TEAM WALLOPS ST. IGNATIUS

UNIVERSITY WINS WITH EASE FROM CATHOLIC FIVE FOR LEAGUE TITLE. SCORE 47 TO 22.

That Nevada's Varsity basketball team of this year has the strangle hold on the Pacific Coast intercollegiate was conclusively proven last Saturday night when the Silver and Blue lived up to the prediction of "Steeter" Swan of the Blues and defeated the much heralded St. Ignatius by 25 points. The game came as a fitting climax to the most successful high school tournament ever staged, and was played to before the largest crowd ever. For the first time in the history of basketball at this institution the doors of the gym had to be closed on a waiting line of over a hundred persons all anxious to get a foot-hold on some floor space in the gym. Every available inch in the none too spacious gym was occupied by an enthusiastic supporters of Nevada's championship team. And what a game it was!

The line-up that started the game for Nevada was the same as that of previous games excepting that Eddie Reed started instead of Smoky Williams who was out with the flu. The game started with a rush, and St. Ignatius scored first with a pretty basket by Johnson. Not to be outdone by the Red and Blue, Noble Waite, who was in tip top form throughout the game, came back with an even prettier basket but these two points were not allowed by Referee Glenn who claimed that a whistle had sounded just preceding the throw. After this the Bay City collegians ran the score up to 5-0 in a few minutes and it looked for the nonce as if Nevada would have to hustle to win. This, however, was a mere flash in the pan for the fighting Sagebrushers came back and soon took the lead never to be headed by the invaders. At half time the score stood 19 to 12 with the home team leading. Nevada came back with the determination to give the visitors a thrashing they would never forget, and they certainly succeeded beyond the fondest hopes of their frenzied rooters. Basket after basket was scored by the most sensational playing by every member of the team, and when the final whistle sounded Nevada had piled up their biggest score of the season, and St. Ignatius had been handed the worst defeat that had befallen to the lot of any one of the numerous teams that had been forced to bow before the superior work of Coach Courtright's charges. The final score was 47-22 and the Blues were avenged.

Although the score would seem to indicate that the game was one-sided

"PAIR OF SIXES" SCORES SUCCESS

Capacity House Sees Clonia Play, Which Makes Unusually Big Hit

Last Friday night at the Rialto theatre, the Clonia Society presented its play, "A Pair of Sixes" to the people of Reno and to the University. The play made its first appearance at Carson City on March 2nd, and its reputation followed it back to Reno. Those who saw the play here, unite in declaring that it lived up to its reputation in every particular. From all sides expressions of approval and delight have been coming in, and they are all substantiated by the performance. The work of the caste was a delight to look upon, each member throwing himself or herself into the part, and showing by their work that they had real dramatic talent, directed by an expert. The play was directed by Professor A. E. Turner, and the finished production is a credit to his ability as a dramatic director. He was fortunate in having an unusually fine lot of dramatic talent to choose from, and so well did he cast the play, that the acting was far above the usual amateur grade, and equal to the professional in many instances.

The play itself was a comedy drama of modern business life, depicting the humorous and serious situations arising when two partners in a drug manufacturing firm failed to agree. Affairs in the office of George B. Nettleton and T. Boggs Johns grew from bad to worse, until an attempt was made to dissolve the partnership. Unable to agree even upon that, the lawyer for the firm suggested that a show down hand of poker be played, the winner to manage the business for a year.

REGENTS ACCEPT TWO RESIGNATIONS

At meeting of the Regents held this week and last, resignations of two members of the faculty were accepted. Dr. Parry Borgstrom, instructor of chemistry was forced to resign on account of serious ill health, and will leave Reno at once, and take a much needed rest.

Mr. R. C. Louck, pathologist with the Veterinary Control Service, sent in his resignation, to take effect April 1st. He leaves for Berkeley in a few weeks to take a position there.

Mr. J. R. Young, who has been Professor of Education, was elected to be Professor of Psychology and head of the Department of Psychology.

