NEVADA REPRESENTATIVES RETURN FROM CONFERENCE

Misses Mack and Shade Gather Data at Conferences Which They Attended

Early last week Miss Margaret E. Mack and Miss Helena Shade returned from conferences in the East, which they attended as representatives of the University of Nevada. Miss Mack attended the fifth National Conference of the Deans of Women, who met in convention with the Superintendents of the National Educational Association. This conference was held in Chicago, from February 25th to the 27th, inclusive. Miss Shade attended a student conference of the Y. W. C. A. at Evanston, Ill., February 20, 21, 23. Both representatives returned with enthusiastic reports of the meetings.

The meeting of the Deans was in greater part concerned with the readjustment of education of women after the war, with special reference to their industrial and economic adjustment. The practical problems in connection with the work of Deans of Women were also presented by different deans.

Miss Mack became very well acquainted with Miss Jean Palmer, head warden of Vassar, and learned some very interesting facts about the question of smoking among women at Vassar, which recently caused such an uproar. In justice to the women of Vassar, it is only fair to give the true account of the affair. The women of Vassar, feeling that smoking was a question which should be threshed out by the student body, held a meeting and decided that there should be no smoking on the grounds. This was misinterpreted by a reporter, who considered that this meant that Vassar would allow smoking in the dormitories but not on the campus. This spread throughout the entire country and the women of Vassar held an indignation meeting and set forth in clear-cut terms that there shall be no smoking on the campus or in any of the buildings.

The Y. W. C. A. conference at Evanston was largely attended by students from colleges and universities throughout the United States. The purpose of the meeting was to bring before the students of the nation the fact that we are entering on a new world, and the world conditions that influence the new era. Many men and women of note presented the problems which are to be faced. Labor conditions and labor's supremacy in the new world were emphasized as being of prime importance for realization by the college student.

POOR SHOWING MADE IN COAST SERIES GAMES

NEVADA VARSITY SUFFERS THREE DEFEATS AND WINS BUT ONE VICTORY; TEAM TAKES SEVENTH PLACE IN LEAGUE STANDING

Nevada's basketball season closed with the California game at Berkeley last week. The team gathered in but one of the seven games played in the league, finishing the season with but 142 per cent, the lowest place that Nevada has yet found it necessary to take. Evidently Nevada has recuperated less in an athletic way since the war than the other schools of the league.

The games at Nevada were all lost by rather large scores when everything was in favor of the home team. On the trip the reverse was true. The conditions under which the team played were not likely to help its chances of winning much. The scores in all these games were low, Nevada losing the Davis game by but one point, and the whole team showing much improvement over the early season form.

Davis Game

Nevada lost the game with the Davis Aggies by one point. The defeat was due largely to the conditions under which the game had to be played.

Davis was the first of the minor teams of the league that Nevada met and the team went in with a determination to win. Their efforts, however, were mostly spent in overcoming the handicap caused by the very poor lighting and small size of the floor. The game opened slowly and goals in quick succession. Davis, at center for Nevada, ran rings around his man and was responsible for the major portion of Nevada's points. The half was nearly over before Pacific was able to score a field goal, but they were there when it came to free throws. The half ended with Nevada heading and D UNUDamb (-c- AD leading and the score at 22 to 12.

With the opening of the second half Pacific had a new center and forward in the game, a shift which considerably strengthened their team. For Nevada McKenzie replaced Reed at guard. Pacific made her big effort and in a few minutes the score was tied. It was near the end of the half before Nevada could pull away again and assure herself of a victory.

St. Ignatius Game

Thursday night the St. Ignatius game was staged in San Francisco. The Priests had already shown to good advantage, winning four games and losing but one. Their two forwards proved to be the biggest part of their team as they were excellent basket shots and it is due only to Nevada's guards that the difference of the scores was not greater.

The game opened with considerable speed and Nevada scoring first. The teams seemed to be nearly matched and neither was able to get more than one or two points in the lead. The speed with which the play started did with considerable fouling on both sides. McKenzie, shooting for Nevada, succeeded in making most of the free throws. The game continued to be slow throughout the first half. During this time Nevada made but two free throws and Davis four. The half ended with the score at 10 to 12 in favor of the Aggies. The second half was for the most part a repetition of the first but slightly faster as the teams were tied most of the time. With only a minute to play Nevada lost the lead on fouls and was unable to recover in time to win and the game closed with the score at 19 to 20 with the Farm in the lead.

