WHERE THEY'VE BEEN AND WHAT THEY'VE DONE

What do Nevada students do in the summer? Where do they go? How does the gang spend its vacation? In answer to these questions we have snooped into the private affairs of all the early birds we could collar. Here is what we found:

Jim Wallace spent the major part of the summer working on drought relief in Reno, as an engineer.

John Benson spent most of his summer in Westwood as a contractor, helping to install an underground signal system for that city.

Dick Haman traveled to Manitou Lake, Ind., where he visited his parents for the summer.

Ned Morehouse spent a month in Salt Lake City as a second lieutenant in a C.M.T.C. camp.

Bill McMenamin didn't leave Reno, but worked for a department store, an ice company and a radio station.

Paul Leonard spent several weeks in Los Angeles visiting friends.

Grant Rice was employed at Bowers mansion during the summer.

Frank Leonard was engaged in mining work at Nevada City during the summer.

John Petrinoich worked for a local produce company.

Richard Stoddard was employed by the state highway department with headquarters in Fernley.

Ed Lozano also spent his summer in Fernley, with the highway department. Orva Selkirk clerked in a store at Bijou, Lake Tahoe.

Nell Lozano was employed as a life-guard at Idlewild park in Reno. Charlotte Robinson spent considerable time at the summer home of her parents at Lake Tahoe.

Bryce Rhodes split his summer vacation between survey work for the government in Portola and livestock work for his father in this state.

Frank Sullivan worked for the Nevada State Journal this summer.

Paul Walker spent the entire summer working for a local clothing store.

Ed Bath worked for a local service station during the summer.

Darrel Berry went on a cruise to China as a member of a ship's orchestra.

Jack Blakely worked the entire summer for a local grocery firm.

Sally Pagan also was employed in Reno during the summer.

Clayton Phillips spent a portion of his time working for a lumber company in Portola.

Edgar Olson was seen frequently at Lake Tahoe golf courses.

Gladys Gamwell worked for a local dairy this summer.

Grace Armbruster spent two weeks with friends at Del Monte, Calif.

Bob Maher worked "down under" in a Silver City mine.

George Southworth worked for his father in the latter's tobacco store.

Howard Christensen was employed by a local service station and a local newspaper during the summer.

Ralph Menante spent his summer working in his father's garage in Reno.

Ross Wainwright worked for the highway department in Fernley.

Herbert Peck was employed during the summer months at a Lake Tahoe resort.

Mary Connolly visited her parents at San Francisco.

Florine Frank was employed at her father's place of business in Reno.

Joseph Littlefield worked out of Elko for the government.

Charles Worn worked in Reno during the summer.

Eleanor Doan was employed by the Nevada State Journal during the summer months.

Evan Couch worked in Reno during the summer vacation.

Charley Adams worked on a highway crew near Derby, Nev.

Elwin Jeffers worked for a local service station this summer.

Denver Dickerson was stationed at Carson City, where he covered capital news for the Reno Evening Gazette.

A. W. S. President Raps Point System Of Campus Women

"The Associated Women Students' point system cannot in its present state be enforced," Nell Lozano, A.W.S. president, stated this morning.

The purpose of the point system when it went into effect was to bring about a more even distribution of honors among the women, but when several women students were asked to give up senate positions at the end of last semester because they were not permitted to hold any other major position along with senatorship, the fallacy in the point system was realized, Miss Lozano pointed out.

A regular senator's term extends, according to the constitution, from January to January, whereas all other elective offices run from May to May. This means that every six months the women will be electing new senators, which is in direct violation to the constitution. The plan in electing from January to January was adopted in order to keep some one who is experienced at the helm of the student government, it is said. In accordance with the constitution an old senate is kept working with a new president and an old president with a new senate.

"I firmly believe in a point system, but this one cannot stand as it is and be properly enforced without throwing the whole student government into continual upheaval," Miss Lozano asserted.

