COME OUT OF THE KITCHEN

Mackay Traditions to Be in Vogue Saturday

Celebrating Nevada's twelfth Mackay Day, the University will set aside books and term themes next Saturday and devote the entire day to work and celebration in commemoration of the institution's greatest benefactor. Work in the morning, a big feed in the gymnasium at noon, the inter-fraternity track meet on Mackay Field in the afternoon, and a Block N dance in the evening will leave little idle time for those who enter into the spirit of the day.

Yell leader Hughes, who is in charge of day, has announced that work will begin promptly at 8:30 in the morning. The frosh will be turned loose on Mackay Field, and the track and training quarters with the admonition to rejuvenate the whole place. Sophomores will report to the gymnasium where a morning's work has been arranged. The upper-classmen and faculty will be put "on their own" and expected to give the campus a general spring house cleaning. All men are expected to provide themselves with the necessary tools.

KNIGHT LEAVES RENO TAKES NEW POSITION

Last Friday Charles S. Knight, former Dean of the College of Agricultural at the University, resigned from the position of President of the Reno Chamber of Commerce to take up the duties of director of industries for the California Development Bureau.

Dean Knight graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1907. After graduating he took the position of instructor of Agronomy in the Kansas State Agricultural College. Two years later Dean Knight came to the University of Nevada where he served first as the instructor of Agronomy.

In 1914 he was made dean of the College of Agriculture and for six years directed the agricultural work at the University. During his administration he organized the Smith-Lever Extension work and contributed nine important bulletins on technical farming.

In 1920, Dean Knight was elected President of the Reno Chamber of Commerce. Though removed from participation in University work he has served the University in every way possible. By his departure the Hill loses one of its strongest supporters.

PISCATORIAL PUMP LATEST INVENTION OF OUR ENGINEERS

All flights of the imagination, all laws of science and nature have been surpassed by the engineers of the University, for a new invention has been perfected by them within the last week and is now on the market. The machine, called the piscatorial pump, is the last word in uniqueness and efficiency. Following is a meager description of the marvel:

A section of a pipe through which water is to be pumped is selected, angle worms are suspended in one end and small fish placed in the pipe a short distance from them. Farther back are larger fish, and at the rear end of the pipe the largest obtainable fish are secured.

The principle of this self-excited three stage pump is obvious. Fish in the first stage try to get the exciting worms, and are in turn pursued by the fish in the next two stages. As the finny members are secured to the casing by a suitable harness, the water is accelerated to the rear, the expression for pressure head H, being $62.4 K (E)$, where K is the coefficient depending upon the species of fish used, E is the hungeriness of the fish, and H is the pressure head in inches of grape juice.

Best results are obtained by compounding stages of barracuda and gold fish.

GLEE CLUB TO GIVE RECITAL AT RIALTO

The Chamber of Commerce Glee Club will give its annual concert next Monday night at the Rialto Theater. The club has specialized in the better class of music this year and will be heard in the lighter strain only in encore. The club has been heard on many occasions in Reno but has reserved many selections so they will sing many new songs at their recital.

The club is especially fortunate in being able to secure the services of Mr. Gilbert Wilson, a New York baritone, as the assisting artist. Mr. Wilson came West to arrange a tour of the western states and was induced to stop off in Reno to appear with the Glee Club.

The following members of the club are connected with the University, Charles Haseman, director, Prof. M. R. Miller, Prof. R. McCarthy, M. A. Brynt and Basil Crowley.

NOTICE

Notices will be posted in the Library, on Morrill Hall bulletin board and on the Engineering bulletin board for all members of the Senior class who are planning on going out on Senior Cut Day.

The committee must have the names of those going so that arrangements can be made for transportation. If you are a Senior and intend to go be sure and sign one of these notices.

BEAUTY OF OLD EGYPT AT GLEE

The Freshman Glee, given in the University gymnasium on Saturday, April 7, added another laurel to the crown of worth while achievements of the class of 1926. It brought the realization to all present that the Babes promise much toward the future development of the University.

The hall had undergone a remarkable change, a digression of centuries which invoked within its dim spaciousness the Egyptian splendor of King Tut's tomb. Latticed walls in gold and blue hid the dimly lighted corridors behind. The rose color from the lamps filtered through the high archways and lit the shadows with a friendliness and a pleasant warmth.

The peak of the "tomb," which was a blended symphony of old rose, blue, and gold, was lifted high above the floor in a pyramid-like form.

The grand march was led by Frank Samuels, president of the class of '26, and Miss Helen Merchants. One hundred and fifty couples slowly paced around the room to King Tut's favorite music, as rendered by Walt Reimers and his orchestra. At its conclusion, they were tendered programs by Miss Margaret E. Mack and Miss Louise Sissa.

