

San Jose Game Homecoming Day To Be Tough One

Thrills Predicted for Alumni Fans as Nevada Bucks Fans as evada Bucks Outstanding Team

Nevada will tackle one of its toughest conference opponents when it clashes with the San Jose Spartans on Homecoming day. The San Jose contest promises to be every bit as thrilling as the battle staged last year between Nevada and the College of the Pacific on Homecoming day, and should give returning alumni quite a run for their money.

Since the beginning of the season the Spartans have been heralded as one of the teams to beat in the Far Western league. The backers of the Spartans hold them to be one of the three strongest teams in the entire conference. The Staters have already demonstrated that they pack plenty of power and strength by defeating the Santa Barbara Athletic club and holding the Olympic club to a bare margin, the all-star clubmen finally emerging with a last minute 19 to 13 victory.

Advanced Military Class Is Enlarged

Because of the recent allotment orders received by Colonel R. M. Brambila, professor of military science and tactics, the advanced military classes have been expanded from 17 to 20. William Cockrell, Wesley Hurley and Charles Nichols, all juniors, have begun their training in advanced military tactics, making a total of 11 juniors and nine seniors who are studying upper division military.

SEEDS REQUESTED

Department of Interior Asks Aid in Reclamation Work

Requests from the department of the interior in Washington, D.C., for seeds of the desert peach were received last week by Professor P. A. Lehenbauer of the college of agriculture.

Mining Graduates Accept Positions

Two more graduates from the Mackay school of mines sailed from the United States for distant countries this week to accept engineering positions with mining companies.

Lionel Grindell '34 has been offered a position as junior engineer with the Braden Copper company in Sewell, Chile, South America. He sailed from New York last Saturday.

Augustus M. Dixon '28 left for the Philippine Islands October 5, where he will join the engineering staff of the Antamok Goldfields company at Bagio. This company also employs several other graduates of the school of mines.

For our notable this week we give you:
HANDSOME ANSON OLSON, DANCIN' MASTER OF THE FAR FLUNG SIGMANURES

This week we peer deeply into the depths of the trusty crystal and after untangling a mass of cartoons, sketches, drawing boards and pencils there emerges into clear outline the handsome profile of none other than Dancin' Anson, the Sage Supreme of the Order of St. Patrick, (Sigmanures to you) and the secret sorrow of many a fair damsel on the campus.

(Good old t. c. (trusty crystal) then began to unfold a panorama of the exploits of Han'som' Anson since he first set foot on terra firma back in the days about 1912.

In spite of the handicap under which Anson was placed by being brought into such an environment as this nasty den of uncontrollable vice known as Reno, he soon showed promise of becoming a great artist by opening his teachers eyes, grabbing a pencil and drawing board, scrawling a figure resembling nothing so much as a cross between a T-model Ford and a goat, and crying, "Ha-rose."

His folks, not understanding little Anson thought he was becoming a cynic, and smote him severely on the musculus maximus but Anson persevered.

Our next glimpse of our hero is in the moss-covered halls of dear old Vaughn Institute, better known as Reno High rah-rah. He is still sketching madly, with intermittent spells of basketball and love-sickness. Along comes the one and only in the person of Helene "Peaches" the Stark and Anson's troubles have only now begun.

He graduates, amid the crash of brass bands and rolling pins into our hallowed presence on the campus.

He sticks with his buddies and joins the Snake-drivers League, local No. Delta Xi and the mad life of college draws him into its vicious whirl.

When not worrying about getting cinches, Anson spends his spare moments figuring how to hold his gal against the ever-helpful brethren who have taken it upon themselves to see to it that when Ans can't show the little woman around they'll do it or have it done.

So far our boy seems to be the old reliable as the little woman always comes back for more. In fact its getting so that the easiest way to get poked in the schmezzie is to try and rob Anson at the social hours when he is busy gazing into them luscious ears.

Oh, well virtue has its reward and love will find a way and all that old boloney so we'll not worry about Ans. He'll come out on top—of what we don't know yet, but we can hope for the best.

Men Top Women In Registration

Men continue to hold the balance of power on the Nevada campus, for registration figures show that of the total number of students enrolled for the semester only a slim 39 per cent are women.

Checking back ten years it was found that not once during that time has there been even an approximately even division of numbers, the percentage of women reaching its highest peak last year and the year before, when it rose to 42 per cent for both years.

Judging solely from these registration figures, it would seem that the depression affected the women less than the men, for while the women's enrollment varies little in point of actual numbers during the school years from 1930-1931 to 1933-1934, the men's enrollment dropped from 658 to 571 in the same length of time.

The women have varied a bare 5 per cent during these past ten years. In 1925-1926 the women had a scant 37 per cent of the total enrollment, which jumped the year following to 40 per cent. From then on the percentage has fallen below 40 per cent only once, and then by only one point.

Backwash from the celebration by the team last weekend has it that "Dogears" Tapogna found the truth of the old saying "the worm turns." It's he—when a bowl of innocent looking punch all fixed up for the benefit of certain parties has the desired effect on the wrong person.

The Gamma Phi's cut a mean quince in the Little Waldorf Friday afternoon in celebration of their breaking into the win-column of the swimming meet. When at last someone broke through the wall of smoke, cigarette stubs and Bull to inform them that Nevada had also performed a miracle by beating St. Mary's, they simply went green with jealousy. They had figured on having the campus rise as a unit with them and give the Kats a silent six.

Where did "Rumbleseat" Buru and H. "Chauncey" McKinnon spend last Friday night? Now, boys, things seem that ain't being done since the new deal came in. In late spouses, under NRA, may shoot first and ask questions afterwards.

The anti-climax to Cashill's great feat in dropkicking Nevada to victory last Friday came when the Call-Bulletin went to give him the Hatio Hab for the outstanding play of the week. The rub came when it was found that the largest size they had in the joint was a 9 1/2.

And in closing we hope that Paul Walker brings that cast home with him. We hear all the nurses carved their monickers on it, and we're thinking we might get some phone numbers.

Poetry Contest Rules Announced By Chi Delta Phi

Verse Writers Must Submit Poems by December 1, Sponsors Say

Membership in English Group, Cash Will Be Given Winners

Rules for the poetry contest which will be conducted during the month of November by Chi Delta Phi, women's honorary English society, were announced today by Inez MacGillivray, president of the organization.

The contest, which is open to every woman on the campus, will be conducted in two divisions, one consisting of upperclasswomen and one of underclasswomen. This plan was decided on by members of Chi Delta Phi in order to bring about fair competition among the women, allowing freshmen women as much chance to win the contest as senior women.

The winner of each divisional contest will receive a prize, the award for the upper division being an honorary membership to Chi Delta Phi and the opportunity of submitting her poem to the national poetry contest conducted each year by the organization. A prize of five dollars will be given to the winner of the underclass division.