"Not only does the point system cause general disruption in the senate, but it prohibits it from making efficient appointments as well," she added. "At present, all women working on the editorial and managerial staff of the student publications are barred from the senate. This means that the only women capable of holding a position on publications board cannot be appointed and the place must be filled by an inexperienced person," according to the A. W. S. president.

Miss Lozano said today that in all probability a revision will be made allowing women more selectivity in student offices.

Federal Aid Funds To Help Students

Officials Expect Difficulty in Placing Full Quota of Applicants

Federal financial assistance in the way of part-time employment for students will be forthcoming about September 1, according to word from Dean Maxwell Adams, in charge of the work. Plans have not yet been perfected for the placement of the students as a difficulty is expected in finding a sufficient number of jobs to employ the full quota of ninety-four. The jobs cannot be assigned until the department heads have signified how many students they will be able to use. The work will be mainly of a clerical nature and any other odd jobs that can be found.

FERA regulations similar to those in force last semester will again prevail. The financial status of the student must be such that it would be impossible for him to attend school without this assistance. A special stipulation has been added this year to the effect that 50 per cent of the funds shall be allotted to students who were not regularly enrolled in any college or university in the spring semester of 1934, which would include all former students and high school graduates. A maximum of $15 per month for the eight and one-half months of the school year will be available.

The number of students allowed work in this manner is determined by the total full-time enrollment as of October 15, 1933. Twelve per cent of this figure or ninety-four students will receive assistance. Of this number 60 per cent shall be men and 40 per cent shall be women students in proportion to the enrollment of each. Application blanks may be obtained at the office of the president of the university, it was announced.

W. A. CLARK JR., BENEFACTOR WHO GAVE LIBRARY, PASSES

W. A. Clark, Jr., friend and benefactor of the University of Nevada, died in Missoula, Montana, on June 14. Mr. Clark gave the Clark Memorial Library to this University in 1927, in memory of his second wife, Alice McManus Clark, who was born in Virginia City, Nevada and who died in 1918.

Clark, son of the late Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, died of a heart attack at the age of 57. Noted for his many philanthropies, Clark has made his memory beloved on the entire Pacific coast.

Wishing to erect a memorial to his wife, Clark one day in 1928, wrote the

Editor Morehouse Plans for Annual

Preliminary planning and organization of the 1935 Artemisia have already been completed, according to Editor Morehouse, who returned last week from a trip to the coast, where he visited engraving plants.

While we were hard at work the other morning we heard a terrible racket outside and looking out of the window we found the young editor coaxing "Leapin' Lena," his delectable and ancient model T Ford, up the road to the Student Administration building. Loaded down with dummies, artists' sketches, layouts and all the miscellaneous paraphernalia which goes into the production of an Artemisia, old Lena chugged up in front of the structure, sputtered, gasped and almost fell apart before it came to rest. The trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles and back again through the hot desert sands might have been all right when she was young and in her prime, but that was long ago.

Ned was weary and haggard from the grueling drive and had already assumed the worried, hungry expression which typifies all Artemisia editors. In an exclusive interview granted this paper, all he could say about the book was, "It'll be swell" and "All I hope is that we can at least come up to last year's Artemisia in some respects."

He mumbled on incoherently about theme, features and something else, but we couldn't understand much, and besides we couldn't waste all our time listening to his jabber. We looked over his collection in the back seat of the car but were unable to make much out of that, either, although we did find a couple of good exchanges from southern colleges.

Nevertheless, we have great confidence in Ned and know that he successfully handled two annuals for the Fallon High school in his younger days and does know something about what is going on. He is also an enterprising young photographer of no mean repute and we anxiously await his 1935 Artemisia when he puts it on the campus.

Registration for Fall Term Begins in Drizzle of Rain

THREE U. OF N. PRESIDENTS

JAMES CAZIER

NELL LOZANO

DR. WALTER E. CLARK

In the hands of these three persons are held the reins of government of the University of Nevada. James Cazier is head of A.S.U.N., Dr. Walter E. Clark is president of the university, Nell Lozano is executive of the A.W.S.

