The money which is received from the dance will probably be donated to the Haseman memorial fund, which is now being raised.

Loud guffaws, contemptuous smiles, long sermons, some very hot and profane language and various snorts, grunts, and animal noises are the only indication that the men by today had given a thought to the handsome man contest. Furthermore, they are not even interested! No sir-ee! "We don't give two hoots about it," is the general sentiment. One big boy blandly opened his baby blue eyes and asked his interrogator, "What contest?" in all innocence no doubt, although it may have been a pose to hide his real anticipation of the matter.

Well, they can say they aren't interested but my, oh my! the hot Spanish blood that comes to the fore when you talk to them about it! Explosions of "rot," "hoey," "bunk," and "aw-nertz" with all kinds of dots, dashes, tion that the women were lucky to call it off without any lives lost.

It is hinted by the men that the women are using the wrong psychology in pulling off the affair. It seems they would all feel better about it if the women chose just the five candidates and left the actual outcome to the public imagination.

Opinions Voiced Besides the hot popping sort there is the man who has thought the matter over seriously and gives good candid destructive criticism. Among these is Joe Jackson, who asks "What good can such a contest do? None at all in point of service to the University and that is the main thing to be considered."

Another who seems to have the situation well in hand is Elbert Walker. Elbert insists that the contest would be something worth while if it were for the most active or the most popular man on the campus, but that a handsome man is of no earthly use.

A sneering consensus of opinion wants to know what big red-blooded he-man is going to degenerate into leading the grand march at the dance anyway, admitting of course that the expected corsage of violets and lilies might turn the trick.

Furthermore, he says, "his picture will not be put in the year book." Evidently only the female queens are going to get the breaks.

A Legend

Next week the people of the United States will begin a ten month celebration commemorating the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington, their first president.

The deeds of Washington have been recorded in a thousand books. The nobility of his character has been expounded from the lips of great orators. His generosity has been the subject of many sermons, and his steadfastness has been set down as an example for every school boy.

Shrines and memorials consecrate his name and he has become the central figure of a great and powerful legend—a legend based on fact and steeped in truth—the legend of the founding of a great nation and the birth of a great people—a legend of great men who did great deeds in building the foundations for that nation and that people.

Washington stands at the front of the roster of those men. He would have been great in any age, and his place in the legend will never be usurped. He stands alone as the incarnate spirit of all the ideals of manhood and courage, of truth and steadfastness towards which American youth should strive. It is fitting that he should have this, his two-hundredth year, dedicated to a retelling of his glory.

Bugbear Again

This is another editorial on the depression. It does not seek to find the cause, nor does it bespeak a remedy. It simply points out that the A. S. U. N. has taken the rap along with other organizations, and it is a plea to the students not to be too expectant of big-time doings, nor too critical if the present year does not prove successful, financial or otherwise.

In a report from Comptroller Gorman yesterday, it was found that A. S. U. N. finances had fallen off more than one thousand dollars over those of last year. This puts the group in a difficult situation, when it is considered that this money could have been used to advantage to finish out the athletic and general activity season.

There is even a remote possibility that Nevada will have no track meets other than the Far Western conference meet. This is only one of the activities curtailed, by necessity and not desire. Students will have to take this whether they like it, or not, and it would be better for all concerned if they accepted the blow philosophically.

Divorce

Reno, renowned among the world's big centers of divorce, and the object of much publicity because of its policy of easy severance of marital ties, will be the scene next week of a situation which is probably unique in its annals. Two women will argue with two men over the desirability of easy divorce, and the debate should be one of interest as well as one of educational value.

The women are co-eds enrolled at Oregon State College, and the men represent the University of Nevada. The co-eds will talk against divorce, while the men will seek to defend the laws and the policy of their state in granting divorce to couples who find themselves no longer able to live happily as man and wife.

The forensic contest next week will not be merely another debate. Its subject should carry a powerful emotional appeal, if it does not touch on the intellectual. Nevada is attempting a noble experiment. Whether that experiment is a bad one or not will not be determined in this decade, nor will it be determined in the next. It is a question of experimentation, of experience. Much has been said on the question, much more will be said, but no matter how much is or has been said, the test of time is the only real thing that matters.

