Duet Taken From She-Jinx. Others Were Satires on Celebrities

With a theatrical employment agency as the central idea A. W. S. last night put on six acts of vaudeville which in the opinion of the campus was decidedly worth the 35 cents charged for admission.

With only a short time to prepare, the women presented their stunts exceptionally well, and ably earned the approbation of those who saw the show. Six Acts in All

The play opened showing an employment agency with Mildred Leavitt as manager, Frances Westervelt as the gum-chewing secretary, and Ione Fothergill as stage hand. The six acts following were intended to show the the efforts of acts to get on the circuit, and the opening sketch showed the evolution of music in the United States starting with the Puritan maid and ending with the 1924 flapper. A.

Next followed a chorus of Chinese girls, with Jean Misner in a solo dance and Pauline Neer singing.

FACULTY WOMEN FROLIC AT ANNUAL BABY PARTY

All-day suckers, hair ribbons and short skirts transformed the dignified faculty women into frollicking, carefree children for a few happy hours at Miss Sameth's Baby Party in the gymnasium last Thursday afternoon.

The members of the gymnasium and dancing classes, in the guise of small boys, acted as escorts to the little girls. Miss Sameth made an interest- Ray Parker. ing, sympathetic and not unimaginative grandmother. And, after games, folk dances and stunts came the grand march and refreshments.

The Baby Party is an annual affair given by Miss Sameth to bring the faculty women and the girls together without the formality and restraint of last meeting of the semester before their ordinary relationships. It has always been acclaimed a success, both Tuesday preceding Commencement. in the accomplishment of its purpose and as a social good time.

____U. of N.___ Book of Nevada Songs for Sale on Alumni Day

A book of Nevada songs, done in blue print, and put up in loose-leaf form, is being made up by a number of students under the direction of Prof. Lewis Rowe. Justine Badt, Eloise Harris and Ashton Codd have been collecting and selecting songs submitted by the students, and are going to compile them into a folder with a cover made attractive by a design carried out in a Block N and sagebrush.

Ashton Codd is taking charge of the blue printing. The distribution will be handled by the women. Copies will be on sale Alumni Day.

Bruises And Tears Halt Coeds' Track

Bruises and tears wrought disaster to women's track activities last week-and all because the critical gaze of men at the end of the path dulled the judgment of the fair hurdlers.

No sooner had one co-ed skidded on her elbow and been led to the gymnasium for first aid than another also took the sticks too low and sat, with great force, in the cinders.

"We had better try the discus for a change," advised Coach Champlin.

But the women claim that the hurdles will be conquered yetpreferably at a time when no men are near.

Dr. Young Has Many

"A person can do justice to only one hobby at a time," according to Dr. J. R. Young, professor of psychology, "but you can have any number of likes and dislikes. For instance, I like tennis, hiking, fishing, hunting, basketball and track, but they're not my pet hobbies. My honest-to-goodness 'pet is my book on 'Human Nature and Way' which I hope to have published early next semester.

Credits Original Thought

"Speaking of likes in the classroom I like the person who thinks for himself. I frequently give the highest marks to those who violently disagree with me, but who show they are original thinkers, rather than to the one who may have the facts right but who is repeating them in a parrot fashion.

"Another thing that I like to do in the classroom is to give my students a lecture something on the line of the 'boobing' lecture that I gave the freshmen at the beginning of the year. It teaches them to keep awake and to think rather than to take down what I say, word for word, regardless as to whether it makes sense or not.

Fooled 'em

students took down notes for fully ten keld tomorrow at San Francisco where minutes before it dawned on them that six other states will be represented. I was 'boobing' them.

that I have ever taught.

"I like Nevada," Dr. Young declared, "partly because of the wonderful climate and partly because of the spirit I find here. Another thing, I like my work here at the University because I can not only teach the kind of psychology that I want, but I also have enough leisure time to work on my book."

Constitution Adopted

The constitution committee, which has been working for some months, submitted a final report of their work, which consisted of entire revision of the old constitution. The work of the committee had been embodied in the new "Frosh Bibles" distributed at the beginning of the present semester, but it had never before been formally ratified by the student body.

Due to the length of time involved in revising the old constitution, several events have taken place which make the revisions incomplete. Laurence Quill, chairman of the committee, moved that an errata sheet be prepared by the student-body president and inserted in all of the "Frosh Bibles" sold next year.

Lincoln was intended to accommodate at least one hundred men and was built according to the best plans available at that time.

Previously a number of the men lived at a place east of the campus known as the "Ram Pasture." A building there was called the "Carpenter Shop," and they occupied the second. floor. Before that time the old Bishop School on Ralston street served the purpose. This had previously been a private residence.