THREE NEVADA PRESIDENTS GIVE OFFICIAL SALUTATIONS

GREETINGS TO ALL STUDENTS, NEW AND OLD! Our campus, more beautiful than ever before, our plant and equipment in the best condition ever and our teaching staff as devoted as ever, are all at your service for a new university year.

The ideals of our campus summarize in friendship, scholarship and service-spirit. If all students, new and old, cooperate with each other and with the teaching staff in accord with these traditional aims we shall have another year of growth for each student and another year of achievement for the whole university.

Welcome, students all, to this blessed opportunity to grow, during this coming university year, in soul power through and for service.

WELCOME, STUDENTS! The A. S. U. N. extends you a hearty welcome and wishes you a most pleasant collegiate year.

We are looking forward to an unusually active and successful year in all of our activities. The success of these depends entirely upon the wholehearted cooperation of the members of the A.S.U.N. It is our duty as students of this institution and members of this body to enter into its activities with the true Nevada spirit. By your active participation you are not only benefiting yourself but you are also forwarding your university and your student body.

Feel free to visit the senate meetings and make it a point to attend the student body meetings. An understanding of our form of government will prove to be a benefit both to yourself and the A.S.U.N.

As president of the Associated Women Students it is my privilege and pleasure to welcome all of the new students to the University of Nevada. We who are seniors are looking to you freshmen for loyalty and support in a way that will better our institution as a whole. A new class brings a new spirit and we are looking to you for the best of results.

Student Building Put in Shape for Present Semester

Sagebrush Offices Remodeled, Lounge Room Renovated, Furnace Improved

Returning collegians will find the Student Administration building "spick and span" and with many new improvements, for the supervision of remodeling and repairs of student headquarters has been a major part of the summer duties of the graduate manager, Joe McDonnell.

The women's new dressing room, begun last spring, is now ready for use, and the drinking fountain donated by the class of '34 has been connected. Labor for the rest room was supplied by the FERA, while the A.S.U.N. furnished the materials.

Student journalists will find their literary inspiration in a setting of bright green and black, for the Sagebrush office has been done over in this futuristic scheme. The cubs will also have more room in which to air campus dirt, for the partition connecting the outer office with the editor's sanctum has been moved to enlarge the general news room.

Heating facilities in the building have been greatly improved, McDonnell said, with the remodeling of the furnace. Students will neither roast nor freeze at evening meetings, since the heating plant has received a new asbestos coat. Replacing the worn out firebricks with new ones has also greatly diminished fire hazard.

A desk will be placed in the graduate manager's office for the A.S.U.N. president instead of the table from which the student body's head had to transact his affairs in former years. A generous coat of floor oil and a thorough cleaning of curtains, windows, et cetera, completed the building's renovation.

Support Brush advertisers. Make this a real Nevada year.

Program of News Bureau Is Formed

Planning to give adequate news service to all phases of university life, the News Bureau under the direction of Robert Creps expects an active year. Dramatics, debate, and music as well as athletics and miscellaneous activities will be featured.

News stories of general interest will be sent to papers of the state and Pacific coast through the wires of the Associated Press and United Press associations. "Spot" news and stories featuring the doings of students will be sent to all home town papers.

Articles for magazines and periodicals will be prepared and topics of general educational interest will be sent to the Boston Transcript, New York Times and Christian Science Monitor which have already requested such material, and any other papers that may be deemed necessary, Creps said.

The staff will be composed of a small number of experienced writers who will handle the entire work. News service without propaganda or press agent tactics will govern the policy of all stories which will be sent out, the director stated.

Several projects are now under way and will be announced upon their completion. One of these will be the issuance of programs for all home football games.

NOTICE

All former staff members of the Sagebrush who wish to continue work on the paper this year will meet in the A.S.U.N. building at 3:30 this afternoon to sign up. A meeting for all new trees will be held at 4 p. m. Tuesday, September 4, in the Sagebrush offices.

