Sorority Council Adopts Second Semester Plans In Hill Rushing

Pan Hellenic Women Makes Decision Tuesday

January, 1930, Will Be Next Rushing Season

Second semester rushing and bidding for sororities will go into effect on the University of Nevada Campus in January 1929, according to a decision made by the Pan-Hellenic Council at a meeting held Tuesday night. This means there will be no sorority rushing until January, 1930, with only the one rush season a year.

Another radical change in rushing was made when the council voted to adopt the preferential bidding system recommended by National Pan-Hellenic at all local councils. This plan calls for numerous radical changes in the present rushing system.

Each semester explanations of rushing and sororities in general will be given to the freshmen women at registration time, and after that, any questions they may wish to bring up may be asked of the Dean of Women, or the president of the Pan-Hellenic council.

Sorority women will be allowed to have friendly relations with freshmen or new women only on the Campus, at Campus functions and activities and in Manzanita parlor. No sorority women will be allowed in the rooms of freshmen women living at Manzanita or at home. Sorority women and freshmen women will not be able to go out on the same dates, according to one of the rules adopted.

Another important plan passed at this meeting was the fixing of the average, which must be attained by any woman before she is rushed or bid, at a 2.5. By this means it is hoped to raise the scholastic average at Nevada, made each year by the women.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS SPEAKER

RUTH BRYAN OWEN TALKS ON WAR CAMPAIGNS IN FRANCE

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen spoke Saturday night on the world war between the Turks and the Allies. The lecture was the most interesting one of the school year. Mrs. Owen is the daughter of William Jennings Bryan and was elected to congress in the last election.

Mrs. Owen spoke very interestingly on some of the campaigns over there. She also told some of her experiences in the hospitals. It is in the hospitals she says that one realizes how awful war is. She urged that we prepare for peace now, because when war comes we are too busy fighting to think about peace. It is up to the youth of the country to make peace, she said.

Mrs. Owen wore a medal which had a very interesting story attached to it. In one of the campaigns that went on while she was there the Turks were retreating, they had to give up because of the lack of food. The Allies seized them and gave them food. The Turkish general then took off his medal saying that he didn't deserve it for fighting such a merciful enemy. The medal is a star and was given to him by the Kaiser.

Mrs. Clark introduced Mrs. Owen and Dean Adams gave the concluding speech.

Nevada Refuses

At a special meeting of A. S. U. N. this morning, called by Vice-President Rene Duque, the student body voted to reject an offer made by "down-town" men through the person of Rev. Brewster Adams last Friday. In rejecting this offer Nevada refuses to place itself in the class of colleges that entertain the policy of buying their players. In making this move the University is taking the course most difficult to follow in that much money is being refused.

The Sagebrush resents criticism made of it in printing stories of student body meetings. All statements were qualified in reporting the offer made by Brewster Adams, in that the "Brush stated only "deserving" athletes be given scholarships. Reports circulated on the Coast were not based on anything printed in the University publication, but rather on stories appearing in both Reno papers.

PHI SIGMA MEN CAPTURE FIRST PLACE IN PAST CAGE TOURNEY

S. A. E., SIGMA NU TILT IS HIGH LIGHT OF WEEK'S PLAYING

TWO TEAMS TIE FOR THE SECOND PLACE IN CONTEST

The end of the Interfraternity tournament last Monday found the Phi Sig men atop of the heap, while the former champion Sigma Nu quintet, which has grabbed first place for the last five years, were tied for next best with the S. A. E.s.

Hard Fought Game

The high point of interest was probably reached on Monday night when the S. A. E.s and Sigma Nu tangled in front of a crowd which packed the gym to the rafters. The Evans street game went in on the long end, but the Sigma Nu five played inspired ball, and succeeded in upsetting the dope and taking the game to the tune of 15-11.

The rivalry of the two lodges is traditional, and the customers were shown plenty of action. It was anybody's game until the final gong.

The work of Salisbury was outstanding in this game. The little Sigma Nu guard has a way of breaking up plays and dribbling the ball down the floor which should make him worth watching in the future. In this game, he had plenty to stop, for in Lombardi and Dakin, the S. A. E.s had one of the nicest working forward combinations in the league.

The folks who walked out after the first game missed one of the queerest games of the year. This was the fracas in which the Beta Kappa and Lincoln Hall furnished the entertainment. The first half ended at 16 apiece, and in the second half the dormitory boys settled down to business and ran up a final score of 40 points to the opposition's 20. That, readers, is dropping through close to one basket per minute, which is a lot of scoring for one game.

A. T. O.'s Strong
A team which looked like the money, yet failed to get to first base in league standing was the A. T. O. five. These boys looked very good every place but in the score column. The Taus had one of the biggest teams in the league, and had good teamwork, but lacked the ability to put the melon through the ring, which is the thing that counts in a basketball game.

NEV. TALENT IN DANCE PROGRAM

PROCEEDS TO BE GIVEN TO W. A. A. LODGE FUND

Tonight at 7:30 at the Century Club, University talent will be included in a dance recital, "A Mid-Winter's Eve Dream," being presented by the University Heights School, whose principal is Mrs. Vera Sale.

All proceeds above expenses and a small sum for the Orphans' Home at Carson, will be given to the W. A. A. for their Lodge fund.

The land for the W. A. A. lodge has not yet been completely deeded over to the organization, owing to legal complications, but the fund for the building is growing and construction will start as soon as the title is given to W. A. A.

WEAVERS SHOW WORK
Tuesday and Thursday morning the weaving class of the Home Economics department will exhibit the work that they have done this semester, under the direction of Miss Pope.

Third Issue of Nevada Alumni Record Is Now Off of Press

95 of 1328 Graduates Listed in Record Now Deceased

Extensive Biographies Are Compiled of Students

The University of Nevada has just released the 1928 publication of the Alumni Record. This record is the first one that has been compiled since 1922.

The edition that has just been put out is the third ever printed by the local committee. The first one was issued under the date of August 1, 1918, and second addition under the date of November, 1922. The directory ends with a short message to the alumni from the president of the University. In this section there is a short resume made of the enrollment tabulated show that the student enrollment has advanced during the six years since the last record was issued from 727 to 1,002 for the years 1927-1928. In this same general heading the alumni activities are given a considerable place as to the officers, the projects which have been started in connection with Homecoming Day, and various other tips of general interest.

There are 1328 names on the alumni roll. Ninety-five of the alumni are deceased and of the remaining 1233 there are only 14 graduates on which there is no information.

The "B" part of this Alumni Record contains a very complete sketch as to the history and the development of the University of Nevada from 1862, the date of the Morrill Land Grant down until the present year 1928.

Section C of the pamphlet is given over to University honors, competitions, prizes, scholarships and foundations. In this section the 21 scholarships and fellowships of the University are tabulated and the gold medal and other University scholarship honors are fully considered.