Each woman may enter as many poems as she wants the only requirement being that each poem must not exceed fifty lines in length. There is no limit on brevity or subject matter, according to Miss MacGillivray.

During the meeting held last Wednesday night a method by which no person will know the identity of the persons submitting poems in the competition was arrived at. Miss MacGillivray stated the plan as follows: "Each woman must make three copies of her contribution, one of which she will keep for herself, and the remaining two she will place in a large envelope upon the outside of which she will have written a fictitious name. Within the large envelope, along with the copies of her poem, or poems, she must also place a smaller envelope which must have sealed within it, her real name and the fictitious name which she has chosen. The large envelope containing both contributions and smaller envelope will be mailed to my address which is 455 East Sixth Street, Reno."

By this means the judges will not know whose work they are judging, for not until after the selection has been made will the small envelope containing the real name of the contestant be opened. Members of the organization adopted this method of selection in order that each piece of work might be judged entirely upon its own merits thus avoiding any possibility of favoritism being shown. Chi Delta Phi members may enter the contest but will under no condition be awarded a prize, Miss MacGillivray says.

Recognition Services Held for Y Members

Y.W.C.A. recognition services were held for 36 members Tuesday night in the university chapel. Betty Howell, president, and Frances Burke, vice president, conducted the ceremony, with Virginia Posvar and Ruth Palmer furnishing the music.

This is the first initiation ceremony to be conducted since last spring and the last one until next term. Those who were recognized are Virginia Posvar, Alice Sauer, Vera Champagne, Ruth Bails, Eleanor Doan, Annie Lucas, Norma Anderson, Doris Bath, Margaret Turano, Jane Ellen Stoddard, Frances Nichols, Frances Smith, Nancy Borsdewich, Jean Smith, Margaret Snyder, Virginia Jameson, Ethel Kent, Myrtle Cox, Betty Simpson, Louise Morndon, Norma Jean Mills, Anne Gibbs, Jean Cameron, Georgianna Harriman, Margaret Traner, Gwenivere Ericson, Janet Parish, Louise Borsini, Peggy Gill, Billie Morgan, Margaret Jensen, Lila Stoddard, Marie Morgan, Elida Smith, Ellen Hoffman, Helen Traner.

Immediately following the services a supper party was held for the entire Y.W.C.A. campus membership at the club rooms in Artemisia hall.

Signs for Homecoming Made by Home Ecers

In its bi-monthly meeting held Wednesday evening the Home Economics club further discussed plans for its float to be entered in the Homecoming day parade. The design of this float is not to be divulged, Kathryn Nichols, president of the group, stated, but something original and clever is promised.

Arrangements were made by the sign committee to construct signs and post them at intervals along Virginia street to guide visitors to various Homecoming activities.

One more meeting night, October 24, remains in which plans will be perfected, and much enthusiasm is being shown by all members, according to Eleanor Bateman, chairman of the float committee, and Margaret Gorman, head of the sign committee.

Yearling Women Serve Men at 'N'

A new custom was inaugurated Saturday at the first of the biennial paintings that the block N receives each year. The greater part of the women in the freshman class turned chef, and prepared hot dogs and buns for the whitewashers. In previous years the women usually brought sandwiches and apples, which constituted the noon meal of the class. Always before women had been required to assist in the actual work of painting the N.

This year hot dogs, buns and water were on the menu. The women, under the direction of Aldene Branch, Peggy Gill, Alice Sauer and Janet Parish, combed the hillside in search of wood for the cookfire. The dogs were cooked in large kettles laboriously dragged up the hill by the women and a few men anxious to gain the favor of the cooks. Only a few freshman women took part in the cooking, but their ability was attested by the fact that the food disappeared in short order and not a single one of the ravenous young men suffered any bad effects.

Houses Will Fete Returning Alumni

According to tentative plans being made by the different fraternities and sororities, each is expecting from fifty to sixty alumni and guests over Homecoming. The celebration will begin Thursday, October 25, and will continue through the twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh. Many of the alumni who are teaching in other parts of the state will not arrive until Friday.

Various breakfasts, luncheons and teas are being planned for the entertainment of the visitors. All the fraternities, sororities and dormitories will hold open house for their former students and graduates.

Kappa Alpha Theta is having a breakfast at the Century club Saturday. The visiting alumni will be the guests of honor and the whole chapter will attend.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has planned a luncheon to be held at the chapter house on Saturday noon. During the luncheon there will be special entertainment and talks by the football players.

Delta Delta Delta is planning to hold open house for the campus after the game Saturday. The Tri Deltas will also give a luncheon for their alumni before the game.

Beta Sigma Omicron will hold its annual Homecoming breakfast Saturday morning, while after the game it will entertain its alumnae at a tea. Other houses have made no definite arrangements.

Skit Is Planned By Frosh Women

Freshman women who failed to appear last Saturday morning to help paint the N will be required to put on a skit at the next student body meeting, according to Sallie Fagan, chairman of the women's upperclass committee.

"Painting the N has been the only tradition which the freshman women have failed to uphold this year," Miss Fagan said.

The women's upperclass committee reports that there have been fewer violators of university traditions among the women of the class of 1938 than in any class of previous years. A few names have been added to the "queening" list, but otherwise the freshman women have been well behaved, Miss Fagan said.

Thetas, Tri Deltas Lead in Tennis

With the intramural tennis tournament well under way, the Thetas and Tri Deltas have to date scored wins over their opponents, it was announced today by Mary Louise Waltenspiel, tennis manager.

The season will last for an indefinite period because of the stormy weather which delayed the matches which were to be played this week. The tournament is being conducted in round robin fashion, with the team having the least number of defeats winning the trophy.

Scores to date are: Kappa Alpha Theta-Independents, 6-2 and 6-0; Delta Delta Delta-Pi Beta Phi, 6-4 and 6-2.

New Y.W.C.A. Heads Elected This Week

With several of the committees lacking heads two new cabinet members of the Y. W. C. A. were chosen this week. Ruth Palmer, who will take over the duties as chairman of the Music Committee is replacing Roberta Browne, cabinet member who left this year to continue her studies in California. Replacing Camille Cerita is Margaret Traner, at the head of the Discussion group on the Religious ideas of the various faculty members and the evolution of religion.

During the semester plans have been made for the group to have various speakers on the subject.

The meetings will probably be held over three weeks with meetings every other day, according to Betty Howell, president of the organization. The group is being organized for the women on the campus and will be open to all who desire a few hours of literary repast. Meetings will probably start next month and will be held in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in Artemisia Hall.

Gamma Phis Win Swimming Meet

In a biennial intramural swimming meet held last Friday at Moana swimming pool the four contestants of Gamma Phi Beta won from the six Kappa Alpha Theta contestants by a 69 1/2 to 65 1/2 score.

