Grid Season Ushered In With Huge Midnight Rally

Deadlock Looms As Four Tongs Oppose Student Council Idea

Individual House Control of Unruly Conduct Cases Is Favored by Some Intergreek Court or Fraternity Control Would Relieve Affairs Committee

Whether or not the University of Nevada will have an inter-fraternity court to govern the affairs of the fraternity men on the campus will be decided by the action to be taken by one fraternity next Monday night. It was found, after a poll was taken Tuesday afternoon, that four of the eight fraternities on the Hill had decided against it, three were for it, and one had not decided either for or against it.

The purpose of the inter-fraternity court would be to relieve the student affairs committee of disciplining those fraternity men who came into public disrepute and would pertain only to fraternity men.

Judicial Court Formed The plan to be followed, should the court come into being, would be that an alumnus and the president of each house would form a judicial group to charge, try, and render judgment against any man of any fraternity who committed a wrong publicly. The charges could be brought up only against a man by a member of the court and could be signed by the member bringing them up or be anonymous.

The court would consist of sixteen members and the chairman would be elected from the alumni, while the secretary would be an active member of one of the fraternities of the Hill.

Should the interfraternity court be given a trial, it could be disbanded at any time upon action of the interfraternity council.

Prof. J. C. Jones, acting dean of men, in a statement Tuesday said, that inasmuch as the students of the University of Nevada were under a close scrutiny by the taxpayers of the community, and that any infraction of the laws brings the university as a whole into the public eye, any attempt by the fraternity group to better the conditions would be a step in the right direction.

Chorus for Wolves Frolic Chosen as Girls Start Work

Chorus work for the Wolves frolic will begin in earnest today as 24 girls were successful in the tryouts yesterday and will be worked into two choruses, according to William Colman and Paul Harwood, directors.

Thirty women tried out for the chorus, and the six who did not fit into the scheme of the affair will be transferred to some other department to work with some 25 students in the other specialty numbers of the show.

Fifty-four tryouts in their appearance for the general work, with a good general lineup being presented, but with much more talent necessary to successfully round out the cast for the affair.

Team acts, quartettes and specialty artists could work with the remainder of the strong talent to good advantage, he added. Colman said that patter and hocus acts were especially needed, and that he could use many more songsters.

TICKETS FOR FROLIC OUT ON OCTOBER 8

Fred Trevitt, manager of the Wolves' frolic, announced yesterday that the ticket sales for the show will start October 8. The tickets will be issued at the Campus Players managerial office in the old chemistry building from 1 until 5 o'clock that afternoon.

Campus Players Reach Decision On Night For Meeting

Campus Players will meet regularly twice each month, on alternate Thursdays at 7 p. m., according to a decision reached at a meeting of that body held Tuesday evening.

Hill Dramatics Group May Be Able to Exchange Plays By Next Semester

Correspondence with contemporary dramatic groups in other colleges was set under way with the appointment of the Campus Players secretarial staffs to write to these organizations with regard to plays to be given. It was suggested that the idea of an exchange play be given consideration, with the possibilities mentioned being California and Utah.

Exchange Play Possible The group will definitely adopt the plan for Junior Players was decided when an amendment to that effect was read into the constitution and unanimously accepted. The Junior Players, who tried out two weeks ago, will be initiated sometime within the next two weeks, after a formal presentation of bids. It was said that the initiation would await the arrival of the new J P pins, which will be in the shape of a banner.

Brambilla Speaks At Meeting Today

Colonel Brambilla gave a brief analysis of the various phases of the document, social, and economic, dwelling at greater length on the development of the army department.

Constitution Discussed From Military Standpoint by Army Colonel

"Application of the military forces at the control of the army department would be done away with, if the impractical and visionary souls who think we do not need force for peace, could put their opinions into practice," declared Col. R. M. Brambilla this morning in addressing the A. S. U. N.

Blakely Elected A. S. U. N. Leader Following Tryouts

Recommendation of Executive Committee Allowing Procedure Student Union Committee Is Appointed by Cantlon At Meeting

Bill Blakely was elected to the position of A. S. U. N. yell leader by a standing vote of the students at the meeting of the Associated Students held this morning following the Constitution day address by Colonel R. M. Brambilla.

Although no report was forthcoming from the Homecoming day committee, several items of interest concerning the celebration were mentioned, among them the fact that prizes will be offered as usual for the best organization floats entered in the parade.

Homecoming Has Shriners on March In Large Parade

University Homecoming has reverted to the unusual, with the celebration scheduled to culminate or begin with a "cow show." Real entertainment by the Reno Shriners will be substituted for the customary Aggie displays, and Rugby players from the University prior to 1906, and all former Nevada football captains, will be honor guests this year.

Finance Control Accepts Budgets

Budgets which have been before the finance control committee for consideration were passed at a special meeting of the group held Thursday night.

Campus Groups Present Financial Budgets at Meeting Thursday Night

Cosmopolitan Club Plans Year's Work At First Meeting

An informal meeting of the Cosmopolitan club was held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Eugenia Wainwright. This was the first meeting of the year and there was much to discuss of the future activities.

According to Ethel Hansen, last year's president of the club, there will be new members taken in and the prospects for a very active year seem bright. Teh officers for the year are Elias Bulmalay, president, and Mrs. Eugenia Wainwright, treasurer.

RAMPOLDI - TACKLE - Nevada's line was materially strengthened by the return of Hank Rampoldi, veteran guard to the varsity squad early this week.

Famous Glee Club of 1916 to Furnish Entertainment For Dance

These facts were related Wednesday by Irvin Ayers, chairman of the Homecoming committee, and Joe McDonald, president of the Nevada State Alumni association. Ayers, who has been busy with elaborate plans, stated that the Shriners of Reno, and of several of the outlying towns will enter at least one, and probably two floats in the parade.

McDonald, following a meeting of the alumni Tuesday night, expressed the idea that all the old-time football men who played for Nevada when it was called Rugby, and all former University football captains, should be honor guests of the day.

