WOLF PACK READY TO TROUNCE TEACHERS

MEN OF NOTE TO SPEAK TO STUDENT BODY DURING TERM

Ellison - White Bureau
To Give Programs
For Assemblies

COURSE OF TALKS Experienced writer and Artist Featured On Program

Three speakers of international reputation will come to the University under the auspices of the Ellison-White Celebrity Bureau, for general assemblies this winter.

Anthony Euwer, a platform humorist will address the assembly Friday, November 13. Maurice Hindus will speak on Modern Conditions in Russia on December 11, and Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, will address the assembly on February 24 on the life of the great northeastern wilderness of Labrador and the Hudson Bay region.

In addition to these speakers, Dr. Edward T. Devine has been chosen as lecturer under the Robert Lardin Fulton Lecture Foundation. Doctor Devine will present a short course of lectures entitled "Revolutionary Leaders of Our Own Times," picturing contemporary revolutionary movements in Russia, Italy, Great Britain, Mexico and India.

GRAD REGISTER AGAIN MISSING

Whether the guilty one be the ghost of an ancient grad, a collector of curios, or just an ordinary moth, remains to be discovered. The alumni register has disappeared for the second time in the past year.

Homecoming alumni register each year on returning to the campus for the festivities. Last week, when the book was needed, it could not be found. Shelves, dusty corners, desks and forgotten store places were frantically searched in a vain effort to locate the book.

Late in the afternoon of Homecoming day, a pad was substituted for the not-to-be found register, and returning grads placed their signatures thereon.

Miss Margaret Regan, secretary of the school of Agriculture, put the pad in her office for safekeeping. Monday morning it was there, but in the interval between lunch and dinner the curio hunter, or the ghost, or a hungry moth, made off with it, and now it can't be found.

An estimate of the number of names on the registration roll was given at close to one hundred. Of these signatures, a number gave graduation dates as far back as the class of 1890. The home of the most distant visitor was Cuba. The majority were from Reno. Due to the loss of the registration book, and the lateness of the substitute being put in its place, many names of returning graduates were not listed.

HILL PLAYERS PLAN CASTING OF ONE-ACTS

Tryouts Will Be Held
Next Week; Good
Material

With three one-act plays chosen this week by Campus players, the tryouts to cast these will be held in the near future, was the decision reached by Campus Players at their last meeting Wednesday night. The organization is confident that these plays will show up considerable talent on the Hill. The coaching of the plays will be in the hands of present members of Campus Players.

Several propositions are being considered by the organization to travel with the play "Oh Susan." Fallon, Yerington, Susanville, and Elko are being considered at present as possible showings.

Herefore tryouts for the one-act plays were held during the second semester and this year's policy constitutes a radical departure. By adopting this procedure Campus players plans to have more material available for the casting of a large three-act play which it plans on staging next semester.

AGGGIE SECRET IS WELL KEPT

"Aggie Club," spelled out by means of bright red apples, and beneath it 1925 written with potatoes carried out the theme of the always famous Aggie dance last Saturday night. Corn husks and the usual amount of hay completed decorations.

The Aggies carried out a new system in forcing the participants of the dance to be dressed in informal clothing. A fine of twenty-five cents was imposed on those who were too dressed up and a similar fine upon those who came in ridiculous clothing.

The long looked forward to mystery dance, remains to this day a mystery. The dancers, keenly disappointed because the mystery was not unfolded, drowned their disappointment in gallons of cider, pecks of cookies, and dozens of apples.

PROF. SCORES LAW; FARMER IS GENTLEMAN

Lehenbauer Discusses
Changing Farm
Environ

"Farming is becoming a gentleman's occupation," says P. A. Lehenbauer, professor of Biology at the University of Nevada.

"When I was a boy it used to be a mighty poor occupation, everything being done through muscle power alone. It was up at 2 to 4 o'clock in the morning during the summer time, work till seven at night in the fields, and then come home and do a few chores such as milking the cows, feeding all the stock, getting a few buckets of water and the wood for the next day. This was true of diversified farming in the middle west, the great amount of small crops requiring constant attention, leaving very little time for experiment or pleasure.

"Now with improved methods, implements instead of brawn, and the scientific discoveries, farming has become a gentleman's occupation.

"It was not so many years ago in the middle west that there was a saying, that if a young man had brains, to take up for law, if he had no brains to take up farming. Now just the reverse is true."

GENERATIONS SUCCEED GENERATIONS; LATEST IS AGGIE DAY II BIRTH

Four years ago, on the first big Aggie Day, a calf was born at the University of Nevada Stock Farm.

In honor of the day of her birth, the calf was christened "Aggie Day II." Last Friday at dawn, the fourth annual Aggie Day, a coincidence occurred at the Farm, Aggie Day II was born.

The new addition to the Stock Farm family is to be raised as Aggie Day I was, in the University fields on South Virginia Road.

PROF. SUTHERLAND KEPT FROM CLASSES; ILLNESS

Professor E. G. Sutherland, of the department of business administration and economics, has been unable to attend classes since Wednesday owing to severe illness. Prof. Sutherland returned Monday night from Utah where he was called to attend the funeral of his father who died last week.

Wolves' Frolic Hailed Comedy Hit of Campus Dramatic Year

University Glee Club Is Said Outstanding
Act of Show

Playing to a full house Thursday night, the annual Wolves Frolic proved to be one of the dramatic successes of the season. Probably the most outstanding act of the performance was that of the Glee Club. The results of Prof. Charles Hageman's coaching were easily apparent in the perfect harmony and rhythm of the selections given. Prof. E. E. Williams was accompanist.