McKenzie was easily the star of the game, making fifteen of Nevada's nineteen points. The whole team played up well under the difficulties not the least of which was the inexperience of the referee and a two-foot rostrum which ran across the end of the floor directly under one basket. The line-up for the game was: Egan, center; O'Brien and McKenzie, forwards; Martin and Reed, guards. Waite replaced O'Brien in the second half.

During the game the Davis players proved themselves to be good sports but the same cannot be said for some of the people on the sidelines.

Pacific Game

On Thursday the team journeyed to San Jose to meet the College of Pacific. Conditions here were considerably different than at Davis for the Pacific gym is new and well lighted but an inexperienced referee was on hand here also.

The first half opened with both sides playing a snappy game, but the Pacific team seemed unable to hold or pass the ball. Pacific scored the first point on a foul but to offset it Nevada came through with several field not last long as the referee called everything which was possible to bring under the jurisdiction of the rule book. When the half closed the score was 17 to 21 in the Priests favor. Nevada came back strong for a few minutes in the second half and tied the score. This didn't last long and as soon as the Saints drew ahead they smothered the game by playing a five man defense similar to that used by Nevada last year. The game closed with St. Ignatius in the lead with the score at 24 to 31.

California Game

The last game was played in the Harmon Gym at Berkeley. The team led out again at the start of the game and succeeded in scoring three points before the Bears made their first score. Nevada was not able to keep the lead long, however, and California soon took the lead. Waite succeeded in making three baskets and McKenzie one during the first half but the Cal team scored eight in the same time. At the end of the half the score was 20 to 9 with Nevada on the short end. Both teams were in bad shape from games on the two previous nights and many substitutions were made in the second half. At center Egan replaced Hopkins and was in turn replaced by Davis. O'Brien replaced Waite and Warren took McKenzie's place. The second half was nearly a repetition of the first, California scoring eighteen points to Nevada's twelve.

Throughout the game Martin played his usual tight game while McKenzie did most of the scoring. The line-up to start the game was as follows: McKenzie and Waite, forwards; Hopkins, center; Reed and Martin, guards.

CAST CHOSEN FOR SENIOR PLAY

Class Will Present Clever Pre-War Play, Coached by Prof. Turner

At a meeting of the Senior Class Monday, March 3, a play was selected for production before the end of the term. A great deal of enthusiasm is being shown by the members of the class and they have hopes of cleaning up a goodly sum of money for the class memorial.

The play is entitled, "The Man who Went," and was written by W. A. Tremayne. It is well written, has lots of excitement, and will give the patrons of the drama an opportunity to see the presentations of love, intrigue, and villainy all in one evening. The play is set in London and the near vicinity. Jack Thornton, a young man who is in the employ of the British government, is entrusted with papers to take to Vienna just before the outbreak of the great war. His friend and the sharer of his apartments, Baron von Arnheim, learns of this and instructs Countess von Holtzberg to get the papers through her influence over Thornton. As might be suspected by the names of the Countess and Baron, the two are spies for the German government. The plot thickens—and Dick Kent—but that would be telling.

Professor Turner has kindly consented to coach the players, and at tryouts held Thursday and Friday evenings, he selected the following stars to fill the parts: Ira Redfern plays the part of Dick Kent, the hero who, by his clever strategy save England and incidentally Jack Thornton, who's part is played by Lawrence Hansen. Baron von Anheim appears in the person of Harry Stephens, and the Countess, with her wiles and feminine charms, is portrayed by Eva Hale. Evelyn Thornton, Jack's sister, is played by Isabelle Slavin, who interprets the part of the young English girl with great skill. Sir George Caxton and Lady Venetia Caxton, who furnish the humor of the play, are played by Chas. Gooding and Mary Browder. Philip Frank is the spy, who, hating France, poses as a Frenchman, and spels French off so glibly that to hear him is well worth the price of admission.

It is not definitely decided where and when the play will be given but Manager Frank is investigating possible dates and will give definite information shortly.