Section D of the book, which represents the most comprehensive report ever compiled, consists of a list of the students given according to the year of graduation. This is further supplemented by extensive biographies on each of the men and women who are listed. In the second table under this general subdivision a list is given of the graduate alumni. This includes those who have received higher degrees after a course of graduate study in the University of Nevada. Sixty-eight members have been granted this honor. In table III, eighteen members are listed under the heading of Honorary Alumni. The fourth table gives the gold star honor roll of the local school. This is the list of those men who gave their lives for their country. Seventeen men have had their names engraved in the highest honor roll of all, that of service. There is also a list of ten persons given on the Alumni Honor service roll of the school. This group was chosen by their peers, "as members of that body who have served their day faithfully and well in the full Spirit of the Oath." Five names are to be chosen each five years beginning with the spring of 1929.

The geographical distribution of the alumni by present addresses, and this large table is further subdivided into separate sections of the states. Most of the past graduates are grouped in the state of Nevada and its sister state California. It is interesting note however that Nevada graduates are to be found in many foreign countries. Among these countries, four are now living in China, two in England, one in France, three in Japan, four in South Africa.

Of the eastern states Massachusetts and New York rank at the top of the list. New York leads with twenty-seven graduates from the University while Massachusetts has 18 of the alumni.

The seventh table and final section of the record is given to an alphabetical index of all alumni. This record as compiled this year represents the most extensive and the most successful pamphlet ever undertaken by the University of Nevada and it represents the work of many months hard toil.

CHRISTMAS BOX
SENT TO CHINA
A Christmas box, containing plumb pudding and a picture of the Nevada desert was sent to Maud Russell, a missionary in China, by the Y. W. C. A. of this university.

FRED ANDERSON

Fred was last year's editor of the Sagebrush, a member of Coffin and Keys, Blue Key, Campus Players, Pre-med Club, Chem Club, elected to Phi Kappa Phi and had the third highest scholarship in the class of 1928. It was only after much consideration that he was chosen over Clover and Cantlan for Nevada's representative at Oxford as they also had brilliant college records.

FRED ANDERSON WINS TWO YEAR SCHOLARSHIP AT OXFORD SCHOOL

SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATE FORMER EDITOR OF 'BRUSH'

Fred Anderson, '28, because of the high quality of his scholarship, his character, and his participation in campus activities, was chosen by the Rhodes scholarship committee as the 1929 Rhodes scholar from Nevada at a meeting in San Francisco of Friday afternoon.

An outstanding pre-med student throughout his four years at college, the winning candidate was third highest in scholarship in the graduating class of last May. During his senior year, he served as editor of the Sagebrush. He will leave the United States in October, 1929, for Oxford University, England, where he will probably be assigned to St. John's College, whose medical staff is usually considered the foremost of the entire world.

Competition Closed

The other two candidates, Leslie Clover, Woodland, California, and Vernon Cantlan, Sparks, Nevada, were very highly recommended by committees of Rhodes scholars in the east, and it required very serious consideration of the applicants' qualifications before a choice could be made.

The Nevada committee, consisting of Walter E. Clark, president of the University of Nevada, Dr. J. E. Church, Jr., of the faculty, E. P. Griffiths, a San Francisco attorney, Charles Chatfield of Reno, George Whiteley, assistant United States attorney for Nevada, and Dr. E. Holman of Stanford University hospital, gathered in the morning, and later were joined at luncheon at the president's home by Fred Anderson. As four members of the committee were former Rhodes scholars, the meetings also served to renew old acquaintances.

Recommendation Wired
After a second meeting in the afternoon, their recommendation was wired to Dr. Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore and American secretary of the Rhodes trustees, who then made the announcement of the winning candidates in the 32 states where elections were held on Saturday.

Hill Production Well Presented Before Attentive Audience Friday

Bernstein, Harrington, Mahoney Characterize Perfect Leads

Edwin Duerr Directs Most Intense Play Ever Given

By BARBARA HORTON '30
It is impossible to calculate the effect of "He Who Gets Slapped" upon the audience of last Friday night. I have heard adverse criticisms, and I have heard people say that it was the most gorgeously, beautiful play ever given in Reno. It is the difference in the understanding of something that was deeper than anything else ever before attempted.

Heights Undreamed Of
The acting was such that everyone may well be proud of those who played the leads in this drama of circus life. Don Bernstein '29, as "He," the one who gets slapped, gave a splendid performance, although his second act was far from the perfect interpretation which the writers heard him give at the dress rehearsal the night before. Then, he rose to heights hitherto undreamed of. The clown, who, one moment was so bitterly sarcastic and the next so overwhelmingly in love with the dainty Consuelo, necessarily had to run the full gamut of dramatic emotions, and Bernstein certainly deserves praise for the greater part of his performance.

Harrington Much Loved
Ellen Harrington '29, as the fragile, much-loved tango queen, characterized Andrew's Consuelo with a splendid performance. She was everything she should be for the part, and she seemed to make herself simply Consuelo, the pride of Papa Briquet's circus, and the joy of all its members.

Zinda, the lion tamer, was characterized by Helen Mahoney '30, who carried her audience with her every movement she was on the stage. The tragic Zinda wanted love, even from (Continued on Page 2)

Men Will Attend Annual Meeting

Nevada Is Represented at Far Western Conference

Coach J. E. Martie, Prof. Charles Haseman, faculty representative, and Budd Stevenson, athletic manager, will attend the Far Western Conference meetings which will be held at Hotel Whitcomb in San Francisco on Friday and Saturday, December 14 and 15. Prof. Haseman will leave Thursday night, and will attend the meetings of the faculty representatives of the various colleges at 7 o'clock Friday night and 10 o'clock Saturday morning. At these meetings they will decide on eligibilities, elect officers, and take care of any other business that may come before the meetings.

Martie and Stevenson will attend the coaches' and managers' meeting at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The schedule for Far Western Conference teams will be arranged at this meeting.

At present Prof. Haseman is secretary of the conference, and Prof. Luther Sharp of the College of Pacific is president.

Prom Postponed Until Next Year

Postponement of the Junior Prom, set for December 15, has been definitely decided by the Prom committee. Failure to reserve an orchestra for the desired date, and the fact that the State Building could not be had for less than $100 has made this change in plans necessary. There was also a lack of time in which to decorate the gym if the dance had been given there. The original plan was to turn over to the Union Building Fund the money that would have gone for decorations providing the State Building could have been procured.

Attention
A statement was issued from the Library this week with the following ultimatum:
Anyone having an overdue book or magazine, a lost book or magazine, or owing a fine, will not be given any service from the desk next semester until all accounts are settled.
According to those in charge this has become necessary due to the great number of students who have failed to settle their accounts.