Climaxing the celebration will be the Alumni Dance, to be held on Saturday night the 24th of October. The Reno Elks have offered to assist in welcoming the alumni, by donating their club for the dance, and it is hoped that a carnival atmosphere can be developed in order to make the affair a complete success.

Alumni to Entertain Entertainment at the dance will be under the direction of Leslie Johnson '16, who will present his famous Glee club of 1916.

Midnight Football Rally To Be Held Tonight at Roxie

First Rally of Its Kind to Usher In Nevada Grid Season Only Students to Be Admitted To Theatre Where Rally Will Be Held

Ushering in what hopes to be a "Nevada year," the Sagers and Sagens are instigating a new and exciting feature tonight, a midnight football rally to be held at the Roxie Theater in preparation for the first game of the 1931 season with the West Coast Army team tomorrow afternoon.

In preparation for this event, the twenty-five odd members of these two pep and service organizations visited all the fraternity and sorority houses Monday night and handed out printed programs of the various features of the rally. Short talks were made by various members and they led the yells and songs.

Stopping the traffic at the corner of Virginia and Second streets, they yelled and shouted until a large crowd gathered around Graham Kisingbury, with a huge megaphone, announced to the crowd that all were invited to attend "Nevada's first midnight football rally." They then stopped in front of the postoffice and again made the announcement of the rally.

Old Time Football and Rugby Players Will Be Honor Guests of Day

Practice was not stopped, but various members of the team halted long enough to gaze up on the hill at the enthusiastic members and saluted them with handshakes and grins. According to one player, "it meant a lot to us to see the students were up there backing the team and we feel sure that they will back us again tomorrow at the game. It takes only spirit from the student body to make the team fight and give all they have."

Midnight Show at Roxie

Tonight the students will gather in front of Manzanita at 10:30 to start what is hoped and expected to be the biggest rally and parade in the history of the University. One truck will carry the speakers and the yell leaders and the other one will carry the Sagers and Sagens. They will go down Virginia street to Second, where they will stop, and all get out for yells and songs.

All students are urged to show their spirit and attend the rally and the show at the Roxie, at a special admission of 25c. At the Roxie, Graham Kisingbury will be the master of ceremonies. Coach George W. Philbrook will give a short talk and there will be many stunts, songs and yells. As a special added attraction, the picture "Follow Through," starring Nancy Carroll and Buddy Rogers will be shown. A gala time will be had by all attending and only University students will be allowed to attend the show at the Theater.

Science Club Hears Economic Address

Professor Sutherland Talks on Business Depression Before Faculty

The Faculty Science club held their first meeting of this semester on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 110 of the Agricultural building.

Lynette Stewart, freshman student at the University of Nevada, who underwent an appendicitis operation September 11, at St. Mary's hospital, left Saturday for her home in Carson City. Miss Stewart has temporarily withdrawn from school, but she plans to return as soon as her health permits.

GIRLS TO BE PUNISHED BY UPPERCLASS

Six girls ill feel the authority of the Women's Upperclass Committee at the next meeting of the Associated Students Friday morning. The committee met yesterday and the following co-eds will make their coy apologies at the meeting: Parnell Balthasar, Mary Burt, Fern Hansen, Reese Reckel, Doris Shogren and Wanda Morrill.

Sports Manager To Be Appointed By Each Fraternity

Inter-fraternity Sports to be Held Throughout the Year

Council Argues About Bill For Artemesia Panel Of Predecessors

Each fraternity will this year have a manager who will handle the affairs of his house in connection with interfraternity sports, it was decided Monday by the interfraternity council at its first meeting of the year. The various groups were urged to select their manager as soon as possible in order that the volley ball tournament may get under way immediately.

Track Cup Held

Because the inter-fraternity track meet was not held last year, it was pointed out that the cup intended for this purpose is still in the possession of the council. At the present time, however, no definite decision was made as to what will be done with it.

The council took under consideration a bill presented by the Artemesia for a panel in the 1931 book. Last year it was decided that the council would have no panel. However, it was placed in the book regardless of its decision. A committee was therefore appointed to confer with last year's editor regarding this matter.

Glee Club Annual Stunt Night Held

Entertainment Shows Talents Of Men's and Women's Organization

The annual stunt night of the Men's and Women's Glee clubs was held last Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the Education building. Approximately forty members of the Glee clubs attended.

Refreshments Served After the acts everyone went upstairs to the music room where cake and ice cream were served. Marjorie Fay played several popular songs and after "Just One More Chance," the meeting broke up.

These stunt nights are put on with the idea of bringing out individual and group talents, whether musical or otherwise. All members of the two Glee clubs are expected to submit some act toward the entertainment during the evening.

Strong Wolf Pack Ready for Opening Whistle Tomorrow

Philbrook's Men in Better Condition Than in Former Years Return of Rampoldi to Line-up Boosts Nevada's Hopes For Victory

With the most powerful Nevada football team in history facing the potential hard fighting West Coast Army Jar-Heads, the 1931 gridiron season will be ushered in tomorrow afternoon at Mackay field. With a capacity crowd of Wolf Pack supporters ready to cheer the every move of the team, Coach George W. Philbrook's Varsity squad will trot out on the field for the opening kick-off with an air of confidence about them that will give every indication of registering a Nevada win in the first game of the season, a feat that hasn't been accomplished by the Pack since 1927, when the Wolves defeated St. Ignatius 27-14.

Men Conditioned For the past ten days the Nevada coaching staff has been working hard, drilling the Varsity squad of four complete teams in all the various phases of the Philbrook system, and the opening line-up tomorrow should find eleven Nevada men who are in tip-top condition and who know how to act as a team. For the first time in years the Nevada mentor has a capable bunch of substitutes, who, when put in the game, will not weaken the team as a unit.