In those days Lincoln had curfew as well as Manzanita. Some of the "older boys" claim that they were, in their day, proficient in the construction of rope ladders and in the manipulation of passkeys.

High-sounding word, but we mean it. Early Summer's incense may tempt you to spend more than you think you ought-more than you have been paying. That's it.

But, it's what you get that counts and not what you pay. Our reputation was built on style, comfort and wear. When a man of means buys our shoes don't you think he is applying the same businesslike methods of buying that he has in making his business successful? He weighs values, and is not fooled by price. The shoes justify his judgment. They are "not suitable for comparison" when they are new, because it takes months of wear to demonstrate their real money-saving value.

HAROLD HUGHES

Harold Hughes, student body president, happens to be one of the writer's fraternity brothers—and that's unfortunate.

Yes, it really is regrettable because if Hughes only belonged to some other organization, the writer would feel perfectly free to talk about him.

Under the circumstances, of course, the writer must say nothing in the way of appreciation of the services rendered the University by Harold Hughes who is to turn the A. S. U. N. presidency over to his successor next week.

If he were to say anything, can't you imagine the howls of in the lower portion. indignation that would greet such use of these columns?

"Well, can you beat that?" the campus would ask. "The editor ident and Mrs. W. E. Clark, Dean and guests from two till four and from then of The Sagebrush congratulating the president of the student bodyand both of them members of the same fraternity! That certainly Morse. takes all prizes."

Realizing the uproar that would follow such an expression on his part, the writer can't very well say the things about Hughes that he would like to say.

The writer can't say, for instance, that he thinks Hughes has done as much if not more for the advancement of the University of Nevada than any one member of the present student body.

He can't remind the readers of this paper of the two years that Hughes served as Varsity yell leader—of the dozens of rallies that he successfully "put over"-of the new yells he introduced and the new spirit—of the visiting teams that never once were neglected during their stay on the campus.

Concerning Hughes' work as president of the A. S. U. N., the writer must also hold his peace.

It would be a terrible "faux pas" to even hint of the vast amount of business that Hughes has efficiently handled since he called his first meeting to order.

How he drafted the amendment to the constitution providing for the competitive selection of athletic managers for all major sports -how he ably represented the University at the annual convention of Pacific Coast student body presidents last fall-how he has uncomplainingly given hours of his spare time to tasks not in his direct line of duty. .

Next week Harold Hughes will present the gavel to the presidentelect—and may then take his seat with the realization that he has served Nevada faithfully and well throughout his four active years

The writer believes that Hughes has served with more than ordinary faithfulness—that as president of the A. S. U. N. he has executed the duties of his office exceptionally well.

But, because Hughes happens to be a member of the writer's fraternity, it would never do to mention any of these things-never in the world—the campus would brand it as "fraternity stuff" despite the fact that Hughes has it coming to him.

WHAT'S THE USE?

"Jack, what is love?"

It was one one of those quiet, woozy nights in early spring. It was warm, and clear, and still. There were thousands of brightly sparkling stars in the sky, and a moon. I was sitting on the lawn with my back against the tram. Janet was sitting next to me.

She placed her warm hands in mine, turned her pretty blue eyes to me, and asked me once more, "Please, Jack, tell me, what is love?"

I cleared my throat, squeezed Janet's hands, and then after an impressive moment of silence, began speaking very slowly in a serious tone. This was the opportunity that I had been waiting for for some time.

"Love, my dear, is very hard to explain. We are always searching for it, and yet are never happy when we overtake it. Love is an ensnaring, deceitful, merciless monster that leads its followers to destruction."

breath, and then continued feverishly night. —dramatically.

"My definition for Love is just this: Love is an undefinable something that exists only in our imaginations. There is no such thing as Love. Love is worry-and therefore pain. Love is the lowest of all emotions. Love is a jest. Love is death. Love is hate!

Janet started, then yawned, and said to me, "What were you saying? Oh, yes, of course, you were telling me-I was almost sort of drowsing-your voice is so won-n-nderful. Jack dear, do you love me?"

"Why-er-why, of course, I love you, Janet," I said, and put my arm around

How Teach Freshmen College Traditions?

Colleges are trying to find a way to educate freshmen to a realization of their responsibility, to their institution and to teach them student loyalty and co-operation, according to reports given at the convention of Associated Women Students.

Most of the institutions in this country have tried to do it by holding mass meetings at the beginning of the term at which student leaders and members of the faculty speak to the newcomers on the aims an dideals of a college existence. This system has failed and a few of the schools have tried to go into

At the University of Vermont, the student body and faculty join in holding special classes for all newcomers. Attendance is compulsory and instruction is given on the constitution and traditions of the school.