In the free style race Emily Tholl came first, with Julia Sibley following, and the lone Manzanita hall representative, Edith Delmore, came third. Nell Lozano and Frances Smith were first and second winners in the 45 yard overarm, with Edith Delmore third. This tied the Gamma Phis and Thetas 15 to 15, with Manzanita hall totaling 6 points. Again in the breast stroke for best form Nell Lozano and Frances Smith came in first and second, respectively, while Elizabeth Young took third for the Thetas. Emily Tholl, Elizabeth Young and Julia Sibley took first, second and third places in the 45 yard racing back stroke. The score then stood: Thetas 36, Gamma Phis 30 and Manzanita hall 6.

There were no competitors in diving, so Jane Ellen Stoddard received 17 points for four dives. As a result, the Gamma Phis took the lead, and 10 more points were added when Frances Smith won the 45 yard breast stroke race. Elizabeth Young and Suzanne Traub tied second place for the Thetas.

In the contest for best form in the side stroke Lozano and Traub tied for first, with Betty Simpson taking second. The Gamma Phis still led, by a narrow margin, barely nosing out the Thetas in the last 90 yard free style race, in which Nell Lozano came third. Emily Tholl touched the bar first, with Julia Sibley coming in second.

The contestants were as follows: Kappa Alpha Theta—Emily Tholl, Sallie Fagan, Suzanne Traub, Julia Sibley and Elizabeth Young. Gamma Phi Beta—Nell Lozano, Frances Smith, Jane Ellen Stoddard and Betty Simpson. Manzanita Hall—Edith Delmore.

Margaret Snyder and Carolyn Borsdewich spent last Saturday and Sunday at the Snyder home at Zephyr Cove, Lake Tahoe.

Point System Revision Tabled Until Later Date

Revision of the A. W. S. point system, which has been a standing problem of the women students for some time has been temporarily postponed until information can be obtained as to how women on other western campuses handle their activity situations, according to a statement made today by Sallie Fagan, chairman of the revision committee.

During the last meeting of the committee, letters inquiring as to how a balanced system of activities are maintained among their woman students were sent to the presidents of the Associated Women Students of California, of Stanford, and of the University of Southern California. As soon as answers to these letters are received, the committee intends to resume work and come to an immediate settlement of the question.

Members of the revision committee who have been working since the beginning of the semester are Sallie Fagan, chairman, Grace Semenza, Alice Lundberg, and Elizabeth Juniper.

Sagens Sell Frolic Tickets

Wolves Frolic tickets will be sold in front of the library by the Sagens, Women's pep organization, starting next week. The club is also taking an active part in formulating plans for the Homecoming rally.

Sallie Fagan, president, stated that last week the Sagens went to all of the Reno service clubs and intend to continue this plan until the entire city is covered.

Talented Femmes Perform in Frolic

Three campus women's organizations will display their talents at the annual Wolves Frolic next Friday evening.

The women's glee club will be represented by a triple trio consisting of Mary Stringham, Beth Stringham, Barbara Bryant, Norma Jean Mills, Mary Louis Durkee, Donna Mathews, Dorothea Shidder, Mary Louise Waltenspiel and Jeanne Cardinal.

George Gottschalk will sing some of the old songs with the aid of a chorus of Gamma Phi Betas. Nell Lozano, Mary Corecco, Madeline Miller, Margery Rather, Dorothy Nason, Margaret Walker, Jane Ellen Stoddard, Mary Elizabeth Todd, Margaret Piercy and Alice Boland will make up the chorus. Jane Ellen Stoddard and Margaret Walker will do a novelty tap dance.

The women's physical education department is planning some Swedish folk dances in native costume. The dances are under the direction of Miss Sameth. Those who will be in the act are soon to be chosen.

Other dance numbers will be done by women selected from the campus at large whom Miss Ruth Ryan, Reno dance director, will supervise. Last year both the glee club and the P.P.E. department were represented, the letter by dances from Madeline Miller, Opal Harvey, Helene Stark and Dorothy Nason. The glee club entertained with a skit, "The Big Bad Wolf." This year will mark the first appearance of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority as a group.

Miss Dorothy Perch spent the weekend at her home in Susanville.

Women's Society Gives Card Party

Plans for a card party to be given next month by Cap and Scroll were discussed at the organization's first dinner meeting of the semester, held October 11.

The affair, which is for the purpose of raising money for the game, will probably be held at Manzanita hall, according to Sarah Graves, president of the organization.

Miss Graves announced that the next meeting of the society will take place November 8.

Sweets Sold at Meetings

Students attending the A.S.U.N. and A.W.S. meetings for the remainder of the semester will be able to buy candy from the Y.W.C.A. candy booth committee before entering the auditorium. The committee will have a booth just inside the door of the Education building.

THINK IT OVER

News of the startling action taken by Coach "Brick" Mitchell yesterday in ousting two Nevada football players and the football manager will shock the entire sports world. Particularly will football fans who follow Nevada closely be amazed when they learn these two men were first string players, in large part responsible for the glorious victory over St. Mary's last week. Mitchell will be the focal point of the flood of protest which will result. He and not the dismissed players will bear the brunt of the storm of criticism.

Following as it does the greatest gridiron victory in the past two decades at this institution, this news comes at a most unfortunate time. When the team and its coaches returned from St. Mary's they were given a great ovation at a rally attended by thousands of townspeople and students. Everyone at that rally was at the high point of enthusiasm, eagerly looking forward to the season's remaining games when the Wolf Pack could add further glory to Nevada. The team was looked upon as a smooth working machine which had finally been tuned up to perfect running order by its coaches. And now the bubble of enthusiasm is broken, and integral parts of the machine have been removed the day before an important home game is to be played. The question in the minds of sports writers all over the coast and of Nevada fans at large is, "Will the machine break down?" In the minds of many the question will be, "Has Mitchell gone crazy?"

Let's review the case. The two first string players, accompanied by the football manager, were found breaking training rules. Two weeks before the coach had delivered an ultimatum that any man found guilty of misconduct would be ousted. When he learned that these men had violated his orders he had one of two alternatives—either to wink his eye and let the matter drop or to oust the players and retain the respect of his men.

It has long been known, generally speaking, that University of Nevada athletes are lax in their training. Every football coach in the history of the institution has been faced by this problem. Students at large know that certain athletes drink and smoke during athletic seasons. It is useless to debate the question of whether training infractions are detrimental to a player. Centuries of observation have proved that any athlete is at his best when he abstains from liquor and tobacco.

Brick Mitchell has never been a cheap detective, snooping after his men. He has followed the theory that the men themselves are of an age to know right from wrong, and do not require a long list of "do's" and "don't," set forth in an elaborate training code. He has assumed that his players at all times desire to play their best and know that to do so they must train. He has also known that for some time some of his men have broken the fundamental rules of training and has decided to put a stop to the practice at any price.