Next week a new side will be heard from. College students will give their views and interpretations, pro and con, upon the subject, and their remarks should prove interesting. That the opposition is being furnished by women is most fortunate, for in spite of the fact that the majority of the divorce actions are instituted by women, woman's views on the subject of easy divorce have been expressed all too seldom.

Back Nevada's Backers

Students and organizations which intend making purchases would do well to glance over the pages of the Sagebrush, the Desert Wolf, and the Artemisia and find out which of the Nevada merchants are backing Nevada activities, before they buy. It might also be well to remember the names of firms which have made donations recently.

This is not an appeal made so that student publication advertising solicitors may have an easier time of it when they try to sell space to merchants. The idea rises out of a realization that students here have not adhered as closely to the Golden Rules as they might, and out of a desire for fair play.

Most of the local merchants are willing to back Nevada activities to the fullest extent within their power. This comes from a natural pride in their state institution, and a public spirit which looks to public welfare rather than to personal aggrandizement. By this same token the students should be willing to reciprocate.

Reconsider

The seniors are making a grave mistake in stipulating that the money they turn over to the student union committee to be used for the old historical society building must be used for furnishings and nothing else.

In the first place by the time a new student union building could possibly be constructed, the furnishings would be so decrepit as to prove unuseful in the new quarters. In the second place, the committee should be the judge of what the money shall be used for. If the members wish to buy furnishings with the senior funds, all well and good, but if they find that the money is needed for repairs, partitions, and the like, they should feel at liberty to use it for these purposes.

As the situation stands now, the hands of the committee are tied. The money must be used solely for furnishings, even if the building cannot be repaired adequately because a few dollars are lacking. In this way, the committee might be forced to buy some very nice furniture, and then have no place to put it.

The seniors would do well to call a meeting to reconsider their stipulation, and to make a new provision, wherein the funds in their deposits would be turned over to the building committee to be used as the committee sees fit. Furthermore, no thinking senior will sign the petitions now being circulated until this reconsideration is made, for by the conditions of the petition, the school may find itself deprived of a building for student offices.

Unclean

With the advent of spring, elections invariably are held; with the holding of elections inevitably comes "dirty politics," in spite of several high-minded and sincere plans to prevent it.

The undesirability of the use of unfair tactics can readily be observed. A love for power that is not only natural, but commendable, can turn into a dangerous thing unless tempered with diplomacy. Unfair means, used in the heat of excitement, and hence always untactful, for the purpose of accomplishing a selfish end becomes a boomerang that wounds the thrower.

It is hoped that this will be taken in the nature of a timely warning. Because "dirty politics" has existed for a long time on this campus is no reason that it will always have to exist. The first example to test the worth of the present campaign to eliminate these practices which are degenerating the whole organization of student life here has been unsuccessful; unsuccessful not only in itself, but for those who began the "dirt."

Those of us who have faith that human nature is based on fairness and that justice must take its course may be slightly encouraged in this auspicious result of the entrance of aged, as far as this last point is concerned, by "dirt" into this first election of a campus group.—M. E.

In The Know

Thanks to the activities of the companies, Nevada faces the possibility of not having enough outstanding candidates to make the coming Hill elections worth the bother of running off. This is a sad situation indeed, but it is true for all that, and if Nevada's man power is dying out it is because the fraternities have made it certain that no man will really have to become outstanding, or even exceptionally able, to be elected to office. The tongs should get wise to themselves and cut out the combine stuff, since it is ruining the morale of the school.

Wolf staff members forecast that the coming edition of their magazine will be the best out this year. In addition to a reply to the article on "What's Wrong with Nevada Women," published in the last issue, there is a short story written by the winner of that contest held recently.

Not reverting to the old glad-hand, but Editor Mariani and his staff are to be congratulated on the type of book they are turning out. The magazine got off to a bad start, but more than retrieved itself by the last issue.

If members of Campus Players and Junior Players do not turn in their tickets and money for "Berkeley Square" immediately, they will find their activities cut down to nothing. Finance Control, justifiably, demands a complete report of the last production before it will approve the budget for the next, and the report can not be completed unless the tickets are turned in. Theaters who have any interest in their organization will attend to this matter at once, for if they do not, campus drama will be decidedly a thing of the past, and that is bad.

