schedule a game with the Carson Indians about the nineteenth of October, and when the new vocational section is established a team will be picked from their numbers to play the Indians.

From the two divisions the best material will be selected to represent the University of Nevada S. A. T. C. unit. The men selected will be chosen entirely upon their merits, and there will be no restriction on the number of men from either division. That is, if one division has the maximum of good material it will probably have the greatest representation, the object being to have one team to represent the whole S. A. T. C. unit.

Latest information on the subject states that the team will be allowed forty-eight hours twice a month for games outside such as might be played on the coast. A match has been scheduled for Thanksgiving with the Mather Field Aviation Corps. The game will probably be played on Mackay field.

THE MEANING OF YOUR SUBSCRIPTION TO THE FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

What is the Liberty Loan?
It's forts and it's ships and it's shining guns.

It's squadrons that sweep the sea.
It's all of the circling band of steel
That shall keep all the home shores free.

It's grub and it's warmth for the sailor lad
Far out on the wintry foam.

For the brave jack tar, as he fights afar,
It's the good old "Money from home."

What is the Liberty Loan?
It's rifle and helm and it's bayonet,

It's shovel and shard and shell
For the soldier boy in the olive drab,
Out there on the edge of hell.

It's the soaring wings of the whirring planes
That battle on high alone.

For the lad who is daring "Over there"
It's the good old "Money from home."

What is the Liberty Loan?
It's success and life for a bleeding world.

It's the glimmer of Peace at dawn.

It's the strength of a mighty arm to strike.

It's the gleam of a great sword, drawn.

But, more than all, it's the pledge of love

To the lads whom we call "Our own."

To the boys on land, afloat, on high,
It's the good old "Money from home."

—By RALPH E. M'MILLIN.

Bobby found some dynamite

And placed it on the range;
His ma gazed o'er the kitchen site
And thought his absence strange.

"Cold, dear?"

"'Bout to freeze."

"Want my coat, dear?"

"No, just the sleeve."

LAST MALE CIVILIAN FLEES THE CAMPUS

Amazons Displace Men; Khaki is the Only Available Protection

The worst has come to the worst. It has even happened to the Morrill bell. That article, long carressed by masculine hands alone, now has its cord jerked spasmodically by P. Brown. No, P. stands for neither Paul, Phran or Philip, or anything other than Phyllis and she's an honest to gosh woman who wears skirts. Think of it. Even that line has been crossed and the men stand defenseless. That is, those not in uniform, or rather those members of the masculine sex not inside an O. D. shirt.

The bell tolled out its mournful note at eight G. M. and a mere handful of civilian beings once called gentlemen but who now go and come without calling skuttled uneasily around the corner of a building and disappeared inside. As the leader slipped between the oldest pair of swinging doors on the Campus he tripped over a broom and fell to the floor. His anaemic face reddened as he prepared an oath. Horrors! There was a female on the other end of the broom handle. With his remaining strength he sprang to the stairs and followed by his shivering crew he sought the dark upper recesses of the building. Not until securely hidden did the leader whisper, "Only a minute till the first class. Once inside and we're safe and no one can ask you why you're not working or fighting."

Clang, whanged the bell just above their heads and they scattered like a covey of frightened quail.

Nine o'clock found them in the basement of Mackay building and each with a woeful tale to relate. All had been driven from their classes by the antagonistic glances and inquisitive looks of the amazons and had fled to the four corners of the Campus. Some turned up missing, doubtless being unable to face their brothers in distress with their sad news.

Number one related a woeful tale. He had fled to the gow house expecting to sit at a sumptuous repast with the janitor while that individual scientifically planned the past week's work. As he gave the prescribed knock he heard a sound as terrible as it was unmistakable. A mop in swaddling clothes was being tangoed swiftly over the floor. Heaven! What sacrilege. As the sound came nearer the martyr, once secretary of the Janitors' Club, flung wide the door and prepared to step within and demand an explanation of his erring brother. One look was enough. As he fled he asked his better judgment why it had not reminded him of the fact that no man could ever have committed such a crime.