Plans Discussed For Y. W. C. A. At Last Meeting

Committee Chairmen Presents Reports For Semester

Wednesday afternoon the last general meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held at Manzanita Hall. Dorothy Eaton '29, president of the Y. W. C. A., opened the meeting with a short talk on the importance and responsibility of the campus Y. W. C. A. She explained to the new members present at the meeting that the Y. W. C. A. is directed by a group of fifteen women, who meet at regular periods to discuss plans for the club.

Thompson Reports
Doris Thompson '30, chairman of the Y. W. Music committee, gave a report on the work of the music committee. Miss Thompson spoke of music as a true part of Y. W. C. A. life. This year Vesper services have been held once a month under the supervision of the music committee. Songs are also learned at every Y. W. meeting, and song gatherings are held at every picnic or trip the Y. W. takes. Next year the music committee will give concerts for several consecutive Sundays in the spring.

Katherine Priest '30, chairman of the membership committee, gave a report and explained her committee to the members present. Up to the present date the membership fees have netted the Y. W. between $85 and $40. Each new member pays a fifty-cent due for every semester, entitling her to become a member of Y. W. and to take any trips that the Y. W. sponsors. Each member of the Y. W. may also belong to any group of the Y. W., points are given for these groups, the members having the most points are eligible for the cabinet.

Cecelia Hawkins '31, chairman of the social committee, explained the work of her committee which is to prepare for the Y. W. meetings and programs.

Trips Planned
Mae Bernscoff '28, spoke on what the Y. W. C. A. has done and what it is going to do. Trips are being planned in which the Y. W. women may go to Mt. Rose for winter sports. Through the cooperation of the downtown Y. W., toboggans, skis and sleds have been furnished. A teacher has been procured for those wishing to learn to ski. Last year, in January, the Y. W. sponsored a trip to Hobart Mills, for the winter sports. The same trip is being planned this year.

Clara Tomlin '31, chairman of the Y. W. Candy booth, gave a report of the booth. Money had been stolen at the beginning of the semester and this was a setback to the booth. It is hoped that next semester will prove more profitable to the Y. W.

Magazines Furnished
Idel Anderson '30, chairman of the social service committee, explained the work of her committee. Magazines are furnished to the hospital, and frequent visits are made there.

STATE DISTRICTS FOR BASKETBALL ARE ANNOUNCED

CAGE TOURNAMENT WILL BE HELD FIRST OF MARCH

At a high school coach's meeting held last week, realization of the districting of high schools for the State tourney was made. In this new system, three districts are created. The eastern division which extends as far west as Winnemucca and as far south as a line drawn between Tonopah and Ely, will send two teams to the tourney held here on the 7, 8, 9 of March. The southern division includes Tonopah and Ely, and all schools south.

Western Division
Two teams will be sent from this section. The western division includes all schools west of Winnemucca, and north of Tonopah. Four teams will be sent. In this manner simplification of the entire contest is made. The games will be more even, and run off in a much shorter time, thus taking less of the participants' time as well as that of the students here. Also it will mean better accommodations for those participating. Approximately eighty men will have to be cared for, which is a great deal easier than it has been in the past. The games are to be played off in straight elimination as in the former tourneys. There will be no women's tournament this year, and probably there will never be any in the future.

Diving Features Swimming Sport

Y. M. C. A. Furnishes New Equipment for Old Pond

These next two weeks of swimming is looked upon with much interest as the advanced classes are having the opportunity to have as a diving instructor, Mr. K. Rivers. Mr. Rivers has had much experience in San Diego and on the coast. He is planning to instruct the class on the swim dive, jack knife, straight front, and the racing dive.

The advanced classes must also pass their examinations so that they may obtain the life saving certificates and the Red Cross emblems for their swimming suits.

The Red Cross emblems are made under the auspices of the American Red Cross while the life saving certificates are certificates showing the swimmer's strength.

New Equipment
The Y. M. C. A. has furnished a new equipment for the diving pond, which makes it safe for diving. This is appreciated, as in the past several of the women have been hurt.

The beginners of the swimming class are working for speed on the float, crawl, flutter kick, and back float. They also keep a record of the time made.

Shella Parker '28, swimming instructor, announces that a list of the cuts for the semester is posted on the bulletin board.

HILL PRODUCTION

her lions, and the part called for the utmost in dramatic action. Miss Mahoney threw everything into the part, and made it live there on the stage. She seemed to understand what Andreyev wished his character to be, and her every action commanded attention.

Difficult Part
William Cottonan '30, new to the campus, as an actor, gave his interpretation of Count Mancini, the father in name, of Consuelo. His was an extremely difficult part, and more times than one he over-exaggerated it, thus losing the full significance of his lines. At times however, he carried the part perfectly, and showed what he might do.

Dan Treavitt '32, as Papa Briquet, the owner of the circus, carried for the first time a leading role in a Campus production, and he needs much more experience. He seemed to play the part of at least four different characters, but at times he did make his part that which Andreyev intended. Perhaps experience is necessary here.

O'Hara Shows Possibilities
Byron O'Hara '31, as Bezano, a baraback rider, showed great possibilities through his characterization, and his performance was even enough to make it seem near perfection. Once in the first act he overdid a few lines, but this was the only noticeable flaw.

Dan Bell '29, as the gentleman from the former world of "He," suited the part to perfection, and Lenard Siegel '30, as Jackson the clown, gave his role with the utmost ease and casualness. Carl Peutsch '29, played the part of Baron Reinard, who loved Consuelo and was to marry her, was perhaps a trifle stiff at times, but he was the typically hard, unbending character, called for in the role he carried. Dan McKnight '30 and Dan Semseny '30, as Tilly and Polly, the musical clowns, lent the necessary atmosphere of comedy to the production.

Mob Forgetful
Those others who formed the background for several "mob" scenes in the drama, were at times forgetful of their being parts of a whole, but the acrobatic stunts and costumes gave the necessary circus atmosphere. They included: Virginia Garside '32, Wilma Fitzgerald '32, Clara Tomlin '31, Louise Gustanaga '32, Rose Mahana '31, Lillian Stigen '32, Virginia Lou Stewart '32, Genevieve Leonard '30, Norman Miller '30, Bob Merriman '32, Hoyt Martin '29, Thurber Brookbank '29, Howard Sheerin '31, Victor Pimontel '29, Al Smith '31, and Edwin Semenza '30.

Many Cooperate
"He Who Gets Slapped" was the first production in which so many persons cooperated in the perfection of a play. Under the direction of Miss Pope, the Home Economics department executed the greater portion of the costumes and every member of the production staff strove to do their part toward the completion and perfection of the drama.

The tragic ending of "He Who Gets Slapped," perhaps accounted for some unfavorable comments, but it is the hope of those interested in dramatics that the really fine productions may be presented in the future to an appreciative audience. "He Who Gets Slapped," is the first step toward the fulfillment of this desire. This drama, by Leonid Andreyev, depicted the characters as the author saw them in life, and he seems "to have lost faith in man," says Gregory Zilboorg, the translator of the play.

