

Wolves Play Final Conference Series Versus Cal Aggies

League Leaders Must Defeat Pack to Have Undisputed Title

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack calls an end to its 1938 basketball season this weekend with a two-game conference series against the high-riding Cal Aggie Mustangs at Davis.

The series puts Nevada in a peculiar position. Already out of the running for the conference title themselves, they can make or break the Aggies in these two games.

If the Pack surprises and takes both games, as it has a very good chance of doing the Mustangs will be thrown into a tie for the conference lead with Chico, provided that that team gets over the College of Pacific this weekend. If Nevada loses one or both of the clashes, the undisputed championship will go to the Aggies.

Powerful Team

The California school, boasting by far the most powerful team in its history should be able to win at least one game of the two, however. So far this year, no other team in the Far Western conference has come close enough to extend the Mustangs any, and many of the Pacific coast conference powers have been beaten or have played close games with the powerful aggregation Coach George Stromgan has built up.

Led by Leggett and Chork, two forwards who have both scored 25 points in one game this year and who have an average of close to twenty points a game, the Aggies have an all-veteran squad this year. Their center, Conroy, towers six feet six inches and Leggett stands a little better than six-four. The rest of the team is all well over the six-foot mark.

Easy Wins

The Mustangs have won all their conference games with almost ridiculous ease this year. Fresno and the College of Pacific were snowed under by two-to-one scores and Chico was beaten by twenty points in both games of the series.

Two weeks ago the Aggies played a series with Fresno, in Fresno, on Thursday and Friday nights, journeyed to Palo Alto the following night and, after leading all the way, dropped a narrow four-point decision to the powerful Stanford Indians.

Against such teams as the University of California, San Francisco State, San Jose and others, the Aggies continued to show their power by either winning easily or losing very close games.

Wolves Given Chance

Despite all that, Coach J. E. "Doc" Martie, Nevada mentor, believed that the Wolves had every chance of winning at least one and possibly both of the games.

"The entire team is in good shape and is determined to finish off the season with a win or two," Martie said. "I see no reason why we shouldn't win at least one of the two games."

Leading the Pack at Davis will be Ray Waldren, veteran reserve guard, who will be playing in his last games for Nevada. Waldren, for two years one of the best defensive men on the Wolf squad, probably will play the better part of both games.

Directs Offense

At the other guard will be Ray Harris, finishing one of the most brilliant seasons of basketball ever turned in by a Nevada man. Harris has been the mainstay of the Pack, all year, directing the offense, playing a smooth floor game, and consistently taking high-point honors. Against the University of San Francisco last weekend, he scored a total of 34 points.

Ted Olsen, defensive mainstay and other regular guard, will probably divide the series' playing time with Waldren. Olsen played a wonderful defensive game against San Francisco on Saturday night and in addition dumped in nine points of his own.

As usual, towering John Radovich will start at center. His one-handed pivot shots were clicking nicely against the Hawthorne Marines on Tuesday night and he should be able to give the Aggies plenty of trouble.

At the forwards will be John Etchemendy and Max Forbes, two of the most consistent performers on the team. Etchemendy's wrist has improved greatly in the last week and he should be just about at his peak for the Aggie series. Forbes, who has been crowding Harris for high point honors of late, will cause the Mustang guards plenty of trouble with his speed.

Mitch Coheaga, Gordon Thompson and Lee Conaway at forwards, John Mayse at center and Blake Speers and John Lemich at guards all played fine ball against the Marines Tuesday night and will see plenty of action at Davis.

NOTICE

The Frosh Thaw, scheduled tomorrow night in the Century Club, has been changed from a semi-formal to an informal dance.

Phi Sigs Hold House Warming

Things were pretty warm for a short time yesterday morning in the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity house, when a neighborly woman rushed in to inform them that the roof of their house was aflame.