DISCHARGED SOLDIERS TO GET TRAVEL PAY

Congress Increases Travel Allowance From 3½ Cents to 5 Cents a Mile

It appears from recent statements in the Press that the Congress passed a law just before adjournment increasing the travel allowance of soldiers on discharge from 3½ cents to 5 cent per mile. This applies to all soldiers who have been discharged since November 11, 1918, who were entitled to travel pay to homes or place of enlistment or induction; also to former members of S. A. T. C.

Application for the increase, difference between amount received and amount due at 5 cents per mile, should be made to Zone Finance Officer, Lemon Building, Washington, D. C.

Application should be accompanied by Discharge certificate and State of Service.

NOTICE TO ENGINEERS

The Semi-Annual Engineers' Smoker will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening March 12th, at the Gymnasium. A very good program has been arranged, including several boxing matches. Some of Nevada's big men in the profession will be on hand to give some snappy talks, so all Engineering students are urged to be present and are guaranteed a good time. Remember the place and time, Gym. Wed. night, 8 o'clock.

DELTA ALPHA EPSILON TO PRODUCE "TRUTH" BY CLYDE FITCH

Play Will Be Given April 5th, at High School Auditorium

Delta Alpha Epsilon will produce "Truth," by Clyde Fitch, the fifth of April at the High School Auditorium. The actresses are working hard on their parts and under the efficient help of Dr. H. W. Hill the cast is rapidly being whipped into shape. As no men belong to the society the masculine parts are played by girls with surprising ability and realism.

The play presents the story of a girl named Becky, who can not tell the truth. Her father, Roland, is a counterpart of his daughter in that telling the truth is an utter impossibility for him. Becky is deeply in love with her husband, Tom, but she is involved in an affair with a man named Linden, through trying to reconcile him and his wife, who have separated. One small deception leads to another, and finally Tom believes that she no longer cares for him but for Linden. Becky goes to her father, who has rooms with Mrs. Crespigny, the humorous character of the play. All finally ends well, and Becky through her sorrow is firmly resolved never to tell another lie.

The leading part, of Becky, is splendidly played by Helen Cahill, Eva Hale takes the part of her husband Tom, and her father Roland is portrayed by Laura Amblor. Mrs. Crespigny keeps the audience in an uproar through Marian Hooton's interpretation and Linden, the villain, is played by Dorothy Higgins. Eva and Laura, friends of Becky's, are played by Ruth LaKamp and Nellie MacWilliams. Marguerite Drumm makes a charming little maid. This combination of stars will undoubtedly produce a play of which the society may well be proud.

FORMER STUDENTS RENEW ACQUAINTANCES ON THE HILL

"Tiny" Fake, '16, was a visitor on the hill yesterday, coming from Miami, Florida, on his way to Oakland, Cal. He was an ensign in the Naval Aviation branch.

Bob Donovan, ex-'18, came up with the team yesterday to renew old acquaintances on the hill, after being discharged from the army as a second lieutenant of infantry.

Paul Hornaday, ex-'19, stopped off at Reno on his way home from the Navy, where he was an Ensign.

Harry Day, Class of '19, appeared on the campus in full gob's uniform last week-end, and paid his respects to the gow house and old pals and gals.

Day has been at the officers' school at San Diego and is now spending the week with his folks in Carson City.

ALUMNI AND THE STUDENT PROPOSITION

We have had many suggestions as to means for bringing students to the University. Just recently a committee was appointed, at a student body meeting, to confer with the president with the idea of issuing some kind of a pamphlet to circulate among graduating high school students. For many years the University has been sending professors and men connected with this institution, over the state to talk at commencement exercises, as a means for aiding this movement. While we are working on this let us take into consideration a source, which of late years we have practically forgotten; the alumni and former students of our University. Among them we have men and women in all of the various business and professional lines living in every part of this state, and in fact, in almost every part of the globe. These people are just as loyal today, if not more so, than the day they left the environments of the campus, to take their chances with the world at large, for they have now had the opportunity to know what university training has meant to them, and also to realize, as they never did before, that the man of tomorrow, if he does not have a college education to help him, is greatly handicapped, and is practically a dead issue when it comes to climbing up the ladder of success. These past students in many cases are intimately acquainted with most of the high school students in their town and it is natural that a word from a personal friend will go further than that coming from a stranger, because he knows the peculiarities of students and knows along what lines will be the best way to approach them.