Miss Jean Misner, a member of the Class of '26, impersonating one of King Tut's many dancers, presented an unusually attractive Egyptian dance, and her efforts blended with the realism of the atmosphere and setting.

ARTEMISIA TO COME OUT ON MACKAY DAY

Saturday, immediately following the student body meeting, the 1923 Artemisia will be distributed, according to Chris Sheerin, editor.

The books, bound in silver and blue covers, have arrived in town, and the distribution at Mackay Day will mean the fulfillment of another slogan. The book contains 320 pages, and includes a special feature section of campus scenes. Many innovations have been introduced into the book which will make the annual a bigger hit even than last year's.

Distribution of the Artemisias will be facilitated by supplying five or six tables, and dividing the students alphabetically so that each group will be handled at a particular table.

UNLIMBER RACQUETS FOR TENNIS MATCHES

Tennis has had little recognition as a man's sport on the campus, but the physical education department has now offered a prospective tournament open to any men in the University.

Both single and double matches will be played, and anyone is eligible who is not on probation. Entries must be made at the Gymnasium before noon Friday, April 13. Drawings will be made in the afternoon, and the results posted the following morning. New nets for the courts have been secured. Mackay Day will see the courts themselves placed in better condition, so conditions will be ideal for the coming tournament.

Campus Players Will Present Huge Comedy

THEY SAID IT WAS A BEST EVER BUT IT MEANT NOTHING

The other night the frosh staged their first formal. It was a good formal. The gym was papered up to look, so we are told, like the interior of King Tutankhamen's tomb. It didn't. Anyway, no matter how it looked, it was a good dance. Another one of the campus' famous "Best Evers."

"Best Evers" are funny things. It is within our memory when '25 gave a best ever—only theirs was Mongolian with a Japanese accent and an African lisp—and before that, '24 gave a best ever, and the year preceding, '23 also gave one. They were all, if you please, "Best Evers." In the year '01, or even sooner, the freshmen class gave a best ever. In the hoary ages, back in the days long past—around about the year 1864 the freshman class were even then giving "best evers."

All of which goes to show that every glee is a "Best Ever." Then again, it might not go to show anything. All we have to do now is to begin to save so that we can again hire the tux and afford a bunch of heliohorpes or dandelions and go to the next best ever at the hands of the yet unknown class of '27. And then, year after year, they'll continue to have best evers. The millennium will come when the frosh announce that their dance "will not live up to reputation of years before." That will be the real "Best Ever."

REINCARNATED CAKE EATER WITH HAREM

King Tut, aided by the Phi Sigs on April 21, will display a harem that would make King Solomon's wives appear as faded and washed-out as graveyard stew.

The tomb of the king was shown at the Frosh Glee, but the rejuvenation of Tut and his court will be exhibited as one of the features of the carnival given by the Associated Women Students.

Secrets, other than Egyptian, will be disclosed on the above date.

"Shakespeare and Charlie Chaplin put to shame" is the way dramatic critics (not very critical) characterize the Campus Players' production of "Come Out of the Kitchen," a three act comedy drama by A. E. Thomas, which will be given in the Rialto Theater next Wednesday, April 18.

Through out intimacy with the "powers that be," a few hitherto undisclosed facts have been brought to light which we feel should be given out for the enlightenment of the show-going public of the University, which in this case, of course, means everyone from the youngest frosh to the oldest prof on the Hill.

The first fact of vital importance is that tickets will be sold for 50 cents and $1.00 (war tax exempt). A dollar for all downstairs seats and five rows in the balcony, $2.00 if you take your girl, or your fellow, and 50 cents for the remainder of the seats.

The second big point is that the seat sale will move along faster than "Curly" Cox's Spark Plug, so if you want to make a hit with the lady, get

DEBATERS TRIP TO UTAH AND WYOMING

Last Tuesday night, Sidney W. Robinson and John M. Fulton, Jr., members of the University varsity debating team, left on a short eastern trip. The men will be gone about a week.

Their first debate was last night when they met the team of Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah on the affirmative of the question that the United States should adopt a Cabinet-parliamentary system of government.

They planned to remain in Ogden, Utah, today, and leave tonight for Laramie, Wyoming. Tomorrow they will meet the University of Wyoming, Nevada defending the negative of the question, that organized labor should enter politics as a separate political party.

At the completion of their tour, the team will have debated four different questions, three of them substantially similar, in three and one-half weeks.

The attendance at the debates this year held here has been excellent, and the University of Nevada hopes to retain the support gained in this activity, and because of it to put out an excellent team for next year's contests.

there first and reserve a good seat. The curtain of course (as in all good shows) will be at 8:15 sharp—and that means 8:15 too!