A bucket brigade running from the upstairs bathroom to the roof immediately was formed and, as the water poured from the buckets on to the fire, one of the brothers made his way to the fire-box to put in the alarm.

When he arrived he found that he had nothing with which to break the glass and finally was forced to remove one of his shoes in an effort to send in the alarm.

After the fire was extinguished, members set out to find the source of the fire. In a few minutes the mystery was solved when they returned with a partially-burned blanket that had been resting next to the chimney.

No great damage was done other than a hole of about six feet in diameter burned into the roof.

Outstanding Cast In Mackay Play

Leads and Supporting Roles Are Taken by Experienced Players

"Washington Jitters," the University Play Productions group's first Mackay Day play, is scheduled to be an outstanding success if the adage that "experience is the best teacher" is true.

All of the leads and supporting roles are in the hands of players who have had considerable experience in stage productions on the campus as well as having appeared in several of their local high school dramas.

Kathleen Meeks and Dave Goldwater have taken part in most of the plays at the university for the past four years and both acted in productions at Reno high school.

Society Politician

Evelyn Bulmer, another Reno high school graduate, who portrays the part of Mrs. Preston, a society politician, in this play will be making her sixth appearance in campus productions in "Washington Jitters"; four of her former parts have been the lead roles.

Betty Marie Shidler, who is hostess at a radio station in this presentation, acted in "The Wind and the Rain," and "The Torch Bearers," portraying one of the principal parts in both presentations.

Miss Shidler and Miss Bulmer are assisting Professor W. C. Miller in coaching the dramatists in this production.

Allen Rives, acting as Hamilton Dill, an executive of a fictitious alphabetical department of Washington, D. C., will be making his third stage performance in the Mackay Day drama. Rives has one of the chief supporting roles in this play.

Character Leads

Bob Van Wagoner and Jack Beach, who take the parts of the character leads in "Washington Jitters," have both gained prominence in former stagings at the university. Van Wagoner played in "The Royal Family" and "Twelfth Night," while Beach made his initial appearance as the lead in last fall's presentation, "The Torch Bearer."

Kelly Eccles also fills a character role in playing the part of a prototype of James A. Farley in this drama. Eccles is far from inexperienced in portraying this type of a character.

Jack Hanson, acting as a pugnacious congressman, formerly performed in previous college plays as well as in a number of Wolves' Frolic skits.

Other members of the cast have given successful performances in off-campus theatricals, included among these are Jim Johnson and Hal Peterson, both of who took part in the last Reno Little Theatre production.

Kathleen Starratt Relates Experiences While Training at Sun Valley for Olympic Team

Although they are perhaps of a more enjoyable nature, classes continue for Kathleen Starratt at Sun Valley, Idaho, during her leave of absence from the university. Speaking of her activities in a recent letter, she says:

"Skiing conditions have been very good with the exception of yesterday (February 15), when the wind reached such a velocity that the tows couldn't operate for several hours. At this point there are about fifteen women here, including Elizabeth Woolsey, captain of the past women's Olympic teams. Marian McKean, who has made the best showing of the American women in past years, and Hannah Locke, member of the Olympic and F. I. S. (Federation of International Skiing) teams for several years also are here. This is the first year of skiing in America

Nevada Debaters Invited to Attend Pasadena Tourney

Griffin Cancels Forensic Meet This Weekend at College of Pacific

Nevada debate entries in the College of Pacific forensic tournament, which was scheduled for this week, has been withdrawn, and plans have been formulated for Nevada's entry in the Phi Kappa Delta invitational tournament at Pasadena, Cal., March 23-25.

The action was made necessary by the failure of the debate teams to progress as rapidly as had been anticipated, according to Debate Coach Robert S. Griffin.

Difficult Topic

"The question of whether or not the government should cease to use public funds for the purpose of stimulating business is so involved that the freshmen and sophomores have had extreme difficulty in preparing themselves adequately on all phases of the question," Coach Griffin said. "It is expected that, with another month of preparation, the various debate teams will be much better prepared to represent us in inter-collegiate competition."