Number two, after fleeing his class, made for the chem. building where he thought to hide himself among the vapory odors of some experiment. As he stepped to the stock room window his masculine English was stifled by the strangest of sights. Half way up the ladder on the inside he beheld a pair of feet such as no man ever had the fortune or misfortune to possess. Above these there was a short expanse of ankle and then began the great curiosity. It wasn't overalls, it wasn't coveralls. As the truth flashed upon him he fled from the place stunned.

NEVADA DELEGATES ATTEND MEETING

Miss Mack and Miss Shade Spend Week-End at Big Conference

Miss Margaret Mack and Miss Helena Shade were Nevada's representatives at a meeting of the prominent educators and Y. W. C. A. workers of the Pacific Coast, which was held last Saturday at the Stewart Hotel in San Francisco. Among those who are noted in educational circles were President Wilbur of Stanford University, President Reinhard of Mills College, Miss Bradford, Dean of Women at Stanford and professors and teachers from all the leading normals and high schools of California.

The meeting was called to consult about the best ways of meeting the various problems that present themselves in the different colleges and schools that have been affected by war conditions with particular reference to the co-educational colleges that have newly inducted an S. A. T. C. Miss Mack and Miss Shade report the meeting most interesting and inspiring and both ladies have expressed the wish that every student might have been present to hear the addresses made by the different educators and welfare workers.

President Wilbur of Stanford University gave the keynote of the educational problem in his speech when he said that in the future the student will strive after real attainment, thorough preparedness and efficiency rather than a degree. He pointed out the importance of women's work for the next few years and the necessity of proper training for whatever lines of work they may take up. He also urged the women of the Y. W. C. A. to continue to adapt the work which they have carried on so well to the practical needs of everyday life.

Other speakers gave valuable information and assistance and it was the firm belief of everyone present that the short session will bear great fruit in the solving of the problems that have already appeared in the academic world.

MALARKY IN LINE FOR COMMISSION

"Kink" Malarky, who visited his relatives and friends in Reno last week, has been sent to Ft. Monroe, Va., where he will begin his training in the officers' school for heavy artillery. He expects to complete his course there by the first of January.

She: "Why weren't you at the station to meet me as usual?"

He: "My dear, you ought to get into this habit of meetless days."

A man who won't lend is the Kaiser's friend.

THE WOMEN CAN CONTINUE

The men of the college, with the exception of a very few, are now in the S. A. T. C. and this is the time for the women to show what is in them. There are many college customs and traditions which should be observed and as there are practically no men, the women must continue them if they are not to be forgotten in the course of the next two or three years. If the war should end this fall, which seems too good to be true, it will require a long period of time for the colleges and universities to get back to the normal state. The old customs may have disappeared, remaining only in the memories of grads. To prevent this, it is up to the women of Nevada to keep these traditions alive until the boys come home.

The practice of giving the class and college yells in the dining-hall every Friday evening should be continued and the girls can yell as well as sing the college song. Then there is the matter of what shall not be done. Cutting campus, unlawful habitation of the Senior bench and irregular attendance at A. S. U. N. and Women's League meetings and assemblies should not be tolerated by the women any more than by the men in the past. Popular opinion should discourage all deviations from the beaten path of tradition, where the traditions are good. These mentioned, with others, are good and dear to the heart of every student who has ever attended the University of Nevada. It should be the earnest effort of every woman student to do her share in keeping them for the future.

POOR FORDS

"When they paved the state highway they sprinkled insect powder all over it."

"Why was that?"

"To kill the road lice."

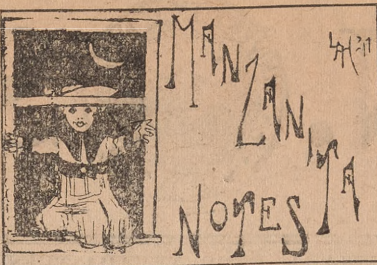

If a body see a body
Flunkin' in a quiz,
And a body helps a body
Is it anybody's biz?

Pro-German: "Do you know that the Germans have a gun that will kill people twenty miles away?"

Yankee: "That's nothing; all our gunners need is your address."

"Mother, is that bay rum in that bottle?"

"No, Willie, that's glue."
"Well, maybe that's why I can't get my hat off."