He is to be commended for having the courage to take this step in the face of sharp criticism which is bound to come.

The interesting thing about the whole affair is the fact that Mitchell himself believes the men who have been sacrificed are not entirely to blame. He is genuinely sorry to have to take this step. He believes that in the final analysis the fault lies in the attitude taken by social organizations on this campus toward their university. And the Sagebrush believes he is right.

In every shakeup someone has to be the goat. The personalities of the two men in question are of minor consideration. The same thing could have happened to any of the players who have violated training rules. Those players are no more guilty of improper conduct than are students at large on the campus who sanction such action.

Fraternities and sororities all know that Nevada's athletes break training, and they accept the practice with no protest. In fact in many instances individuals from the Greek letter houses encourage team members to break the rules. There lies the answer to the whole problem. If students at large and those of social organizations in particular were loyal to the University of Nevada they would absolutely ostracize any of their athletes who failed in their obligations to the university as well as any of their number found to be a party to such infractions.

Fraternities and sororities are a part of this campus and as such have definite obligations to meet, foremost of which is unswerving loyalty to the university. In the past few years they have absolutely lost sight of this fact and have exalted themselves above the university they are supposed to serve. They are the one source from which reform must come, if a remedy to the athletic situation is to be found. They cannot expect members of the team to be any more faithful to the university than they themselves are. If they look upon infraction of rules as a joke, how can they ever expect their men to view the problem out of different eyes? Were the social organizations on this campus loyal to the University of Nevada they would make it impossible for any member to violate training rules, for such a member would not be allowed to continue his affiliation with the group.

No one individual can reform the athletic situation on this campus. Any results which come must come from the students themselves, and the best place to start is right in the fraternity and sorority houses. The job is in their hands and if they lay down on it things will go on as they have before, with recurring instances such as the present one. It is the best job that they could possibly assume and is really the only one that justifies their existence on this campus. If the fraternities and sororities at this university haven't visceral fortitude enough to insist upon absolute loyalty to the university, then there is really no need for our having any athletic teams at all, for we simply are devoid of any of the finer qualities which should make Nevada a unity.

ANOTHER BIRTHDAY

Today the Sagebrush is forty-one years old, and in retrospective mood looks back over the eventful years of its life during which it has marched hand in hand with the university it serves.

Born on October 19, 1893, the paper, then known as the Student Record, came only seven years after the university opened its doors in Reno. It was born under protest, for the administration at that time had strictly forbidden the handful of students to publish a newspaper. Nevertheless, those young pioneers of the nineties formed what was known as the Independent association and for two months published the little magazine-paper anonymously until the school authorities finally relented and recognized the renegade publication.

During the first two decades of its life the Brush, even as the university, was undernourished. Advertising was hard to get and students had not the money to pay subscription rates. Several times it seemed as hope of life was gone, but always it struggled on, doing its best to encourage new students to come to the university, backing to the last ditch the small athletic teams which loyal Nevadans sent forth, trying its hardest to give an accurate picture of university life. And slowly, almost imperceptibly, it grew.

Yearly the enrollment mounted and yearly the Brush improved. Through its stage of infancy, the paper in the early part of the present century began a fight for a unified student body and won. Since that time it has been the leader in many campaigns to better the condition of students at this university. In its function of recording university news it has been invaluable.

Today the Sagebrush looks back upon its early days and is proud of its progress. It faces the future with confidence and as one of the oldest institutions in the west the University of Nevada looks to the day when both the school and itself will be far stronger and finer than at the present time.

TO NEVADA'S SONS

Next week the annual Homecoming celebration will find many old grads once again on the campus of their Alma Mater. This celebration bids fair to be a most successful one, and certainly all Nevadans should make it so.

For two glorious days new students and old will meet and mingle to pay homage to Nevada and to enjoy a holiday on the campus of the school they love so dearly.

Make it a point to get the most enjoyment possible out of these two days of festivity. Forget your inhibitions and remember that, irrespective of age difference, you all are on one common ground of understanding—you are sons of Nevada!

Morehouse Plans Many Pictures For Artemisia

Working on the theory that seeing is believing, Ned Morehouse, editor of the Artemisia, is planning to use pictures in the year's annual whenever possible. Already he has taken pictures of the California game, the Cal Aggies game, of the several rallies and of the welcoming celebrations held this week when the team returned from the St. Mary's victory.

Pictures have been ordered from coast papers of last Friday's combat and they will be featured in a prominent place this year. Morehouse plans to obtain pictures constantly this fall and early next spring of any event of interest on the campus. He has especially marked for action the remaining home games with Cal Rammers, Chico and San Jose. During the Homecoming day festivities there will be views taken of all of the floats in the parade as well as all of the prize winners in the different contests.

Taking of pictures of Greek letter fraternities will be concluded by a week from Monday, with Beta Kappa scheduled for appearance at the Paffrath studio Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, and Delta Sigma Lambda Saturday and Monday. During this week members of Sigma Nu and Lambda Chi Alpha had pictures taken.

Musicians at U. C. L. A. threatened to strike if they were not given a trip to the U. C. L. A.-California game. The 75 band members were granted the trip.

Grads May 'Steal' Show at Election; Well Represented

If the university graduates running for office in the general election on November 6 are elected, the University of Nevada will be well represented in county and state offices.

The office that is sought by the largest number of Nevada graduates is that of district attorney. From Washoe county Ernest S. Brown, '26, is the republican candidate. Elko county's republican candidate for that office is Douglas Allen Castle, who received his B. S. in 1927. Howard E. Browne, '18, is the independent candidate for district attorney in Lander county. The other county boasting a Nevada graduate as candidate is Lyon, with John R. Ross, '23, a republican.

The graduates seeking the office of assembly rank second in number. Curry D. Jameson, '06, democrat from Washoe county, Charles H. Russell, '26, republican from White Pine county, and Roy Marion Whitacre, '28, republican from Lyon county are among those in the race.

Active in Counties
Two Nevada graduates are opposing each other in the contest for the office of recorder and auditor in Washoe county. Delle B. Boyd, '39, is the republican candidate running against Robert A. Mitchell, '29, democrat.

In Elko county William Herman Settemeyer, '13, is the republican candidate for surveyor. Daniel H. Urdike, '06, democrat, is running for Washoe county surveyor.

In Washoe county James G. Peckham, '03, is running for county commissioner, long term. Calvin B. Bannigan, '33, democrat, is in the race for constable.

Nevada graduates nominated for state offices are: Walter Williams Anderson, '12, for school superintendent and Silas E. Ross, '09, for university regent.

Among others, two former students of Nevada also seeking office are George W. Malone, republican, for United States senator, and Ray Jefferson, republican, for Washoe county assemblyman.