Now just a word of first hand stuff about the play itself; the "low-down" as the English profs are wont to call it. The play all goes to prove the old adage that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach." Burton Crane (George Duborg) rents an old Southern mansion for six weeks for the unheard of price of $5,000.

The Daingerfield children, Olivia (Georgie Money), Elizabeth (Lois Wilson), Charlie (Harlow North), and Paul Carroll (Wilson) only consent to rent the house because their parents are traveling in Europe for their health, and the bank account at home is running low (that's not the only natural thing in the play).

Crane refuses to have negro servants about the place, so Bandy Weeks (Willis Pressel), the Daingerfield's agent, wires to Washington for white servants.

To make a long story short, the servants fail to arrive, and in order to get the much needed money, the Daingerfields decide to be servants until more can be secured.

With the arrival of Mrs. Falkner (Clem Shurtleff), her daughter Cora (Eloise Harris), and her brother Solon Tucker (John Fulton), things begin to happen, and complications arise.

Tom Lefferts (Lawrence Williams) who arrives on the scene, and Mandy (Leona Bergman), the colored mammy, do not make things any less tense.

With much laughter and perhaps a few tears the plot runs its merry course to a happy conclusion, which we will not attempt to describe here, because you will see it on the night of the performance, and enjoy it all the more for not having been told.

Professor Turner, who is directing the play, says his young proteges will be in shape to give a stellar performance by April 18.

Remember the time, April 18, 8:15 p.

and a big run on rakes, hoes and other farm machinery is expected about town.

While the men prepare the campus for the public eye, the women will be occupied with the big event of the day—the Mackay Day dinner. Under the personal direction of Frances Heward, and the supervision of the Home Economics department, lunch will be prepared for seven hundred, no small task. The dinner will be preceded by a stupendous parade, when all the campus celebrities, in native costumes, will be chained together and dragged across the Quad.

At 12:30 the men, minus their neckties and white collars, will file into the gym, be relieved of thirty five cents, and distribute themselves about the loaded tables. The underclass women are being trained in their new role of hash slingers, and are reported to be quite skillful in the important art.

Entertainment will be furnished throughout the meal, and lively talks will be given in the speeches which follow. The after-dinner toasts will be presided over by Miss Heward. A student body meeting will be held after the talks, and nominations made for the new A. S. U. N. officers.

After the gymnasium is cleaned up, the Artemisias will be given out, with perhaps an unlooked for feature added. At 2:30 the inter-fraternity track meet will be held on Mackay Field. The events will be interspersed with many original stunts, and the success of the day assured.

One of the high spots of the day has always been the big dance in the gym in the evening. This year the Block N society will give an evenings entertainment which promises to be one of the best attended functions of the semester. A brilliant Mackay Day conclusion is anticipated.

HEATED DISCUSSION ON HONOR SYSTEM AT LAST MEETING

The discussion of the honor system was the lure which drew an unusually large number of men and women to the student body meeting last Friday. There was still more to be said upon the subject when President Mel Sanders called a halt for lunch.

Those in favor of the adoption of the system had prepared a draft of the constitution with the contemplated revision included and this was read by Scott Hill. Carroll Wilson then obtained the floor and spoke for the proposed amendment. Wilson said the honor system was in successful use at nearly all of the biggest universities and could be a success at Nevada if the students wanted it to be one.

John Philbin followed Wilson and he proved to be against the system, saying that it was up to the instructor and not the pupil to see that no cheating went on during examinations. Cecil Green and Sidney Robinson both supported Philbin and they brought up the points that no student is going to be willing to tattle on another, and also that the Nevada campus is too small for the honor system's successful operation.

Ted Reich and Eloise Harris both came to the aid of the defenders of the system, and Jack Ross, editor of the "Brush" and receiver of many written opinions from those on both sides, declared he had seen no very strong arguments against the idea.

Aside from this vital question, other important business came before the assemblage. Bill Church submitted an amendment to the constitution which would change the style of letter awarded with the yell leader's insignia from a plain to a block "N." Frances Heward reported as chairman of the "eats" committee for Mackay Day that a delicious meal at 35 cent sper plate would be served in the gym, and Hughes announced the division of labor among the classes.

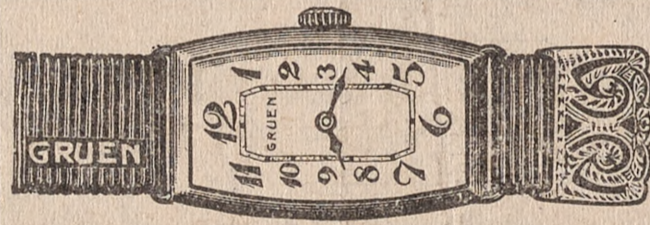

Alex Cotter brought the need of some sort of a campus magazine before the students and stated that next year a quarterly publication would very likely appear. He wanted the matter "thought over."