DEBATERS LOSE FIRST CONTEST

Varsity Team Takes Short End of 2 to 1 Decision at Brigham Young

Last Friday, March 5th, Nevada's debating team composed of John Belford and Paul Hornaday, met the debaters of Brigham Young University, at Provo, Utah, in the first of the intercollegiate debates this year. The question was: "Resolved that the right of workers to bargain collectively through their chosen representatives should be recognized by their employers." Nevada was on the negative side of the question, and tried to show that the plan of collective bargaining was not a success. However, after a close and exciting contest, the judges awarded the decision to the Utah men, two judges being for the local men, and one for Nevada. From reports from Utah the debate was one of the fastest and best conducted intercollegiate events that Nevada has ever participated in. The Nevada men did especially fine work in delivering their speeches, while the Brigham Young team relied more or less on written speeches to bring out their points. The strategy of Belford and Hornaday was a revelation to the people who heard them, and it was the general opinion of most of the students and faculty of Nevada should have been given the decision. However, we are not making any complaints or indulging in regrets but are looking forward to next year when Brigham Young is to send a team here to debate. Our men were showed every courtesy by the people of the college, being entertained in the evening at the Junior Prom of that institution.

Many Utah people who heard the debate took occasion to praise the work of our speakers, and to wish them every success in the future. The judges were: Judge Shields, Justice of the Supreme Court of Utah; the Rev. Williams, pastor of the First M. E. church of Salt Lake City, and Professor Gibson of the University of Utah.

Stan Davis ex-'22 and Dutch Berning ex-'20 breezed into the village last Monday night and were in town until Thursday. Dutch is running a construction gang for the lumber company at Hobart Mills, Calif., while Stan is master mechanic for the Como Mines company just outside of Dayton. They were in for the Founders' Day banquet of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

DINSMORE TALKS AT A. A. E. MEETING

Local Chapter Hears Details of Pure Food Workings in Nevada

The American Association of Engineers held a special meeting Wednesday evening March 10, 1920. The Chemical department was in charge and presented Professor Dinsmore of the state pure food laboratory. He outlined the procedure of obtaining corrections in foods that are not up to standard, also spoke of how closely all canned goods are watched and what is done if found impure.

Following the interesting talk by Professor Dinsmore, Mr. Shepard of the Guggenheim interests gave a short talk on the possibilities in South America for Engineers. He outlined a plan that the Guggenheims are putting forward to University graduates to interest them in South America, describing the living conditions and also the work that is under way and the plans that are now being drawn up for an increase in output. He spoke highly of Nevada graduates who have in the past gone to South America. If there are any students in college at the present time who will graduate in May, or who are graduates and would like to look into this proposition they can do so by calling on Mr. Sheppard at the Riverside Hotel anytime before Sunday, March 14, 1920.

At the business meeting plans were discussed for Engineers day and are as follows: There will be an automobile show in the gymnasium, Mr. Johnson of San Francisco will show by means of a complete welding set, the progress made in welding during the last couple of years and in the afternoon the Engineers will play the Frosh a baseball game. This with several other stunts will make Engineers' day a success.

PHI KAPPA PHI ELECTS 9 MEMBERS

Phi Kappa Phi elected nine new members at a meeting last Saturday. This society, a local chapter of the National Honor society of the same name elects certain members of the Senior class each year on the basis of high scholarship and general worth as a student.

The following are the students elected Saturday: Ameglio Andreucetti, Herbert Bruce, Phyllis Brown, Earl Borchert, Helen Cahill, Thomas B. Jones, Alice Kincaid, Kenyon Olmsted and William Shearer.

COAST HONORS GO TO NEVADA

LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP AND STANFORD DEFEAT GIVES SILVER AND BLUE CLEAR TITLE.

Hail to the intercollegiate champions of the Pacific Coast! For the first time in the history of the cage came in this part of the country the claims of the University of Nevada to the Pacific Coast title are not to be denied. The Sagebrush five easily annexed the pennant in the Nevada-California league by tearing through the season with six decisive victories to their credit and nary a defeat. Every team in the league was defeated in a manner that left little doubt in the minds of their opponents as to who was the better team, with the single exception of the University of California fice which due to the fact that they were only playing half a schedule in this league were not matched with the Sagebrush five. The Bears went through their schedule of three games and defeated Santa Clara, College of Pacific, and California Aggies, in a very startling fashion. This gave them a clean record in the league and a claim on the title should any of the other leaders lose a game. This is what was at stake last Saturday night when the Silver and Blue warriors went up against the speedy St. Ignatius five. St. Ignatius had already dropped a game to the Stanford quintet, and could not claim the championship, but should they defeat the local varsity, it would give the title to the Blue and Gold five.