Critique Includes
Perhaps a critique should not include the director of a production, but the writer feels that something should be said of the man who directed and put over "He Who Gets Slapped," Edwin Duerr. Those who know instructor Duerr and who worked with him in this play realize the intensity with which he gave himself to the completion of one of the most finished performances ever given by a student group. His untiring efforts, his desire for something really good, and his faith in his staff and cast, went to make up the perfected whole.

True Nevedan
Not only in this production has Edwin Duerr shown himself to be one who has become a true Nevedan and who has worked for the building of dramatics on the Campus, until Nevada is recognized as having one of the best dramatic organizations, and players on the Coast. Surely he deserves all the praise and applause the student body and the people of Reno can give him, and he has with no other remuneration than the loyalty and admiration of those who worked with him, and the casual praise of the townspeople, and the Campus.

Nevada Engineer Studies Problem

Edmund S. Leaver, supervising engineer of the Rare and Precious Metals Experiment Station of the Bureau of Mines at the University of Nevada, has been conducting experiments to eliminate waste in milling of metals, and during the past year has rendered much assistance in mining districts in Nevada, Arizona and Idaho.

At present he is studying new problems which have arisen in the Yellow Pine mining district in Idaho, and the Mother Lode in California.

The United States Bureau of Mines is deeply interested in the elimination of this waste, and the identification and study of mineral losses in tailings and research on the recovery of each particular mineral are a part of the program to eliminate such losses. Methods for the control and improvement of the present practice are introduced when excessive loss or waste is known and has not been corrected by the mine's own operating staff.

Mr. Leaver and J. A. Woolf, his assistant, have also issued pamphlets dealing with the subject.

O. S. C. Men Read Little In Fiction

Oregon State College, Corvallis—(PFB)—"What do fraternity men read?" "Certainly, we know," is the answer. "Whiz Bang," "Balzac," "Guy de Maupassant," and "College Humor."

Wrong, if the scope of the fraternity man's or college men's reading is only limited to "trash," a recent survey of fraternity houses here shows. Although tales by Nick Carter, Boccaccio and such were found in fraternity libraries, the collection included, as a rule, two or three popular national magazines, O. Henry's short stories, a biography or two, the Story of Philosophy and perhaps a novel by a well-known author. College men, starting on the lack of fiction, claimed they have no time—perhaps therein lies the reason that so little literature is read.

May Your Christmas be as MERRY as you have made OLD GOLD'S

A year ago OLD GOLD'S holiday message to its many friends was entitled . . . "OLD GOLD'S first Christmas." OLD GOLD was then just the infant prodigy among cigarettes. But, thanks to its three million new friends, and its countless old ones, OLD GOLD has grown four hundred per cent. The infant has become a strapping young giant. OLD GOLD is America's fastest growing cigarette. You have given OLD GOLD a wonderful Christmas by your kind patronage and cordial good-will. And in deepest appreciation we say to all our friends . . . "May your Christmas be as merry as you have made OLD GOLD'S."

We thank you.

Man's Behavior Said Best Index To Psychology

Prof. Young States Arguments for and Against

"Are we or are we not behaviorists?" How often that term behaviorism has been used to denote something vague and far away in our minds. J. R. Young, professor of psychology of the University of Nevada, explains behaviorism for the campus.

"The fundamental principles of behaviorism," Prof. Young states, "are, first, psychology can only become a science if introspection and the results gotten from introspection are eliminated; second, to study consciousness is a scientific impossibility; third, the only true information to be obtained about psychology must be taken from man's actions, or his behavior, rather than what he thinks or how he feels. Fourth, behaviorists are essentially people who believe in environment and who discredit heredity and instinct."

Several Criticisms

"Sound as the behaviorist theory may seem, there are several definite criticisms of it. First, psychologists would like to see the study raised to a science. But to study man's life as the life of a white rat is to totally ignore a large field—the field of mental attitudes and feelings. Man's behavior must be interpreted by his thoughts and feelings. Consciousness, although indefinite, remains the most real thing in many people's lives. Third, the behaviorist calls thinking 'sub-lingual' speech, and meets many other strange passes, which he explains in an equally hazy manner."

Heredity Emphasized

"Modern psychology," Prof. Young continued, "is based on the work of the biologist, and the biologist emphasizes heredity. Many psychologists believe that heredity operates as surely in the psychic as in the physical world.

"The behaviorist has done some worthwhile things for psychology, but does not go far enough to see that conscious states are the most significant in the explanation of human behavior," finished Dr. Young.

Students Speak At Rotary Club

Subject of Talks Will Be Friendship of Nations

Members of the Cosmopolitan Club of the University of Nevada are to speak before the Reno Rotary Club next Monday, December 17, on the friendship between nations. It is to express the Christmas spirit of good will towards men, that the Rotary Club is asking these students from foreign countries to speak five minutes.

Those to speak are Michele Diriceo '29 from Italy, president of the Cosmopolitan club on this campus; Alexander Lenoff '31, Russia; Santos Murillo '29, Philippine Islands; E. Randolph Stigen '29, Norway; and Jean Rauly '29 of France.

Lenoff is to sing two Russian college songs, and Harry Young will play a Chinese instrument.

COSMOPOLITANS ELECT OFFICER

MEMBERS GIVE TALKS ON THEIR PARTICULAR COUNTRIES

The Cosmopolitan Club met last Wednesday night at Stuart Hall and discussed plans about next semester. A program of lectures was drawn up, and a new treasurer was elected. Joseph Saruba, the present officer, is going to graduate this semester, thus necessitating the need for a new one.

Lectures on Campus

Next semester the lectures and activities are to be given on the campus instead of down town as they were this term. A series of lectures were given at the Y. W. C. A., the last one being presented by Joseph Sarubast, on Monday. He gave an interesting talk on his native town, Czecho-Slovakia. The lectures previous to this were given by other members of the club on their own particular country.

Song S. Lowe, president of the club last year, who is now attending the University of Columbia doing post-graduate work, sent the club an interesting letter this week. He congratulated the organization on the splendid work it has been doing this semester and the progress it has made. He also narrated some informational facts about the University of Columbia, especially concerning their Cosmopolitan club and its field of activity.

Unnecessary Noise Will Be Eliminated

A diligent campaign to eliminate unnecessary noise from the Lincoln Hall premises is being conducted by an upperclass committee residing therein. So far it has yielded a number of offenders, all being lower classmen. Three sophomores and three frosh were the ones who started the disturbances outside of hours and were caused to suffer for it. Certain hours on week days are reserved as study periods, and these six offenders took their medicine last week for disobedience. Punishment consisted of six or eight healthy whacks with a paddle in much the same manner as the sophs go about it every once in a while behind the Aggie building.