Students who drive their cars in the mud between the Hall of English and the old Chemistry building, and also between the Chem building and the gymnasium are doing little to help the ground and building force in seeking to keep the campus in order. Huge ruts in the earth present an unsightly spectacle, all the more disgusting because it proves beyond a doubt that the car owners are too lazy to walk a few steps from the pavement.

That the women's upperclass committee has lost its backbone is proven beyond a doubt, when a junior is allowed to sit on the senior bench in front of several members of the committee and go unpunished.

DEPTH SOUNDERS FOR AIRCRAFT

With the application of electricity to aircraft instruments, another chapter was written in the annals of air transportation. To-day's ship is not only swifter but safer and more dependable. Modern depth-sounding devices indicate instantly the height of the ship above the ground surface. A unique feature of General Electric's recently purchased monoplane is the almost completely electrified instrument panel.

The most recently developed instrument is the sonic altimeter, which provides a quick means of indicating changes in height above ground. Sound from an intermittently operated air whistle is directed downward. The echo is picked up in a receiving megaphone, and the sound is heard through a stethoscope. The elapsed time between the sound and the echo determines the height. Tests show that water, buildings, woods, etc., produce echoes that are different and characteristic.

Besides developing a complete system of aircraft instruments, college-trained General Electric engineers have pioneered in every electrical field—on land, on sea, and in the air.

Wolf Pack Cagers Win From Pacific In Slow Contests

Nevada Wins 29-18, and 35-29 to Lead Conference Race for Championship

College of Pacific Basketeers Stage Strong Comeback in Second Game

The University of Nevada Wolves gained another rung on the Far Western conference ladder last week-end by defeating a comparatively weak College of Pacific five in a two-game series that was marked by somewhat ragged playing by both of the quintets. Nevada was superior in every department of the game, but lacked the smoothness that she has shown in the preceding series. The final scores were 29-18, and 35-29.

Friday night the game started off rather quietly with both teams getting their share of chances to score, but neither of them dropping the ball into the hoop. After a few minutes of playing Nevada fouled and Holme of the visitors drew first blood by sinking the free throw. On the tip off, Bankoffier, Nevada's standing guard, sank a beautiful long shot to put his team in the lead, only to have Pacific come back to regain the lead with Captain Odale shooting a close-in shot to place Pacific in the lead for the last time of the game. Nevada then started hitting the hoop with regularity to be out in the lead 12 to 3 when something went wrong with their offense and the Bengals ran the score up to 12 to 10 at half time.

Nevada Outscores C. o. P. In the second half Nevada entered the contest determined to come out the victor. The Wolves started in early to hit the hoop with Pacific occasionally sinking one. With the game well in hand Coach Doc Martindale sent in his second team in the last few minutes. They held the Pacific Bengals to one lone tally. When the gun sounded the score favored the Wolves 29 to 18.

Second Game FASTER The following evening the game showed a marked improvement over the one the evening before. Both teams broke faster and it was a nip-and-tuck affair the second half. Nevada started the scoring by a free throw and in return the Bengals tied the score with a free throw. Odale, all-conference center from Pacific, scored a beautiful long shot to place his team in the lead. Nevada came back strong and ran the score up to 21 to 5 at half time.

The Bengals came back strong to out-score the Nevadans in this period but could not overcome the large advantage that the Wolves enjoyed from the first period. Odale and Horner hit the hoop at will for the visitors; the final outcome was 35 to 29. Biedsoe, Nevada veteran, was the outstanding man on the floor in both encounters. He repeatedly took the ball away from his opponents and dribbled down the floor for points. He was ably assisted in the scoring by Leighton, Gould, Carroll, Griffin, and Bankoffier.

Captain Odale from Stockton, stole the show for the visitors, but did not have the support to stave off defeat for the Bengals. Odale was everything that had been said of him and looks as though he will have back his birth on the all-conference team for the second time.

Temperance Essay Contest Announced

A temperance essay contest will be conducted on the campus this semester by the Reno Women's Christian Temperance Union through its secretary, Mrs. B. F. Bulmer. SKI CLASSES TO PRACTICE NEXT SUNDAY

If you pass by Hirschdale Sunday afternoon you may see some snow-debragged skiers earnestly trying crazy capers. Directing them in their efforts will be a heavyset figure.