"Life" was introduced with a background of broken pavement and ash cans but proved to be entertaining instead of sordid. The Campus Players supplied the required talent, the honors being divided between Harold Coffin, '26, Ruth Streeter, '23, Bernard White, '27, Bill Gutteron, '26, and Marion Deremer, '23.

Dances Please
Harrison Gardner and Alice Harrington demonstrated bits of the latest steps, bringing down the house. A series of dances directed by Mildred Hughes, '29, followed the prologue and received unanimous approval.

Proctor Hug, '26, president of the student body presented a silver loving cup with the thanks of the University to Helen Hibbert, '23, for selling the largest number of tickets to the "Frolic." The additional honor of the title "The Spirit of Nevada" and a full page cut in the "Artemisist" will be awarded.

Several individual skits were given, the most prominent being the violin selections by Solie Bulasky, '29.

The Wolves Frolic is an annual show given by the Student Body and sponsored by the Buck Grabbers. This is its third and possibly successful year.

TREASURE HUNT CARRIES WOMEN TO BOX OF EATS

"Start here" indicated the arrow in front of the Gym door. Thus the beginning of the W. A. A. treasure hunt was very plain to be seen, but after that the trail became less visible and it was left to the hunters to gather up the clues that led to the hidden treasure. The red arrows and painted keys led the women a merry chase through cemeteries, in and out back yards and pastures, up and down sand hills. Along this trail of red paint they scouted until at Forest Grove the signs indicated the end of the trail.

Like true pirates they set about seeking for the treasure. They searched and they dug among the trees and the mounds of fallen leaves and in every crevice until they discovered the treasure—a real feed. After lunching and resting, six new women were initiated into the W. A. A. Then the party joined in playing games until time to return to every-day life.

OH SUSAN MAY TRAVEL SOON

Tentative plans have been completed for taking "Oh Susan" the Campus Players' comedy, hit on the road for at least one trip this semester.

If present schemes are carried out the organization more active, and to give the "old grads" a better idea of what is going on at the University. J. H. Clemons explained the Student service organization to help the needy student, and the plan was referred to the executive committee to report to the alumni later.

U. OF N. STUDENT N. S. F. TREASURER

William H. Anderson, '26, president of the Cosmopolitan club of the University of Nevada, was elected national treasurer of the National Students Federation of America at a meeting of the executive board held in Berkeley recently.

The Federation is composed of a number of American Universities, of which Nevada is one. The editor of last year's Sagebrush Walker G. Matheson acted as national secretary last year.

WANDERING BOVINE IS ALMOST LIBERATOR OF PHILOSOPHY 1; NO GO

Is it the philosophy of Marx or of Kant that makes a cow run away? If you know please let Professor R. C. Thompson know as soon as possible. That is the question that he is working on at the present time.

The way that the point arose is this. It was in the middle of the 11:25 Philosophy class that a knock came on the door and an awe-stricken voice broadcast the news that Mrs. Thompson had called on the phone.

"The cow has escaped," ran the frantic message. "And I do not know where to find her. Come home at once."

The class sat up and breathed long sighs. Were they of relief? An air of expectancy pervaded the room. Then with a shrug of his shoulders the professor threw off the cares of the cow.

"I shall do without milk," he said bravely. And the lecture on the points of James' philosophy continued.

ORGANIZATIONS CO-OPERATING TO GIVE SHOW

Declamation Contest
To Be Featured
With Play

The two debating organizations of the University of Nevada are soon to meet. Caucus has challenged Clonia to a declamation contest.

This idea has not been carried off on the Campus before and members of both of these organizations are looking forward to the meeting with great anticipation as it is something new.

The event will take place sometime during the latter part of November. As the schedule is now, it will be on the same night as the D. A. E. play. Both of these enterprises will be held in the auditorium of the Education building.

As yet, neither of these organizations have chosen their subjects. From Clonia, Bob Scott has been elected to speak for that society, but Caucus has not chosen its member. This will be done at the meeting next Tuesday night.

In addition to the declamation contest and the play put on by D. A. E. there will be other entertainment.

"HAL" HUGHES COMING YEAR ALUMNI HEAD

Alumni Bulletin To Be Issued Quarterly
For Grads

Harold "Hal" Hughes, '24, former president of A. S. U. N. was elected president of the Nevada Alumni Association at the business meeting in the "Aggie" building last Saturday.

George (Molly) Malone, '21, was elected vice-president, while Louise Lewers was re-elected secretary-treasurer. An executive committee consisting of Robert Farrar, '14, and J. H. Clemons, '05 was also named.

The association wishes to make the organization more active, and to give the "old grads" a better idea of what is going on at the University. J. H. Clemons explained the Student service organization to help the needy student, and the plan was referred to the executive committee to report to the alumni later.

Tom Buckman, '18, asked that the College of Engineering and the College of Arts and Sciences assist in the next Homecoming celebration. Suggestions for an employment agency for the graduates were referred to a committee. An Alumni bulletin will be published quarterly in order to keep the "grads" in touch with the University. The editors of this paper will be J. J. McElroy, '25, and Chris Sheerin, '24.

FACULTY TAKES UP BASKETBALL

A faculty basketball team is the latest development along faculty education on the campus. At present there are six members interested. Coach Martie has set aside practice periods on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 4:30 to 6, in the Gym. There will be no undergraduate spectators at these practices.

