Practice Game on Saturday Afternoon

Frosh Are Winners In Saturday's Rush

CLEVER RUSE ATTEMPTED BY FIRST-YEAR MAN GETS INSID OF SCHEME. SOPHOMORES L VESTS AND CANES.

The annual time-honored cane rush, between the freshmen and sophomore classes of the university took place last Saturday afternoon on Mackay Field at one-thirty o'clock. In spite of the fact that the event has been won by the freshman class ever since the class of twenty broke the sophomore's long string of victories which had lasted for thirteen consecutive years, the sophomores were supremely confident that they would succeed in carrying the cane thru the frosh line to victory and thus win the distinguished honor of being the first class to be allowed to wear white vests and carry canes since 1916.

To begin with however, the second-year men handicapped by Corky's mandate that no football men should participate in the rush. This deprived '23 of the services of such men as Dunne, Witter, Church, Foster, Gooding, Oliver and many others of the huskiest members of that class, and also took a like number from the yearlings' ranks. The Frosh lined up at the east end of the field a hundred and fifteen strong, with the Sophs at the other end numbering in the neighborhood of twenty-two. It was plain that '23 could not hope to carry the cane over with main force of numbers as the yearlings were too numerous for them; consequently they were forced to resort to a little strategy. Their plan was simple enough; one of the biggest and speediest of the sophs with a few of his larger classmates was to carry the cane as far as possible and then forward pass it over the line into the waiting hands of three of the sophs who were to come out of the hedge where they had been in hiding, just in time to receive it. This plan would in all probability have succeeded in winning the rush had it not been for the fact that one of the babes who was laid up with a bad knee, or other injury, circulated around among the sophs, discovered their plans and tipped the frosh off as to what was coming.

When the gun went off, starting the battle, the two classes started at each other with blood in their eyes. Davis, of the sophs, had been entrusted with the precious wand, and came tearing down the field as fast as his long legs would carry him. When he reached the thirty yard line and saw that he was certain to be tackled before he went many more steps, he threw the cane far over the heads of most of the frosh who were waiting to down him. However, the old saying that forewarned is forearmed was proven to be very true in the case of '24. When the cane landed, about fifteen frosh who had been waiting behind the goal line for that very thing to happen, pounced on the cane, carried it a few feet then were downed within eight yards of the line. Here the two classes piled up and stayed that way for the full twenty minutes. Several ruses were tried to get the frosh off the pile, but they were of no avail and when the final gun was sounded another frosh victory had been recorded in the annals of the cane rush.

ADDITIONAL FUNDS ALLOWED BUREAU

At a meeting held recently, the State Board of Examiners granted by unanimous vote authority to the Board of Regents to incur additional expenditures of $10,000 in excess of the $30,000 bond issue granted some time ago. This additional amount is to complete the housing of the Mining Experiment Station recently established at the university.

Varsity Eleven Is Victor Over Alumni

ALUMNI "OLD GUARDS" FAIL TO STOP COURTRIGHT'S MEN WHO SCORE 20 POINTS TO OPPONENTS 6 IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON PLAYED ON MACKAY FIELD. WILLIAMS STARS FOR VETERAN TEAM.

Football fans had their first opportunity of the season to see the 1920 Nevada Varsity in action last Saturday, when the Silver and Blue eleven mixed with the Alumni "Old Guards".

Though rather a slow game from the spectator's standpoint, a good battle was put up by the former stars who kept Courtwright's men working hard at all times to keep them from the goal posts. Only a few elementary plays were used by the Varsity, but they served to fool the older men, on many plays, who were forced to play on the defensive most of the first half and a good share of the second. The Alumni lineup proved to contain a number of old timers who showed by their performances they were not new at the game. Williams, Assistant coach, playing halfback with the Alumni, proved to be the star of their aggregation, making consistent gains off tackle and through the line on several occasions. Bellows, former Wisconsin light, also playing half, showed some good stuff, and was responsible for a good many of Alumni gains. Wentworth, former Eastern player, Charlie Haseman, "Dutch" Kimmel, Tom King, Hicks, and other former Nevada players, were all in the game and displayed flashes of past form in the line. Given a few weeks practice, this aggregation would prove a formidable opponent for the Sagebrushers to battle.

The game was easily the Varsity's from the first whistle, when Wentworth kicked off for 50 yards to Bradshaw who ran the ball back about 30 yards before he was stopped by the Alumni. A couple of line plunges with Dunne carrying the Ball, and two short end runs by Johnson placed the ball on the five yard line after which Bradshaw on a wide end run carried it over for the first score. The goal was not converted. On the kickoff, Johnson booted the ball to Bellows who ran it back for a gain of 10 yards. The Alumni made several gains to their 40 yard line but finally lost the ball on downs and Nevada started to drive for the goal posts. Much the same style of play was used, short end runs, line bucks, and off tackle plays, with which the Varsity made the next score, Dunne carrying the ball over. Johnson kicked goal. The second quarter was the slowest of the entire game, neither team being able to score, with the ball see-sawing back and forth on the field. Three forward passes were attempted by the Sagebrushers but all failed owing to the vigilance of Williams, who showed uncanny ability in batting the ball down for incompletes. There were no scores made this quarter.