University Opens With High Spirit For Fall Semester

Registration Increase Likely, Authorities Announce This Morning

RUSHING BEGINS

Numerous Improvements Made On Grounds and Buildings During Summer

Nevada's campus, restive for more than three months, adopted a carnival aspect today as more than five hundred students swarmed the walks in preparation for what school authorities believe will be one of the largest enrollments in the past decade.

Fraternity men and sorority women, their purposes apparent, herded their various charges through the formality of registration. Handclaps, shouts of recognition and numerous queries completed the perennial scene.

President Clark, refreshed after a vacation of several weeks in southern California, issued a welcome to new and returning students in which he stressed the necessity of hard work as a determining factor in building a career.

While no registration figures are available at such an early date, university officials expressed the belief that the total enrollment for the year will surpass that of several terms. A large number of freshman applications was received early this year and Greek letter organizations report a full quota at their respective houses.

Extensive improvements were made on campus grounds and buildings during the summer, with a portion of the money being supplied by the FERA.

Both engineering buildings were painted on the inside, while tinting and carpentry work was done on the majority of other campus structures. The baseball field has a new rolled surface and the short line tracks have been moved several feet to the west to permit ample room for players.

Four changes in the faculty have been announced by officials. Replacing Lieut. Herbert Wilcox in the military department will be Capt. Henry W. Isabel, who has been stationed at a camp in the state of Washington. Lieutenant Wilcox received notice from the war department that he had been transferred to Arizona.

Thomas Thayer, a graduate of the University of California and the holder of a Ph.D. degree from the California Institute of Technology, will be instructor in geology in place of Carl Stoddard, who resigned. Thayer has done considerable research work and specializes in physical and geographic geology.

Ralph Irwin, associate professor of psychology, is taking a leave of absence and is being replaced by Claude Neet. Neet has been doing research work for the last four years at Clark university.

A former student at the university, Robert Long will fill the position of fellow in English which has been held by William C. Miller. Miller has been elevated to a full-time instructorship. Regular classwork will commence Wednesday when assignments will be given, it was announced today by professors.

James H. Clark, U. of N. Student, Dies This Summer

James H. Clark, 20 year old senior student at the University of Nevada, died at his home in Reno July 29 following a protracted illness. He had been ill for several months, and had recently returned to Reno following treatment for a throat infection in San Francisco.

He had seemed improved on his return to Reno, but a sudden relapse of the disease proved fatal. His death was not expected.

Clark was a native of Reno, and was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Clark. He was a graduate of the Reno schools, and had attended the University of Nevada for three years. He was a member of the Beta Kappa fraternity, and was active in campus activities.

He is survived by his parents, a grandmother, Mrs. Ida Pavola of Reno, and an aunt, Mrs. Myrtle Rutherford of San Francisco.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. F. D. Graves, with interment in the Mountain View cemetery. Many students attended the services.

Pall bearers were Charles Worn, Murray English, Chandler Johnson, Julius Broili, Hugh McIntyre, and Nolan Gault.

WHAT'S THE POLICY?

With another year opening before us and with the Sagebrush in new hands, many students have inquired, "What will be the policy of the Brush?"

To outline a policy for a newspaper is rather a difficult thing to do. It is somewhat similar to asking a man for an outline of his philosophy of life. Policies and philosophies are things that ever change as institutions and men grow more mature. And in crises both are liable to be scrapped on the altar of human nature.

Whether aware of it or not every man does have a philosophy, general as it may be. The Sagebrush, too, will have a general policy for the coming year. It will not try to follow an elaborate predetermined course of action but will first endeavor to be a good newspaper. It will try hard to find and sift that news which will give the most accurate reflection of university life. Secondly, it will do its best to stimulate the return of a wholesome Nevada spirit. Thirdly, through its editorial columns it will comment upon that news which is deemed important, and in this will reserve the right of fair criticism or praise as it may seem proper. It will not be a crusading paper, but on matters of great importance will do its best to think straight and lead campus opinion. Editorials will be plainly marked and will represent the Sagebrush stand—nowhere else will editorial opinion occur in the paper.