Signs for Games Are Completed

Members of the home economics department are working diligently in an effort to get all the Homecoming day signs completed. These signs are used to direct people from out of town to the football game and to the celebration. Painting these markers is an annual job of the department. Miss Sarah Lewis, head of the department, said.

In further commenting on Homecoming, Miss Lewis stated today that the department will have no exhibits during the celebration this year. Exhibit display in the past has been too poorly attended to warrant one this year, she said. The home economics club will, however, enter a float in the parade.

Annabel Arentz spent the weekend in Smith valley visiting her family.

"Spell out" cards are being used for the first time at Syracuse this fall. No other Eastern college has yet adopted this form of cheering with colored cards.

Interfraternity Hoopsters Are Called Ineligible

"Several players in the current inter-fraternity basketball tournament are ineligible for competition," was the statement issued by J. E. Martie, head of the physical education department, when queried last night as to the eligibility of the players in doubt.

"The team using such ineligible men will not be in line for any type of award if such team happens to win the tourney," Martie stated.

A rule was passed last year by the interfraternity council which stated that "no man who has earned a letter at any other school will be eligible for local competition during their first year of enrollment at the University of Nevada."

At the present time one house has ignored the pre-tournament warning concerning this ineligible ruling with the result that the team committing this offense will be forced to forfeit the games in which the barred men were used.

Campus Players Practice Thriller

The Campus Players will present a "high class melodrama" at the Wolves Frolic next Friday evening, according to Darrell Berry, president.

This masterpiece of the stage is entitled "And the Villain Still Pursued Her," and it is a modern version of the old type of refined entertainment. The cast includes: Helen Lewis, Mary, e mother; Helene Per Lee, the daughter; Carl Dodge, the brother; Ray Frohlich, Felix, the villain.

At the meeting held Tuesday evening at the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house, the Campus Players also decided to enter a float in the Homecoming day parade.

Boardman Writes On Engineering

A history of engineering education has been prepared by Professor H. P. Boardman of the civil engineering department at the university and sent to Dean Crawford of the University of Idaho to be used in preparing a paper on engineering education in the west. The history of engineering education, by Boardman, was written at the University of Nevada, and was connected with a meeting of the Society for Promotion of Engineering Education at Corvallis, Ore. in 1932, which was attended by Boardman.

A boycott was placed upon some co-eds at Duke college recently when they criticized the manners and actions of student waiters. The girls were neither dated out or spoken to by the men during the boycott.

6:30 p. m.—Alumni banquet at Twentieth Century club.
9 p. m.—Homecoming dance at the Washoe County Library building. Fraternities and sororities will hold open house immediately after football game.

Final Plans

The electrical and mechanical laboratories will present marvels equal to those in the Hall of Science at the Chicago World's Fair. Interesting exhibits are also promised by the Fine Arts group and the Chemistry Club.

At 11:30 a. m. the engineers will hold a rock drilling contest, a large cup being the prize for the two-man team which drills the deepest hole in a specified length of time.

The sophomores and freshmen, representing two of the largest classes in the history of the university, will clash in their annual field meet on Mackay field at 2 p. m. that afternoon. With its joustings, tire rushes and boxing matches, this event, which is handled by the men's upperclass committee, should be a colorful part of the celebration.

Wolves' Frolic Attracts
Renewed impetus will be given the huge Homecoming affair when the 17th annual Wolves' Frolic, with a cost of 143 university students, is presented Friday evening at the Granada theatre under the direction of William Miller, dramatics coach, and Herbert Peck, student director of last year's Frolic.

Nevada Victory Over St. Mary's Is Put in Verse

The startling victory of the Wolf Pack last Friday over the supposedly unbeatable St. Mary's Gaels bids fair to become an epic tale for the state of Nevada.

The news of the "upset" has filled papers for the entire week and is fast becoming legend.

Comes now a poet to put in verse the famous contest. Henry McNemara, well known citizen of Reno who writes poetry and is a loyal Nevada rooster, submitted the following:

IN FIFTY YEARS FROM NOW
In fifty years from now, in fifty years from now,
I'll neither drink from glass nor cup,
For I'll be pushing daisies up,
In fifty years from now.

time features beautiful girls dancing to music by Darrell Berry's orchestra, a surprise stunt by members of Mask and Dagger, tumbling exhibitions, skits, song and blackouts, and an old-fashioned "mellodrammer," to be presented by Campus Players.

Cross-Country Attracts
Intense competitive spirit will be seen Saturday morning when the fraternities fight for honors in the cross-country race, which is being handled by J. E. "Doc" Martie, head of the department of physical education. Entrants have been preparing for several weeks and a large number of runners will participate.

The race will start at 10 a. m. The Homecoming parade, which will start promptly at 11:30 a. m. will no doubt be the biggest and most colorful attraction of the three day affair, with university groups, fraternities and sororities competing for honors in the float contest. Silver cups will be awarded in each division for the best float.

In addition to floats, the parade will be composed of the university R. O. T. C. and band units, the American Legion drum corps, the local unit of the Nevada national guard and probably the Reno high school band.

Guests of honor in the parade will include Acting Governor Morley Griswold, Miles N. Pike, president of the alumni association, and Miss Sarah Lewers, secretary; Judge Frank Norcross, Dr. Walter E. Clark, Senators Key Pittman and Patrick McCarran, Congressman J. G. Scrugham and student body officers.

One of the novel features of the parade, which will be marshalled by members of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military society, is a section devoted to graduates of the university who played football sometime during the years '24 to '28.

Sororities and fraternities will contend for the honor of having the best decorated house, silver cups to be awarded to the winning fraternity and sorority.

On both Friday and Saturday mornings from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. alumni will register in the Student

Administration building as has been done for several years.

The 'spotlight' of interest on Saturday afternoon will turn to Mackay field where the Wolf Pack will resume rivalry with the San Jose State Teachers college at 2:15. In view of Nevada's recent victory over St. Mary's it is expected that an excited throng will fill Mackay stadium.

Following the game fraternities and sororities will hold open house.

At 6:30 p. m. the alumni banquet, under the direction of Miles N. Pike, will be held at the Twentieth Century Club and a prominent alumnus has been asked to speak.

Awards Made at Dance

As a climax to the colorful celebration, alumni and university students will gather for the annual Homecoming dance in the Washoe county library building at 9 o'clock. Cups will be awarded to the fraternity and sorority with the greatest number of alumni members present and other awards made.

Decorations and entertainment have been arranged, and Darrell Berry's orchestra will play. Admission is $1.00 for couples and $3.00 for stags. Tickets may be obtained at the Riverside Pharmacy or from members of the Homecoming committee, but will not be sold the night of the dance.

The Homecoming committee is composed of Carl Dodge, chairman; Mary Corecco, Elwin Jeffers, Walter States, Clyde Jantze, Ben Sheehan, Bryce Rhodes and Kathryn Nichols.