WOLVES MEET COASTERS FOR LAST HOME GAME TOMORROW

Team That Held Santa Clara to One Touchdown
Comes Here Full of Confidence

Playing the last game at home, the Wolf Pack will sink its fangs into the Fresno State Teacher's College on Mackay Field tomorrow at 2:15.

The game as it was seen by critics at the start of the season was considered an easy one for the Wolves, but recent upheaval of comparisons places the conflict in a more serious light.

Three weeks ago the Teachers held the strong Santa Clara eleven to one touchdown. Last week the Missionites defeated Nevada by approximately one touchdown; therefore, according to comparative reasoning, the two squads who will clash tomorrow afternoon are about evenly matched.

PANHELL'S ANNUAL "SKID" TOMORROW

You haven't forgotten the Panhellenic skid tomorrow night—have you? Last minute dates are being made; the men are "raring to go," so at the Y. W. C. A. candy booth Panhellenic has inaugurated a "dating bureau" whose work is to secure dates for all women students.

The Panhellenic dance is the only affair of the year sponsored and carried out by the women alone for the entertainment of men and non-sorority women.

In the past two years the dance has been a feature of the Campus. The third annual attempt of Panhellenic is Saturday night, and is expected to be as successful as its predecessors.

LETTER GIVEN TO TRACK MEN THIS MORNING

Amendment Proposed
To Give Glee Club
New Income

Block No. 7 for track were awarded this morning to Captain William Nesbit, '26; Tom Raycraft, '27; Erwin Morrison, '27; Ralston Crew, '27; Hans Lohse, '25; Charles Horsey, '27; Archie Watson, '25; Vernon Canton, '28; Leslie Clover, '23; and Track Manager Ray Misener, '26 by J. E. "Doc" Martie.

Coach Martie complimented the student body on the excellent spirit shown this year.

Three amendments were proposed to the A. S. U. N. constitution. The first, and amendment to Article Two, Section V was introduced by Lawrence Baker, '26, Reading as follows: "All proposed organizations of the University Campus must petition the Executive Committee and receive the permission of that body before the new they will be permitted to exist."

Change Hymn
The second amendment proposed was made by Bill Clinch, '26, to the effect that the College Hymn of the University of Nevada should be changed from "U. of N. So Gay" to "Nevada, My Nevada" or the triumph hymn. Clinch also introduced an amendment providing that student body dues should be increased fifty cents each semester, and that the extra dollar should go to the Men's Glee Club. Each student is to receive in return a one dollar ticket to the annual Glee Club concert.

Glasses were given the privilege of charging admission to their class formal dances by a resolution introduced by Emory Branch, '27, and passed by the student body.

Women Pay
Four women members of the class of '29, convicted by the Women's Upperclass committee of breaking Nevada traditions, appeared in two stunts. Betty Rosenberg and Norma Gardella presented a Spanish dance and Irma Crotty and Dorothy Larsen appeared in a dialogue sketch dressed in costumes of 1850.

Music before the assembly began was furnished by Walt Reimers, '26, Bill Clinch, '26; Bert Spencer, '26; Gene Winer, ex-'27 and Claire Wilson, '29.

A. S. U. N. treasurer, Lawrence Baker, reporting the student body finances for the month of September showed a balance on hand at the end of that month of $6,015.87.

PAINT ON BENCH STILL MYSTERY

The origin of the white and red paint put on the Senior Bench Hallway night is still a deep mystery. The upperclass committee has been probing the matter for the past week, and is as yet unable to name the guilty parties.

The freshmen, by virtue of their class, were elected to remove the traces of the vandalism, but although they employed brushes, turpentine, oil and knives, they were unable to give the bench its former spotless appearance.

CLONIA LACKS DEBATE FUNDS

Advertising Campaign
Approved By Members

Student body tickets will be honored at all intercollegiate debates was decided at a regular meeting of Clonia held last Wednesday evening in the music room of the education building. Tickets for non-students will cost 25 cents.

A resolution was passed favoring a debating advertising campaign for the purpose of raising money to finance intercollegiate debating. All Clonia members were urged to take an active part in this drive.

Clonia will be represented by two of its members at the declamation contest with the Caucus, to be in conjunction with a one-act play presented by D. A. E.

Tryouts for the declamation team will be held at the next regular meeting.

The entertainment committee announced that the new Clonia initiates will have charge of the next social meeting. If any truth can be vouched for in the old saying "Revenge is sweet," it is expected that the old members will be taken through a course of sprouts that will make previous initiation records enviable.

NEW SNOW IS BATTLE URGE
Thoughts of Cold May Bring New Plans For Carnival

Snow greeted the students this week for the first time this year, and for a number of the California men and women, for the first of all times. Snowballing became the popular sport when it was found that the snow was such that would pack well and make good slushy snowballs. Battles were carried on about the Campus between classes, developing a number of minor casualties. The general method of snowballing seemed to be of a free-lance style where everybody threw a ball at anyone else they thought they could hit.

Kinda Late
Although coming late, this first snow is said by weather experts to be the heralding of a hard winter that is to hit this part of the country. The past two winters have been extremely mild in snow and lowness of temperature, and it is believed that such weather will not continue for a third because of the abundance of rain storms during the past summer.

Several attempts to promote ice carnivals on Manzanita Lake may take effect with the coming of a sharp cold spell. Each previous time the carnival had been planned a jump in temperature melted the ice on the lake to such an extent that the entertainment was postponed.