Rampoldi Returns Strengthened by the return of "Hank" Rampoldi, stellar tackle, and hard-hitting lineman of the 1930 Varsity, the Wolf Pack's forward line should average well over 190 pounds and with four big and fast men in the opening backfield, should average about 170 pounds. This is the heaviest lineup in the history of Nevada football. With such power present the Philbrook system should have ample strength from which to work its power and running plays to perfection.

Plenty of Material With the entire Ninth corps area from which to draw football material, the Jar-Heads present a formidable foe for any college team. A Nevada victory would do much toward re-establishing Nevada football in coast circles. The West Coast Army has a tremendous advantage over the Pack in experience and practice, having been under the direct supervision of Coach McKecknie for the past two months and having played two major games in the Bay district with two of the most powerful football clubs on the Pacific Coast, Stanford University and the Olympic club.

Nevada Marksman Back After Camp Perry Rifle Match

Boerlin Scores 272 Out of 300 In Individual Match Contest

Arvin Boerlin, senior student, arrived in Reno Sunday night from his three-weeks' stay at Camp Perry, Ohio, where he competed in the national individual and team rifle marksmanship matches. Boerlin left Reno August 23.

The first three days were spent in the small arms firing school where the men received instruction in small arms firing and teaching. In this department Boerlin was qualified as instructor.

Two and one-half weeks were then spent in firing on the range. Out of the thirteen men representing each corps area in the United States, ten men were picked by elimination on the range to represent their corps area in the national team match. The marines easily won this match, according to Boerlin. The Ninth Corps Area team did not place.

Boerlin is Expert In the individual matches, Boerlin duplicated his performance at Monterey when he twice qualified for expert. His score was 272 out of a possible 300 points. Expert rating requires 255 out of a possible 300. This is the highest qualification a man may receive from the United States government.

High School Grid Season Opens With Stewart vs. Frosh

Scranton's Yearlings Appear In Splendid Shape for First Contest

Breaking the state gridiron war wide open with a game against the Stewart Indian school Bucks as a preliminary to the varsity contest, the University of Nevada wolf cubs will line up tomorrow against one of the toughest prep school teams in the state.

But Coach Chet Scranton's young grid warriors appear in splendid shape for their first trial of the season. With a lineup composed of former high school grid stars who know the game as well as any freshman team can, the cubs have plenty of power and speed with which to batter through to the big end of the score.

Perfect Formation
Going into intensive training last week, the frosh team ironed out most of the defects in their performance of Coach George Philbrook's new "Z" formation.

The Bucks are reported by local gridiron fans as a "tough" outfit this year. They are holding practically all of the men over who made the Indians such a hard team to beat last season.

The freshmen now have a team of 25 men, a little over two complete squads. Every one of these men is capable of playing a real game of football and all will probably see action in tomorrow's contest.

Good Backfield
Plenty of backfield material is on hand with which to build a good squad. Carney, a fast fullback who saw service last year with the Yerlington high school team. He showed up good in scrimmage last week and should provide considerable action in tomorrow's battle.

Ernie Mack and Bob Mayers former Reno high school grid men and Lee Gundeath comprise the remainder of the halfback material of the cubs. They are not particularly fast, but they have plenty of drive in hitting the line. The Bucks will find it hard to hold this combination.

Nelson for Fullback
Of the fullbacks, Nelson appears to be the man most eligible for a first string berth. However, close on his heels will be Ed Pine, a willing youth from the southern part of the state.

Clayton Phillips, an all-state man from Reno high school, John Lee of Sacramento, Richard Herz and Bob Hansen will be on trial tomorrow at the end positions. There is little doubt that they will give the Indians a stiff workout.

The freshmen will be exceptionally strong at tackle position this season with such men as Kenneth MacLean, all-state last year, Jack Sullivan of Reno and John Kennedy and Jack Hodge. All of them are heavy and know how to charge with a ferocity that should turn back the best of the Buck's offense.

Position Contested
Jack Adams, one of the mainstays of the Reno high school Huskies last year and chosen all state by the Las Vegas Review-Journal leads the race for right guard position. Charles Warren, James Clark, Floyd Mills, and Jack Buttner are all earnestly working out for the guard posts also.

For centers, the frosh have three green men out for center this year, who give promise of developing into real material. They are Ed Bath, Minor Kirby and Ward Crabtree.

Crabtree showed plenty of fight in scrimmage last week. He charged through the line, on defense, broke up the play and made the tackle most of the time.

A speedy quarterback, who piloted the Reno Huskies to victory last year, John Dennison gives promise of developing into the freshman squads outstanding man at his favorite position this season. Watch him in tomorrow's game. Melvin Steffins, a willing boy from New York, is pressing him closely.

SOPHOMORES TURN DOWN SUGGESTION

The sophomores last Wednesday turned down the suggestion of giving the Frosh a fair chance at the lakings by letting them have a run from the building toward the lake, instead of being dragged out. This suggestion was offered by Art Levy, as having been the way the frosh were laked in previous years. The sophs told Levy that was the way they were punished and that was the way they intended punishing the men of '35.

Those members of the Freshmen class who were up for second offense or who never showed up when they were supposed to, were paddled 20 times and then thrown in the lake by the sophomores.

Nevada Football Team Prepares For B. Y. U. Contest

Mormons to Present a Tough Outfit for Pack's Second Game

Invading the lair of the Wolf Pack for the second time in three years, Coach Otto Romney's Brigham Young University Cougars will tangle with the Nevada Wolves Saturday, October 3, for the second successive home stand of the Wolf Pack.

Meet San Francisco University
This week the Cougars are engaging San Francisco University in a night contest at San Francisco. Following this contest Coach Romney will put his cohorts through a week of conditioning on the coast with West Coast Army and will bring his charges here early in the week for a workout before attempting to down the Wolf Pack on Saturday.

Won First Game
Last week the Cougars beat an all-star team composed of former Utah, Utah Aggies, and B. Y. P. Y. players 7 to 2. However this contest proved very little as to the strength of the team, and their game on the Coast under glaring headlights this week may prove misleading as to what they might do on Mackay field under normal conditions. This is the third year for Romney at the helm of the Cougars and by matter of choice, should prove his most successful.