The Sagebrush is under obligation to no individual, group or organization and will favor no individual, group or organization. It welcomes and will print sane criticism, but insists that such criticism be written and signed and addressed to the editor. No unsigned letters will be published.

So much for the policy. If the Sagebrush can be a good newspaper, if it can arouse and develop a unified Nevada spirit, and if it can think straight in its editorials, it will accomplish its purpose.

A BENEFACTOR PASSES

With the passing of W. A. Clark Jr., the University of Nevada has lost another great friend. Clark, a simple, straightforward man, wishing to erect a memorial to his wife, who was a Nevada woman, without fuss or grandiose airs called to conference with himself the president of this university, found what the campus needed the most and built and furnished the splendid library which now stands on our campus.

The true value of a benefactor is deeply appreciated in a university as small as our own. Every building added to our campus is a milestone in the slow but steady progress of our school. The Clark Memorial library will ever bring to mind the generosity of the man who aided us on our way.

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN, '38!

You of the class of '38 will one day have the control of student activities at this university in your hands. Yours will be the job to "carry on."

In these first wild days of upheaval and confusion you will see much of the so-called "Nevada spirit." You will probably be carried away. Fraternity men in cords will spot you and will obligingly take care of your registration difficulties. You will be taken to the "house," introduced to the "boys" and be wined and dined. You will listen to a pledge talk and with heart singing will emerge with a brass button on your chest. You will think, "Here is the Nevada spirit."

You will be wrong. The pace is too fast. After a week things slow down, the glamour is gone and the routine begins. You find that fraternities don't go on forever with the hearty fellowship in evidence at the beginning of a term. Then you will probably become cynical and conclude that all talk of "Nevada spirit" is mere drivel about something that is non-existent. Again you will be wrong. The spirit does exist, but at present it is dim; it is lost under an avalanche of false conceptions.

Just where, then, is the true "Nevada spirit" to be found? Certainly not in blind loyalty to a fraternity. Granted that fraternities are an integral part of university life, and do much to elevate the social status of the campus, nevertheless they are not the actual meat in a student's college career. The fraternity in its race for power usually exalts itself above the university which it supposedly serves. Truly enough, it sends its men into student activities, but it is simply casting its bread upon the waters.

The result is that we have a number of institutions upon the campus around whose banners flock the students. The student body itself is broken up into factions comparable to the small feudal city-states of medieval Italy, each jealous of its neighbor, each striving for more power and each blocking the unification for strength of the country as a whole.

Your true "Nevada spirit" is not contained in sporadic outbursts of pennant-waving or wolf-howling before a cheer leader when a team is going good. It is not such a shallow quality as that. It is only to be realized to its fullest extent in the satisfaction which comes from hard work and hard play in the service of your university. It results just as much from work in a class room as from work on the gridiron. Your loyalty must be attached to the University of Nevada as a whole. The university can give you much, but you must bring your best to it. Serve it well and by doing so you will be serving yourself and will undeniably be a credit to any social organization with which you may become affiliated. But don't place anything above the university. It comes first. Make yourself one with it.

Keep your eyes open, '38! Join your organizations, but bear in mind that you have a task to perform, that of reviving the wholesome Nevada spirit which is at low ebb at the present time. Your task is not an easy one. It will not be accomplished in a day, a month or a year. It will probably take you your entire four years to re-establish it. But through hard work and wholehearted allegiance to your university it can be done.

THE 'OLD GUARD'

In order to start from scratch with the present semester, the Sagebrush is appearing on the first day of registration. Starting next Friday it will appear regularly thereafter every Friday afternoon and will be on the campus, barring unavoidable delays, between the hours of 2 and 3.