DEBATES ARE NOW ARRANGED
Final Tryouts To Take Place Wednesday Afternoon

Final intercollegiate debate tryouts will be held in the auditorium of the Educational building, November 10 and 11. Those to tryout in the first debate will be Scott and Dieringer, taking the affirmative; Wilson and Glenn taking the negative side of the question. The second contest will be Shelly and Richards, affirmative, and Brown and Deeser, negative. The original question was "Resolved: That the United States should declare war by popular vote, except in the case of invasion or rebellion," but the question has been changed, "Resolved: That war should be declared by popular vote, except in the case of invasion or rebellion." By this change the affirmative has been relieved of a heavy burden. The University of Nevada will take the affirmative side of this question in a debate to be held in Salt Lake City, with the University of Utah and on the same evening in Reno, the University of Nevada will debate the negative side of this question, against the University of South California.

There will also be freshmen debate tryouts on Wednesday evening, November 11. Those trying out are M. Menke and J. Bulasky taking the affirmative side of the question, and S. Bulasky and E. Bingham the negative. Each team will present ten minute constructive speeches and five minute rebuttals.

LIBRARY EFFECTS NEW BLUE LAWS

Five new laws have been compiled in accordance with library regulations by the library staff. These new laws which have immediate effect are:
1. The five minute period between classes will be confined strictly to giving out reserve books and returning them. Do Not Ask To Have Books Reserved At This Time.
2. All requests for periodicals will be filled within half a day.
3. Periodicals will be loaned for a period of three days. They will not be held longer than one day.
4. No person having a fine may get a book or periodical for himself or anyone else until his account is paid.
5. Anyone whose conduct is not in accordance with the accepted regulations of the Library will be asked to leave by anyone of the Library staff. Library staff.

CONTEST TRYEEES RUN CLOSE RACE

The best story contest which runs in The Sagebrush every issue was won last week by Fred Anderson, '28, Margaret Hill, '27, and Bob Adamson, '28. These students wrote the best stories appearing in the Homecoming edition of the Sagebrush.

This contest was inaugurated by the staff of The Sagebrush in 1922 with the idea of instilling competition among the staff members. The editors judge the stories every week and at the end of the semester awards are given to those members who won in a majority of the contests.

COSMOPOLITANS PLAN MEETINGS

Members of the University of Nevada Cosmopolitan club met last Wednesday evening in the Agricultural building to discuss plans for the remaining meetings of the semester. A number of petitions for membership were considered. Nominations of Kip Gee, and Joe Min, were also made for vice-president, an office left open by the failure of Baahan S. Teja to return to the University of Nevada this semester.

PRE-MEDS WILL HEAR DR. McLEAN

"Medical Ideas" will be the subject of the talk to be given on Tuesday night, November 10, before the Pre-Medical Society. Dr. Donald McLean, a well-known physician and surgeon of Reno, will be the speaker. All members of the student body and the faculty are welcome.

FORESTRY NOW COLLEGE TOPIC

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 6.—The First Annual Small Sawmill Demonstration will be held at the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse University November 10 and 11 preceding the New York State Wood Utilization Conference at the College November 12.

Small sawmills and portable mills are becoming more and more an important problem in the affairs of owners of woodlots in the East and it is the purpose of the college to instruct the owners of such mills and farmers who have woodlot properties in the proper methods of operation and economical handling of logs and lumber as they apply to the sawmill. Instructions will be given in logging, and operation and care of the plant. Proper logging equipment will be shown and method considered in connection with their use.

Technique Discussed
Estimating and handling woodlands, how to value timber and lumber, piling, seasoning, and auxiliary products such as ties, poles, posts, cordwood, slabs, small dimension stock, saw dust, etc., will be discussed. Lumber grading, marketing, and view points of the wholesaler and retailer will be studied. This demonstration is in response to a demand from lumbermen, farmers and woodlot owners who have expressed a need of such information. Talks will be given each day beginning at 8:30 and continuing to 5:00 p. m. No charge for the demonstration.

PUMPKIN PRIZE GOES TO KERR

Five hundred and twenty-two was the winning guess in the Aggie pumpkin seed contest, won by A. J. Kerr who hit upon the exact number. Second prize was taken by Beverly Johnson, who tied the guess. There was no third prize awarded because the guess of eight hundred and twenty-five was not accompanied by a name.

UTAH UNIVERSITY DESIRES DEBATE

Brigham Young University has asked that a debate with the University of Nevada be arranged for some time in February, the question to be "Resolved, that a National Divorce Law should be passed." The team will be on a debating tour of the coast during this month.

WOMENS FACULTY CLUB WILL MEET

The Women's Faculty Club will meet on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Home Economics Rooms in the Agricultural building. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Messdames F. W. Trauer, S. G. Palmer, Walter Palmer and Walter E. Pratt. This will be the first meeting with the new officers in charge.

COME AND TRY THESPIANS CRY

"Come out and strut your stuff" is the cry of Campus Players this week. Notices for the try-outs for Campus Players will be posted on the bulletin board this next week. These try-outs will continue for three days only and those who have aspirations along these lines will have to be on hand bright and early.

Wednesday night's meeting brought forth the decision that the "tryees" will be tested this year in three one-act plays. Campus Players urge that everyone who has any ability along these lines come out and if the aspirant has no ability come out and try anyway.

COMMITTING SUICIDE

IN THE face of strong home indifference The Wolf Pack is fighting—battling in the very face of the most insidious of odds—adverse comment and lack of support. Teams, described oftentimes as beautiful machines, are human after all. They are very human, and being so, are more efficient when they feel their purported backers are really behind them; when they can hear cheers, cheers that ring in their memory through those few minutes of hell that seem eternities.