Third Meeting
The contest next Saturday will be the third meeting of these two teams in as many years, with the best showing of the Wolves being made last year in the race for a first string berth at that position. Herm Freudenberg, former Vallejo star, also has been working out and he is expected to see plenty of action tomorrow. He is the only triple threat man on the squad.

Here, MEN, smoke a man's smoke

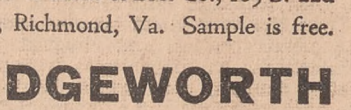

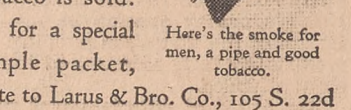

A PIPEFUL of good tobacco is distinctly a man's smoke. The women (long may they wave!) have taken over most of our masculine privileges. But pipe smoking still belongs to us.

In every walk of life you'll find that the men at the top are pipe smokers. And most college men agree that the pipe offers the rarest pleasures a man could ask of his smoking.

When you smoke a pipe, be sure you choose the tobacco that will give you the greatest enjoyment. In 42 out of 54 colleges Edgeworth is the favorite. You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold. Or for a special sample packet, write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va. Sample is free.

Sagers, Sagens to Manage First Rally

Service Groups Parade through Reno to Arouse Spirit For Saturday

Plans for the first midnight football rally and game Saturday between Nevada and the West Coast Army were discussed at the first joint meeting of the Sagers and Sagens held Tuesday night in their meeting room in the old chemistry building.

Will Parade
It was decided that members of two organizations would parade the business section of Reno two days previous to the game, and would be the leaders in the rally to be held tonight. They are to have charge of all the features to be held at the Roxie Theater after the parade, as well as leading the parade and assisting the yell leader and master of ceremonies in general.

when they journeyed to Provo and held the Utah school to a six-point tie. The year previous the Cougars won the game 10 to 7, when with the score tied at 7 all, and only two minutes left to play, Reeves, giant Cougar end dropped back to mid-field and sent a place kick between the cross bars for the margin of victory.

This year the Wolf Pack is out to avenge itself for this defeat two years ago and prove to home fans that Nevada University is still to be reckoned with. Coach Philbrook is making it a matter of personal interest between coaches, of showing what a wolf pack can do to the Cougars, and with the Army game as a determiner of new material the fans are sure to see the Nevada team settling down to mid season form, and playing more actual football than in the opening contest. So that whether Nevada wins or loses the first game, the real test for the Wolf Pack will come on Saturday, October 3.

Back the Pack. Make this Nevada's Year.

Seniors Practice Teach Under Traner

According to a report released from Professor Traner's office this morning there are thirty-five seniors practicing under the direction of Professor Traner, Dean Hall and Mr. Brown.

Those practice-teaching are distributed in the elementary schools, the Reno high school, Fourth street junior high, B. D. Billingshurst junior high in Reno and the Sparks high school. They are engaged in teaching subjects ranging from history and English to home economics and art.

New Song Book Is Being Considered

Discussion as to the advisability of printing a new A. S. U. N. song book for the University of Nevada campus, which would contain only the main college songs such as "Triumph Hymn," "Hail to Our Sturdy Men," and "Hail Proud Nevada," has met with the approval of a majority of the students. The one objection is that the pamphlet would not be large enough to furnish songs for the present need at football games.

Need for New Book
Professor T. H. Post, instructor in music, contends that there is need of a book similar to the one published in 1928, which contained all of the college songs together with a number of interesting views of the campus. The cost of putting out such a book at the present time is practically impossible because of lack of funds, and it is probable that the students will give consideration to the smaller pamphlet. The matter will be discussed at some future student body meeting.

Freshmen Students Test Intelligence

Intelligence tests were given to members of the freshmen class at the Tuesday and Thursday meetings of the Orientation class, conducted by Professor R. A. Irwin, of the psychology department, assisted by senior students.

The tests are given each year to the freshmen class, the results enabling professors to predict with a fair degree of accuracy which group of students will make the best grades in the coming year, although the students' intelligence grade has no direct influence on his college class marks. Results of the tests will be made public when the final statistics are compiled.

Read Commissioned In Cavalry After Leaving West Point

A former student at the University and a graduate of Reno schools, John W. M. Read, received his commission in the cavalry when he was graduated from West Point this spring. Read attended the University for a year and a half before going to West Point. He plans to study aviation.

Increase in Crowd Is Seen at Social Hill Get-together

Students to Impersonate Each Other Next Wednesday At Campus Hour

With the gymnasium reeking in an air of informality as the largest student turnout yet recorded joined together in broom dances, Paul Jones and ladies' choices, the third of the series of Campus Social hours was termed a decided success Wednesday evening.

Conspicuous by their absence in the past, upperclass sorority women attended the get together in a body, and were trailed by numbers of other coeds who were making their first visit to create the biggest crowd of Nevadans to ever assemble for the hour.

Music Lures Workers The music of Ray Hackett's orchestra acted as a lure to many who would otherwise have passed by the doors on the way to the library, and work on the upper deck of the Publications building was practically suspended as staff members flocked to the dance.

While it was thought for a time that the dances would not prove successful, the attendance and general expression of satisfaction expressed Wednesday evening cast aside all doubts that the hour would have to be discontinued.

Next Wednesday night will be "Impersonation" night, and those attending will come in a costume which will represent some other person on the campus.

The committee has pointed out the numerous angles which can be worked in an affair of this kind, chief among them being the opportunity to caricature professors and leading Campus students.

That freshmen women would again be given the duty of selling at all football games, under the supervision of the Sagens, was decided at a meeting this week and was discussed at the Sagens meeting Tuesday night.

The huge banner bearing the word "Nevada" made by the Sagens last year before the Homecoming day game was put on display Wednesday night at the social hour, and will be on the field for the game tomorrow.