There were those sport dopesters around the bay who were emphatic in their statements that St. Ignatius should never have been defeated by the Cardinal varsity and that they were the best unlimited team in the state of California. Nevada's decisive defeat of the Catholic collegians cinched the title for the Silver and Blue.

Now for the Pacific Coast title. The big noise in basket ball among the colleges on the Pacific Slope is the Pacific Coast Conference, and the team that finally finished out in front in this league is generally considered to be the cream of the basket ball teams of the west. Stanford finished at the top of the heap in this scramble after winning all of their games but one. They completely outclassed every other team in the league by defeating them in a most decisive fashion, and have two victories over the California varsity to their credit both of which were taken by large scores.

It will be remembered that Nevada took Stanford to a cleaning in the early days of the season by a sensational second half come back and came out on the long end of a 25 to 19 score. This in the opinion of the sport dopesters

THE CHAMPIONS

All Hail the Pacific Coast champions! The 1920 University of Nevada Varsity! Winner of the Nevada-California League championship, the conquerors of Stanford, their nearest rivals; without a doubt the peer of any college team on the Pacific slope. For the first time in the history of the University, the Silver and Blue has gone through the season without defeat at the hands of a college team, and conclusively proven their ability to meet all comers. And the University has mighty good reason to be proud of them. They've "brought home the bacon," now let's enjoy it.

THE TOURNAMENT

There can be no doubt of the success of the Interscholastic Basketball Tournament held on the campus last week, either from the high school or the university standpoint. Well planned and executed throughout, and almost entirely by the students, the meet was one of which the University of Nevada may well be proud. Two hundred high school visitors can judge of the welcome given them and the hospitality shown them during their stay on the Hill, and the entire student body knows well enough how glad we were to have them here. Occasions such as this, are of immense value in bring the college and the high school man in contact, and give the visitors the long desired chance to look the institution over, and make their choice as to where they will complete their education. It is hoped that their impression of Nevada was such that they will choose to continue their training here.

A similar occasion will be held the latter part of this semester, when the annual Interscholastic Track Meet is scheduled to be held here. At that time, as last week, there will be probably two hundred students here from over the state, and it is an exceptional opportunity to boost the Sagebrush college, and show the visitors just what the University has to offer them. And a realization of that fact on their part is all that is necessary to make them staunch supporters of the Silver and Blue and bring them here as students, upon their graduation.

These are opportunities that Nevada should never overlook, and from the big success scored last week there is no doubt this fact was brought home in very convincing fashion. They should become permanent fixtures in the year's program, and be as much a part of college affairs as any other branch of the institution's work.

Reno, Nevada.

My dear Mr. Turner:

May I extend to you my hearty congratulations for the splendid production of "A Pair of Sixes." The splendid work of the cast reflected no little credit on you and especially were the small details worked out to perfection.

I have seen this play a number of times with an all professional cast, but I want to assure you that your efforts compared most favorably with the best professional production of the play I have ever seen. I know just how much hard work you put in on this production and I am sure you must feel highly gratified at the results of your untiring efforts.

Again congratulating you and with best wishes I am,

Cordially yours,
CLIFFORD A. BRAIDER.

FORTY-SEVEN—TWENTY-ONE.

Did you ever see such a wallop? Oh Boy!

Really it was a crime to take their money, with even our second string men in the second half rolling up the score on them.

All I'm sorry about though, is the fact that I got there too late to get any of that 2 to 1 money that they brought up with them, and went back without.

We were all of us more or less excited before the big game last week, while we were waiting for the whistle to start the game, but it took my friend Marie Grubnau to pull the nerve calming stunt. There she sat, in her reserved seat, calmly crocheting.

And speaking of the game, Saturday. One of the Coast papers predicted that it would be a game long to be remembered. It WAS, and I might predict that the "fair, square, beating up that St. Ignatz got, will be remembered by them for a good many years.