An example of this is well illustrated in a case that occurred in Tonopah. Here were a couple of young fellows working in one of the mines at an ordinary miner's pay. One day a friend of theirs who had been trained at this University, said to them, "How far can you advance in this work, which you are doing?" "Oh, to shift boss," replied one of the men. "Well how far could you go if you had a college education?" was the next question asked. The result of this conversation was that both of the men were set to thinking, and the next semester they began a college course at the University of Nevada, which they finished and today both of them are holding very responsible positions in the mining world.

There is a feeling among former students that once they are out of the University and the students who were their colleagues have departed, that their names are blotted from the annals of the University, insofar as the students are concerned, and that we have lost all interest in them.

Several of them have been known to remark that when they were in town they did not care to come to our social activities because they could not seem to break into the crowd and were caused to play the part of a wall flower during the evening. Let us not allow this feeling to exist, but as individuals take it upon ourselves to see to it that these visitors are given a special welcome, and if necessary, make some sacrifices of our own enjoyment if we can in any way aid in giving them an evening which they will not soon forget.

When we begin to show this spirit we will not, then, need to hesitate about calling upon them for any assistance. When the time of high school graduation draws near we can ask the alumni to keep impressing upon the minds of those students who are to graduate, not only the need of a college education, but also the advantages the University of Nevada has to offer, and why they can get better results by coming here than they can by going elsewhere.

THE MILLIONAIRE K. P.

Here I am, in the kitchen,
 Peeling a bucket of spuds;
 Wearing a dirty apron
 To cover my blue serge duds;
 A hundred thousand in the bank—
 "Society man"—that's me,
 But because I was late at roll call
 They gave me a week's K. P.

Sitting here in the kitchen
 With slop all over my jeans,
 Picking rocks and splinters
 Out of a barrel of beans.
 My thoughts have gone a-wondering
 Of what I used to be,
 Before I missed the last post car
 And they gave me a week's K. P.

Many the night's I've squandered
 Doing the Bar Room stunt, Gee! What a sissy I was,
 What a hopeless, helpless runt;
 But I was there with the girls, boys,
 They called me the Ladies' Man—
 What would they say if they saw me
 now
 Scrubbing a greasy pan?

The mess sergeant is a slaver,
 He gives a man no rest;
 The first cook is a villain
 But I hate the second best.
 Yes, boys, I'm enlisted,
 To march away to the wars,

But they got me here in the kitchen
 Doing my company's chores.

A week of policing the kitchen,
 Watching the biscuits brown;
 Me, who used to order
 Two thousand men around.
 I wonder what those two thousand would say
 If they could see me now,
 Washing a hundred dishes
 Ready for six o'clock-chow?

Three months ago in the green-house,
 I held Anita's hand;
 Told her I had enlisted
 To fight for my native land.
 She leaned her head on my shoulder
 Said she'd be proud of me—(She'd be proud, all right, if she saw me now,
 Doing a week's K. P.)

Dumping the slop in the hog can,
 Scrubbing the kitchen floor;
 Scraping the slimy muck pans,
 Till my hands are bleeding and sore;
 Fixing the hash for supper,
 Putting ice in the tea.
 Archibald Parciville Knutt—
 Society man—that's me.
 —Selma Irrigator.

To know one's limitations is a mark of wisdom; to rest content with them is a mark of contempt.

A. S. U. N. HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

Student Body Decides to Give Letters to Those Allowed to Wear Them

A regular meeting of the A. S. U. N. was held in the Aggie building last Friday morning.

The committee for securing a coach reported that letters had been sent out, and the work was progressing. As yet no decision has been reached, but the committee expects to have something definite to report at the next meeting.

The committee on the revising of the constitution stated that the new copies of the constitution would be on sale some time this week, at Miss Sissa's office. In this connection, it was mentioned that there had been a misunderstanding as to two or three of the athletic records, and it was decided to appoint a committee to look up and verify them.

The granting of the Circle N to the two men who have taken part in intercollegiate debates was authorized by the Student Body. These men are Harry Stephens and Lawrence Hansen.