At the present time seven teams are participating in the intramural debate tournament. Winning prize is the Ginsburg revolving debate trophy.

Preliminary Training

It is expected that this preliminary stage of training for the inexperienced debaters will be ended the early part of next week and, from the debaters represented in this tournament, will come several teams for the Pasadena meet.

Nevada will also be represented in the Pasadena tournament by two experienced varsity teams, consisting of Andrew Rosaschi, Donald Downs, Betty Mason and Kathleen Develin.

BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS TO BE GIVEN BY CHICAGO PASTOR

The Reverend Oswald W. S. McCall of the New First Congregational Church of Chicago will deliver the baccalaureate address next May, Dr. Leon W. Hartman, acting president, announced today.

"We are indeed fortunate in securing the services of such a widely known and popular speaker as the Reverend McCall," Dr. Hartman commented. "With another great speaker, Dr. Barrows, delivering the commencement address, this year's graduation exercises promise to be among the best we've ever held."

Reverend McCall was born in Australia and came to the United States in 1921. In 1922 he was elected pastor of the New First Congregational Church of Berkeley, Calif. He remained in Berkeley until January of this year, at which time he was transferred to Chicago.

During his term in the California city, Reverend McCall built up one of the outstanding churches on the west coast and he became one of the west coast's most widely known pastors.

He is the author of five books and has lectured at many universities and colleges throughout the United States. During the summers of 1924 and 1929 he held the distinguished position of summer preacher at the City Temple in London, England.

Reverend McCall also will deliver the annual Phi Kappa Phi address on Saturday evening preceding Baccalaureate Sunday, he said in his letter of acceptance to Dr. Hartman.

for most of them, as the team previously has trained in Europe.

"Our routine goes something like this: We catch the 10 o'clock bus every morning and usually go to Ruud mountain where we practice slalom in the morning. Home for lunch or else eat at the 'potato huts' at Proctor or Dollar mountain. From 2 to 4:30 we usually take long runs from the top of Proctor or practice stem bogens and stem christies intensively."

Kay is working out in an intensive practice session at Sun Valley in preparation for the trials for the women's Olympic skiing team. These will be held in April at Mount Hood, Oregon. The team selected will then proceed to Helsingfors, Finland, for the 1940 world Olympic ski competition.

Solon Committee Submits Inquiry Report This Week

Legislature to Take Action Upon Changes Today at 2 p. m.

Both houses of the Nevada legislature yesterday afternoon voted to accept the report of the inquiry committee.

Recommending that a new president be secured as soon as possible and that heads of the athletic and physical education departments be changed, a report drawn up by the legislative investigating committee was submitted to the legislature on Wednesday.

Action on adoption of the report is set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The inquiry, which was precipitated by charges from certain quarters that the engineering departments at Nevada were not sound and by the football trouble of last fall, when the players demanded resignation of Coach Dashiell and Athletic Director Martie, has been under way for the last month.

Stating that the university is a "first-class institution which compares favorably with other institutions of a similar size," the committee made a number of recommendations as to how certain "unhealthy" conditions at Nevada could be eliminated.

Major Problem

The major problem at present, according to the committee, is the immediate selection of a new president for the university. Stating that "the presidency of the university is a big job" and that "there is no qualified person within this state" for the position, the committee recommended that the regents contact the Carnegie Foundation and leading educators throughout the country in an effort to obtain a man "qualified for the job."

An "individual young enough to have courage and creative desire to build his own reputation along with that of the university" were the specifications suggested.

Termining the athletic situation as "extremely unhealthy," the committee endorsed the alumni committee's athletic report, which recommended that a board of athletic control be set up and a "complete and final" separation of the physical and education departments be made. Immediate adoption of these changes was urged.