They are the 12 members of the newly organized University of Nevada skiing class, taking their final workout under the supervision of "Chet" Scranton. "Chet" expects to find out whether or not the skiers have been out twice a week practicing their Telemarks and Christians, or sitting at home by the radiator.

This is the first time that physical training has been given for skiing, and the class was largely an experiment. The skiers emphatically declare themselves in favor of it.

The class was to have convened at Hirschdale last Saturday, but one of Nevada's week-end storms postponed the meet.

Junior Varsity Leads Y.M.C.A. Hoop League

Winning all three games played so far in its schedule in section "B" of the Y.M.C.A. basketball league, the "B" squad of the junior varsity basketball team looks as though it were on its way to cop league honors.

The first game of the series was with the National Guard, February 2. The varsity walked away with this contest to the tune of 31 to 11.

Junior varsity also had an easy time with the Piggly Wiggly five, when they met on the 11th. The grocers were beaten 17 to 7. Spitz of the varsity and Anderson of Piggly Wiggly shared high honors, each scoring 8 points.

Although the Bell Telephone team had the lead at the end of the half, the varsity came back to win decisively by the score of 17 to 7 in the Wednesday evening. Spitz was high point man in this contest making a total of nine points for the University squad.

Those on the "B" squad include Harry Bonfield, Garry Callahan, Jack Dolan, Lionel Jasper, Al O'Connell, Eddie Robertson, Floyd Smalley, Monty Boland, Walt Linehan, Duane Nelson, Dick McGuire, Fred Spitz and Gene Salet.

Two games yet to be played are with Union Ice on February 23 and Beta Kappa on March 3. Willard Weaver is coaching both junior varsity teams.

The only condition for the contest is that ten or more entries must be made. Professor A. E. Hill is in charge of the essay competition and additional information may be obtained from him. The W. C. T. U. is conducting a similar contest for the normal students under the supervision of Dean J. W. Hall. The prize for this will also be $25.

Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Phi Tied for First Place During Week

The Alpha Tau Omega checker team came from behind in the University checker tourney last week and beat the Sigma Phi Sigma fraternity to tie for first place in the fourth week of play. Although the Taus have played more games than the Sigma Phi Sigma house the percentages are the same.

Honors for the individual star went to Harold Brown of the A.T.O.s, as being the outstanding performer so far in the tourney. He has beaten Joe Horton, star Sigma Nu player, and Pat Sanford, the best jumper at the Sigma Phi Sigma house.

CAMPUS MUD THREATENS ALREADY FLAT POCKETBOOKS

Students who are staging a hard-fought battle with the wolf of depression are now faced with a new menace to their pocketbooks—the mud on the campus that is sure death to shoe shines.

Those who have classes in the Hall of English are especially unfortunate as the mud deposits there are unusually deep and absolutely impossible to side step. The efforts of those who have prematurely changed from boots to oxforders are really amusing.

Cleverly avoiding the first few perils they thread their way half across the dangerous area, lose their balance and end by trusting to a series of wild leaps which completes the ruin of that mirror-like shine. Thus ends the trip to the buildings located in the center of these mire.

Even those who are lucky enough to drive the family car to classes cannot escape, since they must park it in one of the most extensive seas of the dreaded stuff—behind the gym.

From here they must proceed as best they can to safety. If any new shoe can retain even a passable appearance this far it is sure to lose it on the trip back.

Some students who have suffered most are thinking either of resorting to stilt or taking classes only in those buildings least surrounded by mud. The P. E. men, however, have no choice—they can't come within 20 feet of their building before their shoes have entirely vanished into cakes of mud.

Attempts to determine the depth of the deposit around the Sagebrush offices, by seeing how deep cars will sink have apparently met with little success. There was always more clay beneath, and great canyons and ravines still remain to show the futility of the attempts.

One optimist remarked that "anyway mud shows that spring is near." But no one seemed to pay him any attention, apparently feeling that spring was not worth the increased cost of keeping shoes even faintly shining.