The second half was a far better exhibition, the Alumni seeming to have taken on renewed strength after a few minutes rest. They appeared to be better organized, got their signals off faster and kept Courtwright's men on the defensive most of the time. On the first play after the kickoff, Williams fumbled and Goodwin, playing end for the Varsity recovered and shot across the line for the third touchdown. Grant kicked goal. It was in the last quarter that the Alumni made their sole score. With Bellows, Williams and Wentworth carrying the ball, they made great gains thru the Nevada line, Williams especially seeming to find little in his way and tore through the field for five and six yards at a clip. The only completed forward pass occurred here when Williams threw to Bellows for a 10-yard advance. By consistent hammering at the line they worked the ball up to the 4-yard line from which point Williams went over for their only score. The goal was not converted. The remainder of the period was taken up with the ball changing hands and little advantage being made by either side. Final score, Nevada 20, Alumni 6.

While simply a practice game for the Varsity, the game showed up their weak points, which will be of immense value to Coach Courtwright in building up his eleven for the first college game of the season with Davis Aggies next week. Practically the entire squad got in for a few minutes action, and gave the coach a good chance to see what

FROSH BAFFLED IN POSTER FIGHT

Wednesday evening the Frosh, having got wind of the fact that the Sophomores were to make an attempt some time during the night to put out their posters, came out in force before the sun had scarcely set and began patrolling the town in the wake of the elusive Sophs. One or two of the early ones were caught in the Mineral, but the Babes not knowing what to do with them turned them loose. All night long the hordes of new men patrolled Virginia street in squad formation, and all unknowingly passed in review of many a Sophomore peering out of a door or window.

As the sky began to grow light in the east the Sophomore alarm clocks began sounding, and about three in the morning they began to arrive at the rendezvous on Ralston street in groups of two or three. The Freshmen had grown tired of keeping on the alert and many had gone home while others were reclining peacefully on the campus.

A large decoy was sent up to the campus first with a few posters to draw the Frosh multitudes away from the center of activities, but the new men were wise and it was only after a dozen Sophomores had come within a few yards of them and started plastering their posters on the sidewalks that they were able to engage the Babes' attention. In this manner the first year men were kept at the southern end of the campus and the other detail of Sophomores were permitted to enter the campus through Mackay Field and paste their opinions of the men of '24 throughout the northern end of the University. Thus before the Frosh became aware of the fact the Sophomore posters were up and the sun appeared over the horizon ending hostilities.

NEW INSTRUCTOR FOR LANGUAGES

Since the resignation of Prof. Chas. Goggio, head of the department of Romance Languages, no successor has been appointed and probably will not be until January or possibly later. Frank Enos Welch, however, will be instructor in the department until such time as Dr. Goggio's successor is appointed. Prof. Welch is a man of many years' experience in education and is a valuable addition to the university faculty. He received his A. M. degree from Tulane University. For three years he was professor of Greek, Latin and French at Trinity College, Durham, North Carolina, then professor of French and German at Orchard Lake Military Academy, Orchard Lake, Michigan. From this academy, Prof. Welch went to the Philippine Islands, where he served on the Bureau of Education for eleven years. Recently he was engaged by the faculty as Instructor in Romance Languages and is serving in that capacity now.

FORMER STUDENTS HAVE HIGH-GRADE

Lloyd L. Root and W. D. (Bill) Whiddett, former grads of the University, made a short visit to Reno early in the summer, and brought with them a suitcase full of picture ore. Both men are interested in the Alcalde Gold Mines Co. at Grass Valley, where the ore came from. The ore, a gold quartz, was heavily filled with gold and its value per ton is almost unbelievable. One sample of leaf gold though small weighed several ounces and was one of the most beautiful gold specimens ever seen in Reno. New machinery has been installed in the mine, and the mill enlarged during the summer, and large quantities of the ore can now be mined and milled. The milling and mining machinery is all being operated by electricity.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP IS ESTABLISHED

A very valuable scholarship fund has been added to the university by Isaac R. Mathews and amounts to $6,700. Mr. Mathews, who is a resident of Reno, recently presented securities amounting to this sum to the Board of Regents for the purpose of founding a scholarship in memory of his wife, Rose Sigler Mathews. The interest on this fund will amount to something over $300 annually and makes a valuable addition to the scholarships already presented to the university. The recipients of this scholarship will be nominated by Mr. Mathews.

WISCONSIN STAR TO COACH DAVIS

Davis Farm's 1921 football aggregation will start the fall season with a new coach, "Gene" Van Gant, formerly a University of Wisconsin star, having been engaged to fill up the vacancy made by the resignation of last year's coach.