The question of having the Student Body purchase the Block N letters for those who are entitled to them was discussed at some length. In its final form the motion, which was passed, was to the effect that the Block N, Gothic N and Circle N letters should be presented on some day to be designated and set aside for that purpose.

The matter of having the Student Body back a track team and send a few track men to the Coast to take part in the intercollegiate meets was brought up, and put in the form of a motion. After some argument, the motion was laid on the table.

Leslie Bruce announced that the Freshman Glee would take place March 21, at the Wilsonian; further details to be announced later.

Nels Carlson announced that the Engineers would hold their smoker Wednesday evening. Every engineer is expected to be present.

ARTEMISIA NEARS COMPLETION

Annual Year Book Has Many New Features

The Artemisia is at last on its way to the printer in the complete form in which it is to come out to the public. The articles are written up and most of the pictures for the cuts are already turned in. Many new ideas and some old ones with new flourishes are to be brought out in the book. The cover design is still a deep secret but there is one thing certain, it will be different from the one of last year and will be a wonderful work of art. The pen and ink drawings for the full page headlines are superior to the ones which have appeared in the preceding Artemisia. After the appearance of the book on the campus, the KAMPUS KAT will take a back seat for the rest of the semester as the jokes and razzes for the annual are of a special brand and are somewhat rich, rare and racy. If anybody has ever done anything that is supposed to be strictly private, rest assured that the Artemisia sleuths have discovered the fact and will publish it to the campus in the coming month.

The tickets for the book at reduced rates are on sale now and it will pay everybody to buy one before they are taken off sale. By the purchase of one of these tickets the buyers will save fifty cents on a copy. Tickets can be purchased from any member of the staff or one of the special ticket sellers who are now on the campus.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Helene Shade, the local Y. W. C. A. secretary, gave an interesting talk at the last meeting, which was held Wednesday afternoon. Miss Shade had just returned from the Student Conference at Chicago, and gave some very important points on national college Y. W. C. A. work. Watch the bulletin board, girls, be awake! Something interesting is in store for you. Next meeting will be Wednesday, March 12th.

PI BETA PHI
At the home of Ruth Billingham
Saturday afternoon Pi Beta Phi initiated its pledges, Miriam Fike, Rachel Sprague and Dorothy Percival. After the initiation ceremony all went to the Century Club where a banquet was given in honor of the new initiates.
The table was prettily decorated with smilax, red carnations and ribbon streamers of wine and silver blue.
Clever kewpie place cards caused much merriment for each one had special significance for its owner, including skating, singing, and dancing ke-wpies, sailors, aviators, artillery men, infantry men, Latin scholars and brides. Toasts were given by the initiates and other members. At the close of the banquet everyone joined in singing the fraternity anthem and the college song.

PI PHI COOKY SHINE
Monday night at the home of Hilda amusement of the other members.

DELTA DELTA DELTA
The members of Delta Delta Delta held their regular social meeting at the home of Margaret Bird Monday night. After a short business meeting the girls danced on the spacious dining-room floor until they were exhausted and then partook of the best eats that were ever served. Songs and games completed a perfect evening.

Commandant Shows Germany's War Plans

German military leaders had long considered and planned for the war in which Germany, allied with Austria, would be opposed by France, Russia and Great Britain. Negotiations extending over a period of ten years prior to 1914 had failed to secure a pledge of British neutrality, and Italy, though a member of the Triple Alliance, could not be counted on for assistance in such a struggle.

The combined man power of the Triple Entente greatly exceeded that of Germany and Austria, and control of the sea by Great Britain and France made eventual isolation of the Central Powers a certainty.

A protracted war which would enable her opponents to develop their potential military resources while her own were being depleted would be fatal. Hope lay in a short struggle in which Germany, by reason of her greater readiness would be able to defeat her enemies in detail before her own capital was exhausted. This hope was founded on certain military advantages which included:

Better organization for war, civil, as well as military.

Greater readiness, including vast accumulations of military supplies.

Interior lines of operations, which would enable her to move troops to any point on the battle front more rapidly than her enemies and thus offset their superiority of numbers.

Unity of command.

The German plan contemplated a quick and overwhelming stroke at France, compelling her to sue for peace and thus releasing the full power of Germany and Austria against Russia; Great Britain could be dealt with later.