Scholarships, jobs, tuition and other financial help to out-of-state athletes should be "drastically curtailed," the report said. "We feel that any available help should first be offered to outstanding Nevada high school athletes to encourage them to attend the University of Nevada," it continued.

New Buildings

Two new buildings were recommended for the campus by the report—a new gymnasium and a new engineering building, both not to cost more than a total of $300,000. Both will be built on the unit plan with provisions for future additions as they are needed.

The old gymnasium would be used to house the military department, at present operating under very inadequate quarters and in danger of losing its R. O. T. C. unit because of such conditions, the report said.

The gymnasium, continued the report, would "put the athletic and physical education departments in a position to function efficiently" and would "pay big dividends."

The present plan for retirement of university faculty members also came in for criticism, and "demands immediate legislative attention, the report stated. A retirement age limit of 65 was recommended. If such a suggestion is adopted, it will affect about ten of the present faculty, either immediately or within the next few years. It was suggested that a participating pension plan similar to, or in conjunction with, the state teachers' retirement fund plan be put into effect.

Immediate Action

Recommendations also were made as to financial conditions at the institution. Stating that there is "absence of necessary finances in several departments, together with an inequitable distribution of finances in others," the report asked that immediate legislative action be taken to remedy the situation, which is caused by limitations placed by state laws upon the methods of handling the finances of the university.

Other recommendations made by the committee included: Elimination or reduction of graduate and research work; adoption of a uniform salary scale for faculty members; elimination of duplicate courses and curtailment of plans to expand departments beyond reasonable limits; the shortening of the terms of the members of the board of regents from ten to four years; and the immediate disposal of the university farm.

Members of the committee were Senators Ralph Lattin of Churchill county, Wadsworth of Lincoln and Gibson of White Pine, Assemblymen Shelly of Washoe, Germain of Nye and McElroy of Elko.

Eight Outstanding Senior Scholars Elected to Honor Society Yesterday; To Be Initiated Tonight

Achieving the highest honor that the University of Nevada can offer to undergraduate and graduate students were eight seniors who were elected to Phi Kappa Phi national scholastic honorary society, which met last night for election of new members.

Those seniors, seven men and one woman, who were elected to membership in the society are Edward King, Joe Littlefield, Martin Hannifan, Martin Smythe, Wayne Ames, Clayton Carpenter, William Hatton and Nancy Hall.

New members elected to the society were chosen on the basis of seven semesters of college work. Electees are taken from the upper 10 per cent of the graduating class and only one-eighth of the upper 10 per cent may be chosen.

Initiation for the new members will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the Home Economics rooms, Dr. Almack, who delivered the Phi Kappa Phi address this morning, will speak immediately following the ceremonies. His subject will be "The Nature of Humor."

Edward King is registered from Los Angeles Junior College. An engineering student, he belongs to Nu Eta Epsilon engineering honor society.

Joseph Littlefield, registered from Reno, is a member of Nu Eta Epsilon and belongs to the Civil Engineers society.

Nancy Hall is registered from Reno and is affiliated with the Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Martin Smythe, who also is registered from Reno, is president of the Crucible Club and is a member of the Press Club. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and the son of Professor William Smythe, instructor in metallurgy.

Martin Hannifan, registered from Fallon, is president of Nu Eta Epsilon. He also is a member of the Crucible Club.

Wayne Ames, who is registered from Reno in the arts and science, is a physics major.

Clayton Carpenter is registered from Reno and is affiliated with Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He is a member of Nu Eta Epsilon.

William Hatton is registered from Fallon and is a member of Lincoln Hall Association. After an absence of several years, he returned to the university in 1936 to complete his work. An arts and science student, he is working toward a degree in law.

Grading System Change Advocated

Faculty Committee Urges Adoption of Four Grades

A change in the present grading system of the university was recommended this week by a faculty committee, consisting of six members, appointed last semester.

The committee suggested that the university adopt a marking system in which the passing grades be designated in a descending order of excellence as 4, 3, 2 and 1; conditions would be marked C, and failures as a zero.