Has shock absorbers 'nevrything. Radiator's busted, sure does leak. Differential's so dry you can hear it squeak. Ten spokes busted; front all bent. Tires blown out; ain't worth a cent. Got lots of speed; runs like the deuce, burns either gas or tobacco juice. Tires all off, been run on the rim. It's a d— good Ford for the shape its in.

SOPH DEBATERS WIN DECISION

To Meet Winners of Senior-Junior Contest, Which Comes In Two Weeks

Last night the first round of the interclass debates was fought at the Clonia meeting in the Aggie Building, resulting in a victory for the Sophomore Class. Tony Zeni and Ray Law debated for the Class of '22, and Howard Westervelt and James B. Koehler talked for the Freshmen. The decision was very close, and from the first speech to the final rebuttal the outcome was in doubt. The question was: Resolved, that the province of Shantung should have been returned to China at the recent Peace Conference. The Sophomores had the affirmative and the Freshmen the negative side of the question. Each side presented strong arguments, building up a logical foundation for their assertions and giving plenty of evidence and proof of their points. The only point which influenced the judges in favor of the Sophomores seemed to be their somewhat greater powers of rebuttal. In fact, in a speech after the debate, Professor Feemster brought out the fact that the Western man is particularly strong when placed up against an emergency, while the Eastern man shows the greater care in his previous preparation. This fact was brought out in the debate very strongly. All the speakers rallied well in the refutation of their opponents' arguments, while previous work would have admitted of more work and thought.

The judges were: Sardis Summerfield, Lyster Withers, and Professor Feemster. The next step in the interclass debates will be the meeting of the Juniors and Seniors, two weeks from last Wednesday night. As soon as possible after that event, the final debate will be held between the Sophomores and the winner of the upper-classmen.

WOMEN'S TEAM TRIMS PACIFIC

Nevada Basket Shooters Take Coast Aggregation Into Camp With Overwhelming Score

For the first time in a number of years the women's Varsity played an intercollegiate game in the gymnasium when they met the College of Pacific team Saturday night, and defeated them by an overwhelming score. The game was played before the largest crowd ever housed in the gym and while rather one-sided, as far as the score goes, was hard fought throughout. The superior teamwork and basket shooting of Nevada was the outstanding feature of the contest, although a number of the individual players stood out prominently and displayed especially good form. Rose Mitchell, side center for the Varsity was undoubtedly the fastest person on the floor getting the ball on the tip-off from Adele Clinton nearly every jump and feeding it to the forwards without a hitch. The Nevada forwards, Helen Fuss and Hallie Organ played splendid games, their basket shooting being unusually accurate. The entire team played as a unit and their passing and perfect teamwork was more than once the subject for praise from the spectators. It is impossible to dwell much on the work of the Pacific team as the ball was in their possession very little of the time. When the opportunity to score came to their forwards they showed up well, making several good baskets. The score at half time was Nevada 18, Pacific 2, and at the end of the game, Nevada 41, Pacific 8.

Mr. Klawans, manager of the Spaulding store in San Francisco, referred in a very creditable and satisfactory manner.

The lineup:

FROSH GIRLS WIN

A large part of the student body turned out last Thursday evening to root at the Frosh-Junior basket ball game. The Junior girls, wearing the red and white Junior class colors, were as well supported by their rooting section as was the other team by its group of first year rooters. As the first whistle blew both teams were equally determined to win. At the end of the first quarter the Freshman girls were confident of their strength, since theirs was the long end of the score. At the end of the first half the score stood 7 to 13 in favor of the Freshmen. The Frosh continued in the lead until the last quarter. Great excitement reigned when the Juniors began to pick up and were only three points behind. During the last two minutes the Juniors made a field goal. When the final whistle blew the Frosh were still one point ahead. The final score was 17 to 18.

Bright and early next morning the happy Frosh tied green and white ribbons on the cup in the library. They are determined to keep them there while the Juniors say the red and white is going back next year.

The lineup follows:
Juniors: Organ, forward; Fuss, forward; Dunkle, center; Shields, side center; Underwood, guard; Barnes, guard.
Frosh: Hoskins, forward; Grubnau, forward; Clinton, center; Mitchell, side center; Reynolds, guard; Riddell,

The Service of an Electrical Research Laboratory

The research facilities of the General Electric Company are an asset of world-wide importance, as recent war work has so clearly demonstrated. Their advantages in pursuits of peace made them of inestimable value in time of war.