Golf Practiced In Cold Months

Washington State College, Pullman—(PIP)—Divot-diggers of the Washington State College are to be given an opportunity to keep in condition during the winter months. A room in the new men's gymnasium is being fitted up with putting greens and driving nets. There has been a great increase in the number of golfers and would-be golfers at the state college in the last year.

U. S. C. Football Game Scheduled

Grid Contest Will Be First In Four Years

Next year for the first time in four years Nevada will meet the University of Southern California on the football field. The game is scheduled to be played in Los Angeles on November 9, 1929.

The game was scheduled by Budd Stevenson, Athletic manager who attended the Pacific Coast Conference meeting held in Los Angeles December 6, 7, 8. Stevenson states that also Stanford offered Nevada a game but as the two games would come on consecutive weeks ends it was not deemed advisable to schedule both of them.

Guests of U. S. C.

All the delegates were the guests of the University of Southern California and were all entertained at a banquet in Los Angeles after the business of the meeting had been concluded.

The conference was attended by delegates from all the Pacific Coast conference colleges together with many representatives from the smaller colleges on the coast. There were approximately forty present at the banquet.

Eight Freshmen Given Punishment

The sophomore vigilance committee held what was probably the last padding of the semester behind the Aggie building last week. Eight of the frosh wandered from the beaten path and were firmly chastised and sent home in the hope that they might improve. Their names were: McBerney, Hackett, Banning, Dube, Blakely, Smith, Tupper and Poncia.

The sophs have run into a peculiar difficulty this year, wherein a number of frosh, having carelessly lost their dinks, are unable to secure new ones from the stores. A real problem is found in the situation by the vigilance committee, since allowances in one case have the possibility of misuse.

Recent experiments indicate that trees get 67 per cent of their growth at night and only 33 per cent in the daytime.

PROFIT IS MADE ON CANDY BOOTH

Though the net proceeds of the Y. W. C. A. candy booth in Stewart Hall for this past semester have not been as much as the manager, Clara Tomlin '31, had hoped, she states that $20 is the net profit for this past season.

The manager said that the proceeds should have been twice this amount had money not disappeared from the candy booth at different times during the year. Though the lock has been broken several times and money taken, the candy has remained untouched.

A more favorable season is planned for next year, said Tomlin.

Honorary Elects Three to Ranks

Three members of the senior class were honored yesterday afternoon by election to Nu Eta Epsilon, honorary engineering fraternity, at a meeting of the organization in the Electrical Engineering building.

As a result of their high scholarship records, Thomas Wigglesworth, Lawrence Collins, and Alden McCollum were selected for membership in the society. In the fall semester, seniors in engineering who rank highest scholastically, are elected, while in the spring, members of the junior class are chosen.

At this last meeting of the term, the fraternity also discussed activities to be carried out next year.

At the suggestion of their dean of women, women at Converse college, Spartanburg, S. C. recently passed a ruling prohibiting the use of rouge or lipstick.

A GOOD STEP

The members of the Associated Students took one of the most praiseworthy steps of the college year today when they refused the money from downtown men to buy athletes. The student body has been harassed by friends in other schools and downtown and out of state newspapers have made life miserable for them with their caustic comments, yet they turned down an offer of thousands of dollars to get a winning football team.

Nevada stands out as a college which would rather play fighting football with lack of material and lack of equipment rather than offer students money to play for her. Nevada is the only college in the west that has been losing money continually on her football games, but still continues to hold up her entrance requirements and charge a high rate of registration. Her whole idea is centered on making scholarship and other activities as important as athletics and to keep her athletics clean from professionalism.

It has been a road set with temptations, as every college likes to have a winning team and many athletes have stated they would like to come to Nevada, but where no jobs were to be had and a high tuition and entrance requirements have to be met with, they went to some other school. The students and the faculty have decided to be unrelenting in their requirements and rules, so that if Nevada is going to have athletes, it will be necessary for entering students to see that scholarship and other activities of the schools are just as desirable as athletics.

ANOTHER RHODES SCHOLAR

The selection of Fred M. Anderson as Nevada's 1929 Rhodes scholar is received by University students as a long waited for announcement and a bit of news upon which much conjecture has been voiced. In being given this honor he has received the highest that may be granted a University of Nevada man and an opportunity to study under some of the best academic minds the world has to offer.

The scholarship permits the taking of a two year course of study, after which the student will be allowed a third year of more advanced work, providing his work for the initial two year period is satisfactorily completed. A financial consideration of approximately $2,000 a year goes with the scholarship, enabling the American student to enjoy ample personal comforts while in England.

Anderson will enter Oxford the fall of 1929 in St. John's College, devoted strictly to the study of medicine, where he will be under the direct supervision of international known medical men.

Each year there are 32 scholarships awarded in the United States, as provided in the will of Cecil M. Rhodes. The recipients are supposedly the cream of American university graduate men in scholarship, leadership and personal fitness. Fred Anderson is that man from Nevada.

—J. H. '30.

POP-OFF VALVE

The "Pop Off Valve" in the Sagebrush has far from served the purpose for which it was originally intended. The students have simply made it a column and place in which to air their dislikes or personal feelings as to the running of the University. The idea behind the whole department was to give loyal and observing students a chance to give their views on certain phases of school life and offer either progressive and worthwhile changes, or to praise some work that was going on in the school life and the good work of some committee.

It is the easiest thing in the world to offer destructive criticism on any act or idea, but the criticism worth while is the kind that sees the error in the plan or action and offers some-

Not wishing the poor gal any hard luck but we do hope that Miss Sissa gets WRITER'S CRAMPS OR AN ACUTE CASE OF PARALYSIS before the semester is over so she can't smear us with that bunch of 4's and 5's we usually get.

This here normal curve of distribution by which the faculty hands out the grades to us students is just like some of these professor's minds—kind of warped.

Little Benny Chapelle, aged 6, is seen writing his first letter to Santa Claus in the above photo. Benny is a poor boy but he is a good boy and he ought to get plenty for Christmas.

If Santa Claus can fill stockings up like some of these coeds do it'll be a big Christmas this year.

We understand that old St. Niek is going to leave some insect powder in Manzanita to get rid of the bedbugs. It ought to get the bedbugs alright but the rest of those insects (two-legged) seem to flourish on powder, so there's no hope of killing them.

And now we must have our fling at Campus Players' recent production entitled "He Who Gets Slapped"—"Yeh, that was put on last week if you didn't know it before."

Here's a little letter that Oswald got this week:
Dear Oswald:—

I certainly want to compliment certain members of Campus Players for their little one-act productions the other night entitled, "He Who Gets Slapped". Staggering under the terrific weight of the parts they were playing the characters bore up true to form and put forth fine individual performances. They are to be congratulated.

With love and kisses,
Horatius at the Tram.

CLOTHES USUALLY MAKE THE WOMAN—but here's one case where the lack of clothes had a considerable part to play. Read the following tragic tale and weep where weeping stirs your emotions.