Van Gant, who after his graduation from Wisconsin, has coached several eastern college elevens, is now in business in Sacramento. Although a large part of his time will, therefore, have to be spent there, he plans to carry through an intensive coaching season for the University Farm eleven.

Vocational Men

A few days ago the question was asked, "What about the vocational men and the traditions?" In a notice posted on the bulletin board the Freshmen were told various things that are expected of them, and in the same notice the vocational men were asked to abide by the rules and traditions as given in the A. S. U. N. handbook. Actually, the students of the University cannot hold the rehabilitants to live up to Nevada's customs and traditions as the Freshmen are held, any more than they can hold the students of the Prospector's Short Course to do the same things and live up to the same customs as the other students. The traditions and customs however are old in Nevada's history and are religiously lived up to by all the loyal students of the University. It is only on a rare occasion that a member of the faculty violates the customs.

Most of the traditions are excellent ones, especially those regarding smoking on the campus, and cutting over the lawns. Grass in this part of the country is at a premium, and it has cost a great deal of money to make the campus as green and beautiful as it now is. That is one reason for these two traditions. The Frosh "Dinks" are Nevada's symbol of the Freshman, and have been worn by all Freshmen their first semester as far back as the history of the University can be traced. "Dinks" of some sort or other are worn by all Freshmen at practically every university in the country, and distinguish the Freshman as the sombrero and cords distinguish the upperclassman.

Vocational men, Nevada wants you at this university to be one of us. We want you to look upon yourselves not as vocational men but as Nevada students. We want you to go out for athletics, join the various clubs and societies, root with us at the football games and other contests, enter into every part of the different activities of the students, and in time to take away with you one of the coveted "sheepskins", as a graduate. This university has a lot to offer the students in every line, and we want you to get your share of whatever it has to offer. Ditchings and the various penalties inflicted on the unruly Freshmen will NOT be yours should you violate our customs, but we sincerely hope that each and every one will enter into the spirit of Nevada and will do as the rest of us do, and have done. Buy a "Dink" and wear it, and then let everyone know you are a Nevada student, and when you leave us, take your "Dink" along and tack it up on the wall. It will perhaps bring back to you pleasant memories years after you have left the "Hill". Don't smoke on the campus, or cut across the lawns—help us keep them beautiful, and above all things, mix in our student body activities.

(By the Women's Staff)

A little way behind me this morning walked a girl who had walked a few steps back of me to an 8 o'clock class on Wednesdays and Fridays for five months. I slackened my pace, asked her if she would care to walk along with me. She smiled and quickly answered, "Gladly. I've gone behind you so long and never dared to catch up with you. I did it once with another girl and was too coolly received ever to try it again."

Is that what convention is meant to do for us? Are not the principles of democracy fundamentally the same for women as for men? What harm if two girls who see each other daily speak to each other though they have not met formally? Tomorrow morning don't walk along alone, but wait for that girl behind you. The acquaintanceship should prove mutually beneficial.

—Michigan Daily.

The following poem, by Don Gilles '22, in the Pelican, is worth reading by not only our new men and women but by the rest of the student body as well:

Open Season

Ye Frosh from the city or outlying town—
Ye Frosh from the fields and the farm,
Acquainted with trifles and high school renown;
Assured of your personal charm.

Relinquish fond thoughts of your primary days;
Develop a tride—then stick fast.
If worthy, the future will promise you praise,
But forget to remember the past.

Be not too assertive, or ever too bold.
Except for the fame of your U.
If her honor's affected, then never loose hold;
When the fight's for her favor—be true.

Grow friendly with cherished traditions. Compel
The respect of your foe, as your friend;
Be worthy of those who have carried so well
The banner you're pledged to defend.

Then here's to your number—two thousand and more;
Assured of your purpose and pluck—
May the gods that we cherish be by '24
A bumper! Here's to you—Good luck!

You know there is an old time worn joke that is always handed the Frosh when he enters college. The one about the inmate of the deaf and dumb asylum who, when a water heater exploded, broke his thumb hollering "fire."

Don't blame me for that one. Blame it on the "Penn. Froth."

And now comes a little fatherly advice to the 'babes.'

Don't you miss a Sagebrush,
Don't you ditch a class,
Don't let the sweet things get you,
Don't cut across the grass.

What I'd like to know is this. WHO is the new Frosh dame whose nickname is "Copenhagen"?

Every time I think of the Honolulu trip I think of that famous "Britons Hold Your Own" which friend Tennyson wrote as he was crossing the English Channel.

That's a deep one. Did you get it? Think it over.

Over-Production

There's a lass that's clad
Like a Murad ad
When she strolls upon the campus,
And she'd be glad
If she only had
A half a chance to vamp us.