The present issue was turned out by a few hard working members of what the staff is pleased to call the "old guard," those students who have had three or more years' service on University of Nevada publications.

Faculty Member Awarded Honor By French Consul

Appointment of Dr. B. F. Chappelle to the rank of officier d'academie and presentation of the medal of republic of France was made during commencement exercises on May 14 by President Walter E. Clark under the instruction of the French consul general who was abroad at the time. Chappelle is head of the department of modern languages

Wolf Pack Strains At Leash Waiting To Try Strength

Coach Mitchell Expresses Confidence in Nevada's Grid Machine

LINE IS STRONG

Santa Clara Broncos First Test for Wolves Sept. 22

With prospects for a successful season exceptionally bright, Coach C. L. "Brick" Mitchell expects this year's edition of the Wolf Pack to be one of the best in recent years.

While not promising that the Wolves will be undefeated, Mitchell said that by the end of the season Nevada fans will be able to notice a marked difference in the scoring than in previous years.

"I won't say that we will beat all of our opponents," Mitchell said, "but I will say that we will not be beaten by such large scores as in the past. In my opinion, we will have a good team this year."

The Wolf Pack also seems promised a better spirit of cooperation this year, according to Mitchell. While admitting that this has not always been so prominent in the past seasons, Mitchell said that he has been given excellent support by the students, and he expects this to be more than doubled this year.

Twenty-five Veterans

Approximately twenty-five members of last year's football squad will be in uniform, if everything turns out well, and these experienced men coupled with the members of last year's undefeated freshman squad will give the Nevada Wolf teeth and claws.

In the backfield, Vic Carroll and Dick Haman, Carroll a two letter man, and Haman one of the outstanding members of the 1933 Cubs, will battle for full back position. Tharp, Flournoy, Cromwell and Stevens are potential candidates for the half back berths.

On the line, a host of fast, hard-hitting men are ready to don suits. At end, Mitchell has a choice of Hadlin, Benson, Tapogna, and Smalley. None of the real veteran ends will be back this year, and competition for the post will be keen.

At tackle and guard positions, Mitchell will have his choice of a group of men including Walker, Showalter, Cashill, Turner, Lommori, and Morris. Competition for center will probably result in either Cashill, veteran

Stephens Prepares For Grid Practice

J. D. Stephens, football manager, began work last week preparing equipment for the first football turnout of the year.

Stephens is being assisted by the sophomore managers, and said today that he will issue a call for freshman managers later this week.

man, or Lansdon, a junior. Cashill has proven himself to be one of Mitchell's most valuable men, playing a steady game at center and also being able to use his toe for drop kicking.

Competition Keen

The competition for positions on the team, together with the good condition of the players, are another angle to this year's Pack that will bring out the best in the men. Many of the players have been working in hay-fields, section gangs, and mines, and all are expected to be toughened up for a hard season.

Chances for a winning team also hinge a great deal on the schedule to be played, and this year's Wolf Pack will have no breathers or rests during their schedule. Nine games have been arranged, and the Wolves will take to the field for the season opener September 22 in San Francisco against Santa Clara, meeting the University of California Bears on the following Saturday.

Conference games will start on October 6, with the California Mustangs opening the varsity season on Mackay field. On Friday, October 12, the Wolves again make a raid on the coast, meeting St. Mary's at San Francisco.

The California Ramblers will be the attraction on October 20 when the Nevada Wolf tangles with the Bear travelers on Mackay field.

Another conference game will be played with San Jose State on Mackay field October 27. The following weekend is open, enabling the Wolves to rest up in preparation for the game with the Pacific Bengals at Stockton on November 10. On November 17, the Wolves again make a raid on the game, meeting Chico State, and on November 29 will end the season against Fresno State at Fresno.