Basis for tryouts for this pep and service organization for new freshmen women will be on their ability to make good by showing the proper spirit in selling at the various athletic contests during the coming year.

Although no freshmen are eligible, names will be taken down and brought up next year for discussion when the class of '35 will be sophomores and can belong to the sagens.

Genevieve Wolf was elected a member on the merit of her work last semester during the basketball season. Membership has now reached eleven, with thirteen as the maximum number.

Further plans were made to assist the sagers at the midnight rally to be held tonight and for the game tomorrow.

AT THE ROXIE Coming attractions at the Roxie Theater, Sunday, September 27. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday: "A Diplomat," featuring Betty Compton and Ivan Lehedeff.

Wednesday and Thursday: "Monte Carlo," featuring Jeannette McDonald and Jack Bechman. Friday and Saturday: "Conquering Horde," featuring Richard Arlen and Fay Wray.

Back the Pack.

THE SPIANS TO TAKE NEWLY PAINTED ROOM

The managerial staff of Campus Players will move into new quarters on the old chemical building next week. The office, formerly occupied by the Desert Wolf, is being renovated and completely redecorated, according to Oscar Robinson, art director, who is responsible for the movement.

Modernistic Impression The room is being decorated in modernistic impressionism, the predominant color scheme being beige, light green, and black. The woodwork is a representation of teakwood. One of the outstanding features in the decoration of the room is a set of impressionistic plaster plaques-murals.

The draperies will be batiqued in original design in the colors of beige, jade and black by members of the art staff, who will also work on the chandelier which is being made of etched glass and chromium tubing.

This office will be occupied by Production Manager Fred Trevitt, of Campus Players, and departmental heads.

Novel Decorations Arranged For Hop

On October 3, 1931, the annual sophomore hop will be held at the Nevada State Building. Novel decorations for the affair are being arranged in black and white, featuring silhouettes. Music is to be furnished by one of the most popular bands in Reno.

Every effort is being put forth by the committees in charge to make this one of the best social functions of the season.

As long as this is the first formal dance of the semester a large crowd is expected to attend.

Negro Spirituals Will Be Presented By Jubilee Singers

First University Presentation To Feature Quintet of Negro Singers

Genuine negro spiritualists singing the emotional religious hymns that have been copied by popular song writers will be presented at the University auditorium Wednesday, September 30, at 8:15 p. m. A series of programs scheduled by the University committee on assemblies and lecturers, it is by the courtesy of the Trinity cathedral and Episcopal diocese. The Rev. Mr. F. D. Graves, chaplain of St. Stephen's chapel, will introduce the singers.

Members of Faculties
The five negro jubilee singers are members of the faculties of southern colleges belonging to the American Church Institute for Negroes. They are among the best entertainers of their kind in the country.

While the concert is to be given primarily for the students, downtown people may attend, according to a statement by Prof. A. L. Higginbotham, chairman of the University committee.

'Stray Greeks' Plan Organization, Elect Officers At Meeting

Holding the second of their regular weekly meetings Monday night the "Stray Greeks" elected the following officers: President, Jack Smith; secretary and treasurer, Raif Robinson; representative to athletic board of inter-mural sports, Tony Tesoni.

Besides the election of officers plans were drawn up for the formation of a constitution and bylaws. The name "Stray Greeks" was officially adopted. A regular social program was formed. There are six different fraternities represented by this organization. So far there is a total of ten members: August Bernes, University of California; Bill Squires, University of Los Angeles; Dick Fry, University of California; Raleigh Watson, University of Southern California; John Bryan, Stanford; Britton McFetridge, Pomona; Cecil Harris, College of Pacific.

LINCOLN HALL WARMS UP TO NEW HEATERS

The residents of Lincoln Hall take great pleasure in announcing that the long-awaited heat has finally been turned on, and that the radiators in the rooms are beginning to acquire desirable temperatures.

According to the experienced residents of the Hall, there is always a period at the beginning of each semester when there is no heat in any of the rooms and when the weather turns chilly, this thing of arising in the morning to the tune of chattering teeth and shaking knees is not altogether pleasant.

Announcements

Postmaster Prescott of the University station announced that he would like to have the addresses of representatives of the various campus organizations. Prescott says that very often mail addressed to campus organizations has to be returned unclaimed and that if officers of these organizations would leave their city addresses the mail would be redelivered to them.

Notice to students who receive the Sagebrush by mail. In case you do not receive your Sagebrush, please notify Arvin Boerlin, or write your name on the complaint list in the outer office.

Sagebrush Junior Editors will meet promptly at 3 o'clock next Monday afternoon. The remainder of the staff will show at 4 o'clock. No excuses will be accepted. Your presence is absolutely necessary to insure you a position on the staff. This means last year's workers as well as the tryees. The regular staff will be announced at that time.

Artemesia Business staff members will meet every Friday afternoon from 1 o'clock until 4 o'clock.

The first real rally of the school year is set for tonight. If you have any desire to co-operate with the rest of your fellow collegians in putting Nevada across in a big way this year, you will attend the rally and bring everybody with you. The rally starts at 10:30 tonight at Manzanita Hall, and will not adjourn until after a big downtown demonstration after the midnight show at the Roxie.

Students who fail to bring their student body tickets to the game tomorrow will not be admitted to the game. This is an official A. S. U. N. ruling, and will be enforced to the fullest extent.

Sagebrush Staff To Be Named After This Week's Issue

Today marks the end of the "Brush" trial period. From those students who have been working on the paper for the past four weeks, about thirty will be assigned regular places on the editorial staff.

Tryees will be judged by the merit of the work done during this period, and their willingness to work and cooperate with the editors. Junior editors have also been on trial and will be rated on the same basis. Anyone who is found to be deficient in good newspaper qualities will be asked to resign.

At the present time, there are twenty-two tryees for the business side of the staff. The work of many of these has not been of a standard that would merit them places on the staff. Therefore the trial period will be extended until further notice, it was announced by the business manager, Bob Merriman.