Town Pays Tribute To Victorious Pack At Gigantic Rally

Triumphal March Through Reno Precedes Reception in State Building

AYRES PRESIDES Members of Squad, Coaches Are Introduced During Celebration

Paying tribute to Coach 'Brick' Mitchell and to the Nevada Wolf Pack for its sensational victory over the St. Mary's Gaels last Friday, 2000 Reno football fans packed the Washoe County Library building last Monday night at a reception given by local civic groups headed by the chamber of commerce.

Starting at Fifth and Virginia streets, a huge parade, headed by the members of the football team, with the Reno municipal and the University of Nevada bands as escorts, proceeded down Virginia street to the library building, where a program of speeches and university songs took place.

Ayres Presides Albert D. Ayres, local attorney, presided over the meeting and, in recalling the great victories of the Silver and Blue in the past, said that only twice in his 30 years as a backer of the Pack has he seen a demonstration of such proportions resulting from the exploits of the Wolves. The other was the reception given the team which in 1923 stopped a five year string of victories of California's wonder team with a 0-0 tie.

Ross Sees Game As the first speaker, Ayres introduced Earl Ross, president of the Rotary club, who remarked that he was "one of the fortunate few Nevada fans who had the privilege of seeing Nevada come from behind to score one of the most glorious victories of its athletic history."

Ross told a story of two young boys who sat in front of him at the game. One had an autograph book jammed with the names of stars on the St. Mary's and other great coast elevens. The other had a brand new book, in which he had not yet a single name. The young man with the full book traded it for the empty one at the last of the game, remarking, "Here, kid, I'll trade you; I'm going down and get a real football team to sign mine."

Dean Maxwell Adams extended congratulations in behalf of the university, commending the team and its coaches for their courage in the face of great odds, and expressed President Clark's regrets at his inability to be present and extend congratulations in person. Injuries received in an auto accident prevented Clark from attending.

As president of the alumni association, Miles N. Pike assured the team that the alumni association is behind them, "Win, lose or draw."

Mitchell Given Ovation The greatest ovation of the evening went to Coach "Brick" Mitchell when he was introduced to remark on the victory. In the face of continued applause Mitchell was forced to raise his hand in signal for silence.

In a voice almost silenced by a bad cold "Brick" said, "We realize that the important thing now is not to rest on our laurels, but to go out there each week and win. We'll take them as they come. The St. Mary's game is definitely in the past. We are forgetting that game and are pointing for a victory when we meet the California Ramblers this week."

Squad Introduced Mitchell then introduced each member of the team individually and the assembled scores of rabid fans gave the men a tremendous hand, especially George Sharp, plunging fullback who scored the touchdown, and Tom Cashill, veteran center who won the game with his sensational dropkick.

Catholic Bishop Will Be Honored

Bishop Thomas Gorman, who now is on a trip to Rome, will be honored on his return at a dinner and dance sponsored by the Newman Club on December 8, Kerwin Foley, president of the club, announced.

Bishop Gorman will attend the dinner, and dancing for college students will follow immediately afterward. Foley said that a similar dinner-dance was given last year.

A meetings of all members has been called Sunday evening at the St. Thomas Aquinas Cathedral rectory to make plans.

Frolic Ticket Sales Advanced by Sagers

Stressing the sale of Wolves Frolic tickets, a special Sagers meeting was called by Forrest Bibb, president, Wednesday afternoon. Although sales have been reported as "fair," an intensive drive will be staged this week by members of this organization in an effort to bring sales up to the standard of former years. Ray Frohlich, in charge of ticket sales, reports sales on the campus have not been as large as expected.

The Sagers will welcome the Cal Ramblers at the train and take them to and from the game.

Fraternity Sports In Seventh Week

Alpha Tau Omega Is Holding Lead in Intramural Contests

With A. T. O. holding a slight advantage over the field, the race for interfraternity supremacy in tennis, volley-ball and horseshoes went into its seventh week of competition last Monday.

The Tauomen are in a three-way tie for first in the Tennis singles and doubles, and are undisputed leaders of the horseshoe doubles, while they are in second place in the horseshoe singles.

Sigma Nus and Lambda Chi Alpha are running the Taus a close race, sharing first place in tennis singles and doubles with the A. T. O's. A second place in the barnyard golf singles, a fourth in the doubles, and a fourth in volley-ball are the remainder of the honors garnered by the Sigma Nus.

Besides their first place tie with the Sigma Nus and Taus, the Lambda Chis are deadlocked with the Taus for first in volley ball.

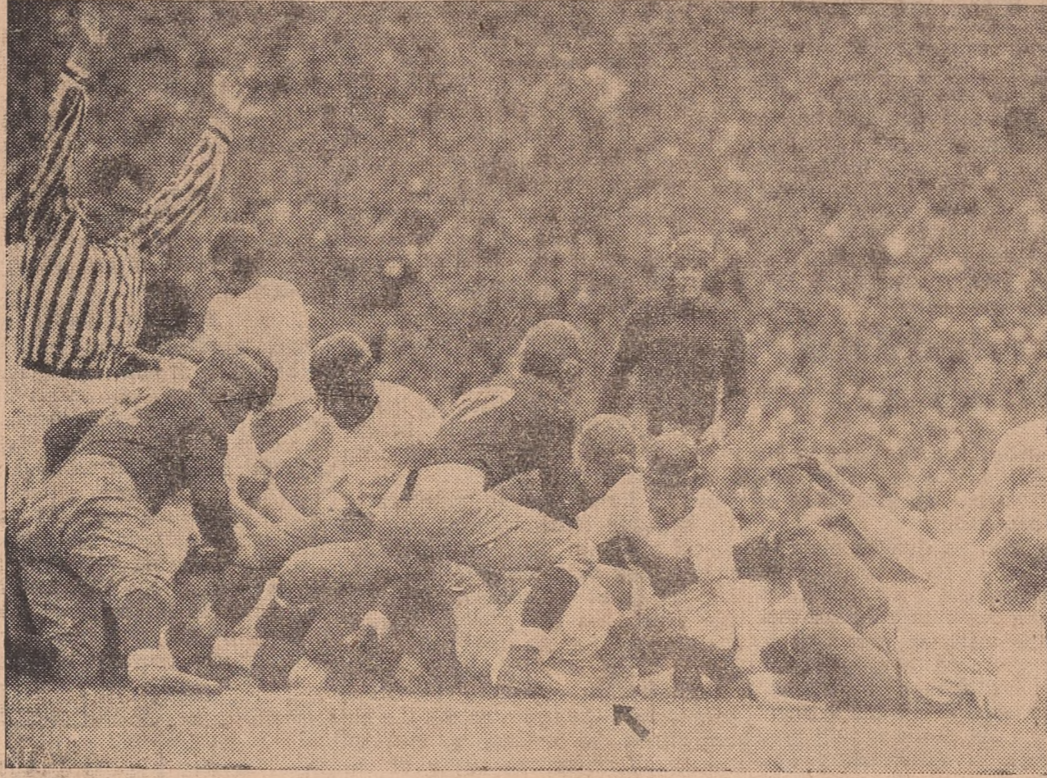

A fourth strong contender in the league, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, is behind the pace-setting Taus. The Evans avenue men are in first place in volley ball, third in horseshoes, and share a second position with the Phi Sig in the tennis singles.