Nevada Professor On Livestock Tour In Eastern Cities

F. W. Wilson Guest of Large Meat Packing Company Of Chicago

Prof. Frederick W. Wilson, head of the department of animal husbandry, is now in Chicago as a guest of Swift & Co., making a study of buying, slaughtering and marketing methods of large meat consuming cities of the east. He is one of forty-six representatives chosen from the entire country to make the trip with all expenses paid.

In Chicago, Professor Wilson will be assigned a herd of cattle or lambs and will follow it through the complete process of slaughtering, dressing and grading. He will then accompany salesmen to New York and other eastern consuming points where the dressed carcasses are shipped. He will also study the methods of selling to retailers and finally see the steaks or lamb chops go over the counter to the housewife. Meetings will also be held daily with producers and packer representatives and the methods of buying and slaughtering livestock will be discussed.

Besides furnishing him interesting material for lectures Professor Wilson claims the trip will do him more good than an entire year's graduate work on the same subjects.

En route to Chicago he made stops at Salt Lake City and Omaha to view the packing facilities of those cities and will spend several days at the world's fair before he returns to his classes September 3.

An anti-ROTC campaign is again being pushed to the fore at U. C. and U. C. L. A.

Playing contract bridge and etiquette at luncheons and social hours will be one of the new activities taken up by the Associated Women Students Group system at California.

New Staff Member Born to Johnsons

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Johnson, former journalism students of the University of Nevada, have added a new member to their family staff. A daughter, Hazel Katherine, was born to them on July 18.

Mrs. Johnson, the former Katherine Wardleigh, was a prominent student in campus affairs last year and Johnson edited the University of Nevada Sagebrush during the year '32-'33. They are now living in Portola, where Johnson is editing the Portola Reporter.

Beginning the new school year, there seems to be nothing but football to talk about.

This year's football team, according to all reports, is going to be a hum-dinger. Of course, as Brick readily admits, the Wolf Pack will not win all of its games, but (and this is important) the Wolves will probably be able to win some and keep all of the scores down.

As Mitchell said last week before a Reno service club, "The boys will be fighting for every inch of the ground."

Without a doubt the 1934 Wolf Pack is going to be outstanding, and the entire student body should do its best to help Mitchell bring home the bacon.

Although Brick is rather modest, he ought to add "coach" to that list, too. Material and everything else would be to no avail if the coach could not whip them into shape.

The nine games scheduled by Brick for this season include, without a doubt, the best teams on the Pacific coast. St. Mary's Santa Clara, California and the Cal Ramblers will be obstacles hard for any team to surmount. These teams, coupled with the steadily improving teams in the Far Western conference, will keep the Wolves going every Saturday of the season.

We wonder if the members of last year's freshman squad will ever be known by any other name than "fresh football men."

But this schedule seems to fit right along with Coach Mitchell's theory that to have a good ball club it takes men—and Nevada seems to have them this year—and games that will build up the team's reputation. The schedule will do that.

For instance, name any of the men who played on the Cubs last year to either a student or Reno fan, and he will immediately come back with "he was a frosh player, wasn't he?" If this keeps on, three years from now when those men are playing their final year they will be called "those frosh men."

Anyhow, let's hope that a rose by any other name will play as good, or sum-p'n.

Make this a real Nevada year.

WILCOX MOVED TO STAFF OF ARIZONA POST

By order of the secretary of war of the United States Lieut. H. B. Wilcox, who has been assistant professor of military science and tactics at the University of Nevada, has been transferred to active duty service.

Wilcox has been stationed at the University of Nevada for the last five years. Although his official tour of duty ended in the spring of 1933, he was given an additional year of service at the request of university authorities.

Lieutenant Wilcox has been ordered on duty with the Twenty-fifth infantry, the regiment of regular army soldiers stationed at Fort Huachuca, Ariz. He also plans to attend the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., as a part of the four year tour in Arizona.

During the last two years of service at the University of Nevada the cadet corps which he has been instrumental in training has been given the rating of excellent by the war department at the annual inspection in the spring. This is the highest rating given to any unit in the United States.