The change in the admission requirements of Gothic N, since the abolition of women's varsity basketball, were explained by Erma Hoskins. From now on, proficiency in sports other than the great hoop game will mane a co-ed eligible for membership.

PRINCIPLES OF THE NEW HONOR SYSTEM

We, the Associated Students of the University of Nevada, believing that the adoption of an honor code for all examinations and quizzes will prove of material benefit to the character of the students and to the standards of the University, do adopt the following amendment:

The honor code shall apply to all examinations, tests and quizzes conducted in the University of Nevada.

The care of the system shall be responsible for their own conduct as well as the conduct of those about them.

The honor system requires:

1. That honesty shall prevail in all examinations, tests and quizzes conducted during the regular University work.

2. In the event of cheating in an examination, the person seeing the offense being committed shall rap lightly on his desk. If the cheating stops nothing more will be said. However, if the cheating continues even after prolonged rappings, the student or students observing the offense will be bound, by honor, to report it to the executive committee.

3. The chairman of the executive committee shall call for a trial of the accused student not later than one week after the offense has been reported. Both the offender and the accuser shall be present before the committee during the trial. A majority vote by the committee shall determine whether the student is guilty or not of the violation of the code.

4. The first offense shall be punishable by the loss of all credit in the course in which the cheating takes place. For a second offense, the first punishment shall be inflicted and, in addition, the student will be expelled from the University for one semester. If there be a third offense against the same person, that person shall be permanently removed from the University.

The executive committee of the student body, exclusive of the appointed members, shall be the court in which all offenses against the code will be tried. Judgments shall be presented to the student affairs committee in the form of recommendations.

NOT PREACHING BUT WORK COMMERCE AIM TO BE AT CABARET

That their work may not be all theoretical, the commercial students of the University are organizing a business men's club for the purpose of working out actual problems in their field, according to Professor Morse.

This is another step which the commercial department has taken towards making its courses of practical importance, following the initial plan of making students enrolled in the class in salesmanship sell real things to real people.

Plans for the club are still tentative, but results from a definite policy are expected before the end of the semester.

PURE BLOODED SHEEP FOR UNIVERSITY FARM

Professor Frederic W. Wilson, of the agricultural college, is away on a purchasing trip into Utah and Idaho for the purpose of securing a carload of pure blood sheep. While away he intends to inspect exhibits at a livestock show at Salt Lake and then go on to Twin Falls.

It is the desire of the agricultural department to secure an additional hundred Hampshire ewes to add to the flock of one hundred and eighty five now at the university stock farm; also six or seven select Rambouillets, which will be used for demonstration purposes.

Prof. Wilson is expected back the early part of next week.

MACKAY DAY

Next Saturday will be Mackay Day, the day when frosh and senior, junior and sophomore brush shoulders in the task of removing the last signs of winter's ravage from the campus. It is the one day that gives Nevada the right to be called the 'most democratic' of Universities.

Under the old gym roof everyone interested in, or connected with, the University will be gathered. The bashful frosh co-ed and the college deans; wily politicians and the proverbial book worms, none will be absent, for this will be the day of days.

From the morning hour when the rakes start their clanking on the field till the saxophone wails its last note at the Bock N dance, the day will be one of real Nevada spirit. The spirit that dominated the University a few months ago, but from which we are gradually growing away, will appear in all its old time strength. Let us hope that we will never outgrow Mackay Day.

U. of N.

A NEW PUBLICATION

At last the University of Nevada is to have a magazine, that is, if the suggestion made at the last student body meeting bears fruit.

That there is sufficient talent to put out a magazine of real merit on the campus, at least twice a semester, there is no doubt. With the University enrollment steadily climbing and the fame of Nevada growing apace, a creditable publication of this kind would do a great deal toward advertising the University life.

Under student body control and support it should be a success from the start and should take its place with the Sagebrush and the Artemisia.

There is in every college a great deal of talent that can not be made use of in the college paper or the yearbook and this would open another and a new field for this latent talent. Colleges smaller than Nevada have made a success of similar ventures and there is no reason why the Nevada student body could not put this over.

U. of N.

IT WON'T WORK

No one likes a quitter, but the men or women who condemn the proposed honor code with no other argument than 'it won't work' are worse than quitters. They haven't had the courage to start.