A most interesting story tells of the devices evolved which substantially aided in solving one of the most pressing problems of the war—the submarine menace. Fanciful, but no less real, were the results attained in radio communication which enabled an aviator to control a fleet of flying battleships, and made possible the sending, without a wire, history-making messages and orders to ships at sea. Scarcely less important was the X-ray tube, specially designed for field hospital use and a notable contribution to the military surgical service. And many other products, for both combatant and industrial use, did their full share in securing the victory.

In the laboratories are employed highly trained physicists, chemists, metallurgists and engineers, some of whom are experts of international reputation. These men are working not only to convert the resources of Nature to be of service to man, but to increase the usefulness of electricity in every line of endeavor. Their achievements benefit every individual wherever electricity is used. Scientific research works hand in hand with the development of new devices, more efficient apparatus and processes of manufacture. It results in the discovery of better and more useful materials and ultimately in making happier and more livable the life of all mankind.

Booklet, Y-863, describing the company's plants, will be mailed upon request. Address Desk 37

MANZANITA

This week was a busy one in the Hall as well as on the campus. Between fifty and sixty girls were guests in Manzanita. The girls were glad to see several of the old girls here. Freda Doust was here from Lovelock, Jo Damm from Fallon and Elizabeth Bailey from Goldfield, Blanch Lothrop from Carson.

Mrs. Muth, who has been visiting her daughter Marian this week returned to her home in Goldfield.

Mary Belli was the guest of Lois Smyth last week end. She came over for the tournament.

Ethel Walker was visiting old friends in the Hall on Saturday

Mildred Griswold was surprised by a short visit Saturday from her mother and father, who were returning from San Francisco, where they spent the winter.

Tana Higgins has moved back to the Hall. She has been living down town for the greater part of the year. We are glad to have her back.

LINCOLN HALL

During the past week Lincoln Hall has been very busy in doing its share in the entertainment of the High School visitors. During the tournament, boys from Dayton, Ely, Lovelock and Tonopah were billeted in the Hall, room being made for them by Hall men who could do so, and in the unoccupied rooms. The boys seemed to be very appreciative of the hospitality of the Hall, and enjoyed their short stay. Most of them declared that when they came to college they will take up their residence in Lincoln Hall.

The members of the Davis Farm basketball team stayed in the Hall Wednesday night, leaving the next morning for home. The fact that we are able to entertain visiting teams on the campus gives a much greater opportunity to show them the hospitality for which Nevada is justly famous. It is a pleasure to have the visitors with us.

In his feverish haste to assimilate all the knowledge possible in the shortest time, it is reported that our friend, Antonio Banzon, recently sent East for certain books with which to satisfy his craving for learning. In due time the books arrived, and immediately Fat Harker became an intimate friend and constant companion of Banzon's. He guarded his secret well, but after applying up-to-date newspaper methods to the case it was discovered that Banzon had been sent a book entitled "How to Woo an Heiress" and Fat Harker was trying to make a copy of the book by hand before Banzon could send it back.

In search for news around the Hall, the Sagebrush scoop recently made a little canvass to ascertain what prominent men of Reno were most popular with the Hall men. The plan failed, for the men turned out to be Mike Asheim and Frank Collins.

This man Gilligan is a good fellow, but we hate to see him corrupting the morals of our Louie Meyers. Did you see them riding around all Sunday afternoon? And Louie was with a strange woman, too, and he won't tell anybody who it was. This sort of thing must be stopped, even if harsh measures have to be applied.

GIRLS' GAMES IN DETAIL

converted three pretty field goals at the beginning of the second half while the guards of this team held Carson's points down. Both team played a hard game, however, and when the final signal was given Winnemucca had only scored three more points than Carson in the last half. The final score stood 21 to 11 in favor of the Winnemucca team. This game then made Winnemucca eligible for the contest in the championship game.