But her vampire stuff
Won't rate enough
To keep her in condition.
For in this place
It is a case
Of too much competition.

Thanks, L. C. Jr. '20.

My idea of poise is a berry who can pick up a girl's handkerchief off the street and hand it back to her without feeling like a fool.

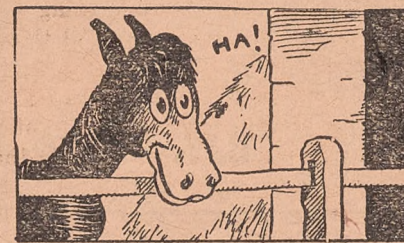

"Is she refined?"
"Say, she's so refined, she wouldn't eat cooking that had any coarse salt in it."

Frosh Co-ed—And all during the time that I was convalescing from that sickness my friends feared that I would lose my mind.

Cruel Senior Co-ed—And did you?
They tell me this happened during the summer:
He—Have you kissed the bride
Him—well, er—not lately.

Two of the new Frosh were sitting on the back steps of Morrill Hall. A young lady passed.
"Who is that terrible looking dame?" queried Frosh No. 1.
"That's my sister," was the reply.
"Oh, that's all right, you ought to see mine," came back F. N. 1.

At the finish of the cane rush last Saturday, a raucous and blatant bray arose from the mob of Frosh.

"Ha!" quoth they. "Victory is ours."

It happened a few days ago. Gerry Eden was occupying the front porch of Manzanita when an angelic looking Frosh lad appeared, and wanted to know where he could pay his Manzanita hall deposit. Gerry pondered over this question.

"Who sent you over here to pay this deposit, my lad?" he asked.

"Two Senior men, over in the Comm's office," was the reply.

"You know what this deposit is for, do you not," friend Gerry blurted.

"Sure," answered the Frosh. "They told me that if I wanted to take a Manzanita girl out I would have to pay a 50 cent deposit, and, ah, you know, I want to pay mine."

"Well," said Gerry, in a condescending voice, "it's rather unusual to allow a Freshman to make this deposit, but I'll overlook it this time, and you can pay me."

Deep down into his pocket deyled the happy Frosh; brought up a four-bit piece and tendered it to Gerry. Gerry took the offering, and the Frosh departed. Gerry then departed and partook of four-bits worth of coffee and pie.

Yes, every year something new appears in the line of Frosh.

"What is your fortune, my pretty maid?"

"My face is my fortune, sir," she said. "Ha, ha," he said, "that's a good joke, Shake hands on it, for we're both broke."

O' Nose O' Mine.

Good ol' nose, you faithful horn,
You've blown for me since I was born.
You fed me air without a whine,
You've been a pal, ol' nose o' mine.
In all the scraps I've been with you,
I've seen you pink and sometimes blue.
You've never blown retreat for me,
Although my eyes could sorely see.
Good ol' beezee, game ol' wheezer;
You never was an awful sneezer.
You've taken many a hefty clout,
And stayed with me, game ol'snout.
Knocked out of place, but still on my face,

Hammered and bent, yet trying to scent.

Snorting and blowing, blood often flowing,
You weathered the storm, however warm.

Now, I solemnly pledge you my vow,
No matter what happens, starting from now,
You'll never again stop another mitt.
Nose O'Mine—you've done your bit.

"Indeed I did," he responded warmly. "There is nothing in the world I would not do, no sacrifice I would not make to prove to you how much I think of you."

"NEVADA HAM"

This vacation, between periods of industry, our brawny football captain, Ed Reed, was smitten with the "tennis bug" or else with someone who frequented the municipal tennis courts.

The point is that Mr. Reed went early and stayed late. He was always loath to quit and begrudged the time he had to spend at meals. One day however he kept on until 'way past lunch hour and became ravenously hungry but forsake the "court," he would not, so he hailed a passing urchin of Italian extraction and spoke thusly: "Say kid, you understand a ham sandwich?" "Sure Mike," said the kid. "All right then, here is a dollar. Run over and get me some ham sandwiches and I'll give you a quarter." Away the kid sped on his errand of mercy and Ed went back to the "Court" to acquire a red polish on his shiny dome and nose such as our late lamented John Barleycorn could never administer. In an hour or so the kid returned with a large bundle. Ed smacked his lips eagerly—lunch at last! He gave the kid his quarter and opened the package—Ye Gods! "Give the Nevada Pig a chance!"—RAW HAM!—$1.00's worth. "You tella me to getta da ham," said the kid, as Ed raved. He giva me da ham, what you so mad about?" Finally Ed got the kid to return the ham and procure something edible in its stead. The touching incident closes with Ed reclining in the shade and munching contentedly.

HIST!!