Announcement of those who have been successful in gaining places on the editorial and night staffs will be made next week by the editor, Joe Jackson.

Former Student Wins Automobile Contest From Literary Work

A former student of the University of Nevada, Carl Shelley of Sparks, rates an average of $40 per word for his literary work—at least in the opinion of the Cremo Cigar company. He recently was the proud recipient of a new car—his choice of a Ford, Chevrolet, Plymouth—won in the national Cremo twenty-word cigar band statement contest.

Shelley was a member of the class of '26 and a member of Delta Sigma Lambda fraternity. He was prominent in debate, being president of the Caucas Debating society.

Developments in Paper Pulp Industry Discussed By Lecturer

Illustrating his lecture with lantern slides, Dr. Ralph H. McKee spoke on "Newer Developments in the Paper Pulp Industry" at a meeting of the Camor Cam Chemical society, Sacramento section, which was held at the Mackay Science Hall last Saturday evening.

Dr. McKee has himself developed a method by which the ordinary poplar tree can be made grow in eight years to the size it usually attains in forty. This, and the method of developing alcohol, or sulphite liquor, from wood pulp, were the subjects of his discussion.

Following the meeting the Chemistry club gave a reception and lunch in the Mackay Science library.

Louis Kehoe, a former graduate of the University of Nevada, who spent his vacation in Nevada, returned to Illinois where he is assistant chemist in the department of soils at the University of Illinois this year.

E. M. Degree For Linscott Is Asked

Fred M. Linscott, of the class of '30, was recommended to the graduate committee for an E. M. degree at a meeting of the engineering faculty this week.

Linscott is a veteran of the Spanish-American war, being made captain of the First Nevada volunteer cavalry immediately after he left school here.

After the war he entered mining in the west. As the big bonanzas disappeared he went to the South African gold fields. He worked in various capacities until ill health forced him to quit and has since been operating his own properties with considerable success.

Hopes for Nevada Victory Are Bright In Tilt Tomorrow

Wealth of Material on Varsity Squad To Be Seen in Action

Pass Offense Developed

In view of this weakness, Philbrook has built up a pass offense that is predicted to be the sensation of the Far Western Conference. Every backfield candidate for the Nevada Varsity has proven that he is both a good passer and a good receiver and the Nevada ends have been drilled constantly on faking out the defense and receiving the ball from all angles.

Gannuzzi Star

Gannuzzi and Weinmeister, West Coast Army backfield stars, have the edge over any Nevada backfield man in experience but not in fight and drive. Gannuzzi has established himself as one of the leading triple-threat men on the Coast and Weinmeister has proven his mettle in the first two games played by the Army this year. Felix, Jar-Head running guard, is considered the fastest guard on the coast and should make things plenty hard for the Nevada backs tomorrow. The rest of the Army team is built around these three stars, and from latest reports are confident of dumping the Nevada Wolves.

Arriving in town late last night, Captain Meredith, Ninth Corps Area athletic director, stated that Coach McKecknie was bringing up a squad of 52 real football players that will be on hand early this evening and would be raring to do big things tomorrow afternoon.

Rumors are being circulated that Peary, all-American tackle from West Point in 1926, might start at right tackle, instead of French. If this shift is made in the Army line, the Jar-Heads will have the edge of Nevada in both weight and experience.

Backfield Developed

Since taking over the squad September 15, Coach Philbrook has rapidly brought his team to the front and has developed a backfield that has no peer since his arrival at the Nevada campus.

This Nevada backfield has been strengthened by the addition of John Griffin, giant tackle. He has been shifted to full-back as an understudy to Parsons. This shift gives the full-back position more power both offensively and defensively.

Making up for the loss of Lefevre, sensational sophomore half-back of last season, Clem Sultenfuss and Jack Hill have shown in scrimmages a big improvement over their old game and both give rise to hopes for having two good triple-threat men on the squad. Both Sultenfuss and Hill have been averaging over 50 yards in their punting and having been passing and running in open field much better than last year. Lee Priest, former Sparks flash, and Dale Hart, Reno speedster, also have given promise of developing into valuable halves.

Backer at Quarter

At quarter-back the signals will be called by Bill Backer, Milt Young, Tom Towle, and Monty Boland. Backer, coming back bigger and faster than ever, has the edge over Young, who was regular last year, on account of a slight back injury which has been bothering Young for the past few months. Towle and Boland are new men who give promise of becoming real smart quarters, making up for lack of size in brains.

H. Hill Sensational

At flanking half Bud Beasley, sub-quarter last year, has a slight edge over Harry Hill in both experience and left-handed passing which works in well with the Philbrook passing attack. Beasley is husky and fast and has a real interest in the game. Hill is accredited as the fastest man in football on the Pacific Coast. With more experience the former Fallon speed demon should be one of the bright stars in Wolf Pack football. Neil Scott, Varsity end and two-year letterman, has been switched to this interference half position and along with Bloedell and

WOLF PACK TO PLAY TWO NIGHT GAMES

For the first time in University of Nevada gridiron history the University of Nevada Wolves will engage in night football, clashing with the California Aggies on October 9 at Sacramento and the following week-end at Stockton against the College of Pacific.

Last year the Wolf Pack downed the Aggies in a one-sided contest in the presence of Clarence Mackay on Homecoming day, but this year they will have no added attraction to make them fight harder so they may run in to a very hard team to beat considering that the Aggies are used to the bright lights. The Nevada boys will give a good account of themselves if the night atmosphere does not bother them too much and we can look forward to a hard fought battle.

October 16 will see them playing their second night battle and we are sure that they will make the Bengals from College of Pacific fight for every point that they receive. It is too early in the season to give an account of any of the teams mentioned, but we can say that they will be good games for they all play in the far western conference and Coach George Philbrook's team is looking forward to winning its first conference crown on the football field. The Blue and Silver warriors will be at a disadvantage in these two games for there are no facilities on the Nevada Campus, which allows them to acustom themselves to the glare of the bright lights which they will play under in the California cities.