At last Friday's student body meeting there were many arguments brought up, for and against the honor system. Most of the arguments for the system were logical, but as much can not be said for the arguments against it.

Because in colleges where the system is in vogue people are still occasionally caught cheating, is that proof that the system is a failure? We hardly think so. Where many passed examinations by unfair methods before, there is perhaps only one or two who attempt it after the system is in effect.

Everyone is looking for the cheater and that is why he is so apparent when discovered.

And yet many people say that it is a failure even though the number of instances of unfairness has been cut down from twenty or thirty to one or two.

It is unreasonable to expect that any system or any law to be perfect the moment it is introduced. The honor system would be no exception. Let it discourage even half of the unfairness that is connected with examinations it would be a success and would deserve to receive the support of every University student.

When you mark your ballot, just stop for a moment and watch yourself go by, and then have the courage of your convictions. Do not condemn it untried. Columbus took a much greater chance. If you are sure that it would be an innovation of Satan then vote against it but have more than 'it won't work' for your reason.

THE CREAM OF THE SKIM

Just imagine the feeling of the Office Dog as he finally stuck away his shears and looked over the pile of jokes he had reaped for this column—and then found that he had clipped his own jokes out of the other college papers.

"Got anything to drink around here?" whispered the eager one.

"Yeah. There's the tap over there. Water's always fresh."

Our idea of an easy job is not having to wake up and throw a pillow at the alarm clock.

First Immaculate: "You don't look well today, dearie."

Second Tri Delt: "No, can't you see I'm cross-eyed."

The longest way round is the shortest way home—when you're drunk.

AND SOME DON'T WANT TO

"Stay with college, let marriage wait," says Pres. Clark. Looking over the roll, we see that some profs did and that some did not.

DOWN TO EARTH

"I've lived on Gow House grub for two years and live to tell it," wailed a Menzanita-ite.

"That's nothing. I've lived on earth for twenty years."

HOW TRUE! HOW TRUE!

"Boa constrictors are the latest fashionable pets for women in London and Paris . . . American bull snakes are very popular also."—"Filler" in a daily paper.

Sounds quite homelike, Paris and London women must have copied after the style of Menzanita and the Tri Delt house. Especially so in the case of the American BULL snakes.

GREEN STILL SHOVELING

Cecil Green, embryo "ossifer" and well-known "bulldozer" was hit between the eyes at the Military banquet the other night. The place cards for the guests were cleverly designed to show the future and present idiosyncracies. Green's card design was a shovel.

MORE PUBLICITY STUFF

He stood on the fifth step. She was reaching for the door-knob.

"Darling," he whispered, "you must."

"Dear," she murmured, "this is so sudden; but I can't refuse."

"Then you give it to me?" he choked.

She nodded in assent.

He turned happily away with a smile upon his lips. He had just gotten a date for April 21.

Moral: "Go thou and do likewise." Josh, 12, verse 10002, line 9.

The greatest slam anybody can give the Dean of the College of Letters and Science is to point out to him an Arts student with a blister on his paw.

EASTER GREETINGS

Profs have a sense of humor. Imagine how some of them chuckled as they handed out cute little zeros to students in place of the customary Eastetr Aigs.

Higher educaion! Now the colleges are indulging in inter collegiate singing contests. It is rumored that Nevada will send its Nevada Canaries and Nightingales of the Purple Sage down to Tahiti or Zamboango to enter a song-fest carnival. God help Zamboango.

There are only five more weeks to do the year's work. And even at that we are willing to wager that some will let things slip until four weeks have slid silently by.

Cheer up, fellows. Next year will be Leap year. Maybe the women will drag us out. The past three years have raised the dickens on taxi bills.

NEVADA MAY ENTER MEN IN DRAKE MEET

From rumors flying about the campus the last few days it seems that there is a possibility of sending a representative squad of men to the Drake Relays which are to be held at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, on April 27 and 28.

The Drake Relays have been held for over twelve years and are growing larger with each succeeding season. Universities, colleges, prep schools and high schools are represented in this meet. Last year the teams entered were well over the 200-mark, and this year's entries point to even greater attendance.

Of course no one can say, as yet, whether Nevada has any reason to send a team back to compete. The matter can better be argued after the times of the various track tryouts are announced. Certainly the men will have to show a certain amount of class for the school to send them back for competition.

Track has so long been in a slump here at Nevada that such a trip would do more than any other thing to revive the sport and place it on a pre-war basis. Then, too, it would advertise Nevada and the University to the Middle West and East, in a way that could not be equaled.