The night was dark, and a chilly drizzle fell from out of a jet black sky. Everything was wet, and as it was the hour when all honest folk should be in the land of dreams, no footsteps sounded sloshing along the dreary country road. It was fall and the apples had all been picked, put away in cellars for the winter or made into cider. Everything was quiet except for the drip-drip of the rain. Even the noble roosters had long since ceased their hourly crowing. In a little valley stood a small cottage with tightly locked blinds, which had about it an air of mystery, of dread, of something terrible. The natives of the peaceful little community avoided the place as if it were infected with some dread disease. Some called it a haunted house, but those who were less superstitious knew that an old couple lived there. They were very queer and rarely appeared in the light of day. On this special night in particular the house was darker than usual. Even the chicks in the shutters which on rare occasions allowed a small ray of light to filter into the darkness were tightly closed. Softly the door of the house opened and the old man silently stepped out into the rain, walked around the house stopping at each corner for a moment and then reentered. Some time later he repeated the parade around the house, this time even more cautious in his movements. A third time he came out into the chilly drizzle. Was some terrible thing being done, or was some dreadful thing to happen? This time in his hand was a long dark object which he placed to his eye, and through which he peered long and carefully into the distance. Each spot of the surrounding country he examined with the night glass. Not a living thing could have escaped his search. Satisfying himself that there was no living being within range of his search he turned to the door of the house and in a hoarse whisper called out to his wife, "Its all right, Mary—put another raisin in it."

SOCIAL EVENTS TO BE SCHEDULED

During the first semester of last year there were so many dances that the standings of very many students fell below normal, and the conditions and failures resulting therefrom were so numerous that this drawback must be modified.

Primarily students come here with the intention of getting the best they can out of the educational side of University life.

On this account, it is the desire of the University to have but one major social event in any one week and that preferably at the end of the week. On Saturday evening all work is out of the way, and this would seem to be the best time for such events. Exceedingly strong reasons must be given to have more than one event in a week.

Owing to the increased use of the gymnasium on account of general athletic work required by the Federal government, the floor must be kept safe for that work, and it will not be possible to have it in good condition for dancing. The work of the University comes first; pleasure second; but, the floor will be put in what we hope will be a fair condition for dancing.

The gymnasium is a large building and it requires money and much hard work to decorate it. Prices are so high that we hope the student organizations will simplify this feature of the work. Besides the time taken in decorating the hall interferes seriously with the athletic work that has to be carried on every school day.

The main difficulty in adjusting the gymnasium to diverse uses would be solved had the University a social hall for the parties thus leaving the gymnasium to be used for its own proper purpose. Until we have that the students are entitled to the best accommodations for their legitimate dances and parties that the University can afford and keep its work up to standard. Bearing this in mind the committee will be ever ready to cooperate with the various organizations in making the best of the situation.

Organizations desiring to use the gymnasium this fall are asked to put in their applications early so that all may get the date desired. Please do not forget about this.

The representatives of all the organizations in the University are invited to make reservations to the committee or to any member thereof, looking to the best interest of the University and its students.

WALTER C. RAE GIVES SPECIMENS

Late in the summer a valuable collection of ores and minerals of the Chugucamata copper deposits was presented to the Mackay School of Mines museum by Walter C. Rae, a well-known former student of the university. This collection makes a valuable addition to the collections in the museum as the Braden minerals are nearly complete. They consist of Chugucamata sulphates and test buttons, baby wire bars of refined copper and a specimen of practically every mineral found in the big copper district. There are many specimens of Bolivian tin ores, a small button from the Souxs Velarde Mill, and a large box of South American minerals and ores which are not as yet classified and labeled.

Mr. Rae has been following his profession of mining in South America for several years, including Chile and Bolivia, and during the summer made a trip to the States. August 1, at Ely, he was married to a Nevada girl, leaving shortly afterwards for New York. Mr. and Mrs. Rae sailed from New York August 28 for Bolivia where Mr. Rae will again take up his mining work.

PLANS FOR NEW BUREAU DRAWN UP

With the additional $10,000 expenditures authorized by the State Board of Examiners in excess of the original $30,000 bond issue granted some time ago to complete the housing of the U. S. Mines Experiment Station at the University it now appears that work of erecting the new building will soon be commenced.

The Experiment Station, which formerly was at Golden, Colorado, as an adjunct to the Colorado School of Mines, was moved during the summer to Reno and is now located at the Mackay School of Mines. This station is but one of several stations over the United States working on special problems relating to mineral deposits and methods of treatment of various ores. This station will give its attention to the study of rare and precious metals including platinum, radium and other of the rarer metals. There has been dissension over the fact that the Mackay School of Mines station will confine its work to rare and precious metals, and not study the low-grade copper ores, oil shales and other problems found in Nevada. As has been mentioned before, the government experiment stations are stationed in various parts of the country, and each one is given some line of special work to follow. The station at Salt Lake City confines itself to problems connected with the extraction of lead and zinc from low-grade and complex ores. Work on problems relating to oxidized lead-silver ore containing zinc is not only being done at Salt Lake but also in cooperation with the Yellow Pine Mining Company at Goodsprings, Nev. The station at Tucson, Ariz. gives its attention to research on the low-grade coppers such as are found at Mina and Ely. The oil-shale question is being investigated not only by the Salt Lake station but also in cooperation with the State of Colorado at Boulder. Other stations over the country are devoting their work to study of equally important problems so that practically every problem which might come up in Nevada is being covered by the department at one of its stations. Nevada's work will be the study of rare and precious metals and will not duplicate any work being done elsewhere.