Praying, pleading, daring seem to have been in vain. Nevada rooters will not, have not, put themselves full force into the spirit that wins games—but even then, the Pack, which has no doubt given up hope of support, is crashing through the stone wall of adversity.

It has been "boomed" and laughed at, cursed and hissed, things that would take life from the stoutest of hearts. The Wolves have had the hardest run of rotten luck in years—the injury jinx, the small school complex, the off color breaks—and never yet have any alibis been made. Nevada never uses them.

Town people, transfers—wise birds from over the Hump—and even native Sagebrushers have given their team the go-by. They have passed remarks in stage whispers that are more contagious than if they shouted them from the top of Morrill Hall. The whole bunch of knockers should be dumped into the Lake just before a freeze.

There are two courses open for the renegade part of the student body. They may either get down to Mackay Field tomorrow and in an eleventh hour attempt try and redeem themselves—

Or they may let the game go unheeded and watch the wearers of Silver and Blue fight to a victorious finish without their help.

THE GREATEST MOTHER

NOVEMBER 11, Armistice day, the American Red Cross begins its annual roll call, which will continue until Thanksgiving, November 26. A membership button costs only one dollar.

Bearing in mind the really tremendous service which the Red Cross renders to stricken nations, communities, and individuals, one could hardly invest a dollar better.

The Red Cross is not a local or even a national organization, it is a world wide group devoted to service. Perhaps no other charitable organization has been so free from the charges of mismanagement which have no occasion been leveled against other institutions of a similar nature.

The Red Cross helps the "down and outer" it relieves suffering wherever possible. The Red Cross deserves your real support. —W. H. A.

CAMPUS DRAMATICS

THAT "Oh Susan" is going on the road is just another example of the excellence that campus dramatics have attained in the last few years. What is more, this is not the first time that campus plays have shown away from home.

Last year, the senior play, "To the Ladies" went to Fallon, Winnemucca, and Lovelock, and was well received in each place. Two other productions, "Bunker Bean," and "Come Out of the Kitchen," which were played in '21 and '22 respectively, traveled to other cities in the state after successful first nights here.

These amateur Thespians deserve particular credit for their accomplishments because of the difficulties under which they work. Their practice stage is the third floor of Stewart Hall which they share with the band, the Desert Wolf, and the mice. The final productions are staged either in the Education auditorium with its limited facilities, or in some town theater where expenses are great. Every finished production represents weeks of exacting practice and hard work.

The place which dramatics now holds on the Hill is the result of this hard work of casts and business staffs, coupled with the active interest of all members of Campus Players, which has gained the loyal support of the entire student body. —S. G. T.

QUADDOLOGY by Casper

BECAUSE of the big bonfire rally and the flaming "Welcome Home" sign that burned in honor of Homecoming Day last week-end, all of the old grads can go home now and tell their grandchildren about the HOT reception that was dished out to them.

B B B
THIS WEEK'S MOST APPROPRIATE QUESTION
How old does an old grad have to be to be an old grad?

B B B
In the 'Brush's Homecoming Extra there was a headline that read as follows:

NEVADA COACH HEADS PARADE ARMISTICE DAY
Ask the editor if he means football coach or the stage coach that the Aggies had in the last parade.

B B B
FAMOUS SAYINGS MADE INFAMOUS
"Mygosh, Mother, what a long parade!"

B B B
And now I suppose that some Wise William Will Want To know if he can Call Luethal Austin A Stage Coach, just Because she "coached" "Oh Susan!"

B B B
Art writes in and asks if his old man weighed 2,000 pounds would his name be "Tonopah?"

B B B
For Art's sake, don't tell us what you think of that one.

B B B
This week's most appropriate song hit, dedicated to the Pacific Ocean, is entitled:

"I'M BIGHTY BLUE" AND SO'S YOUR OLD MAN!
B B B
Just received a nice long letter from Minnie the Moron by air (not variety) mail. Minnie's letter is just full of wise crax. B. C. suggests that she has been parking on a curb stone with her ear to the ground, listening to the cracks in the sidewalk.

B B B
Anyway, here it is: "Gee, the Bloek N must be an awful fraternity. Just look how those guys are limping after the initiation. The goat must have been terrible rough."

B B B
And then: "These colored sox must be awful hard on the women—they have to change them every day. Take a fella for example, he can put on a pair of gray ones the first of the semester and have black ones in time for the Junior Prom."

B B B
And finally: "A new fund has just been started to buy nice red flannels with pearl buttons for the dancing class since the school can't be moved south for the winter. Hoping you are the same, Minnie the Moron."

B B B
Just what do you mean, Minnie, hoping I am the same? That I'll be moved south for the winter or that I will start to buy some red flannels? In either case, you are out of luck. I have no intentions of going south; and I already have a good supply of red flannels.

B B B
As for the Bloek N being a fraternity, you can't fool me there because everybody knows that the Bloek N is a cigar store on Virginia Street, and not no fraternity.

B B B
My professor can give me an examination I can't pass. What can your professor do?

B B B
F. H. says that hers can "suck all day suckers in class and get by with it. "You don't need to go to college to roll out," snored the man in the upper berth.

B B B
FAMOUS CAMPUSITES—No. 0

BANK
THE BOY WITH PLENTY OF MONEY TO LOAN.
B B B
Suggested Signals For Football Teams
"54—40—0r"
Which would be the signal for a team to fight.

B B B
At the game last Saturday one of the S. Y. Teas (Sweet Young Things) heard them calling signals something like this: "37—02—45—19." And she wanted to know how they added them up so fast?

B B B
And so, as the umpire remarked after the touchdown, "It's all over now."