Six Passing Grades

It was found that Nevada's marking system, employs six passing grades, and thereby does not parallel the systems employed by all other western universities. It is difficult to adjust the grades of a student who transfers from another school, and, according to the report submitted by the committee, one California institution has written that it would like to see our system changed to a four-step plan.

Although almost all universities use the passing grades, the committee believes that the use of numbers is superior. By the letter system it is impossible to figure averages directly.

Inconvenience Registrar

The most serious inconvenience will occur in the registrar's office, but the registrar stated that if the change is for the best in the long run, the temporary inconvenience should not prevent the change.

Professors J. A. Carpenter, E. L. Inwood, W. C. Miller, I. J. Sandorf, G. W. Sears and Chairman F. W. Traner issued a copy of the report made by them to the various members of the faculty for their consideration. Nothing definite has yet been decided by the committee.

NEVADA JOURNALISM GRADS EXPECTED AT STATE PRESS MEET

Many Nevada journalism graduates will return to the campus tomorrow to attend the annual meeting of the Nevada State Press Association.

Warren L. Monroe, '29, who is editor of the Elko Independent, is president of the association. Chris H. Sheerin, '24, editor of the Elko Free Press, and former president of the society, is one of the board of directors, as is Denver Dickerson, editor of the Carson Chronicle, who received his training in journalism on the Nevada campus.

Other journalism graduates and former students from the various papers in the state will attend the convalesce, which will be in session all day on the campus.

Professor A. L. Higginbotham of the university's course in journalism has been assisting in the preparation of the program and in making arrangements for the meeting.

'Frosh Thaw' to Open Spring Semester Social Whirls at Century Club Tomorrow

The "Frosh Thaw," first university class dance of the spring semester, will be held tomorrow night at the Century Club.

The affair, which will be semi-formal, will begin at 9 o'clock, Chairman Charles Mapes said.

Reputed to be the "hottest" social affair the campus has seen in years, the dance will feature as its theme the

Senior Committees Are Announced by Breen This Week

Early preparations for graduation got under way this week when Fran Breen, senior class manager, announced the names of committee members chosen to handle the various activities of Senior Week.

The choice of senior announcements already has been made. The announcements to be used this year are of a new type. They will bear a hand-drawn steel engraving of some campus building, the choice of which will be made later.

Breen stated that he planned to call a senior class meeting some time in the near future and urges all seniors to watch the bulletin board for notice of this meeting.

Those appointed to act as committees were:

Announcements—Tom Beko, chairman; Lola Yvonne Stoddard, Anita Jauregui, Charlotte Caton, Loring Primeaux and Jack Starratt.

Programs—Duncan Dorsey, chairman; Kelly Eccles, Jean Chism, Loretta Collins, George Dukes, Harry Galloway, Jerry Sautler, Kenny Day, John Urrutia and Tom Salter.

Picnic—Leland Fallon, chairman; George Hardman, Helen Shovlin, Bill Goodin, Martin Hannifan, Jack Hanson, Georgia Cooper, Eunice Beckley, Covey Willis, Jean Rice, Clarethel Masterson and Bob VanWagoner.

Gift—Leo McCuddin, chairman; Clayton Carpenter, Fred Galloway, Billie Cann, Kathleen Meeks, Gertrude Polander, Sam Stark, Doris Chestnut and Margaret Hussman.

HUNDRED STUDENTS TO LEAVE TODAY ON SPECIAL TRAIN

All aboard! Everything is set for the special train scheduled to leave at 12:50 today. Arrangements have been completed and passengers are assured a rip-roaring time with the special lounge car and dancehall arrangement.

About one hundred Nevada students are expected to take advantage of the splendid California weather and a special chance to see the Golden Gate International Exposition with the University of Nevada Ski Club playing a big part by staging the intercollegiate ski jumping championships over the weekend.