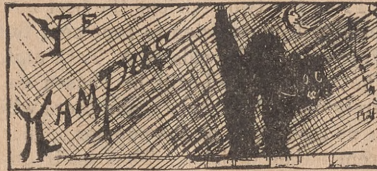

The Manzanita girls are going to do their bit and help fill Washoe county's quota in the Liberty Loan campaign by investing in a $50 bond. This is the second bond that Manzanita has to its credit and we intend to keep up the good work and help our boys go over the top.

Miss Mack went to San Francisco Friday evening to attend a conference of Deans of Women. She was accompanied by Helena Shade who went down in the interests of the Y. W. C. A.

Myrtle Brown, '18, spent last week end in Reno and stayed one night at Manzanita. She is teaching at Lovelock.

Katherine Rupp, '19, has been visiting friends in the hall this week.

HELL N' PANIC

The frat girls were rushin' the Freshmen,

The Freshmen were crushed on the frat girls,

The Pi Phis were squawkin'

The Tri Deltis were balkin',

Is'bel disputin' n' D. K. T. rootin';

The I. O.s they called special meetin's,

The Frosh they got in on a feed,

But Good Lord, I'm fearin'

The whole thing they're queerin'

If they don't mind their q's and their p's.

We thought that the tram connecting the dining hall and Manzanita was built so that the girls could come to the dining hall, but of late it has fallen into use after each meal by a certain young couple from Tonopah, until the usual "Company Fall In" is given and he has to tear himself away.

That's all right though, Frosh, there are no Queening rules in the army.

* * *

Have you noticed the keen competition between two of our dignified upper-classmen of late? Well, if you haven't, just notice Empty and Red fight for dates with the new Freshmen Janes, and sometimes both get turned away with a wiser looking face as the new Frosh boys are not new at the game, either.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM WOOSTER

Somewhere in France,
August 13, 1918.

Dear Friend:

Just to say howdy—and to casually remark that we have left the other camp for this spot situated in the advance war zone. Now when I say advanced war zone don't take it to mean that I am wrapped up in a gas mask or that the sun's rays slant off a tin hat or that my sleep is disturbed by the unceasing growl of a howitzer or that I daily dodge "whiz-bangs" for such an hypothesis or supposition is immensely wrong. No more peaceful place ever cast its hypnotic paralysis on the mind of man. Rip Van Winkle would have chosen just such a dreary hope-to-be-forgotten place as this. Joan of Arc was born near here but her energetic mind could not stand the palsy of its nothing-ness so she moved on. It is said that Sarah Bernhardt also came into being three miles from here—and she left, too. Great men and great women have been born here but their greatness lies not in their having been born here but in the fact that they left while young. Even old Napoleon showed his first glimpses of greatness near here but he left too—and I hope to leave. Once the Frank and Hun pulled a song and dance on these silent cereal-bearing plains and near here Charles Martel (you recall dear old Charlie of history and how we messed his fair life?) led his clan to put the quietus on the lowly Saracem who was headed toward the North Pole. After it all comes Young America to flat-foot it over the plains and with pick and muck-stick we fling our energy at dear old mother terra firma and defy Roman of old, Hun of yesterday and Saracem of forgotten days in an effort to reduce K. Bill's little heroic dream.

However we see a little of the fight. From these plains we see planes. Each day the hum and roar of 5000 R. P. M. tells us that a plane is overhead. Where they come from I do not know—where they go I know not—but I like to see them on their way and only regret that Uncle Sam wouldn't pass on my eyes for I, too, would have been with Vernon, McCubbin and the rest.

On the way up I had a flying glimpse of Tours, Orleans and Troyes but am sorry that I couldn't see more of them.

Sunday I took a trip to our near-by "city"—but to call it a city is a misnomer. Three kings once met there and decreed that via the sword Mr. Napoleon should take a trip to St. Helena. Then it was that they called it a city. It was lost in history until some recruiting officer said, "Don't read history, make it," and the A. E. F. put it on the map again.

I understand that they now call the soldiers in the States "chocolate soldiers." Is that right? Not a hell of a lot of chocolate over here although it is far better than my fondest hopes. Have been here four months today and we are now due a seven day furlough. When my finances arrive and my turn comes I hope to take in Aix-la-Bains, the government "Blighty" for the A. E. F. It is some place as I understand and is well worth the trip.