The events which "Corky" has considered as entering men for would be the 220-yard dash races and 23.4 took this race last year. Then there is the century which was won in the slow time of 10.1. In addition there is a 440 and 880 in which we have possibilities. This would indicate that Nevada would have chances for four men to make the trip. Nesbit, Peart, Chittendon, Strickland and perhaps Scranton are all showing real class in these events. The century, by the way, which was won in 10.1 last year is an open competition event and Bill Nesbit can make them all bustle.

The entire proposition is a matter of speculation until after the meet Saturday, and Nevada still has a chance to send in her entries after that date.

HOW ABOUT IT, PROFS?

A few weeks ago there appeared in the Sagebrush two articles dealing with the present cut system. Since then it has not been mentioned as far as the campus is concerned. What action is to be taken? It would seem that the next move is in the hands of the faculty.

The Sagebrush is the students' paper and through its columns they have expressed their dissatisfaction with the system in no uncertain terms. We believe that it is an obviously unfair system and one which college men and women should not be forced to comply with. What is the opinion of the faculty?

One of the most delightful teas of the year was given by the Sigma Alpha Omega sorority on last Friday afternoon, April 6. The beautiful home of Mrs. F. O. Norton on Ralston street lent itself most pleasingly to the entertainment of the many guests. The spacious rooms were cleared for dancing, which was the distinctive feature of the afternoon.

Tea and dainty home-made cakes were served from four to six by Mrs. Price, Mrs. Sibley, Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Leach.

tion, a sterling silver vanity case. To be frank, on the window ledge just back of the shrubbery in front of the Mining Building. A few rain drops still glistened on its shining surface and a faint oriental perfume wafted away on the morning breeze as the Brush reporter found it in all its neglected loneliness.

There was an air of romance about it and the two fingerprints on its polished lid, the one slim and small like that made by a lily bud and the other large and strong; . . . like an engineer's . . . told of love and youth and a sudden flurry of rain.

The benignant building with its friendly screen of evergreens had beckoned and offered a safe anchorage while the tempest raged. Unnoticed had been the storm and all unmindful those two had been of the unending rain . . . as the fingerprints eloquently testified.

Locked safely with the powder puff the tiny vanity case held its secret. Though the reporter scratched his head and read the initials on the cover backward and forward he could not solve the mystery . . . the vanity case would not open its sterling silver lips. It was as silent as a fraternity house at eight o'clock on a Sunday morning.

And yet a memory lingered about it . . . elusive . . . tantalizing. Why there was only one masculine fingerprint next to the lily-bud one we are at a loss to explain. Can it be that the modern youth is losing his aggressiveness?

The owner may claim the vanity box by calling at the Brush office and identifying the initials.

PICNIC AND DANCE

The Sundowner's Picnic will long remain in the minds of the participants as one of the most joyous events of the year. The picnic was in honor of Doc McCloud, Bart Yarbrough, Chris Sherin and George Fairbrother, the four men initiated.

The Sundowners and their ladies, Professor and Mrs. Jones and Professor and Mrs. Turner left Manzanita promptly at nine last Sunday morning, while Tony with his accordion sat enthroned like a king among his adoring subjects, in the center of the hay wagon. The crowd merrily on its way, arriving at Hunter's Canyon about noon.

The dinner consisted of fricasseed chicken, roast potatoes, buns, pickles, cake and coffee. When the last remnant of the dinner had disappeared some of the couples strolled up and down the canyon while others stayed at camp and danced on the hurriedly constructed platform.

With the setting of the sun, the joy-makers climbed back on the wagon and made themselves comfortable for the long ride home. As twilight fell, the old familiar songs took the place of "Chicago and "Hot Lips." As the weary horses plodded up the last hill the war cry of the Sundowners was heard for the final time that day, and the crowd dispersed at Manzanita happy in the knowledge that it had been a day well spent.

The annual carnival of the A. W. S. will be held in the gymnasium on April 21. As in the past years each organization will be given a concession and will put on a feature stunt. This year's carnival bids fair to be the most successful hitherto held, due to the fact that there are more live organizations on the campus' this year than ever before.

The carnival has always been a feature of the spring semester and, coming after Mackay Day, it will be the last event of its kind this semester. The proceeds of the carnival will go to the A. W. S. fund to be used to promote the women's activities on the campus.

COMMUNICATED—CUT OUT THE CUTS

A university is manifestly not a preparatory school; if it is to remain a university it should not be treated as such. Our cut system is not only an unfair system; it is a weakness. Though beneficial to a high school or grammar school, it is a detriment to a college. The time is coming when the cut system will be as vital a problem upon the campus as the honor system. The college is growing, custom and rule should conform with the change.

A student who attends a college or university does so for personal and cultural development. He is preparing for his life vocation. His success or failure depends entirely upon his individual effort and not upon the coaxing and nagging of parents and instructors.