The curtain went up on the first scene of "He Who Gets Slapped"—a circus scene it was. The crowd held its breath as an acrobat did a graceful crane dive (originally planned as a swim dive) into the arms of her partner. Immediately a certain lady in the crowd arose from her seat and wended her way to the back stage section. What was said we don't know but blue smoke appeared from behind the screens. Result—the masculine part of the acrobatic team appeared alone in the following scenes.

If some of these dizzy dames and their fellows would get some ice skates and skate in circles on Manzanita lake, maybe they could get going around in the right direction and unwind themselves.

This is Three Star Hennessy who had charge of the art staff for the individual performances. Those curves and fancy figures, described by the players were certainly a result of spirited work on the part of Three Star.

The wrestling program for the coming week has been indefinitely postponed as the Juniors couldn't arrange for their Prom. The Prom will be given next semester, however, and this extension of time will allow for more concentrated training and also a chance to develop a few more new holds.

"This fast life will get me in the end," said the dissipated-looking frosh as he sped around Manzanita Lake on thing better in its place. So far most of the criticisms in the 'Brush admit that there is something wrong with Nevada but make no effort to give a substitute idea or plan of action to better the present situation. If this idea is going to be continued few people will read the department and the power of it to suggest and help student officials in their work will be an impossibility.

his ice skates. And sure enough it did. A minute later his feet went out from under him and the ice got him in the end.

This is the menagerie that Pete Frandsen has started in the Zoology Lab. Si Feemster plans on donating a goat and the Thetas a cat, and then the circus will be complete.

Some of those "nuts" who performed in "King Nutcracker" last night were direct from the Insane Asylum just outside of Sparks, according to press dispatches received today.

That singing was good seeing as how none of the performers had ever sung before and those interpretive dances were high class but we're still wondering what it was they were meant to interpret.

Late reports as we go to press have it that a Campus catch-as-catch-can free-for-all will be held tomorrow night. Nothing authentic, however. We do not know that if it is given it will be conducted under Police Gazette rules which provide for one arm free at all times.

One of our prominent reporters listening at the Manzanita keyhole for scandal. Note the long ears. Last week he lost an eye when an unsuspecting dame rammed a darned needle through the keyhole—accidentally, of course.

The tall man in the picture is Perlmutter Brown, who sold hot dogs at the last meeting of A. W. S., and who has put the following resolution before the student body: "Whereas, the heat from Manzanita Hall is detrimental to the ice on the lake; therefore, be it resolved, that a vacuum such as found in Prof. Murgotten's head, be set up between the Hall and the Lake."

It's getting pretty good when students go to sleep in a class, especially when it is near the end of the semester and the prof is trying to clear up a few points. Last week in public speaking a certain young lady slept during the entire period, at the end of which Eddie shouted out: "7:30, Miss Stewart, ting-a-ling-a-ling!" And they say that public speaking courses make one wide awake and attentive!

We'll sign off for this time hoping everyone has a good time with term themes, examinations, etc. And that the profs who gave them to us don't have the misfortune to go to the place where we want them to.

Field House to Be Constructed

Washington State College, Pullman—(PDP)—Plans are being made at Washington State College to erect a field house at a cost of approximately $100,000. The floor will be of dirt and will be large enough to house a one-eighth mile running track. The building can be used for football and track the year around. The site chosen is adjoining the new gymnasium and the architecture will be of a style to harmonize with the gymnasium.

REVERIE
Soft somber ripples murmur on Manzanita lake. The blue vault mounting moon child pauses in amber wake. The verdant slopes surrounding make the campus a mystic dell. While pearly dew falls softly, casting a magic spell.

Up from a neighboring hilltop a long, low howl mounts the sky. Resounds thru' our little valley, echoes, echoes, then dies. Silhouetted upon the hilltop we see Nevada U. That each day feels the Mb of life pulsing her annals thru'. And as we stand here dreaming in the wake of the falling dew We are filled with the inspiration of the silver and the blue.

He united the country with nails

BEN FRANKLIN made the horseshoe nail a symbol of the importance of little things. "The kingdom was lost and all for the want of a horseshoe nail", goes one of his wise sayings. So when he became Postmaster General, he knew full well the need for proper horseshoeing as one step in punctual mail schedules.

The care given to details can still make or break a great plan. In the telephone industry, for example, the development of compact paper insulation helped to make possible the small diameter cable and therefore the vast underground plant necessary to serve large cities.

A multiplicity of details, from the testing of long fibre cotton to the "voice with the smile", offer a continual challenge to the Bell System men who unite the nation with telephones.

WOLF VARSITY COACH STARTS TO MOULD 1929 CAGE MACHINE

BASKETBALL MEN FACE STANFORD CARDINALS IN TWO WEEKS FORTY MEN RESPOND TO FIRST CALL OF SEASON

Two weeks in which to mould the 1929 Nevada varsity basketball team is the gigantic problem that faces J. E. "Doc" Martie, Wolf cage mentor. In that short time "Doc" must drill his men in the fundamentals of the Nevada style of play, perfect his offensive and defensive games, work his men in scrimmages, pick his first string and his reserves, and then face the Stanford Cardinals in a gruelling two-game series on December 29 and 31.

No sooner had the echo of the Inter-territory basketball tournament died down than Martie posted his list of candidates for Varsity and Frosh basketball. Forty men responded and Tuesday night Martie started with his first practice. Throughout the entire week the men have been coached in shooting, guarding, passing, and dribbling, in an attempt to get used to handling the ball.

Outlook Bright

Despite the loss of many of the outstanding players of last season, Martie is not gloomy over possibilities for the 1929 schedule. "The bunch I have working out there now is one of the best groups I have ever had to work with," Doc declared. "They are big, clean fellows, willing to work, and I believe that we ought to turn out a fine aggregation."

At the present time there are forty men practicing daily. Next semester the Frosh will work separately from the Varsity under the guidance of "Chet" Scramton. However, this semester they will remain with the Varsity so as to become familiar with the Nevada type of play through association with some of the veterans of passed seasons. Next week Martie plans on splitting his forty men into two groups as the present number is too large to handle. The two groups will work every day alternating in afternoon and night practices.