Received a letter from Frances Jones the other day. She writes that her dad is going to fling wide the doors of Jones' Chateau after the war and all Taus are to hold a reunion. She mailed a Sabbrush which I recently received but I then had one.

To your mother I say howdy and for yourself, best wishes.

WOOST.

The more bonds you buy the fewer boys will die.

WHERE THEY ARE

The Service Roll published in this issue is incomplete in many instances. The staff has not heard from many of the men since last spring before college closed and many are moving from one place to another as the list is compiled. If any of the readers of the "Sagebrush" will send in any recent information as to the whereabouts of Nevada men in the service it will be greatly appreciated by the staff.

NEVADA WOMEN
TAKE UP FOOTBALL

Coach Whisman Has Great Confidence in Team of Huskies

The department of physical education has added to its course P. E. 7 and 8, which consists of athletics alone. At the present time this course has taken up the game of football under the direction of Coach Whisman, and a class of fifteen girls are endeavoring to master the fine points of the game. Their work so far has consisted of team work, the running of signals, the formation of different plays, and the rudiments of some of the simpler points of the game. The girls have made wonderful headway.

Coach Whisman has lined the girls up as follows:

Left guard—Tait.
Center—Cotts.
Right guard—Griswold.
Right tackle—Riley.
Right end—Twomey.
Right halfback—Organ.
Left halfback—Harris.
Full back—Fuss.
Quarterback—Shields, captain.

WISCONSIN PUTS THE LIE ON NEW RUMOR

A false rumor—probably from German sources—that eating corn sirup will result in diabetes is being circulated in Wisconsin. In order to correct this rumor, Dr. J. F. Evans, of the medical department of the University of Wisconsin, has given out the following statement:

"Corn sirup is a splendid heat-producing and energy-giving food.

"It contains glucose, dextrose, sugar and dextrine.

"Dextrine is the result of the partial digestion of starch and is one step in the change of food to glucose. The body can not use starch as a food until the digestion operates and changes it to glucose. One-half of cane or beet sugar and part of meat must be changed by the digestion into glucose before it gives energy and heat to the body. If it were not for this change into glucose we would die for lack of power to produce enough heat and energy for work.

"The fullest experiments have shown no difference in food value between nature's glucose and the commercial glucose called corn sirup. It is a fine substitute for sugar in canning."

He rode a horse with a short tailed coat.

NEVADA GRADUATE RECEIVES COMMISSION

"Wee Willie" Makes Good in Engineers Department

Word has been received this week that William T. Holcomb, a graduate of the class of 1918, and a member of the S. A. E. fraternity, has received a commission as second lieutenant at Camp Humphreys, Va. This adds one more name to Nevada's officer's roll and reflects on the engineering course given by the University, as well as on Bill's individual ability, for he has been in the service only five months. He went first to Camp Lewis where he stayed only a short time, and then he was sent to Camp Humphreys, where after a brief service as a private, he was put in the E. O. T. C. He received his commission in the engineering department and expects to be moved overseas soon.

HARVEY FOULKES VISITS THE CAMPUS

No more trim looking officer has appeared on the campus than Second Lieutenant Harvey Foulkes, former member of the '21 class.

Foulkes received his commission recently in the personnel department after finishing the S. A. T. C. course at San Francisco. He was in Reno on a furlough and is now stationed at Camp Lewis. Foulkes is one more of the many Nevada students to win commissions after a short period of training.

Sammy stopped a cable car By standing on the track, Which gave his system quite a jar—Sam's sisters now wear black.

FACULTY SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Interesting Program Outlined by Professors

A business meeting of the Faculty Science Club was held Tuesday, September 24th. Hereafter meetings will be held on the second and fourth Tuesday of every month, at 4:45 in Mackay Building. Topics to be discussed will be generally of popular interest and the general public and students are welcome to attend the meetings.

Last year topics connected with the war were discussed and most lectures this year will have direct bearing on the war.

This year the club will elect certain meritorious students to associate membership. These students are to be chosen from the Juniors and Seniors.

The next lecture will be given by Professor Charles Haseman on "The Airplane in the War."

LAST MALE CIVILIAN FLEES THE CAMPUS

Number three had sought the companionship of Professor Jones. That person had always proved a friend, but a strange note in his voice as it drifted into the hall caused this friendless man to put his ear to the door before entering. One sentence was enough.