The train will leave the Reno depot Friday at 12:50 p. m. and will arrive in Sacramento around 6 p. m. where some of the passengers plan to take advantage of the stopover privilege, see the Nevada-California Aggie basketball game, and continue on to San Francisco by a later train. The regular scheduled train will arrive in San Francisco around 8:30 p. m.

The ski jumping competitions will take place Saturday and Sunday afternoons at Treasure Island, giving the students plenty of time to see the rest of the fair and San Francisco in between the competitions. The train will leave San Francisco for Reno Sunday evening, but tickets allow a ten-day stopover privilege.

Tickets will be on sale at the Southern Pacific depot until train time for $5.40 a copy.

Nominations for Mackay Day Queen Made This Week

Six Cups to Be Given Fraternal Groups For Activities

Nominees for Mackay Day queenship were elected by members of the sororities and independents last week.

They are: Nancy Hall, Delta Delta Delta; Rose Boggio, Gamma Phi Beta; Marilyn Rhoades, Kappa Alpha Theta; Cleon Stewart, Pi Beta Phi; Betty Burleigh, Beta Sigma Omicron, and Carrie Pimentel, Manzanita Association. The Independents have not yet decided upon their candidate.

Nominees' Pictures

Pictures of the nominees must be in to the Mackay Day committee by tomorrow, and will be sent to Frank Capra, Hollywood director, who will choose the queen.

Six cups will be awarded this year. A new revolving trophy to be won by a fraternity on a point system will be put up as a prize. This system includes the house having the most beads, for which 80, 40 and 20 points are given; work, 100, 60 and 40 points; best dance attendance, 40, 20, and 10; and for general recommendation on work, 20 and 10 points. In the latter contest, the committee will judge the house doing the most work.

George Hardman, head of the committee, announced that all excuses for not growing beards must be in to the superclass committee by Monday and, even though excused, the house to which that person belongs will lose points on the revolving trophy. Also, anyone who is accused of misconduct at the luncheon or on campus will lose points for his house. As many as 20 points may be deducted.

Other trophies include a revolving cup for the best sorority song, one for the best fraternity song, a cup for the best woman's costume, and one for the best beard. Kappa Alpha Theta was winner of the best song cup last year and Sigma Phi Sigma won for the fraternities. Lola Yvonne Stoddard, Delta Delta Delta, and Clinton McKinley, Independent, were winners of the costume awards, and Chuck Whitham grew the best beard. The cups for the reddest and blackest beards have been discontinued this year.

Friday Costume Day

It has been decided that costumes are to be worn on campus the Friday before Mackay Day, and that regular wash dresses shall be worn at the luncheon.

The Mackay Day committee is composed of George Hardman, chairman; Ray Garamendi, Al Caton, Ross Ashley, Hank Clayton, Dick Roche, Robert Smith, Ruby Nay and Gwen Megginness.

Each of these has been put in charge of different committees for the celebration. These are: Hank Clayton, Ross Ashley, dance committee; Gordon Thompson, speeches; Ross Ashley, equipment; Ray Garamendi, work committee; Gwen Megginness, luncheon and Hank Clayton, Ross Ashley and Ray Garamendi will be in charge of the cups.

Polander Names Artemisia Staff

Appointments for the heads of the editorial staff of the University of Nevada Artemisia were made this week by Gertrude Polander, editor-in-chief of the yearbook.

From these appointments the next year's editor-in-chief and three associate editors are appointed by the publications board.

The new appointees are: Associate editors, Ross Ashley, Nellie Roseberry and Mary K. Read; activity editor, Nellie Roseberry; women's sports editor, Teddy Anna Pease; fraternity editor, Frank McCulloch; clippings editor, Loretta Collins; head secretary, Lola Stoddard; men's sports editor, Ross Ashley; head photographer, Walter Lobenstein.

The publications board probably will choose next year's editor-in-chief from one of the three newly-appointed associate or assistant editors.