If Nevada's cut system were abolished and the student's grade reduced in accordance with the number of absences at the discretion of the instructor, and in case of excessive delinquency, a refusal of the right of final examination given, the wheat would be eliminated from the chaff. Only those students who are here for a serious purpose would remain and the names on the honor roll would be doubled.

WOMEN'S OPINIONS OF HONOR SYSTEM

By '23

The question of an honor system is indeed a lively one at this time. However, along with the question of "shall we have an honor system" comes the answer, "Are we ready to adopt such a plan?" Beyond a doubt the honor system has obtained popularity, and served a vital need in some of our most prominent institutions, how well, it is difficult to say; at least, they have helped in a measure.

If there is a doubt as to the success of the honor system on our campus at the present, it is because of the lack of the spirit of the honor system. This does not confine itself to the narrow field of subjects or subject matter; it should be applied to all phases of our college life. Can we obtain this by a simple statement that we will foster an honor system? Can we obtain it in a day, a week or a month? We will agree that we cannot. It seems that it is absolutely essential to get the spirit of the honor system under the skins of our students before we introduce the system.

Nevada has been making leaps and bounds toward the best in higher institutions of learning. This is commendable, but we must remember that we must have the need, the desire, the working plan for these new enterprises or they will fail—they will defeat their own purpose.

Nevada is very small. We could foster an ideal college spirit, but there is something lacking in that spirit which now prevails. When you look the matter squarely in the face most students would close their eyes to their friends' shortcomings, and nine times out of ten they would overlook a stranger's disregard for rules, on the ground that somebody else could report him.

"Why should I make myself an object of comment because I report cheating to the executors of the honor system?" There would be a few who would have to assume the responsibility of reporting those who broke rules. In a college where practically every student is known either intimately, by sight, or on a speaking acquaintance, you would have to feel the spirit of the honor system before it would be workable.

The honor system has been tried in a few of the classes on our campus. Those in the classes will tell you that the prevalence of cheating lies with those who talk honor system without ceasing. Talking is not necessarily feeling—and what Nevada must do before an honor system could ever work, would be to make students realize they are above such pettiness.

There is a large per cent of our students who are ignorant of the purpose, and ideals of college and its life. A great many limit their conception of cheating to that information obtained from a book when it should be closed.

If Nevada wants the honor system let her fight for it, let her pave the way to a system that will be a credit to us by breaking down barriers before, so that the honor system when installed will come to us complete and looked upon as an accomplishment. We cannot hope for a system to break down its own barriers, and marring its purpose in the struggle. Rather let us prepare for it. We are young and we cannot expect the best to come to us without struggle.

Nevada can do it. Nevada could have the setting, the pioneer spirit of honor, and the courage. Let us use our implements and develop the spirit and when we are ready the spirit will make the system vital and workable.

By '24

You ask if Nevada is to graduate cheats, meaning that she will unless we police students with public opinion. Well, let her graduate cheats rather than hypocrites.

If you can only get college "honor" through forceful measures it isn't worth (Continued on Page Seven)

much, and won't prove of a great deal of value as a nucleus for honesty when you're "on your own."

Why a "system" at all? It's a question of spirit! If cheating is going on now the installation of any so termed "honor system" isn't going to keep the sly ones from using carbon copies, or referring to the inked suff; if the campus is ready for the system it means that cheating is at a minimum. Then why put honor under regulations?

By '26

In the past when you college students have been asked, "Well, what do you think of the honor system?" you have shrugged your shoulders, pronounced it doomed forever as far as you are concerned and have thought little more about it. Today, the vital stirring, not to be evaded question that everyone on this campus is asking the other fellow is, "Are we ready for an honor system of some kind?" No one asks, "Do we need an honor system?" They admit that we do, when they question whether or not we are ready for one. There is no time like the present, and I firmly believe that the University of Nevada is as near ready now, to establishing an honor system as it ever will be.

The Brush could go on for the next five years writing and printing editorials on the honor system, and at the end of that time it would be the same stupid question, "Is Nevada ready for an honor system?"

Wake up to the fact, you who are students of the University of Nevada, that you are no longer children, but men and women! When you graduate and go into business, or begin teaching, on what kind of a system are you going to run your business or your school? Are you going to be fair and square? Are your dealings with your fellowmen going to be according to an honor system? Well, if they are, why not practice that honor system in college?

Audacious, perhaps that a mere frosh should question his fellow students as to their honesty. But is it not natural that '26 should wonder just how the student who stoops to cheat in an examination, is going to pass the big examinations in life and business without giving his fellowmen a little the worst of the deal?