Tentative floor plans of the new station have already been drawn up by F. J. DeLongchamps, state architect and have been approved by Secretary Payne of the Interior. The building which will be of simple design will be an annex to the Mackay School of Mines, probably in back of the east wing. It will be two stories high, the floor dimensions being about 30x60 feet. A basement will be constructed under a large part of the building. The building itself will contain three general laboratories, an assay room, three balance rooms, a library, a dark room and several office rooms. From six to eight members of the research staff will be at work in the building when completed which will be by the first of 1921. The laboratory of the Mackay School of Mines will also be used for some of the work.

This station is one of the most important advances that the university has experienced in some time, and will tend a lot to round out the courses already being taught at the Mackay School of Mines, and further will offer the opportunity for graduate students to receive valuable experience along the line of rare and precious metals.

NEVADA GRADUATES WIN OXFORD RACE

The only two Americans to row in the big boat race held at Oxford on the Thames river during the summer were Stanley Pargellis '18 and Walter Jepson, both former University of Nevada men.

Both Pargellis and Jepson received appointments to Oxford from Nevada and have been there for a year or more. Their crews won the race, making five "bunts" and were given their oars, twelve feet six inches long, as trophies of their victory. During the summer, Pargellis traveled thru France and Italy.

ENGINEERS SPEND MONTH SURVEYING

Contrary to preceding years, the summer surveying session was carried out in the neighborhood of Reno, where the students made good use of the theory they had learned in class. Previously at the close of the second semester the embryo engineers would move to some mining camp in the state and there make complete surveys of surface and underground workings, but this year it was decided to establish headquarters at the university and work out from there. The course is required of all students in the civil and mining departments for graduation, and aims to give men a chance to put into practical use, much of the theoretical instruction previously received.

In the work this summer, which was in charge of Dean Boardman and Prof. Jones, extensive surveys were made in the mountains north of the university, especially in the vicinity of the big N on Peavine mountain, and to the north and east of there, where topography was taken over an area of four or five square miles. The plotting of all roads, and a survey of the W. P. R. R. within this area was included, in addition to which considerable time was devoted to triangulation. Surface and underground surveys were made at the mine of the Standard Metals Co. near Poyville, and the geology of the mine and vicinity

Last Wednesday night the Sophomores of Manzanita Hall prepared their annual welcoming ceremony for the incoming Freshman class. They worked long after the rest of the girls were asleep so that nothing might be lacking for the complete success of their little reception. At 12 o'clock the Frosh heard the stern-voiced Sophomores demanding that they arise and do as bidden by '23. Tho they outnumbered greatly the Sophomores, none showed inclination to refuse the invitation but went meekly away with their captors. It was a surprise that the new girls did not show more spirit but they were either a very sleepy lot or else completely cowed by the commanding countenances of the Sophomores. Every Frosh was led to the basement, made to stand in line until compelled to take part in several stunts. The class of '23 demanded an oath of allegiance from '24, and after a few promptings from their hostesses the Frosh promised their unending servitude to the Sophomore class. After this the meeker Freshman girls were allowed to return to their rooms, but those who showed a bit of obstinacy were forced to remain after the others had left and clean up the basement, thereby showing their complete subjugation by the class of '23.

Miss Nell Wilkinson '18 of Elko was a Manzanita visitor last week while enroute to Healdsburg, Calif., where she has accepted a position in the high school. Miss Wilkinson was a popular member of Pi Beta Phi.

RACQUET FANS TO MEET IN CONTEST

The P. E. Department will hold a tennis tournament on the new courts in the near future in which all men and women of the student body and faculty are eligible. There will be a singles and doubles series for the championship of the faculty women and also for the student body women, and a similar series for the men of the faculty and student body. The winners of each series will then be matched and will play for the championship of the University. Each match will consist of three sets, of which the winner will take two. On the "Gym" announcement board will be placed a score card on which the winner will write his or her name and the scores of the sets.

These sets may be played at the convenience of the contestants.

The tournament will be opened on Sept. 15th and will close on Oct. 6th.

STANFORD ISSUES FOOTBALL CALL

Candidates for the 1920 Stanford University football team have been ordered by Head Coach Walter I. Powell and Captain A. P. Holt to report for opening practice September 15. Although Stanford has lost many members of the 1919 varsity, Powell and Holt think they will have material for a winning eleven.

