Welcome Wolf Pack

The University Libraries' faculty, staff and student employees are excited to welcome you back for the return to full in-person operations this summer. The Libraries' dedicated and talented faculty and staff have worked tirelessly throughout the pandemic to ensure users have access to resources, librarian expertise, lendable technology, special events, digital collections and so much more. The Mathewson-IGT Knowledge Center and DeLaMare Science and Engineering libraries are open and here to support you. Come on by and be sure to say hi. As always we thank you for your support and look forward to seeing you!

University Libraries celebrates Artown

With several opportunities offered, the Libraries' look to engage and entertain donors and friends as we sing, glow, color and write our way through Artown 2021. All are welcome to participate in these free, virtual events:

July 16, 7 p.m.: The Sierra Through Sonnets, Science & Song presented by the University Libraries

Featuring 2021 Nevada Writers Hall of Fame inductee Steven Nightingale and Deputy Director of Earth Systems Programs at Stanford, Richard Nevle along with award-winning singer-songwriter Deborah Levoy and 2018 Nevada Writers Hall of Fame inductee Robert Leonard Reid. Together, the cast will take participants on a lyrical and scientific journey through the Sierra.

July 29, 10 a.m., 1 p.m., 4 p.m: Fun with Neon for Kids

Kids are invited to participate in a hands-on, virtual event to learn about neon while coloring their very own Nevada Neon sign. This event will be led by neon enthusiast Will Durham, director of the Nevada Neon Project and contributor of many of the photos for the University Libraries' Neon in Nevada project.

Please register for this event in advance, for the session of your choice, by visiting Eventbrite: 10 a.m. session, 1 p.m. session, 4 p.m. session

July 29, 7 p.m.: Neon in Nevada: Discussion Panel

Join Neon in Nevada project partners, a representative from the Neon Museum, and other neon enthusiasts for a virtual panel discussion about neon's unique role in Nevada's history and its lasting impact on our visual culture. Learn about the Project, how it got started, its goals, and the forthcoming digital collection that will allow for the exploration of neon signs from across the state.

July 30, 7 p.m.: Roots & Shoots: A Nevada Writers Hall of Fame Event

Established writers and up-and-coming writers both have much to share. Join the University Libraries and the Nevada Writers Hall of Fame for this lively conversation. Roots & Shoots will feature New York Times bestselling novelist Ellen Hopkins as our "Root" and Daughter Tongue author and poet Joanne Mallari as our "Shoot." The event will feature readings by the authors and a discussion moderated by author and educator Chris Coake.

Escape the heat and adventure with us online this summer!

Looking to beat the heat, relax and discover something new? The Libraries offers many opportunities to adventure this summer.

Why not take a web-based adventure and travel around The Foundry, the Libraries' online space for sharing collaborative projects curated and created by our faculty and staff.

Interested in wild horses? Special Collections and University Archives has made available The Wild Horse and Burro collection consisting of more than 3,100 files collected by the Nevada Wild Horse Commission. The entire collection is online!

"This collection is special because it presents governmental reports from the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service that are not easy to find online in addition to correspondence sent to the public Commission," Kim Anderson, director of Special Collections and University Archives said. "This collection is of benefit to anyone needing access to these reports – regardless of which side of the issue they fall on."

Wondering how the Libraries was able to digitize thin section mineral samples? Check out a recent episode of the College of Science's Mineral Monday video series featuring the Libraries' own Katherine Dirk. In the episode Katherine discusses her work on the Goldfield Mines Digital Ore Collection.

University Libraries Dean Search Update

The search for the new Dean is ongoing and has been moving forward. Two finalists visited campus May 24 – 25, as well as June 1 - 2. Each candidate had several opportunities to meet, interact and engage with Libraries' faculty and staff as well as other administrators and faculty from across campus. We hope to share an announcement on the selection of our new Dean in the near future.