Bream to Return

Nevada's chances were given added impetus with the announcement that "Verdi" Bream and "Mike" Lawlor would both be back next semester. Bream held down the position of first string forward on the 1926 Nevada varsity and was one of the mainstays in scoring power on the team that year. Since then "Verdi" has kept in shape by playing basketball at McGill every season. When the big fellow reports next semester he should be in fine shape and ready to go. Whether or not "Mike" Lawlor will be eligible is still a question which will be settled at a meeting of the Faculty committee of the Far Western Conference this week end. Lawlor is classed as a professional as a result of having signed a baseball contract with the San Francisco Seals. Should the committee decide to reinstate him, Mike will be

FRIETAG TAKES FIRST PLACE IN TOURNEY SCORE

HIGH BASKETBALL MEN OF CAGE YEAR GIVEN

Phi Sigma Kappa runs away with the honors with high-point men in addition to taking the basketball tourney. Frietag retains his position at the head of the list with a grand total of 105 points. This averages eleven and two-thirds points per game, and includes four shots. Gibson and Farnsworth are also included in the list of ten highest men in ninth and tenth places, respectively. Robertson, Beta Kappa, ran Frietag a close second with 99 points to his credit, which averages 11 points per game. Ducker moved up from seventh place to fourth for Sigma Nu. Lombardi, and the rest moved down one place to make room for him. The total scores for the ten high-point men are as follows:

1. Frietag—Phi Sigma Kappa, 105.
2. Robertson—Beta Kappa, 99.
3. Busey—A. T. O., 76.
4. Ducker—Sigma Nu, 64.
5. Lombardi—S. A. E., 63.
6. Newman—Kappa Lambda, 56.
7. Randall—Independent, 55.
8. Hammond—Sigma Nu, 53.
9. Gibson—Phi Sigma Kappa, 48.
10. Farnsworth—Phi Sigma Kappa, 48.

ready to work out as forward. Although rather short the little Irishman is plenty fast and one of the most deadly shots that Nevada had during the 1927 campaign.

Many Reserves

There is one thing certain even at this early stage of the season and that is that every man out for basketball will have to work exceptionally hard to make the first string and keep his position. Martie has a fine string of reserves this year, probably the best he has ever had, and these men are going to keep the first string humping to hold down their berths. "No man has a cinch on a position this year," Martie declared. "And whoever makes that first string will have to play real basketball."

Letter Men Practice

All of last year's letter men are out working harder than ever before. Captain "Jake" Lawlor, "Goon" Gilmartin, "Tip" Whitehead, "Jim" Bailey, and "Lin" Hainer, are working hard along with the new men and the other veterans of last year in an effort to make this season one of Nevada's best. The Wolf Pack will have its eye on the Far Western Conference title this year. Nevada clamped onto that title two years ago and then was despoiled of it last season by St. Ignatius. This season the Wolves are after it again.

Cards Strong

The Stanford Cardinals are coming to Reno with a powerful aggregation. Every season the Cards have been a strong threat to the Pacific Coast title and as a result "Husky" Hunt, Stanford coach, has built up a reputation

Fencing Club to Meet at Reno Hi

The last meeting of the semester of the Fencing Club will be held at the Senior High school on Monday evening.

At this time there will be a match between the University Fencing club team and the Reno High School team. Sheila Parker '28, D. Leavitt '32 and V. Pimental will represent the University team.

In the final match held last week Sheila Parker '28 was victorious over D. Leavitt '32.

According to the manager, Allan Duffy '31, the club will not meet again until next semester, at which time the club will be reorganized.

The Fencing Club next semester is planned to be very interesting on the campus, as intercollegiate matches are being planned. The club was unable to do that this semester due to the fact that most of its members were beginners and therefore inexperienced.

There are now twenty-five members enrolled and anyone interested in fencing may join next semester.

for his powerful team that would throw a scare into any cage aggregation at the mere mention of name Cardinals. Martie is endeavoring to perfect as fine a team as possible to meet the Stanford cage artists. Nevada and Stanford have always played some tight basketball and have exhibited some of the best brand of playing seen on the coast in past years when the two teams got together in the Stanford gym. In the last two-game series Stanford copped them both to repay Nevada for the two-fold drubbing in 1926. This year Nevada is the underdog and is out to repay the Cards for the treatment handed them in 1927.

Regardless of the results the two-game series will both be whirlwind affairs and should allow the local fans a glimpse of play somewhat on par with the two St. Ignatius games of last season.

16 Game Schedule

The Stanford game will allow "Doc" to see his team works under fire and will give him a chance to make changes and perfect faults and weaknesses before Nevada blossoms forth in its first bid in the Far Western Conference. San Jose and Chico will both engage the Wolf Pack before any conference games are undertaken and Martie will still be allowed to see how his men are developing. Twelve of the sixteen games scheduled will be played in the Nevada gymnasium which has its advantages for the Wolf Pack cagers. Nevada will make only two trips to the Coast and these trips will comprise the last two appearances of the Pack. On February 22 and 23 Nevada will meet St. Ignatius at San Francisco and the following week-end will journey to Sacramento to battle the Cal Aggies.

Frosh Give Promise

In all probabilities very few Frosh will be chosen to work on the Varsity unless they show exceptional basketball ability. Martie believes in allowing the new men to get their taste of Nevada basketball on the Frosh team. In such a way they are subject to more action and longer periods of play than if working on the varsity squad. The experienced gained as Frosh will help them considerable in Nevada's type of play and the first year men will easily develop in to Varsity material the following year. This season the Frosh will have one of the largest and probably one of the strongest teams that the first year men have ever had at Nevada. A fine schedule is being worked out for the "yearlings" who will play in a considerable number of the preliminaries to the Varsity contests.

MEN LEAVE TO COMPLETE 1929 GRID SCHEDULE

MEMBERS TO ATTEND FAC WESTERN CONFERENCE MEETING

Professor Charles Haseman, faculty member of Finance Control, left for San Francisco last night, and "Doc" J. E. Martie, head of the Athletic department, and Budd Stevenson, Athletic manager will leave tonight, as representatives of the University to the Far Western Conference meeting.

Nevada's football schedule for next semester will be completed at a meeting of the coaches and athletic managers of the respective schools in the conference. Nevada has several games definitely settled but as yet no Conference games have been decided upon. The Wolf Pack already has a strenuous schedule facing it and it is altogether probable that only three games will be added from the Conference group.

Hainer Ineligible

Martie and Haseman will represent Nevada at a meeting of the Conference Faculty committee and will endeavor to have two of Nevada's foremost basketball stars reinstated in the conference. According to the ruling set forth by the Faculty committee at the founding of the Far Western Conference an athlete must engage in active competition in sports four years out of a period of five. "Lin" Hainer, stellar guard of the Wolf Pack cage team, has been declared ineligible for competition this year as the 1929 season will find him playing his fourth year of basketball in a period of six years at school. Hainer played for Nevada first in 1924 as a Freshman. In 1925 and 1926 he remained out of school and then returned to play again in 1927 and 1928. The Nevada representatives are hopeful of having Hainer reinstated as he played his first year of basketball at Nevada before the Far Western Conference was formed.

Lawlor Barred

"Mike" Lawlor, who occupied the position of forward on the Nevada squad two years ago is the other man that Martie and Haseman will try to have placed on good standing in the conference. As a result of his having signed a baseball contract with the San Francisco Seals Lawlor has been declared in the professional class and thus has been automatically barred from amateur competition in the Far Western Conference. Lawlor plans on entering school again next semester and he will add greatly to the Wolf Pack's strength if he is reinstated.