Two varsity football players, J. C. Patrick and C. R. Richter, are with the California team at the Olympic games, but are expected to return in time to play in all the games. Patrick, it is believed, will be full-back this year. Richter was center on the 1919 eleven.

Stanford's backfield will be strengthened by the addition of R. W. Arnett, a former army player, who has been mentioned by sport writers for the All-American eleven. A prospect for tackle, Howard Deems, has transferred from Occidental College, and will be eligible here this year.

Frederick was sitting on the curb, crying, when Billy came along and asked him what was the matter.

"Oh, I feel so bad 'cause Major's dead—my nice old collie!" sobbed Frederick.

"Shucks!" said Billy. "My grandmother's been dead a week, and you don't catch me crying."

Frederick gave his eyes and nose a swipe with his hand, and, looking up at Billy, sobbed, despairingly:

"Yes, but you didn't raise your grandmother from a pup."

UNIVERSITY A. A. E. TO HOLD MEETING

The first meeting of the University of Nevada chapter of the American Association of Engineers will be held next Wednesday evening, September 22 at 7:30 p. m. in the Electrical or Mining building, and it is hoped all engineering students and members of the engineering faculty will be present.

The present chapter of A. A. E. was formed last year, when a charter was granted to the Engineers Club, which organization had been in successful existence for a great many years. A. A. E. is now the largest society of engineers in the United States, including in membership 30,000 engineers. It is making rapid strides to the front and is generally recognized to be one of the strongest and most active organizations in the country.

The university chapter is one of the two in the state, the other being located at Carson City. Meetings are held every few weeks, at which time prominent professional men are secured to give talks and lectures before the club. Last year several evenings were devoted to motion pictures and some remarkable films of engineering interest were obtained, among them "The Electrification of Railroads," and "The Panama Canal." Similar plans are being made for this year, and many good films will be shown here. In addition to its regular meeting the A. A. E. is in charge of the annual Engineer's Day, which is an occasion long looked for by the students and faculty. Last year this took the form of an "open house," with all laboratories and shops being open and the equipment in operation and demonstration, with an automobile show in the gym attracting many visitors. Usually a dance is given by the society on the evening of Engineer's Day. With the record made by the club in the past and promising surprises in store for the future, the meeting next Wednesday night should see the engineers out in full blast.

SANTA CLARA WINS FROM OLYMPIC CLUB

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—Santa Clara defeated the Olympic Club eleven, 6 to 0 this afternoon at Ewing field, in a loosely played but exciting game. Fumbles were frequent and had a decided bearing upon the result.

Santa Clara scored in the third quarter, two successive penalties placing the ball within scoring distance. Santa Clara exhibited far better defense than did their heavier opponents and up to the last quarter excelled with their open play.

The Olympic Club plays California in the Varsity's first game of the season, September 25, and with the advantage of longer practice should prove a difficult opponent for the Blue and Gold. Santa Clara meets the Varsity the week following on California field.—Daily Call.

SUMMER SESSION IS BIG SUCCESS

The annual summer session of the university held from June 21 to July 30 of this summer, was one of the most successful years given by this institution, according to reports from students attending. There were many new features connected with the session, which had heretofore not been used, which were of great value and interest to those attending. In numbers the enrollment fell three short of last year but this was due to a change in the entrance requirements. Previously many high school students entered with scarcely sufficient preparation to profit from the course, but this year a departure in that respect was made. No student was admitted who had not had teaching experience or had attained advanced Junior high school standing. In this class there were five students registered, all of whom were advanced and lacked only the summer's work for entrance to the university this fall. The balance was made up of teachers from over the state and regular students of the university. The total enrollment was 114 and set a record in the number of teachers and college students in the session.

Probably the biggest feature of the course was the demonstration school in teaching and methods, which was conducted by Miss Louise Kidder of the Berkeley public schools, who handled the four upper grades, and Miss Lulu Manuel of Harris Teachers' College of St. Louis, who was in charge of the three lower grades. A full attendance of grammar students was had during the entire six weeks with many more applications for the work than could be cared for.

The social side of the term was complete and varied. General assemblies were held four times a week and some exceptionally good talks given by the speakers. Every Wednesday afternoon teas were given at Manzanita Hall, with always a large number of guests present. Tuesday evenings community singing was enjoyed on the lawn under the direction of Miss Diehm. Four Friday night informal parties were held, beginning with games and singing on the campus and ending with dancing in the Gym. In addition, three excellent programs were presented in the course of the term. On Saturdays, trips were taken to points of interest nearby in machines. Excursions were made to Bowers Mansion, Carson City and Virginia City, besides picnics at the Chisim ranch. Several other affairs were given at which the summer school faculty were entertained.