SUBJECTS ARE VARIED

Sight-Seeing Trips Planned to Show Newcomers Best of Nevada Scenery

The twelfth annual Summer Session of the University of Nevada will begin this year on June 16 and end July 26. A variety of courses will be offered to teachers and college students. Though the Summer Session is not intended for high school students, juniors and seniors will be admitted to courses to which they seem qualified.

Special attention has been given to the Demonstration School, and competent teachers will demonstrate effective methods of management, organization, and selection of subject matter. This course will prove invaluable for teachers in any type of school.

Variety of Subjects

Rural education and school law, including a survey of Nevada school conditions and law, will be taught by C. W. Creel and Mary E. Stillwell of the Agricultural Extension Department.

Courses in art, music, English, penmanship, psychology and modern languages will enable students and teachers to make a wide selection.

Frat Averages Low

Fifty-six and onet-enth per cent of the men registered belong to fraternities. The number of men reported delinquent was 195, or twenty six and six-tenths of the total enrollment of the school. The number of men belonging to fraternities reported delinquent amounted to twenty-six and fourtenths of the men enrolled and fortyseven per cent of the organized men. Sixty-two per cent of the men reported delinquent were fraternity men.

The number of women belonging to sororities amounts to 49 per cent of the women registered, of whom seven and five-tenths per cent are delinquent, or fifteen and four-tenths per cent of the number of women belonging to sororities. Forty-three per cent of the women reported below passing belong to sororities.

The total number reported delinquent amounted to 243 students, or 32 per cent of the total enrollment. Fiftyeight per cent of the delinquents belong to fraternities and sororities.

Cash Raised For Gym By Vaudeville Shows

It was in 1896 that the need for a place for general gatherings was felt. At this time there were but six buildings on the campus-Morrill Hall, Stewart Hall, the experimental station, the two dormitories, Lincoln Hall and Manzanita Hall, then known the Girls' Cottage, and the old barn, familiarly known as the "ram pasture," which was used as a shop just before it burned down in November, 1896.

Legislature Refuses Aid

An appeal for an appropriation from the legislature was made but not granted. But this did not alter the determination of the faculty and students, and they immediately set to work to earn the money by giving entertainments in the form of vaudeville shows. Two groups were organized under Prof. N. E. Wilson, one of 50 girls and the other of 40 boys.

The girls gave their vaudeville show first at the McKissick Opera House which was located where the Plaza Hotel is now. After a successful performance, they decided to give the show at the other places on the Nevada circuit-Carson City and Virginia City. Staged Minstrel Show

"It's A Dog's Life," Thinks Geology Gerry

"Geraldine!"

"Bow-wow," (meaning "Here.") Geraldine decided that there was something for even her to learn about geology, so she came into Prof. Jones' class Wednesday morning.

After roll call, she settled back on She held her head high with extended ears, in order to hear all that was being said. As the "prof" went around the room asking questions, Geraldine dropped her head when it came her turn just like the other co-eds of the class so that he might pass her by.

Geraldine didn't know her lesson, and the fear of having to account for herself got on her nerves. She became terribly restless. She walked around the room for a while, then decided that it was about time for the bell to ring. She slunk out into the hall, but seeing that the class didn't follow, she finally cameback.

The dozing class thoroughly disgustclass got up in a body and followed her from the room!

Decided on Hardwood

So plans were made for a hardwood floor and a carload of lumber was ordered from the east. On the way, the car hurned and another car had to be ordered and anxiously waited for. ### GROUNDS DON BEST FOR FINAL WEEKS

With campus improvements in the form of new trees, lawns and a bridge, the University is undergoing a thorough grooming preparatory to Com-

Two Colorado spruce trees appeared in front of the Agricultural building early one morning last week. They were taken from the east end of Mackay field at command of the regents. To prevent excessive evaporation while they establish new root systems, the spruces are sheltered by burlap on two sides. The trees are hardy enough to withstand extremes of temperature, and grow to great size.

New Bridge

A concrete bridge and steps with granite pillars will be one more permanent improvement to the Hill. The pillars will be placed at the foot of the slope at the Lake Street entrance. Since the grade is too steep for cars, a bridge wide enough only for pedestrians will be inscribed with a '24. The wooden steps will no longer be the tar get for criticism and curses.

Joyriders took a couple of spins on noon to discuss ways of reorganizing the lawn immediately inside the University gates Saturday night, tearing up the turf and leaving wheel-tracks. Mr. Seaman told of the plans adopt- The gardening force is putting much time on both old and new lawns, and hopes to have an unbroken stretch of green by the last week of college.