Miss Polander said that other appointments would be made in the near future to fill out the remainder of the staff. These new appointees will be for the class editors and other minor but necessary positions that go to put out a complete yearbook.

CAMPUS CLUB HOLDS WEEKLY MEETING

The weekly Sunday evening meeting of the Campus Club of the Federated church will be held this Sunday at 5:15, Darrel Cain, president, stated today.

The program will include a buffet supper at 5:15, chapel at 6:15, and from 6:30 to 7:30 the club will enter into a general discussion or be entertained by a speaker.

Boardman Retires As Head of Civil Engineering School

Long, Colorful Career of Educator Closes With School Year

Horace P. Boardman, for thirty-two years head of the school of civil engineering at the University of Nevada, is retiring.

Having reached the obligatory retirement age of seventy years Professor Boardman will wind up a long and successful educational career when the university year closes this spring.

With his retirement the university loses one of its outstanding figures. Small, wiry, sandy-haired Horace Boardman has long been one of Nevada's finest educators and one of her best-loved professors.

Saw University Grow

Professor Boardman has seen the University of Nevada grow from a few scattered buildings on a sage-covered hill to the institution that is today.

Under his supervision 117 students have graduated from the school of civil engineering. Eighty-five per cent of these graduates have since made engineering their livelihood.

Few engineering schools can equal the record that "Little Jeff" Boardman and his "boys" have established.

When Boardman arrived on the campus for the first time in the fall of 1907, he found a total of ten buildings occupying the grounds. Since then he has seen the building of the Mackay School of Mines, Manzanita Hall, the E. E. building, the Library, the Agricultural building, the Education building and the Mackay Science Hall.

He has witnessed the conversion of the campus grounds from a jumble of rocks, weeds, sagebrush, holes and hummocks to the beautifully landscaped terrain that it is today.

1909 Rugby Game

Professor Boardman recalls with a smile the rugby game between Nevada and the San Francisco Barbarians on the October day, "way back in 1909, when the Mackay athletic field was dedicated by Clarence H. Mackay himself.

Aside from the work he has done in connection with the students of the college of engineering, Boardman has performed and directed a great deal of work of recognized value in technical circles. American engineers are familiar with his name in connection with several important experiments and numerous published discussions on technical matters.

Born in Menasha, Wis., January 21, 1869, Horace Boardman attended elementary and preparatory schools, graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1894. He worked on the buildings of the Chicago world's fair of 1893.

Important Positions

From 1894 until 1907 Boardman held several important jobs, was actively engaged in many branches of civil engineering. Outstanding, perhaps, were the positions he held with the Chicago engineering department, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad.

On leave of absence from the University of Nevada, Boardman worked in the U. S. explosive plant, Nitro, W. Va., in the summer of 1918.

Long a member of Nevada's famed snow survey, Boardman succeeded Dr. J. E. Church as chairman of the prognosticating board when the latter retired a few years ago.

An independent in politics, "Little Jeff" is a member of Delta Epsilon Phi fraternity, the Rotary club and the Reno Chamber of Commerce.

Smythe Returns From New York

Professor William I. Smythe of the Mackay School of Mines returned home Tuesday night from New York where he attended the 150th annual meeting of the American Institute of Mining Engineers. Smythe was the official delegate from the Nevada section of the A. I. M. E.

One of the highlights of the meet was the annual banquet at which former U. S. President Herbert Hoover spoke on "The Opportunities for the Young Engineer Following His Graduation."

Quoted from Mr. Hoover's speech: "Any engineer should be assured, upon his graduation, employment in his profession."

Smythe stated that the meeting was partly devoted to the problems of mining students in their first five years after graduation, and that Mr. Hoover's speech was largely to induce mining men to give engineering graduates jobs "though they be pick-and-shovel jobs."

Professor Smythe also took the opportunity to visit the McGraw-Hill publishing company to discuss rates and discounts applicable to student circulation.