A great many delightful addresses were given by prominent speakers

MEMBERSHIP RUSH ON FOR Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. is in the midst of a huge membership rush which began Monday and will last until Saturday night. Mr. Pargellis, former secretary of the Reno "Y" is now secretary of the Helena, Montana "Y" and the two organizations are straining every point to get more members than the other. In Reno the members of the "Y" are divided into three sections and are working the entire town for new members. Many of the university professors and students who are members are trying to get a large part of the university men to join the "Y" and are having very good success in their efforts.

Some time next week a banquet will be held by the Royal Boosters those men who have been on the teams making the drive for new members. At this banquet trophies consisting of gold watch fobs, medals and "Y" buttons will be given to those members who gave the greatest number of hours service in the rush, or who got the highest number of new members.

The Y. M. C. A. is an organization which has a great deal to offer the university student and professor, not only in the line of means of recreation and physical exercises, but from a normal standpoint. The "Y" stands for everything that is good, morally and physically, and any student who joins will be well repaid. The Reno Y. M. C. A. building on Second street has a large number of well furnished rooms for the use of those student members who do not board at the Hall, Fraternity houses or private homes in the city. The swimming pool is excellent, and the gym floor is one of the best to be found. Besides the swimming pool are many billiard and pool tables and an excellent bowling alley for the use of the members.

Old darkey, to shiftless son: "I hear tell you is married. Is you?"
Son, ingratiatingly: "I ain't sayin' I aint."
Old darkey, severely: "I ain't ask you is you ain't; I ask you ain't you is."

from all parts of the country. The U. S. Commissioner of Education, Hon. P. P. Claxton, gave two splendid addresses to the students. This was the first time in Nevada's history that a commissioner has spoken here. Prof. Searson, head of the English department at Kansas Agricultural College, and noted author, was another of the speakers who won instant favor with their audiences. A great many other fine speakers were on hand and all added their share to the success of the 1920 summer session.

PRACTICE GAME THIS SATURDAY

Saturday afternoon, Nevada's Varsity will meet the second string men in a practice game on Mackay Field. The game will last the regulation halves and will be played the same as the coming games. As strict watch will be kept on fouls and as careful attention given to refereeing the game as is possible and the game besides giving the men a much needed workout will afford Nevada's fans a chance to see their team in action. The berths on the Varsity are a long ways from being cinched by any of the men and for this reason every man is fighting his hardest, the new men to gain a place and the old men to keep their's secure. The rooting section is expected to be out in full. Several men will try out for Yell Leader, and the students will be given the opportunity to loosen up their leather lungs in preparation for the big games that will be played so soon. Last year's Varsity was one that will always be remembered. This year's looks to be even better. The line is heavier and more experienced even than that of last year, and the backfield has skill and speed never before seen on the Nevada field. Get your old dust covered megaphone out, drag it down to the field Saturday and see if you can't exercise your lungs. We need lots of lung power this season, for the games are going to be hard fought and Nevada must have a season even more successful than last year. The Varsity needs a good workout. Lets make the second string give them one, or beat them.

In the confusion of the advance the chaplain was separated from his outfit. Night found him in No Man's Land without his bearings and aimlessly seeking his own lines. He stumbled into a broken trench and flopped when voices reached him. Friends or enemies? Had he blundered into the Hun lines?

Uttering a prayer, he made ready to do or die, when a sharp voice cut the deathlike silence:

CALIFORNIA GETS AVIATION COURSE

The University has accepted the request of the Government to establish an aviation unit on the campus, and plans are now under way for its establishment. It is planned at present to make this a four-year course, the first two years to be the regular course in either mechanical or electrical engineering, under the instruction of the faculty of the mechanics department, and the last two years to be special instruction in aeronautics by the faculty and a detail of U. S. army aviators. The course also includes two summers to be spent in a government camp during which time the students will be paid $30 a month and expenses. The government will also supply all the necessary equipment, and at the end of the course, the student will be able, if he so desires, to enter the aviation service of the U. S. army.

The University is the only one to be granted an aviation unit by the government, which is largely due to the excellent showing made by the University in military aeronautics during the war.

UNIVERSITY BAND MEMBERS WANTED

Plans for the reorganization of the University Band are rapidly being put under way, with Director Al Preston at the helm. Before the war hit Nevada the band was one of the strongest organizations on the Hill, playing with the cadet battalion, at all football games and giving dances and concerts, but due to the effects of the world war, it was temporarily disbanded. Last year an effort was made by Director Preston to reorganize the musicians, and during the first semester the outlook was very bright, with a large number of experienced players practicing, together with many beginners. An unexpected number of the members failed to return the second semester, with the result that the band ceased practice during that term.

With the return of many of the old members and the addition of a great many experienced players, the band this year will no doubt again return to its former size and high place in student affairs. All men in the university who have had any experience in the musical line, and any others who are desirous of taking up brass instruments, are urged to see Al Preston as soon as possible at his office in the Mechanical building. Practice is to begin immediately and with a few weeks workout the band will no doubt be seen in performance at football games as it has been in the past.