To what end is dishonesty leading us? Ask yourself that question, and

SENIOR MEETING TO BE HELD FRIDAY IN THE MINING BUILDING

The last Senior meeting to be held before Cut Day will be called Thursday at four o'clock in Prof. Jones' class room in the Mining Building. This will be one of the most important meetings of the year and President Byrkit requests that every man and woman in the University, who has senior standing, be present at the meeting.

At that time final plans and arrangements will be made for the Cut Day program and it is of the utmost importance that all members who are planning on attending be at the meeting so the committee on transportation can make arrangements.

The following committees have been appointed to take charge of the arrangements for the day's entertainment.

Refreshments: George Money, Irma Hoskins, Rose Mitchell.

Arrangements: Gerry Eden chairman, Jack Ross, Alex Cotter.

Financial: Harry Duncan, chairman, Carroll Wilson.

Cars: Scott Hill, chairman, Claire O'Sullivan, Joe Allen, Willis Church, Del Clinton.

Remember to be at the Mining Building Friday afternoon at four o'clock.

"let your conscience be your guide." You may deceive others, but you can not hide yourself from yourself. There is no disgrace in honest failure; the disgrace lies in dishonest success.

It isn't going to be A. B. C. to establish an honor system on this campus. Worthwhile principles must be fought for; but with the loyal support of every member of the Student Body of the University of Nevada, let's start the class of '27 on the honest road to success—and along that road you and I will do a bit of self-reforming and truly acknowledge, each to himself, that,

"I want to go out with my hand erect, I want to deserve all men's respect; But here in the struggle for fame and pelf

I want to be able to like myself. I don't want to look at myself and know

That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show."

The best is just good enough for your Sorority, Fraternity and Graduation pictures. Allow me to make you my special estimate on your work. E. Pasque, Goodner Studio, 217 North Virginia Street. Phone 233.—(Adv.)

SOCCER TEAM PLAY ON UNIVERSITY SQUAD

According to tradition, Spring causes the lambs to gambol on the green and lovers to deal in frat pins, but lately it had assumed another phase and has brought the girls' soccer teams out on the quad.

Soccer has just been introduced on the campus, but promises to become one of the girls' major sports. It is a combination of hockey and football, and apparently the main object is to black an opponent's shins by a few well-aimed kicks. As soon as the teams get in better form, there will be an inter-class tournament

COAST TALKERS WIN OVER NEVADA TEAM

By the narrow margin of one vote, Nevada's debating team lost to the College of Pacific in a spirited contest last Friday night. The negative side of the question, "Resolved: That the United States should adopt a system of responsible cabinet government, similar in principle to that in force in Great Britain," was upheld by the Pacific team.

That there has been an increasing interest in debating since the contest with the University of Oklahoma was shown by the number of people present and the audience seemed to catch the spirit of the arguments, all of which were ably presented.

The main speeches covered a period of fifteen minutes each, and the rebuttals five. John Fulton attempted to prove the contention of the affirmative under four points, which are as follows: (1) Long periods of deadlock would be avoided. (2) People would become better acquainted with the system and vote clearly upon definite issues. (3) Tenure of office would not be fixed, and members elected to office would be under the direct control of the people. (4) The Cabinet is composed of skilled members alone, who act in direct harmony with the policies of the people.

Neil Parsons presented a well-grounded refutation, the points of which will not be discussed out of courtesy to the members of the Pacific team who plan to meet Wyoming in the near future on the same question.

Sidney Robinson backed up the statements made by his partner and put great emphasis upon the speed and efficiency realized under a government headed by Cabinet experts. He concluded by presenting a bit of economic evidence manifested in Great Britain under the budget system.

The affirmative concluded their rebuttal speeches by emphasizing the superiority of the Cabinet system and its smooth functioning in other countries, while the negative stressed separation of powers and the necessity of the Supreme Court as the watch dog over the Constitution.

The chairman of the evening, ex-governor Emmet D. Boyle, gave a short talk upon the increased interest shown by the audience in a subject that demanded support by means of their presence. The judges were: Wm. M. Gardiner, Lester Summerfield, and H. W. Huskey of Reno.

Following the debate, the audience was placed fully at its ease by the two selections presented by the University String Quartet.

CLEVER AT THEMES? HERE'S YOUR CHANCE

"Should there be a national university established at Washington, D. C.?" The best article handed in proving that there should be a national university established, with convincing arguments, will receive a prize of $50, while the second best will get $25.

The prizes have been offered by a state women's organization, although the English department of the University will handle the work. Competent judges will be selected to choose the winners of the contest. There are no restrictions as to who tries for the prizes except that he or she be a college student. The articles must be in the hands of the English department not later than May 5.

Further information can be secured from any of the English professors.