THE FATED SHIP

One night I slept
Out on the balcony
For a breath of Air
And a glance at the Moon,
My gossamer draperies
Fluttered in the night breezes.
As I gazed aloft
I thought of my loves
And disappointments
And vowed never again
To give my heart
To a man
To break.
A step I took,
Then I found
No place to rest
My bare white foot,
My arms stretched forth
Into empty space.
Then closed
On muscular shoulders
And I felt myself
Held tight in
Fine strong arms.
A thrill
My heart filled,
Who was my hero?
Who had saved me
From my terrible fall?
I pictured him
As tall
And finely proportioned
Good to look at,
And I could see
The envy he would cause.
I hated to
Open my eyes
But still I must see!
Softly, stealthily
I peeped.
It was dark!
Then he stepped into the light!
My heart stopped beating.

Miss Mack!"
It was the night watchman!

The Play's The Thing

"Powerfully dramatic yet clean and wholesome," is the description given by critics to "The Price of Pleasure," a Universal picture starring Virginia Valli and Norman Kerry, which appears at the Wigwam Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. She wanted a good time. So did he. They played with love, and they paid. That is short is the theme of the picture, according to the producers. "The Price of Pleasure" is one of Universal's most pleasing productions in the opinion of the management of the forum theatre of Los Angeles where "Intermingling of beauty, pathos, and comedy splendidly handled makes it a great audience picture," the management of the Forum adds.

Mrs. Hatch was in mourning for her mountaineer husband and their two children, who had been killed the night before by Hardboiled Jem Rugger. The door of the room swung open and there stood the murderer himself. He smiled faintly and said:

The Book Mart

"The Ladies of London" by Margaret Kennedy, author of "The Constant Nymph" is disappointing. Although there is a well constructed plot, a set of varied characters, somewhat pale, to be sure, and a definite point of view, it lacks the zest one has been led to expect from the author. Double-day Page & Co. $2.00.

"Possession" by Louis Bromfield is a book which can be confidently recommended to friends. In 1924 the author made his first appearance as a novelist with "The Green Bay Tree." "Possession," his second novel, is independent of the first, yet is related to it. Depicting American life before the World War, in all its charming, brilliant, ungainliness, the author surprises one with the smoothness of his texture, the bright fluency and the

In an isolated region; almost inaccessible in winter, this 6500 h.p. hydro-electric plant located on the Deerfield River in New England, starts, protects, and stops itself.

A Self-Starting Power Plant

Dawn—the slumbering city awakens and calls for electric current. Many miles away the call is answered. A penstock opens automatically, releasing impounded waters; a water turbine goes to work, driving a generator; and electric current is soon flowing through wires over the many miles to the city. This plant starts and runs itself.

Power plants with automatic control are now installed on isolated mountain streams. Starting and stopping, generating to a set capacity, shutting down for hot bearings and windings, gauging available water supply, they run themselves with uncanny precision.

Thus another milestone has been reached in the generation of electric power. And with present-day achievements in power transmission, electricity generated anywhere may be applied everywhere.

The non-technical graduate need not know where electricity comes from—nor even how it works. But he should know what electricity can do for him no matter what vocation he selects.

The General Electric Company has developed generating and transmitting equipment step by step with the demand for electric power. Already electricity at 220,000 volts is transmitted over a distance of 270 miles. And G-E engineers, ever looking forward, are now experimenting with voltages exceeding a million.
A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.

GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY, SCHENECTADY, NEW YORK

FROM THE BENCH
BY BILL GUTTERON

Although Nevada came out on the short end of the Santa Clara score, her men gave a good account of themselves.

The boys fought every bit of the way, from beginning to end. For the result of the touchdowns we must give full credit to Walsh's men in covering the ball. I don't think that Santa Clara can be given credit for an earned score. They took advantage of every opportunity, and opportunity was offered three times. Not once was it overlooked. They saw and acted. The score tells the tale.

I know just about how Frosty felt on his first fumble of the season. It's a hard thing to swallow but is done and can't be undone. That is a misfortune that comes into the playing of the best. The boys surely showed good fighting spirit after the mishap and fought hard to overcome it.

Good Judgment

There were only two things that seemed to hinder the team. The passing was not sufficiently protected. Bailey showed good judgment in throwing the ball into open territory when he was smothered. It saved a loss which would have cost fifteen yards. Another time he reversed the oncomers and made necessary yardage. The attack which met him near his goal resulted in the final score of the game.

Burden Was On Quarterback

In a game, played as was last Saturday's game, all the burden is laid upon the quarterback. When the game is over and the statistics are shown, every movement of the team offensively, reflects upon him.

It seemed that the boys were to anxious to help Lawson out. The result was that Whitey was not able to depict his play sufficiently himself. His attention was detracted too much. Aside from this, eleven men accounted for every minute of the game in hard fighting.

Gilberg, Hansen Show Well

The line offered several names that deserve mention for their work. Hansen, who has just been moved in tackle recently, gave a grand account of himself. I don't think any one has ever seen Gilberg play a better game than he did Saturday. He was in nearly every play, taking his man out defensively as well as offensively. Nearly every pile that was cleared found 41 coming out last.

Roach is Idol Of Bleachers

There is one fellow who has a lot of admirers in the bleachers. We are all hoping that Roach's ankle, and hand will allow him to play a full game from now on. Tom is a fighter from the blow of the whistle to the final shot. Play after play he penetrated Santa Clara's line and stopped plays before they hardly started. Although handicapped by a "bad" ankle he was the first to wrap his arms around the receiver on punts.