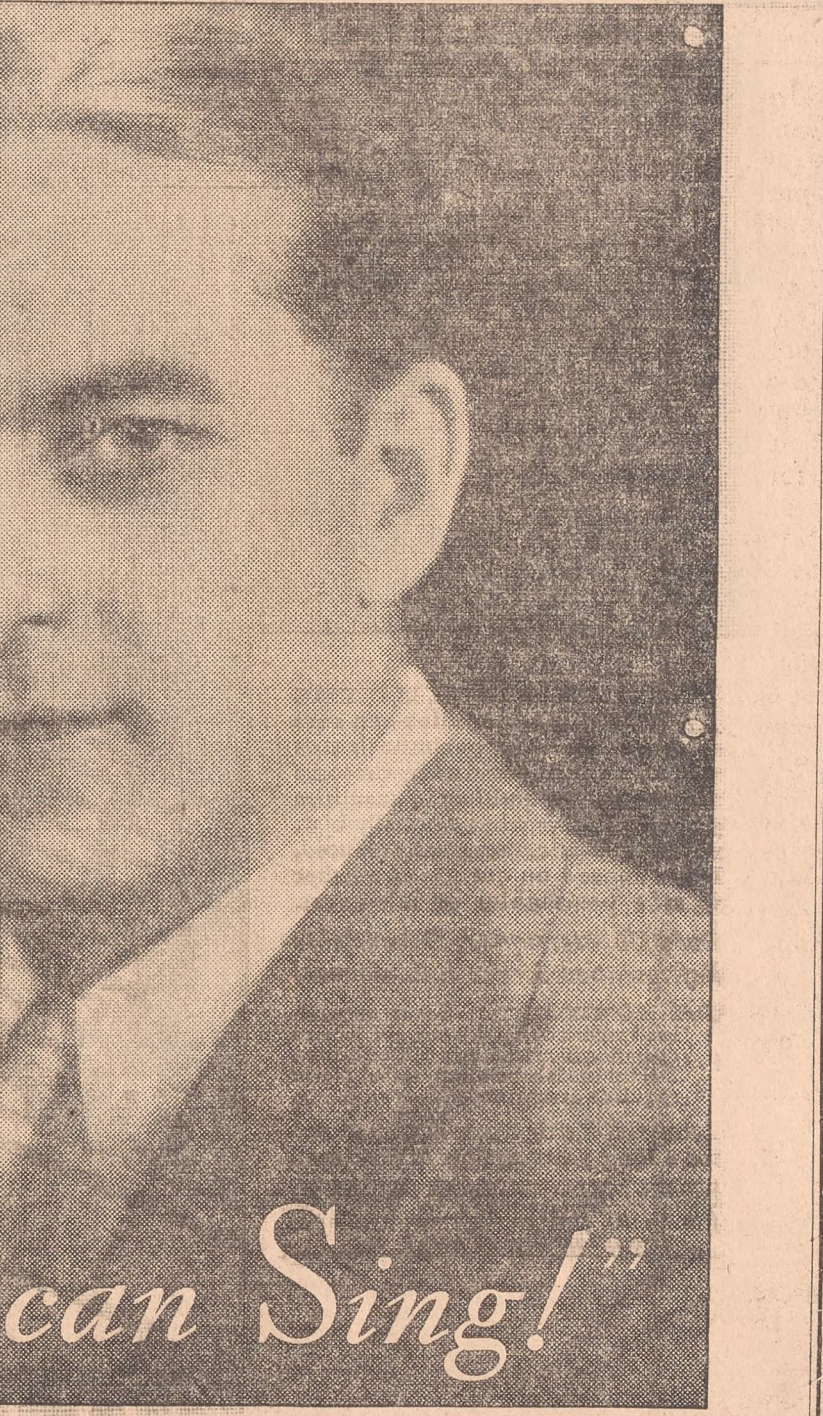

Beta Kappa Enter Local Hoop League

Beta Kappa fraternity has been entered in the "B" section of the Y.M.C.A. basketball league and has played three games on its schedule. These have been with Bell Telephone on February 4, National Guard on February 11, and Union Ice company last night.

The fraternity men lost to the phone crew in their first game by the score of 19 to 5. In their second match they gave the cops a hard tussle, but were finally nosed out 13 to 8.

Those men playing for the fraternity are Walter Mitchell, Mason Meyers, William Seago, John Molini, and Dan Harvey, Piggly Wiggly and the junior varsity remain on the schedule.