Elko vs. Lovelock

The game between Elko and Lovelock girls' teams decided that Elko would be the one to play Winnemucca for the state championship. In the first half of the game Lovelock led by two points. Misses Sebbons and Sullivan of this team did some splendid guarding but in the second half the Elko forwards got into the game with the spirit that wins. Pauline Johnson alone scored twenty-one points for the Elko team. The Elko forwards play very well together and their combination is hard to beat. Elko's entire lineup is strong and she plays a clean fast game in all instances. The work of the Lovelock girls was indeed creditable and special mention is due Miss Van Reed at center. The score at the end of the second half was 29 to 18 in Elko's favor.

RARE SPECIMENS FOR MINES MUSEUM

Director F. C. Lincoln of the Mackay School of Mines received two very valuable ore specimens Tuesday from John G. Kirchin, General Manager of the White Caps mine. One is a sample of the massive arsenic ore that is being shipped to the east, weighing several pounds and consists wholly of orpiment and realgar. The second specimen also weighing several pounds is a mass of crystals of orpiment, realgar and chalcocite and is a very rare specimen. Usually the arsenic minerals are seen only as small hand specimens but in the White Caps mine these two arsenic minerals are mined by the carload lots and shipped to the east, the gold content paying for the freight, and treatment charges. These specimens are a valuable addition to the collection of minerals and ores of Nevada which are on display in the museum in the Mining Building, and those students and visitors who spend a few moments examining them will be repaid.

KENNEDY SPEAKS ON BOTULISM

University Aggie Society Spends Interesting Evening With Many Prominent Speakers

In spite of a threatening storm there was a large attendance at the regular meeting of the University Agricultural Society last week. Mr. Miles Kennedy of the Foods and Drugs Control Department of the University, addressed the society at length on phases of ptomaine poisoning and botulism, and their relation to canned meats and vegetables. He quoted from noted authorities showing that the word "ptomaine" is a misnomer for a great many gastric disturbances and one that the public is too prone to use for all manner of dispositions of the stomach and alimentary canal. Botulism, while not necessarily new, has been given prominence recently in connection with poisoning from eating ripe olives. The particular lot of olives which caused this trouble has been found by the Public Health Service and all State Health Departments are co-operating with the federal department in examining the ripe olive stocks of all merchants with the view of condemning this particular shipment. Consumers are warned against even tasting suspected or slightly tainted canned goods whether of commercial or home product, as the bacilli botuli is a virulent poison and acts fatally very quickly. Any canned vegetables or meats which have the least decayed odor or appear unusually soft should be destroyed. They should not be fed to stock or fowls.

Professor Wilson gave a short talk relative to the recent sale of University purebred stock at the auction sale held by the Hereford and Shorthorn Associations at Davis, Calif. A Hereford cow and calf from the University herd brought $925, being the highest price obtained for pure bred cows at this sale. A Hereford 14 months' bull brought $775, this being the fourth highest for this class. A general discussion followed both addresses in answer to questions proffered by the members of the society.

Mr. M. D. Collins of the University Extension Service, gave a short talk on the interest manifest in the Fallon and Fernley districts relative to drainage and storage matters and the organizations which had been perfected to foster the carrying out of plans leading to further conservation of the flow of the Truckee River and the drainage of waterlogged lands in these districts.

The remainder of the evening was spent in the discussion of topics of general interest to the society.

YWCA

At the Y. W. C. A. meeting Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Frank Humphrey gave the girls a little talk on the Child Welfare work being carried on around Reno and over the other parts of Nevada. She brought the need of the knowledge and care of the children of the community to the attention of the girls and urged them to use their effort and assistance bettering conditions in our own community.

It is now nearly time for the election of the officers for the next year. In order to assist the nomination committee and get the opinions of all the members of those qualified to hold these offices, a ballot box will be placed by the candy stand in Miss Sissa's office, where all members may cast their vote. The officers to be elected are president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and field secretary. The president must be a Senior. For any further information see Helena Shade or one of the nomination committee which consists of Mildred Griswold, Helen Cahill, Rose Harris, Ruth Hull and Gladys Smith.

and uninteresting, it was very much the opposite and was highly exciting from the start. Several thrilling plays were made by members of both teams, with the majority originating beneath a striped Jersey. The game brought back memories of the Santa Clara football game of last fall. The Ignatians were every bit as confident of victory as were the Prune valley lads, while the Silver and Blue warriors were none too sure that victory would finally crown their evening's performance. The Sagebrush team went into both games determined to give the battle of their lives and put up such a whirlwind fight that after the first few minutes of the second half their opponents had little left to offer in the way of effective resistance. While at the end of the first half Nevada was only leading by seven points, their style of play in that second period was of such a sensationally smashing variety that the visitors were completely dazzled by the lightning speed of the Sagebrush attack, and at the end of the game the Silver and Blue were way out in the lead by 25 points.