"She cleaned my sink the first day. The first cleaning it had since it left the factory."

Number four, the leader of the harassed crew, had suffered no such harrowing experience but his tale added the greatest load of all to their overflowing cups. He had sought the sanctimonious sanctum of Dean Gassoway and after giving all the fifty-seven signs of the zodiac was admitted by that "Last of the Mohicans." The Dean cried out his story as he laid his head on his folded arms, those arms that bare the forms of purple mermaids, etc., put there by that same cousin of the Mikado who so tenderly scratched his trademark on the busoms of Kaiser Willie and Nickey Romanoff. Between sobs he told how he had enlisted because his force now had to be watched or they would do two jobs in the time for one. His tears flowed freely as he said that there had been fifty applications for his job received from people who wished to spend their days swinging a pair of feminine legs from the brink of his swivel chair.

Many more tales too sad and numerous to relate showed how the women had usurped all the jobs on the Campus and might even get the training quarters and how the skull of one man who resisted was hung on the Morrill board as a warning to others. Gloom settled on this remnant of the school's manhood and Janitors' Club as they sneaked for the Mackay field. Once there, joy filled their eyes and they dashed to join some strangers in a game of the long extinct football. Three steps and half of the brothers were struck dead and the rest fled down the Orr ditch. The game was amoufflage and so were the men.

Toward evening the survivors planned to sneak once more to the campus for one last look at their Alma Mama. Their course led past the tennis courts. There many curious games in progress attracted their attention at the sight of no pair of pants clothed their longing eyes. In the distance a bugle sounded retreat. A senny seized them. Obeying their best and only military command they shed for the sage covered hills. As they crossed the last ridge these words lifted back: "There's one man they can't supant. Long live Carl Horn." "Ain't war hell?"

PRESIDENT AND MRS. CLARK ENTERTAIN

President and Mrs. Clark were hosts at a delightful dancing party given in the gymnasium on Saturday evening. After the first few dances everyone got together and sang some of the latest popular songs. This made all feel at home and from then on the good time increased until, when time came to dance "Home, Sweet Home," it was with great reluctance that the guests took partners for the last dance. The music was wonderful and the students and faculty had so much spirit that the dance was made one of the most pleasant affairs of the season.

I. O. A. O.

On Monday evening the I. O. A. O. Sorority met at the home of Phyllis Brown to initiate their new pledge, Mary Browder. After the initiation a very pleasant evening was spent in music, games and general merrymaking. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. Those present were the Misses Mary Browder, Hulda Shartel, Salome Riley, Mildred Griswold, Emily Burke, Lulu Hawkins, Leila Sloan, Jennie Howson, Lavina Shields and Phyllis Brown.

MANZANITA PARTY

Last Friday night a few hungry girls visited Conant's and brought home their spoils to the study on the second floor of Manzanita, where a group of congenial friends awaited them. They all helped prepare that famous combination known as shrimp wiggle, and there were grapes as accessories. When the food had disappeared the girls enjoyed a few amateur sports—wrestling matches and quaint gymnastics. A "uke", which was among those present, was tickled unmercifully. Stories were told of ghosts, robbers and strange visions.

The guests were, Alice Boynton, Gertrude Harris, Louise Adams, Thelma Brawn, Arvela Coffin, Editha Brown, Dorothy Percival, Miriam Pike, the hostess; Leila Ogilvie, Eva Hale, Rose Harris, Marguerite Pollans, Nellie McWilliams.

Our last Y. W. C. A. meeting was held in Stewart Hall, Tuesday, October 1st. Miss Denny gave us a peppy little speech on good war songs, which put a lot of enthusiasm into all of us. Miss Helena Shade, our secretary, revealed to us the wonders of a Hostess House, which one happened to be stationed at Camp Funston, Kansas. She also stressed the power the good peppy music has over thousands of soldiers, and how they look forward to the "sings," as they call them. She said that music has more force than most anything else in keeping the soldiers happy, and putting into them that particular feeling for "getting the Kaiser." Our next meeting is the Asilomar meeting, Wednesday, October 9th.