Cantlon Advises Erring Freshmen

According to Ed Cantlon, president of the student body and member of the men's upperclass committee, it is exceedingly wise for the freshmen to profit by the example of their unfortunate brethren and beware.

Three freshmen, Minor Kibbee, Ray Flohlick and Bob Stoker, having evaded the punishments of the vigilant sophomores, were brought to the attention of the upperclass committee. Their cases were settled so effectively and so quickly that there will be no more annoyances from that trio. A fourth freshman is being watched and unless he is exceedingly wary he will meet the same fate as those who have gone before him.

From now on the upperclass committee plan to continue their "reign of terror" against freshmen who refuse to listen to the commands of the soph vigilance committee.

The upperclass committee also intends to continue assisting the yell leader in arranging the rooting sections at the basketball games.

'Brush Receives Congratulations From Washington

Editorial on R.O.T.C. is Praised By High Officials in Nation's Capital

Attitude of Patriotism Shown in Stand Taken Against Bitter Attack

Commendation of the stand taken by the Sagebrush in an editorial in the December 11 edition of last semester in defense of the R. O. T. C. unit on this campus and military training in the schools throughout the country was made by Major General Caylin Craig, commanding officer of the Ninth Corps area, and Edward L. King, assistant chief of staff at the war department in Washington, in recent letters to President Clark.

The articles referred to appeared in the Sagebrush following an attack on the military training as given at the University of Nevada by Rev. William Moll Case of the local Federated church.

Staff Congratulated
In congratulating the staff of the Brush, General Craig in his letter of December 22, said: "It is very gratifying to read of the attitude of the student body toward the reserve officers' training corps and its resentment of a slur cast upon the honest efforts toward preparedness. * * * My compliments to the staff of the U. of N. Sagebrush. It's attitude shows the patriotism in the young American always ready to respond to his country's call."
Similarly, in a letter of January 8, Edward King made the following statement: "It is only by such action that we, here in Washington, can learn of the many incidents that indicate the degree to which the R. O. T. C. is supported locally. It is very gratifying to know that you and your group are so much in sympathy with the activity and appreciate its value to the individual as well as to the nation."

The criticism by Rev. Case of the R. O. T. C. pointed out the tremendous expense by the government for preparedness and the utter folly of such a policy.

In defending military training the Sagebrush showed that only in preparedness for war could be found real peace and safety. The indispensable place which the R. O. T. C. plays in undergraduate life was also pointed out in the editorial.

Officers Elected For Ensuing Term In Campus Players

Installation will Take Place in May; Mariani Heads Organization

Carrying through a new idea to give office holders enough experience to properly take care of the organization when they are installed, Campus Players elected officers for the forthcoming year at a meeting held in the Education auditorium last Tuesday night.

The officers-elect will work for the rest of this semester in collaboration with the present officers, thus gaining a knowledge of conducting meetings and handling the organization. This new system was suggested by Dan Trevit, present president of Campus Players, and immediately received a unanimous sanction of the organization.

The students newly elected are John Mariani, president; Blythe Bulmer, vice president; Margaret Martin, secretary, and Gordon Klempner, treasurer.

These new officers will receive formal installation at the last meeting of the organization, held in May.

Henrichs Completes Med Semester Exams

Nevada's Pre-Med. School Is Praised By Former Student

Vernon Cantlon Tells of Good Training Received Here in Letter to Clark

The University of Nevada and especially the pre-medical school was highly recommended for training men and women for the various fields which they may choose or in fitting them for further studies by Vernon Cantlon, a graduate with the class of 1928 who will be graduated from the Harvard Medical school this year, in a recent letter to President Walter E. Clark.

A quotation from Cantlon's letter is given to show his appreciation of the training received while on this campus. "I assure you that a student would go far and perhaps never secure a better pre-medical training than at our own university under our lovable Peter Frandsen."

"You may quote me at any time as saying that I would rather take pre-medical work under him than any man I have ever known. Indeed, he gave me such a thorough course in Embryology that it made my medical school Embryology seem merely a review. But that is not all. Our college instills in one the spirit of fellowship, ambition and group progress that cannot be found readily in eastern schools. I could go on at length and tell you why I am sincerely proud to have graduated from Nevada. I hope I may prove worthy of her."