Spirz should also see action tomorrow.

Parson and Griffin at Full

Gaile Parson scrappy veteran full-back, is at present the leading candidate for this difficult assignment and from current coaching reports and early scrimmages, should become a real star both on offense and in backing up the line on defense. John Griffin, veteran tackle, has shown promise of becoming a big help in this position as well as battling Spud Harris, end on the Varsity squad last year, who was shifted to fullback to help instill his fighting spirit into the Pack forward wall along with playing a bang-up game on offense. Bradley, former Fallon high star, is also showing up well in this tough spot.

Line Very Powerful

On the line Coach Philbrook has developed a well-balanced unit which should be one of the strongest on the coast.

At the end positions Art Levy and Dellano are at present first string choice. Levy is potentially one of the strongest wing men on the West Coast and Dellano has every physical and mental qualification, along with plenty of fight, of becoming a good running mate for Levy. Other promising candidates for the wing assignments are: Salet, Law, Bledsoe, Keates and Stewart. All of these men are plenty tough and with a little more experience should make the end part of the Nevada line secure on all plays.

At tackles the Wolf Pack has the two largest and most powerful men on the squad, Bob Madariaga and Ole Thies. These veterans both weigh over 200 pounds and are real football players. Austin, Iatzi, Montgomery, McKinnon and Perovich also have shown good promise of developing into first-string materials.

Inter-Fraternity Sports Program to Commence at Once

Cross-Country, Volley Ball and Basketball Practice to Start at Once

Representatives of the fraternities met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of approving an intermural sports system which J. E. Martie, director of athletics, proposes to inaugurate immediately. The new system calls for competition among the fraternities, independents, Lincoln Hall and Stray Creeks, in the following sports: handball, volleyball and basketball, with indoor baseball and touch football to be considered at a future meeting.

The inter-fraternity council is sponsoring a cross country race for Homecoming, and an added attraction, an interfraternity horseshoe pitching tournament. Cups for all of the above mentioned competitions will be offered by the inter-fraternity council. Basketball practice will start next Monday, and will continue until October 12, at which time a round robin tournament will be opened. The tournament is to be finished by October 30.

There have been no notable improvements to date and, according to Superintendent Lynch, there are no plans for work in the future.

Is a Representative Student Court Acceptable to those Who Think Inter-frat Court, Affairs Committee, Lacks Merit?

With opinion divided as to the advisability of installing a court composed of fraternity men to handle conduct cases among the Greek Letter men, and with a general air of dissatisfaction prevalent concerning the now existing student affairs committee, some plan seems advisable for a new form of court which would be satisfactory to all concerned, and which would take the place both of the student affairs committee and the proposed inter-fraternity court.

Possibly the inter-frat court idea would work. But the majority of the houses, or enough to kill the measure when it is brought up to a vote, seem to think otherwise. Fundamentally, the court idea is a sound one, agree the Greeks, except for one point. Students would be turned into stool pigeons, would be forced to report their own fraternity brothers, before the court could act on such cases of conduct as have come to the attention of those with whom the council has come in contact.

Because the majority of the Greeks can not bring themselves to see justice in this idea of "peaching" on the members of their own or other fraternities, even though the action thus taken would be for the good of the school, the measure seems very likely to be lost.

Concerning the existing student affairs committee, this body functions to the best of its ability, but cannot handle all the cases of misconduct, and has not been able to handle them in the past because the members thereof could not act as policemen, and because they hesitated for a long time before bringing a student in to face their body when they had but three courses of action, expulsion, suspension or probation, to take if the subject were deemed guilty.

As to the question "Why should every student who is guilty of misconduct be faced with these three alternatives?" the answer backed by a little thought, would seem obvious. So would the answer to the question, "Why should not a student be allowed to live his own life as he sees fit, without being called to account for his actions?" Student discipline must be maintained at the university because opinion demands it, because self respect demands it, because no institution can long hope to continue which fails to place a restraining hand on the actions of that portion of the student body who refuses to abide by the simple laws of ethics and the fundamental rules of human society. Proper conduct is perhaps more of a necessity among the students than it is with any other class in citizenship, chiefly because the student is in the public eye, because the general public interests itself in his welfare. And when the public is eye witness to intoxication and rowdiness, the long tongue of gossip wags fast and furious with the result that the reputation of the student, and of all the students in the college he attends, is lessened somewhat in the eyes of those who did not see, but only heard. Hence the necessity for some kind of a checking system.

That such a check must and should come

Keep It Quiet

The Sagebrush this week begins an active campaign to secure quiet in the university library. This is done because it is believed that some action should be taken which will go for making of the study sanctuary either a general meeting place where students so inclined may congregate and gossip, and where all who wish to study will be barred, or else a place where silence would reign supreme for the benefit of those earnest souls who are trying to prepare a lesson for the class of that day or the next.

It is carried on as a student project because it is felt that the students themselves should decide whether or not they have a place to study, because it is felt that some means of discipline can be made available which will insure quiet in the one place on the campus where silence is a necessity and an attribut.

The campaign will follow much after the general manner of that conducted two years ago. Names of rule violators will be published, and, if possible, a log will be kept for every hour the library is open, in the hope that habitual violators, placed in the spotlight, will curtail themselves to some extent at least, and that that boisterous portion of the student body which sees no need for study will feel the urge to play elsewhere.

Especially noted will be the actions of the upperclassmen, who should, through three years of college training, have gathered from the students themselves, without the suggestion of the administration, but with its distinct approval, is almost a necessity. But that the students who undertake this action should work with the cooperation of the faculty in passing on cases, seems also obvious. At present, as has been pointed out, the student affairs committee is the only body which can restrain the non-orderly. That the group has been unsuccessful, and the reasons for this lack of success, has also been noted. It seems that some other method must be installed, and it also seems that that method will not be the proposed inter-fraternity court, which, after all, would handle only the cases of fraternity men, and would leave the independents and the sorority women to be taken care of by the student affairs committee.