Lieutenant Wilcox's place is being taken by Capt. Henry W. Isbell, who comes to Reno from the Seventh infantry, Vancouver Barracks, Wash., where he was stationed for four and a half years.

Captain Isbell has a record of service which is varied in nature, and includes work under the state department as a member of the Nicaragua electoral board in Nicaragua, a member of the Paraguay-Bolivia commission in Washington, D. C., for a year, as well as his regular army work.

The captain is a graduate of the Infantry school, which he attended for two years, being secretary of the school the second year.

Originally commissioned in the air corps during the world war, the captain was recommissioned in the infantry in 1920. His active service includes three years with the Twenty-first infantry in Hawaii and three years with the Second infantry at Fort Brady, Mich., in addition to his work at Vancouver Barracks.

SOCIETY

Many former Nevada students and graduates were married during the summer months. Only one faculty marriage is noted this year, whereas the percentage of faculty and student marriages a year ago was nearly even.

Dr. J. R. Young, head of the department of psychology, is the only professor to have married. Shortly after the close of school Dr. Young was married to Miss Vera Lautenschlager, who for a number of years was connected with the state hygienic laboratory.

Seven Graduates Make Honor Roll

Seven prominent graduates of the University of Nevada were elected to the Alumni Honor Roll last spring, following a poll of all university alumni. The names of these seven will be inscribed on the honor roll for outstanding services to the University of Nevada since their graduation.

The following were elected to the list: Walter W. Anderson, Colonel R. M. Brambila, Jay A. Carpenter, Louise Blum Lewers, Stanley G. Palmer, Silas E. Ross, and Harold F. Palmer. The names of those elected to the honor roll were announced during the 1934 Commencement exercises by Dr. Walter E. Clark.

Among the June graduates who were married are Dortha Robertson and Kenneth E. Austin. They expect to make their home at McGill, where Austin has obtained a teaching position. Mrs. Austin was affiliated with Delta Delta Delta sorority and was president last year, while Austin was a member of Sigma Phi Sigma fraternity.

Margaret Martin, another graduate, and Robert Bankofler were married immediately after the close of school. Mrs. Bankofler is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and was prominent in dramatics and other activities during her college days. Bankofler graduated in '32 and was affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega.

Donna Wilson '34 and John Conlon were married and are living in Reno, where he is employed by the Standard Oil company. Mrs. Conlon is a Tri Delt and her husband is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa.

Betty Allen '32 and Alex Lohse '32 following their marriage moved to Ely, where he will teach in the public schools. Mrs. Lohse is affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta, while Lohse belongs to the Nevada chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha.

Grace Dalbey '28, who has been teaching school in Ely, was married to Garth Patterson. Thelma Margrove of Venice, Calif.,

Special History Course Revived for All Women

Miss Jeanne Wier, head of the University of Nevada history department announced that she will offer a special history course for women of all ages this semester.

The course, "Institutional Relations of Woman in History" has not been offered for many years but since many requests have been made for it, Miss Wier is reviving it for the present semester.

The course will not only be given to university women, but will be open as well to women of Reno who are not enrolled in the university.

and Lloyd Guffrey, former Nevada student and a member of Alpha Tau Omega, were married in Sparks.

Gwen Ramsey, formerly of the extension department of the University of Nevada, was recently married to Lionel Scott '28 and a member of Beta Kappa.

Ann Sullivan and Peter Dito were married on May 16. Mrs. Dito is a member of Beta Sigma Omicron and attended the university previous to enrolling in a nurse's course in Oakland.

Margaret Ede '32, who has been employed on the El Centro Valley Farmer, married William J. Dickey, graduate of the Modesto Junior college. Mrs. Dickey is affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta.

Maryalice Loomis '33 and Malcolm Blakely '32 were married in June and are living in San Francisco. Mrs. Blakely was affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta and Blakely is a Sigma Nu.