PARGELLIS WRITES FROM MONROE

Casd. Brks. 5-B, Ft. Monroe, Va.
My very dear Doctor:

Snow use, Doctor, I've tried twice to write you a letter that will leave out personal affairs, as you hinted—once, on train-board, with the cow-catcher ploughing up the cool, moist loam of Indiana, midst my lonely, solitary vigil as watchman of the night, and second, in this own Monroe, at the Y. M. C. A., the piano playing "Uncle Sammy Take Care of My Girl," and the phonograph coming in on the chorus, "Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here." Snow use, can't be done. Never'll try no more. I'll write you the kind of letter I prefer to write, and we'll let the personal matters crop up to the surface as they darn please.

We all enjoyed a seven days' affair through the States that turned out to be only five. The chief attraction on the way was girls—taken collectively, and if you could have heard the yell that went up, and seen the eager heads that popped out the windows when some particularly attractive vendor of feminine beauty appeared to offer us good cheer and sandwiches, you would never have feared for our health or morale. Oh, Doctor, we passed some beauties in New Mexico that furnished lively subjects of discussion in the endless Kansas prairies, one—a tall vanishing Red Cross worker, with an artificial beauty mark—that was a superfluity—cunningly nestled right below the dimple and another, a girl on the train that passed us at Gallup. Doctor, we're all proud of our Western girls. The towns that had the most entrancing welcome, and the liveliest display of Red Cross supplies received a reveille from the company bugler as we left, to show all interested that this was a booming wide-awake town, while those towns, whose inhabitants could only stand and gape, received the slow, sad wail of "Taps"—taps for a departed town.

It speaks well for America that very few towns received the requiem, not because we're imagining ourselves judges of our country's enthusiasm, but because our experience is typical of the experience of thousands of other khaki-clad men. Of all the enthusiasm, that in St. Louis reached the highest pitch. Oh, it makes one's heart leap when he sees huge factory windows crowded with employes, every one swinging a hat or a handkerchief, when everyone he passes turns about with a word of cheer on his lips, when the owner of the blue-gray limousine leans forward to smile and wave at one crossing, and a broken, one-armed gatekeeper smiles and waves a block farther on—Oh, man, but you are proud of your country.

Only in the hill country of West Virginia—among the moonshiner whisky and sad-faced women—did there seem to be any slackers—probably only undemonstrative nature and not failure to appreciate our ideals. They could only stand and wonder, answer your question in a soft Southern lisp, and smile so weak a smile when you tried to kid them that you felt sorry. West Virginia was the only state where the kids—and they throve like mosquitoes—came up and demanded a nickel, elsewhere they yelled and indulged in sad funeral remarks upon the Kaiser.

Fort Monroe doesn't make as much fuss about things as they did in the West, but they get things done. We were quartered for a time in an old brick barracks, capable of housing some 1200 men, abounding in bedbugs, and not a bit as nice as this wooden barracks on the beach where we are now stationed for perhaps a week.

This is a dandy place. The moon, outside my window, is casting a pale yellow stream over the gray waters of the James river, where they mingle with the Atlantic, and the majestic camouflaged battle ships that rest in Hampton Roads, the land ever whirling of the biplanes that glide above us, and the grim black muzzles of Battery Parrott's 14-inch rifles, all give token that America is at war.

Send me particulars of Mt. Rose and of the University, for I'm far from my home, and it's home that I would be.

Sincerely,
STANLEY.

BRIGHTON SLEEPING WEAR

FOR STYLE AND COMFORT

You get the utmost value and comfort in Brighton-Carlsbad sleeping garments, for they are cut on scientific patterns—are LARGE, ROOMY and WELL MADE to withstand wear and laundry.

There is an actual difference between sizes (a 36 is really larger than a 34; not just marked larger). Each size is correctly proportioned—not skimmed anywhere—and the many styles and trims are carefully designed to delight the wearer.

Note the style, fullness, twin-needle seams, buttons, buttonholes and attention to detail throughout. We know you will be pleased with it.

Ask to see the Brighton line. It includes Night Shirts, Night Robes, Pajamas, Pajuniors (the one-piece pajamas), and Fresh Air Sleeping Garments with hoods and foot-pockets or sox, all for men and women; Night Gowns and one-piece Sleepers for Children.