With this in view, a new plan is in order, or rather several new plans might be presented from which the best should be selected. One to be considered would be that of a representative student council, to be composed of the Dean of Men, the Dean of Women, the Student Body president, and two members at large to be selected from the student body, either by presidential appointment or by election.

As to just who should turn cases over to the council thus proposed, several suggestions could be made. One way which seems feasible would be for the members of the council themselves to report the cases. For another, the names could be turned in by the house presidents and by the independents at will, or the same system as that which would be used for the proposed inter-fraternity court might be employed here.

Because the council would take on the aspect of an A. S. U. N. affair, the members of the Upperclass committee could be called on to act as policemen in keeping those students to the straight and narrow who need to be kept on this track. The Upperclass committee is, in its essential purpose, a police body, and could well be used as such.

And in turning the names over to the council, the members of the committee, or in fact anyone who reported unruly conduct cases, could in no way be considered committing the offense of "Stool Pigeoning," because of the very nature of the charges, which would accuse the student of unruly conduct caused by the drinking of intoxicating liquors at any university function or in any downtown place. Cases of unruly conduct in the library could be handled under another heading.

The plan as it is presented here is sketchy in the extreme. No attempt will be made to complete it, for such a proposal could be completed only after a careful consideration of the matter by a representative group. Other plans might be brought forward which would be far better than this one. But some plan some concerted action of the students, is an immediate necessity. Nevadans should begin to investigate the possibilities of a representative student council at once, if for no other reason than to create interest in the student body.

enough wits about them to keep quiet for a few moments, but who have to all appearances failed to add this wrinkle to their brains. The example set by the upperclassmen is followed by the freshmen, and this was ever so. If the upperclassmen behave, the freshmen will do likewise. Hence the added notoriety proposed for the men and women of Junior and Senior standing who are unable to control their bubbling spirit in the library.

As to the length of the campaign, that depends entirely on how long the students take in reaching their decision to be quiet, or how soon a better method of securing quiet is introduced.

Back the Pack!

Tomorrow the Wolf Pack begins the toughest football schedule it has ever been called on to face against a potentially strong opponent, the West Coast Army. Much of Nevada's success this fall depends upon the winning of tomorrow's game, and, likewise, much of the success of tomorrow's game depends on the enthusiasm displayed by the students toward the team.

Tonight's rally will give the student body every opportunity to display all the spirit that is in the power of every individual member to display. Every student owes it to himself to attend the rally, and the show, and to be at the game rooting to the fullest capacity of his lungs. BE THERE.

ALONE TO FACE THE HORDE

THE WOLF HOWLS

Dear Omar:—
I am addressing this to you, as I believe yours is to be a constructive as well as a destructive column. I am forced to express myself upon this much over-worked term, "spirit." I sat in the bleachers the other day and heard speaker after speaker "demand" backing from the student body, and plead for "spirit". It made me think of someone pointing at a person with a broken heart and saying "Laugh, be gay!" For after all, "spirit" comes from the inside out.

Why do we cry? Why do we laugh? And why do we shout? The desire to express ourselves emotionally has got to be greater than our bodily control, or we will sit and calmly look on. We have to be so full of pride in our school, love for our school and loyalty for our school, that we do not stand on whether the teams win or lose, we are for THEM.

When I say "school," I am thinking of what seems to be the most important activity at this time of year—football. I am probably an idealist. I know that I am an amateur football fan. I do not know the game well enough to enjoy it technically, and I like to believe that our boys are doing the very best that they can, and that our coaches are doing their very best against odds that cannot be helped. I know that the team does not adhere to training rules as strictly as it might, but would you or I do better? Prove it! Their willingness to sacrifice themselves must come from that same loyalty, love and pride in their school.

There is so much to say. The editorial section had an article on "sophistication" which I think hit the nail on the head. We are afraid to be seen shouting for something that may not be the very best of its kind. When we hear our own college band play a good peppy march, we feel like clapping hard, and then we think that really it is not quite so good as a band we have heard over the radio, Mr. Sousa's band, and some other sophisticate might know that too, so we hold back. Poor sophisticates! don't we know the difference between highly trained professionals and college boys with little individual training, and lots of desire to do the best they can?

So it is when we watch our team. In our hearts we say, "They just can't compare with 'Cal' or Stanford, so we don't shout as loud as we might otherwise. Poor sophisticates! don't we know that we haven't the student body to draw from, or the money or backing to do with that the larger 'U's have? That our boys are doing the best that they can, and are listening for our whole-hearted backing?"

Loyalty, and love for our school? We all speak of it in stage whispers. There have been forces working in the past few years to tear down that very vital thing, loyalty. And so we tread softly for fear the monster will bite us again. Let's bring this monster out and slay him. Let's think of our beautiful campus nestled here among the hills, our blue lakes, our state of unsurpassable beauty! Let's think of each other! Let's love one another and pull for each other, and we will win! Win in "spirit" if not always in games!

who have the initiative and courage to carry on and lead the rest to that goal.

Another thing, even though it was an unruly one, we must admit that this year's frosh class did manifest spirit. They had the desire to start something, even though it was only trouble and I'm willing to bet that if some of these languid (polite for lazy), upperclassmen—by the way I hope you're not a junior or senior, Omar—would blossom out into utility, that Freshman enthusiasm could be so guided as to work for the return of the spirit we once called Nevada.

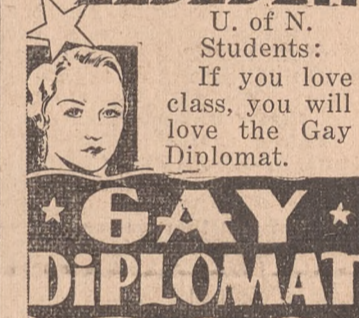

Sincerely,
—C. H.