Cantlon has made an enviable record at Harvard, having received valuable scholarships in each of his four years there and being assured of a high scholastic standing in his class.

While on this campus Cantlon was very active both in scholarship and activities. He was on the honor roll in all of his eight semesters and was president of the A. S. U. N., while a senior. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Marshall Guisti, '30, was recently re-appointed assistant manager of the Reno Chamber of Commerce.

Here, MEN, smoke a man's smoke

A PIPEFUL of good tobacco is distinctly a man's smoke. The women (long may they wave!) have taken over most of our masculine privileges. But pipe smoking still belongs to us.

In every walk of life you'll find that the men at the top are pipe smokers. And most college men agree that the pipe offers the rarest pleasures a man could ask of his smoking.

When you smoke a pipe, be sure you choose the tobacco that will give you the greatest enjoyment. In 42 out of 54 colleges Edgeworth is the favorite. You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold.

Or for a special sample packet, write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va. Sample is free.

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old burleys, with its natural savor enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive eleven process. Buy Edgeworth anywhere in two forms—Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug Slice. All sizes, 1 1/2 pound package to $1.50 pound humidifier tin.

Quarterly Magazine To Feature Prize Short Story Contest

Women's Edition Heralded as Most Unusual Book Ever Issued on Campus

Women Put in Spotlight for Rap at Article on "What's Wrong"

Featuring prize short stories written by various students on the campus, the first issue of the Desert Wolf for 1932 will make its appearance the first week in March.

Heralded as one of the most unusual editions ever put out, the magazine is this time primarily a women's edition. Under the direction of Helen Montrose and Kathryn McCormack, such articles as "What's Wrong with the Co-eds" and "This Sorority Situation" have been carefully edited and add an important contributing factor to the book. A double-spread of "Women in the Spotlight" should prove illuminating and will be the big feature of the issue.

A short story contest, sponsored by the Desert Wolf for the first time, and under the supervision of Helen Montrose, women's editor of the Wolf, proved to be very successful. Stories entered by the students were judged by a committee consisting of members of the faculty of the English department. Contest winners were: First prize, Connie Phillips, on her story, "Isobel the Invisible"; second prize, Donald Butler and Charlotte Hood, writing in collaboration on "Blind Date," and third prize, to Emily Drake on her contribution, "Hot Shot." The first two stories will be printed in the forthcoming issue and the third story will probably be seen in the last issue for this semester.

Biographical sketches of various members of the faculty will appear in the numbers of the publication from now on and this issue will feature a story by Fritz Wilson entitled "An Appreciation." It has as its theme an account of the life and works of Dr. Church, who has served as a faculty member longer than any other professor now on the campus.

The cover is a ballroom scene designed by Oscar Robinson and John Mariani, and will make an effective

JUDGE SOUTER TALKS TODAY ON PRESIDENT

"What we need is faith in the government of the United States, in the executives in office, patience to wait until we can turn the dark clouds away to find the silver lining, courage to give a helping hand to others, and patriotism to go on under the flag which Washington made mean something to us," said Judge Clyde D. Souter in addressing students and faculty members this morning at 11:25 to commemorate the two hundredth birthday of the first president.

In his discussion of "Washington—Yesterday and Today" the speaker emphasized the present economic and political situation, stating that citizens must remember to uphold the principles and ideals of America which were personified in Washington's campaign and political career.

America and the entire world, Judge Souter explained, is spiritually, economically, and politically disturbed. He added that Communism is opposed to American ideals, and that Americans must recognize the present broad democracy of opportunity and the aristocracy of attainment if they are to continue the present standard of living.

Engineer Students Can Choose Freely

Electrical engineering students are to be given greater freedom in choosing their courses in the future. At the last faculty meeting the requirements of the electrical engineering course were changed so that the students could substitute English, journalism, or other elective courses in place of several previously required engineering courses, if they so desire.

The number of required courses have been lessened by about ten credits. In future, catalogues these courses will be starred in place of which journalism courses, or probably other courses in some definite line of study, may be substituted.

For some time there has been considerable discontent among some of the students because they were not given enough electives, but were required to take engineering courses other than electrical in subjects they might in all probability never use.