Too much cannot be said for the individual playing of each and every man whom Coach Corky sent into the game. Standing out far above the rest of the men on the floor comes the picture of the redoubtable Waite. He was in rare form throughout the game and certainly earned the unquestionable right to be called the best forward in the west. It is almost impossible to conceive how there could be a better man representing any college in the country than the speedy Noble. While some universities may boast of equal one would certainly have to look a long way to find his peer. He seems to be everywhere at once, can shoot baskets from almost any angle, is a wonder at recovering the ball, a common sight being to see his flying form shoot ten feet through the air into a bunch and finally come up with the ball. In addition to all this he is at his best when hard pressed. The greater the odds against him the more difficult shots he makes with seeming ease, and the speedier he travels. We take our hats off to the best forward we have ever had the pleasure of watching in action throughout an entire season.

When it was announced that Smoky Williams would be unable to play against the San Franciscans, the hopes of several of Nevada's most loyal rooters sang most perceptibly. However, their fears were without foundation for Corky uncorked a very pleasant surprise in the shape of Cap'n Eddie Reed of football fame in the other forward position. Last year Eddie played an excellent game along with Bill Martin at guard, but after trying him out at this position this year Corky decided that he would make a far more valuable man in the forward position, and as usual the coach made no mistake. His dribbling rushes rivaled those of the fleet Shimmy, and his alertness and speed on the floor certainly earned for him the fitting sobriquet of "Flash" Reed. He scored four pretty field baskets nearly all of which were the result of dribbling half the length of the floor, to drop the ball through the ring for two points. His worth to the team this year cannot be underestimated and is fittingly summed up in the statement of one of his team mates who says: "Even though Eddie did not start the games it surely is an immense help to know that there is a man of his ability on the sidelines who is waiting to take the place of any of us who are forced to leave the game for one reason or another." With the form he displayed in last Saturday's game it will be a tough job to keep him on the bench throughout another season.

In the center position "Long Tom" Buckman showed the same form that was so noticeable in the Olympic Club game two weeks ago. He was on the job every second of the game and clearly outplayed his opponents who were rated with the best of them on the coast. He very seldom missed the rebound from their basket and it was a pretty sight to see the ball traveling toward the opponents' basket and all of a sudden from somewhere a long arm would appear and before the astonished spectators could wake up to the new situation Buck had sent the ball toward the Nevada goal again and two more points were chalked up for the Silver and Blue. In addition to this he accounted for ten of Nevada's points with five clever field baskets. Buckman is without a doubt the best center seen in action by the writer in the league this year and his equal was only found in Big Fred Olney of the Blues.

Jimmy Bradshaw, the streak, who has been holding down the running guard position for the Silver and Blue all season, showed a return to the phenomenal form shown in the three games played and startled the crowd time after time with his speedy dribbling rushes, his lightning passes, and his ability to dive in and get the ball when it was in dangerous territory. As a guard he left nothing to be desired and fitted in perfectly with Nevada's steam roller offense. His scoring total amounted to four points in the shape of two baskets which were converted after dribbling the entire length of the floor.

Nevada's defense which pivoted around Capt. Bill Martin was never better and Bill played his best game of the year. He was all over his end of the floor and stopped many baskets that seemed almost certain, by his effective work. "Wild" William's playing came as near being of the sensational variety as the efforts of a back guard can ever be. His position is the hardest one on the team to fill and the one in which brilliant playing stands out the least. Bill has certainly filled his place admirably throughout the entire season and Nevada is to be congratulated on having had such a steady and conscientious leader for her championship five.