The ranking of the houses as of October 12 follows:

NEVADA'S FIRST TOUCHDOWN OF YEAR

What a moment in the hectic contest! Nevada's ball on the St. Mary's two foot mark, third down and goal to go! The Gael line held in this play, but on the next play the Pack sent Sharp through the middle of the line to score. This score was the first made against the Madigan men this season.

Far West League Has No Leaders

C. O. P., Nevada Favored to Lead Far West Conference Scramble

With only two games played to date, both of which resulted in ties, the Far Western Conference leadership is in a jumble as far as any team having a decided advantage is concerned.

Nevada, present conference champion, by virtue of her spectacular 9-7 win over St. Mary's last week is being picked by many prominent coast sports writers to take the trophy again this year. College of Pacific is rated as the possible winner by many because of the brilliant game turned in against the Golden Bears of California last week.

The California Aggies, which were defeated last year by the Wolves, 20-7, held the Pack to a scoreless tie in the first conference tilt of the season on Mackay Field, October 6. San Jose State and Chico State fought to a 6-6 tie on October 13.

San Jose State, one of the favored teams at the beginning of the season, will clash with the California Aggies tomorrow at Davis, in the third conference tilt of the season. This game, which will be part of the Homecoming Day celebration for the Aggies, will find Crisp Toomey's Mustangs well groomed and rested after a week's vacation from active play. Many injured regulars will be back in the lineups.

So far as the conference games go, the highlight of the week-end will be the clash of the Fresno Bulldogs and Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's College of Pacific eleven. The Bulldogs have won three out of four games, having defeated San Francisco State, Arizona State, University of Southern California Spartans, and having bowed to the California Ramblers by a low score. The Stagg eleven comes into the game with the "moral victory" over the University of California Golden Bears hanging over their heads. This game will be played at Stockton tonight.

In non-conference games, many of the conference teams have run up high scores, while others have not as yet scored. Following is a list of games and points for and against each team since the opening of the season.

Table with columns: W, L, T, F, P.A. Rows include Nevada, Fresno, Pacific, San Jose, Cal Aggies.

Cashill Awarded 'Hatlo Hat' Prize

Announcement was made Monday of the awarding of "Hatlo's hat" to Tom Cashill, veteran center of the Wolves who last Friday dropkicked his team to a 9-7 victory. Jimmy Hatlo, cartoonist of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin, originated this now famous weekly feature of the sporting world.

The individual who plays the most outstanding game of the week on the Pacific coast is honored by the Call-Bulletin in this manner.

markable game he turned in against the Galloping Gaels.

Cashill is the fourth football man to be chosen this season to the "Hatlo hat hall of fame." Thomas of Santa Clara was the first player to be selected. His performance against Nevada in the opening game of the season won him this coveted honor. Coach Alonzo Stagg of the College of Pacific chosen the second week, while Schrieter of St. Mary's, who last week failed miserably to live up to his "hall of fame" reputation, was Hatlo's third selection.

Students Reticent To Enter Rhodes Scholarship Race

Dean Adams Urges All Who Wish to Apply for Award Do So at Once

REQUIREMENTS CITED

Eighteen University Grads Have Received Award Since 1907

With the deadline for applications for the Rhodes scholarship less than a month away, Dean Maxwell Adams, chairman of the selection committee, has as yet received no applications, he said yesterday. I am very anxious that any student considering the scholarship contact me in the near future in order that his qualifications may be studied and he may be advised of his chances in seeking the award," Dean Adams said.

The final date on which students may apply has been set at November 17.

Provided there are applicants possessing the physical and scholastic attributes required by the committee in charge of the selection, one man will be sent into competition with students from universities in Arizona, California, Utah, Colorado and New Mexico, according to Adams.

To be eligible a candidate must be a male citizen of the United States, of at least five years residence, and unmarried.

By the first of October of the year for which he is elected he must also have passed his nineteenth but not his twenty-fifth birthday. Candidates will be eligible who were born between October 1, 1910, and October 1, 1916.

By the first of October of the year for which he is elected the candidate must have completed at least the sophomore year at some college or university of recognized standing in the United States.

Candidates may apply either as a representative of the state in which they live or from any state in which they have had at least two years of their college education.

Prior to 1930 each state in the country was allowed one scholarship to be given to some man within the state. In 1930 the states were grouped into districts, several states competing for a single award. Since 1930 one Nevadan has won the district competition. The 1932 winner of the scholarship was Alden Sibley, son of Dean Frederick H. Sibley, of the College of Engineering.

Since the founding of the scholarship in 1907 the University of Nevada has sent eighteen graduates to Oxford. A. I. St. Clair, the winner of the first award was followed in 1908 by Scott Unsworth of Reno. Other winners are S. M. Wilton, Goldfield, 1910; C. H. Beebe, Reno, 1911; F. H. Bryant, Sparks, 1913; W. C. Jensen, Verdi, 1914; and Thomas H. Edsall, Reno, 1917, followed in order.

Because of the entrance of the United States in the World war there were no awards made in 1918. The 1919 scholarship went to S. M. Pargellis, Reno, who was followed in 1921 by C. M. Chatfield, Reno, in 1922 by Leslie Bruce, Reno; in 1923 by Paul Harwood, now associate professor of English in this university. John Ocheltree, Reno, won the 1926 competition, followed in the next year by Fred Siebert also of Reno. Fred Anderson, the only American student ever to attain the highest scholastic standing in his college at Oxford, was the 1928 winner, while Francis Duborg, winner of an appointment to Annapolis in 1925, was awarded the 1929 scholarship.

Under the present grouping of states into districts Sibley has been the only Nevadan to win the scholarship.

The committee in charge of selection for this state is composed of Dean Maxwell Adams, chairman, Dean R. C. Thompson and Professor C. R. Hicks.

Pre-Meds Invited To Attend Clinical Society's Meeting

The pre-medical society, Omega Mu Iota, will hear two lectures during the next two weeks, according to Max Kepl, president. The society has been invited by Dr. S. K. Morrison, chief of staff, Washoe County Clinical society, to a meeting on the first Thursday in November.

Dr. Lawrence Parsons, local physician, will give a lecture entitled "Endocrinology" November 15, which is open to the public.