Allen and Bailey Shared Honors

In the backfield, Allen and Bailey shared honors. Allen's cool headedness on punts, his ability to diagnose play, and back up the line as well as his hard drives, deserve mention. Bailey handled his position well. Jim did some nice work in passing. If he keeps his head and continues to work hard he should make a valuable player by his junior year.

Fairbrother once more was given a chance, and once more he took advantage of the opportunity in turning in good work.

By the looks of things, Nevada will be in her best stride when she meets Fresno and will undoubtedly send her visitor back with memories not to be forgotten.

COAST GAMES FOR B. B. TEAM AT CHRISTMAS

"St. Ignatius, the Y. M. I. the Oregon Aggies, and the Olympic Club is the line-up for Christmas vacation for the Varsity basketball squad if present plans become effective." "Doc" J. E. Martie said recently. If it can be arranged, the team will spend the two weeks in San Francisco where they will play the four squads. This should put them in good condition for their first game which will be played at College of Pacific in Stockton.

The men who are out for practice now will probably get the chance to make the coast trip, according to Martie, and while it will take away their vacation, he thinks that it will be worth while.

BRUSH SPORTS

BRONCS, PACK FINALLY BREAK OLD DEADLOCK IN GRID GAME

Record Breaking crowd Watches Wolf Pack Meet Defeat

PLAY FOR BREAKS

Teams Evenly Matched In Most Thrilling Game of Year

of the season the Nevada Wolf Pack went down in defeat last Saturday before the sixth annual Homecoming Day through. A record breaking crowd filled the bleachers at Mackay Field to overflowing, and watched the Broncs of Santa Clara break the long record of tie games with Nevada. Both teams played for "breaks" and waited for a chance to smash through for a score. They had many features in common that made the game well matched. Each was handicapped by the loss of men due to injuries. The average weight was about the same and neither team had had been able to defeat the other in the past three years.

The Bleachers were kept in a constant state of excitement by the spectacular playing demonstrated by both teams. Fumbles, passes, tackles, and broken field running for large gains caused the crowd to jump to their feet constantly. Both elevens were waiting for the breaks, and when they came both teams and crowd got a thrill.

NEV

WOLVES MEET FRESNO STATE

They are getting down under punts in fine shape, and the opposing safety men are finding this out.

Little need be said of the tackles, except that they can hit on the defense and smash holes for the offensive drive. Although the guards have little opportunity to star, they are always reliable and the center of the line is tight.

Roach in Place

Captain Tom Roach will be in place at center. He has shown consistent improvement throughout the season in the pivot job.

Information about the "Teachers" is scarce except that they are reputed to be over confident as to the effects of their style of football on the Wolf Pack. They use the "Minnesota Shift" which, roughly speaking, consists of a nicely timed shift in both back field and line. This can be successfully checked by a hard charging line, the description fitting the Nevada Varsity perfectly.

Last Home Game

This is the last conference game the Pack plays at home this season and it will probably decide the second place in the Far Western Conference. Following this game the Varsity will have two trips, meeting the California Aggies at Sacramento and the Arizona Wildcats at Tucson.

NEV

Skiing is now taught as a winter sport at an eastern university.

NEV

The winner of the international seaplane races held at Bayshore, near Baltimore, Maryland, James H. Doolittle, was a member of the '18 class in the University of California.

Wolves Are Light Team Compared to Opponents

Every time the Wolf Pack goes on the gridiron to battle with traditional foe, Nevada has 4057 pounds of argument flaunting her colors.

The first eleven Wolves tip the scales at 1882 pounds, making the average weight 171. The alternates of the first group, 13 in number, chase the numbers up to 2175, allowing only 167 pounds to the man.

Nevada has three small fellows, as football goes, who are holding down quarter and halfback positions with only 145 pounds of meat and bones to their credit. Seemingly, the balance of their make-up doesn't weigh so much but carries a lot of weight, just the same.

NEV

1925 BASKET SQUAD STARTS SEASON WORK

Thirty-two Men Have Signed Up For Practice

Although only thirty-two men have showed up for basketball practice, Martie has hopes for a good turnout as soon as football is over. Two letter men, Leon Hainer and Ray Fredricks have been getting in trim for some time now and figure to give some of the grid men a run for their jobs.

The court has been reserved for Varsity practice on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7 to 9. This is only for those fellows not out for football. They will begin working out immediately after the Thanksgiving holidays.

Coach "Doc" Martie does not figure on having a ready-made team this year as he had last season but he has several men whom he feels will be reliable and form a good base for his squad.

Friend May Return

"Big Boy" Friend, star center of last year, will probably be back on the Hill at the beginning of the new semester. Whether he will be eligible to play is the big question. His status is to be decided by a committee of faculty representatives from the colleges in the Far Western Conference. Usually he would not be allowed a

FROSH DEFEAT RENO HIGH IN INITIAL GAME

Babes Win First Game Of The Season 19 to 0

Defeating the strong Reno high school team the Frosh won their first game of the season Saturday. Both teams put up a fight and showed good form. The Babes were handicapped severely by the absence of several of their star players, and by the experience of their opponents.

Reno started the game by intercepting a forward pass for a 30-yard gain. The Frosh line held and Reno lost the ball. The Frosh had the edge on the offensive making consistent gains through the high school line.