Fifty-three faculty members and administrators of the University of Southern California have their names in the new edition of "Who's Who" in America.

An echo that circles the globe

Sightseers returning from the Alps never fail to babble of the marvelous echoes that reverberate so obligingly from peak to peak. But no such phenomenon matches a certain echo that keeps circling this whole mundane sphere. It is the best-known cigarette slogan ever coined—the Chesterfield phrase "They Satisfy."

Originated to describe a unique coupling of qualities seemingly opposed—"they're mild, and yet they satisfy"—its descriptive accuracy was instantly perceived. Today it echoes and re-echoes wherever cigarettes are smoked:

"Satisfacen... ils satisfont... THEY SATISFY!"

And rightly enough, for Chesterfields are mild—and they DO satisfy... and what more can any cigarette offer?

 MILD enough for anybody...and yet...THEY SATISFY

Future Outlook For Dramatics Is Said Bright

Nevada Coach Is Well Pleased With Play Productions

That Nevada dramatics took one of the greatest steps forward with the production of "He Who Gets Slapped," presented by Campus Players last Friday night, is the opinion of Edwin Duer, director.

"The outlook for future years is most promising," he said. "Over the past year and a half we have been carefully and conscientiously working toward that end where dramatic activities on this campus would be what they should be. We have wanted productions here to equal in every respect the offerings at other universities. We have constantly thought it the duty of this University, as a state institution, to furnish a cultural training and discipline of the highest form for its students, and to serve the public of the state with entertainment and education of the type that could not otherwise be had.

Success Begun

"And we are beginning to succeed. 'Artistically 'He Who Gets Slapped' was a tremendous achievement. For the first time in history a continental drama, a Russian tragedy, of great literary and permanent significance was presented. And I do believe the players gave a creditable account of themselves in acting, costume making, scenic design, production, and management. At least the audience and the press have been most complimentary locally, as have the University of California and national theatrical publications.

Financial Success

"Financially, Friday's production proved that the students and people want the best in drama fare, proved that Campus Players can 'stand on their own.' A bigger gross return than ever before was taken in at the box office, even exceeding that taken in by the road show which played the Granada on the following evening. With this money being promptly turned into improvements in the form of needed equipment, better productions can be promised.

"In the view of this double success, I should like to thank publicly the people who made the performance possible, and there were many of them. Play production class, Campus Players, Miss Pope and the home economics girls, individuals without number—all cooperated with a spirit that should mean and promise much for this campus.

"For the future we shall continue to do and give our best in everything that we undertake; and we shall undertake nothing but the best. We have the people's confidence; we want to keep it. Within four or five years Nevada should be known nationally for her dramatics, should be drawing students here, and should be serving the community culturally as it has never been served before."

Mr. Duer is at present selecting his list of plays for the coming semester. He promises several recent comedies in a season that is to be crammed with productions.

Slight Outbreak Of Flu Epidemic

The flu epidemic which was rampant on the campus as well as elsewhere, a few weeks ago seemed to be starting a comeback last week when the following people were confined to the University hospital: Eddie Ducker '28, Don Inskip '30, Bob Merriman '32 and Reynold Hansen '28. The alarm was short lived, however, because this week Lucile Sanford '28 is the only patient. The hospital authorities believe that the epidemic is entirely under control.

RIFLE PRACTICE ENROLLS THIRTY

COLLEGIATE MATCHES TO BE HELD NEXT SEMESTER

The men's rifle team began shooting Tuesday afternoon of last week with about thirty men reporting for the preliminary season's practice. The thing most in evidence at the practice seems to be the absence of members of last year's squad. Only a few of the veterans of last year's rifle team have so far signified their intention of trying out for the team again this year and their loss will be keenly felt, but there has been some very promising material shown in the practice records from the new tryees.

The intercollegiate matches, of which there will be many with universities and colleges from all parts of the country, will be held between the 16th of February and the 23rd of March. Later in the season a match is scheduled between the Nevada Women's Rifle team and the Men's Rifle team.

Interest Lacking

A lack of interest in the men's team this year is evidenced as shown by the fact that there are at present only 30 men participating in the practice shooting and from this number will be chosen the Varsity team. This may be due in part to the fact that at present most of the men of the school are very busy preparing for the final examinations and cannot see their way clear to spare the time necessary for practice. The rifle team presents an opportunity for anyone to learn to shoot and to shoot well. With rifles, a good range, ammunition, and a coach furnished by the University a greater number of students can be handled by the department. Anyone interested in trying out for the team report to the barracks for practice between the hours of one and four on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

JAKE LAWLOR SELECTED FOR SECOND TEAM

SPORTING WRITERS OF "SANTA CLARA" MAKE GRID CHOICE

Jake Lawlor, all-star tackle of the Wolves, was picked as left tackle on the second team by the sporting writers of the "Santa Clara." The two teams were placed from among the players who were the Bronco's opponents this year.

Lawlor is a Nevada three-letter man and will probably be back in the first string line again next year. He was given honor before, when he was mentioned in the Spaulding Catalogue as one of the leading tackles in the country last year.

Here are the selections made:

Post, Stanford, right guard.

Bancroft, California, right tackle.

Phillips, California, right tackle.

Kaer, Olympic Club, quarterback.

Heinicke, Stanford, center.

Luoma, Santa Clara, right guard.

Artman, Stanford, right tackle.

Norton, California, right tackle.

Elsan, California, quarterback.

WOLF GRIDDERS GO 2650 MILES

OPOSING SQUADS TOTAL APPROXIMATELY 2000 MILES

Although the Nevada team made a series of five trips last football season they only traveled an aggregate distance of 2650 miles going and coming. Their longest trip was the Fresno game which consisted of a round trip of 750 miles.

The squads who came to meet the Wolves on their home field traveled about 2000 miles. Utah was the team that was the farthest away, having to make a round trip of about 1100 miles.

Next year the Wolves will go wide and far to meet their opponents. There will probably be one or two trips to Los Angeles and one trip to Salt Lake City besides the shorter trips to the bay region.

A barber shop and beauty parlor have been opened in the Memorial Union at Iowa University. Three barbers and three beauty parlor specialists are employed.

TRANOR SPEAKS ON SCHOOL COST

Speaking on the subject of "Financing Education in Nevada" Professor F. W. Tranor of the Education department, pointed out to the Faculty Science Club of the University at their meeting yesterday afternoon, that it cost approximately $115 per elementary pupil for education for one school year, while it costs $222 for a high school student. Professor Tranor took his figures from records of 1926.

For every dollar which the state contributes toward the support of public schools the federal government allows, directly or indirectly, fifty-five cents for educational purposes," said Tranor. Fifteen per cent of school finances are secured by state tax and the remainder of the burden of financing the public schools falls upon the county, whether it be rich or poor. Statistics show, stated the professor, that Nevada is able to pay more toward the support of schools if there is the need.