According to Kepl, the new insignia have arrived and are being distributed. The emblem is in the form of a medical staff with a skull superimposed. This hangs on a chain and is composed of the school colors, silver and blue. The old emblem was a pin consisting of the Greek letters Omega Mu Iota. The new ones will be officially adopted in the by-laws of the society's constitution.

A float will be entered by the pre-medical club in the Homecoming parade. It will have for its theme various contrasts between ancient and modern medicine.

Brush Founding

University of Nevada campus, was not the first student publication. Previous to the founding of the Student Record, a monthly magazine named the Student Monthly had appeared in 1887. This publication, however, soon died out.

The first edition of the Student Record was published in magazine form, and, in an editorial entitled "Salutary," the aims of the paper were set forth. The principal aim of the paper was to "young men and women to take advantage of a college education." The support of all student activities was another plank of the paper's policy. To this end, news of alumni, students, short essays, and athletic news were published.

Paper Grew

As the university grew, the Student Record grew also, becoming in time a major factor in campus life. The size of the publication was increased, and by 1905 the paper was changed from magazine form to that of a regular newspaper. Editorial offices were also obtained, and an attempt to publish the Student Record on a bi-weekly basis was made.

This plan did not work out well, and soon the paper returned to weekly publication. With the growth of the university, the paper began to come under the control of the student body, and, in 1909, the paper bore the legend "published by the students of the University of Nevada."

Name Changed

A year later, August Holmes, editor of the publication, changed the name from the Student Record to the U. of N. Sagebrush, and included the seal of the university on the title line.

From then on, the paper gradually increased, suffering a setback during the World War when it was published almost entirely by women students.

After the close of the war, the paper again began to move forward, and, after a lengthy campaign, conducted

Chem Club to Show Impossible Feats

The impossible becomes the possible; the unbelievable the believable! Fire issues from water, and water from fire. Colorful pictures are painted in the thin air. A demonstration of the mysterious "Death Ray," merciless agent of death and destruction shows the ease with which life may be snuffed out.

These and many more spectacular and mystifying stunts will be displayed to those who visit the Chemistry club exhibits in the main lecture room of Mackay Science hall prior to the Homecoming parade Saturday.

Overworked Band Praised by Post

The university band has come in for plenty of work in the past week, according to Theodore H. Post, head of the music department.

Up before 7 a. m. Sunday morning to greet the train on which the victorious Pack returned, the band made a creditable showing despite the fact that only half the members were able to make an appearance, Post said.

Post further said that although the ranks of the band were sadly depleted in Monday's rally, it did a very good piece of work in collaborating with members drawn from the city band. The program was entirely impromptu.

by Leslie Bruce, editor, the Wolf was adopted as the symbol of the associated student body. A little later, the new emblem of the university was incorporated into the title line of the Sagebrush, and in 1930, the title line now in use was adopted.

Sagebrush Grows

During its forty-one years of existence, the Sagebrush has grown from its original size of a four-by-eight monthly publication to a standard size weekly publication. Along with the growth in size, developments in the financial side of the paper have also been made, with the publication now on a sound financial basis, instead of living literally from one issue to the next.

During these forty-one years, the editorial policies of the Sagebrush have also remained, practically the same, with the principal of support for student activities still the main point of the editorial policy.

Jean Terrill, freshman Gamma Phi Beta pledge, was confined to the university infirmary Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. She was treated for an attack of chronic appendicitis. This is the second time this semester that Miss Terrill has been in the hospital.

Frosh-Soph Clash Set for Oct. 26

Plans for the Frosh-Soph field day to be held on Mackay field Friday afternoon, October 26, in conjunction with the Homecoming celebration, were released this week by Paul Turner, upperclass head.

Last year's freshmen carried off the victory, and if successful this year will be granted the privilege of wearing derbies and carrying canes when they become Seniors.

The battle will feature four events. First in order of the afternoon's entertainment is the blindfold boxing event in which the contestants are blindfolded and must fight with one hand tied behind their back.

A jousting contest comes next in which one man who is the "horse" carries another on his shoulder known as the "warrior" who is heavily armed with a broom wrapped with paint-soaked rags.

In the tie-up, as the members of the opposing teams attempt to truss up as many of their opponents as possible and drag them to the sidelines and out of competition. The side which has the greatest number of men yet on the field when the whistle blows wins the contest.

Last but not least in the day's fracas comes the tire rush. All the old tires which can possibly be collected are strung across the center of the field and the opposing teams are lined up at each end. At the signal both make a wild rush in an attempt to bring back to their goal line the greatest number of tires within a given time.

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

THE tobacco which we believe is best suited for pipes is used in making Granger Rough Cut. It is made by the Wellman Process, and we believe that it will compare favorably with higher priced tobaccos. We wish, in some way, we could get every man who smokes a pipe to just try Granger.

stopped the St. Mary's backfield aces. Al Nicolini and Schreiber, for heavy losses.

In the backfield Flournoy and Hamman will start as halfbacks, with Hamman in the tailback position. Hamman's punts were said to be some of the longest ever to be seen in Kezar stadium, and he is easily Nevada's greatest kicker since "Spud" Harrison. Flournoy's ability to snag passes sent to him by Hamman had been proved time after time during the season and no doubt his adeptness will again be demonstrated tomorrow.

Allan Cromwell will open the game in the signal calling position and Harvey Hill, fleet fullback reserve, will fill the vacancy left by the removal of George Tharp, the third man to be asked to turn in his suit by "Brick" Mitchell in the jolting shake-up last Thursday.

Ramblers Strong

The Ramblers bring with them a great wealth of material which, during the early season saw action with the regular Golden Bear gridmen. There is also a possibility that "Navy Bill" Ingram has pushed several of his regular varsity men down to the Ramblers because they did not show the proper aptitude for work during the last week-end when the men of Stagg came to the Memorial stadium and gave the Bears one of the greatest scares that any "breather" team has tendered them in many years.

At all events Coach Hole brings with him a squadron of fleet backs in Eddie Vallejo, Hector Brown, Angelman, Newsom and Welch. Vallejo is an especially deceptive back and many on the U. C. campus are wondering why he is playing for the Ramblers.

For the center position, Hole has Beeson and Souza, the latter probably getting the starting call. The guard positions have been a toss-up among three men, Rose, Britton, and Benidetto. McFerran, Hestor, Bennett, and Green are four able tackles and Coach Hole will probably use them interchangeably. Hole also brings with him four good ends in Cochran, Basham, Beerle, and Sugarc.

Beat Fresno

The Ramblers have played two games so far this season. The first game they won from a Far Western conference member, Fresno State, by a score of 12 to 6. Last week they were defeated by Taft Junior college 13-6. Their loss was mainly attributed to several fumbles which the junior college boys turned to their own advantage and scored on.

Robert Leighton, graduate with the class of '34 and affiliated with the Sigma Nu fraternity, visited with friends in Reno over the weekend. At present he is working at Lovelock for the state highway department.