The fact that Nevada's Varsity team is not a one man aggregation was clearly demonstrated when Coach Corky sent in three of his second string men and they did every bit as well as their more experienced teammates. Heward was the first one of the subs to get into the game, and his chance came when Willie Martin got a little too playful and was forced to leave the game with four personal fouls chalked up against him. Jack played a good steady game and looks to be one of the coming stars of the future varsity's. If there is any one man on the squad who shows the effects of his training under Corky it is Egan. Those who saw him last year and then saw him in the last game of this season were willing to swear that it couldn't be the same man. He has developed more speed than any one ever believed possible, and while he may never be one of the first five men picked to start the games, he is one of the men who comes in very handy when a substitute is needed. He replaced Buckman in the second half and accounted for two more points. The work of Herb Foster who went in for Waite made it very plain to the fans that Nevada has a forward coming who will ably fill the shoes of the speedy Noble. He handled himself exceptionally well on the floor and shot one of the prettiest baskets made in the course of the evening.

The Ignatians were held to eight field baskets by Nevada's five man defense, the far famed Johnson who scored over half of the points made by the Catholic Collegians when they defeated the Blues, being stopped with only three, and Capt. Eddie Molkenbuhr, who is hailed as one of the best men in the game around the bay was so effectively checked that he likewise was only able to ring the basket three times from the field. Wallace, who went in toward the end of the game showed considerable speed and managed to cage one field basket as did Barry who substituted for Molkenbuhr.

Nevada went at top speed throughout the entire game and simply wore their opponents down to the point where effective opposition was well nigh impossible. After the first few minutes of the game the Sagebrushers totally outclassed the visitors in every department of the game, and after the same amount of time had elapsed in the second half it was evident that the only question was how big a score the Silver and Blue lads would be able to run up on their hapless opponents.

The lineup with the total score made follows:

Nevada 47
Waite, forward, 21; Reed, forward, 8; Buckman, center, 10; Bradshaw, guard, 4; Martin, captain, guard, 0; Heward, guard, 0; Foster, forward, 2; Egan, center, 2.
St. Ignatius 22
Molkenbuhr, forward, 6; Johnson, forward, 11; Cronin, center, 0; Larrecou, guard, 0; Williamson, guard, 0; Wallace, guard, 3; Barry, forward, 2; Boyle, center, 0.
Free throws: St. Ignatius, Johnson, five out of nine; Wallace, one out of three; Nevada, Waite seven out of eighteen.

the loser to become a servant in the house of the winner. Mr. Johns lost the game of poker, and after becoming Mr. Nettleton's butler, got into all kinds of trouble with his fiancée as well as with his master. The play ended with the dissolution of the agreement, and a reconciliation of the two partners, and was full of bright lines and amusing situations, and at no time did a weakness of plot or action assert itself.

The successful presentation of this play at both Carson and Reno is proof that the University is doing things in the dramatic line as well as in all other activities this year. The devotees of the art on the Hill are delighted with the character of talent the show has brought forth, and dramatic possibilities for the future are very bright. In fact, with the profits derived from the undertaking, Clonia society is being placed upon a very firm foundation for years to come, and will be able to finance intercollegiate debating as well as its other activities.

The play will be given next Saturday night at Fallon, where, owing to past successful performances, a record house is expected. It is desirable that the trip there be made in automobiles, so anyone who can make the trip and take members of the cast, please see Gerry Eden at once.

sters gave the local squad the edge on the title and it was generally conceded by all of the papers around the bay before last Saturday night's battle that should Nevada defeat the Red and Blue team which was doubted by the knowing ones, due to the respective showings of the two teams against the famous Blues, they would certainly be the class of the colleges on the Pacific slope. After the conclusive victory of the Silver and Blue over their opponents from the bay district there can be little question as to the validity of their claims for the Pacific Coast intercollegiate title.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes

THERE are good reasons why we have, and ought to have, the trade of the best dressed young men. We appreciate the demand of young men for smart style, and we supply it. But we do encourage our young men customers to give more attention and consideration to quality than young men are apt to do.

Too many young fellows don't go deep enough into the clothes question; they're attracted by the style, but they forget quality.

Both style and quality are needed. Style for the way you look in the clothes; quality, because it enables you to keep on looking that way.