To overcome France before the Russian threat attained serious proportions it was imperative to reach the heart of France and force a decisive battle in the shortest possible time.

For the rapid advance of large bodies of troops extension on a wide front is necessary and many good roads and railroads are required for transport of the impedimenta and bringing up of supplies. Mountain ranges and unfordable rivers cause delay as they offer few points of passage. Forts and fortified towns are also serious obstacles as they usually defend vital points on lines of communication and must be captured or destroyed before the advance can be continued.

The Franco-German frontier extending for 150 miles from Switzerland to Luxemburg is protected for 70 miles by the Vosges mountains which rise from one thousand to fourteen hundred meters above the valley of the Rhine. The frontier is also strongly guarded by a chain of forts and fortified towns extending from Belfort through Verdun to Longwy. Invasion over this frontier would be slow, and advance to the west would be further delayed by a series of high plateau belts lying between the frontier and Paris. These plateaus are separated by broad lowlands (the Woevre, the Dry Champaign and the Wet Champaign) which they dominate from a height of 100 to 200 meters and constitute strong defensive positions which can only be passed at a few, natural gateways guarded by fortified towns. Germany could not hope for an early decision on this line. On the other hand Belgium offered a way to the very heart of France with but few obstacles; this route was longer but numerous and excellent roads were available leading over rolling fertile plains to the extensive coal fields and industrial centers of northern France.

Belgium was weak and if she elected to resist the German advance she would be quickly overcome and all her resources would then be available for the use of the German armies.

Germany chose the route through Belgium and concentrated her forces in six armies along the Rhine from Cologne to Colmar. The first and second armies constituting the right wing were to move over the plains of northern Belgium in a wide encircling movement and advance against Paris; the third, fourth and fifth armies, constituting the center, were to advance through the Ardennes and Luxemburg, thus avoiding the frontier forts, while the sixth army would remain on the defensive along the frontier.

The movement as planned was carried out but the delay caused by the resistance of Belgium gave time for France to complete her mobilization and to readjust her alignment by recalling her troops which had been concentrated along the eastern frontier to meet the German shock. The decisive battle which Germany had planned took place along the Marne river and resulted in her defeat and the collapse of the great plan.

Russian successes in eastern Russia had now become so threatening that Germany was compelled to withdraw troops from France to meet this danger and the protracted war which Germany feared was now a certainty.

INTEREST IN GIRLS' BASKETBALL RUNS HIGH

Girls' basketball is pepped up almost to a climax. The different classes are about ready to put on their war paint and declare war, though everything has been quiet between them for some time. They have evidently buried the hatchet, but as one girl remarked the other day, "They reckoned they knew where to find it." Girls, don't forget your loyalty! Come out and root for your class! And watch the bulletin board!

MILITARY ARTICLES STILL MISSING

The following articles pertaining to the military department, and for which the University is responsible to the United States, are missing:

Two (2) Krag rifles.

One (1) bayonet and scabbard for Model 1917 rifle.

Five (5) swords and belts for non-commissioned officers.

One (1) officers' sabre and belt.

It is believed that some of these articles were loaned to fraternities, or were borrowed for decoration purposes and it is requested that any student or other person who may have information that will assist in locating the missing articles will communicate with the comptroller or with the commandant of cadets.

"THAT GRAND AND GLORIOUS FEELING"

When you go to class with a dull feeling of gloom permeating your being and a sinking premonition of a bad hour hovering over your dome—and the prof. doesn't forget to call the roll and then tells that joke about the Freshie who wasn't sure what fraternity he would favor by joining—and your best girl has decided to sluff and you forget your notebook and discover that your fountain pen is as dry as the state of Utah is supposed to be—and the class know-it-all begins to demonstrate in no uncertain terms just how much more he knows about than the prof.—and then, you put your finger in your vest pocket and find a half dollar you didn't know you had—oh, boy! ain't it a gr-rand and gl-lorious feeling?—Utah Chronicle.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR FROSH GLEE

At a meeting of the Freshman Class last Thursday, the Frosh Glee was the main subject for debate. It was decided that outsiders not connected with the University in any way, should be charged one dollar for the dance, which is to be given March 21st, at Wilsonian Hall. The dance is to be formal.