In the second period the high school tightened up. Gault stopped several end runs and Reno took the ball on downs. The Frosh held and forced the High school to kick. Reno tightened up and made the "Babes" punt. Reno put in several substitutes and

Students Like Teacher With Sense of Humor

"The influential teacher is one who has high ideals, particularly of personal conduct, and who must be able to stimulate ambition. The person with no vision should not teach." This is the conclusion of Dr. James R. Young of the psychology department, after compiling the results of a questionnaire regarding "The Traits of My Most Influential Teacher" which was issued over a period of several years to 1,000 students.

"The successful teacher," said Dr. Young, "must have faith, not only in the pupils with whom she deals, which is most important, but also in the fact that the work she is undertaking is constructive and worthwhile. She must discover the possibilities of her students and encourage them in every way. A part of this undertaking," continued Dr. Young, "lies in having personal sympathy, of the type that makes the teacher able to appreciate the student's point of view, able to understand his pleasures and his difficulties, in other words, a type which makes the teacher approachable."

Humor is Test

"Most of the students in replying to the questionnaire stressed the point that the best teacher has a sense of humor, and I, myself, believe that more teachers fall through a lack of a sense of humor than a lack of knowledge," commented Dr. Young. "Just for fun I might suggest the desirability of a humor test with a graded series of jokes and stories, and the kind the teacher would appreciate should determine her position in the school. That might create a bit of excitement if put on trial."

Interest in Other Fields

"The teacher who is a good sport is always admired, and the good sport may include anyone from eighteen to sixty-five because it is a characteristic of the mind enabling the individual to stand a joke, even on himself, or to be placed in a hard situation without fussing or complaining. The teacher must show interest and enthusiasm, not only in her own work but in other fields, and thereby enable herself to broaden the student's interests.

In conclusion," said Dr. Young, "the wise teacher will be interested in student activities not only as a means of securing cooperation, but also as a method of developing in herself the necessary sympathy with, and understanding of the student."

WOMEN DON'T GET SAME CHANCE AS MEN IN MUSIC SAYS CRANDALL

Dorothy Crandall, instructor of music at the University, commenting on A. G. Gulbransen's statement in last week's Sagebrush that boys are more musical than girls as shown by the roll of the great composers and virtuosi, and by the laws of heredity said:

"This is perfectly true regarding facts from which conclusions are drawn, but Mr. Gulbransen is mistaken in saying women have not been deprived of opportunity. The truth is that it is much more difficult for women to get their compositions published or even listened to, than men. It is not so many years since Chamade struggled to have her music heard by French publishers. Three of our prominent song composers in the United States today are women. They are: Mrs. H. H. Beach, Mary Turner Salter, and Harriet Ware. In my opinion we have no men who are doing better work than they.

"I agree that another generation will show whether the new freedom of women will result in their taking a larger part in musical history."

Few Real Geniuses

Dr. J. R. Young, professor of psychology, gave his opinion on the subject and said:

"So far as musicians go there are many more women who play the piano than men, but fewer real geniuses. In any field the average is higher for the women, but the range is greater among the men, and they are at the top in actual accomplishment. For example in the spheres of cooking and dressmaking, which have been women's job for time immemorial, the first class chefs and designers are men.

"Women have difficulty in getting compositions listened to because they are relatively new in the field of creative music.

Radio music and phonographs will mean a smaller number of youths will be interested to reach any degree of excellence. Hearing good music so easily, discourages one as there is no special urge when good music is so easily available. Where there is special capacity however, the urge will remain. Thus the succeeding generation will reveal fewer second and third class musicians and more first class ones."

SUNDOWNERS' INITIATION AMAZES INNOCENT FROSH AS HOBO PLODS ON HILL

"What's up?" asked a frosh, when he saw one of the men walking up the campus in broad daylight, swinging a big lantern.

Then he saw a hobo appear with a bed roll upon his back, and certainly wondered what had come over the campus. Upon closer observation this was not a hobo, but a plain, everyday student.

When he saw another with an old coffee pot dangling from a long rope, he gave up wondering and started asking about it.

"Of course, you wouldn't know what that is, but just ask me," answered a soph. "That is the Sundowner's initiation. They are the extensive travelers of the campus. They took in eight new members, just as the sun went down last Monday. Lawrence Chaffee, '26, Lawrence Nise-wander, '26, Louis Skinner, '27, Keith Scott, '27, Lesley Clover, '28, Kenneth Knopf, '27, Fritz Hagmeyer, '27, and Schrock, '26.

WORLD AND STATE ARE RENOVATED; "GEOLOGY" JONES WORKS MARVELS

Due to his success in repairing Nevada's undermined hills, recouring the trout-laden streams, and in digging new mountain passes, Dr. J. Claude Jones, professor of geology, has now remodeled the world, and placed it beneath the lone state of Nevada.

The world, having been knocked off its axis lay on the floor in the Mackay School of Mines building, until the professor took pity on it.

Some tin, rope, and plaster of paris was secured and new poles were added to the earth. As a measure of precaution, the remodeled globe was placed under the relief map of Nevada for safe keeping.

Jones says that everything went fine until he found out that the south pole moves in an ill-behaved manner. This, he thinks, is the cause for the recent snow.

COLLEGES WILL DISCUSS COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE

Some idea of the extent of, and the newest tendencies in the Little Theatre movement in the colleges will be shown at the first National Conference of The American Theatre. At the Carnegie Institute of Technology, on Nov. 27-28, will be gathered representatives from almost every college theatrical group in the country. While the conference will discuss the Little Theatre movement as a whole, the colleges will come in for a large part of the discussion.

"One of the chief purposes of the meeting is to study the potential influence of the community playhouse movement now going on in the American colleges for the promotion of interest in the serious drama."