Medical Society To Show Films

Alpha Epsilon Delta, honorary pre-med society, will sponsor the showing of three sound motion pictures next Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Aggie building, it was announced today.

The pictures, which were obtained from Stanford university medical department through Dr. E. W. Lowrance, will deal with mechanisms and functions of the respiration, reproductive and nervous systems.

According to Dr. Lowrance the films are recognized as being extremely well done and very clearly explained. A knowledge of zoology and physiology is not at all necessary to make the movies understandable. Students and public are being urged to attend.

A meeting scheduled for last Thursday evening has been postponed until next Thursday, officers of the group stated.

Panel Discussions Continued by Y.W.

The university Y. W. C. A. will continue its panel discussions on "Vocational Opportunities for Women," next Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m., when the group will talk over the possibilities for work in the field of home economics. The meeting will be held in the Mackay Science auditorium.

Panel leaders, this time, will include Miss Sarah Lewis, Miss Jessie Pope and Mrs. Alice Marsh, home economics professors at the university, and Mrs. Mary Buol of the extension service.

Last semester's speaker included Gladys Rowley, journalist of Nevada State Journal; Mrs. George Springmeyer, Reno lawyer; Mrs. Christie Thompson, nurse, and Miss Ann Carter, Red Cross social service worker.

Special efforts are being made to have all high school seniors who are interested in home economics attend the meeting.

Successful Ball Held by Military Society Saturday

Boasting the largest attendance in its history, the annual Military Ball held last Saturday in the Stue building was declared a success by members of Scabbard and Blade, sponsors of the dance.

Gene Wines, honorary major, presided over ceremonies at the ball, assisted by her staff of four honorary captains, Jean Henderson, Pat O'Brien, Thelma Crosby and Kathleen Meeks.

Fourteen junior officers of the university R. O. T. C. battalion became full-fledged members of Scabbard and Blade when the honorary major presented them the official insignia.

Six associate members also were inducted into the organization.

B. Cann, P. Davis Appointed A.W.S. Fashion Show Heads

Eight Women Named To Help in Sponsoring Annual Style Display

Billie Cann and Patricia Davis were named co-chairmen of the A. W. S. fashion show to be held March 2 at 9:35, it was announced by the A. W. S. executive committee this week.

Helping on the committee will be Jean Rice, Patricia Meaker, Gratia Ferguson, Marjorie Gusewelle, Covy Willis, Lois Downs and Lola Stoddard.

Featured Clothing

Clothes featured will be those of new spring styles, including formals, sportswear and afternoon dresses. Skiing outfits also will be shown. These will be obtained from downtown stores.

Kay Devlin will act as narrator of the performance, describing the various clothes, style, maker, and the store obtained from. Norma McDowell will sing for entertainment and there may be piano accompaniment throughout the program, it was stated.

Models

Models for the affair will be Margaret Hussman, Dorothy Atcheson, Kappa Alpha Theta; Betty Burleigh, Edith Salvi, Beta Sigma Omicron; Patricia Davis, Rose Boggio, Gamma Phi Beta; Eileen Angus, Evelyn Bulmer, Delta Delta Delta, and Reveau Hansen, Lola Fraser, Manzanita Hall and Independents, respectively.

An admission of 10 cents will be charged students, and all freshmen are required to attend. Roll call will be taken, it was announced.

Appointment of a committee to draw up an approved budget and plan for a proposed women's finance control was made. Shirley Fuetsch is chairman, with Betty Parrish, Patricia Meaker and Kathleen Meeks assisting.

SENIOR AGGIES HAVE OPPORTUNITY IN RADIO FIELD

Senior students in the college of agriculture at the University of Nevada have an opportunity to become radio announcers.

In order to promote a greater interest in the principles and practices of radio broadcasting, with special emphasis upon agricultural service by radio, a competitive project has been established by radio station WLW, Cincinnati, Ohio, according to a letter received by Professor A. L. Higginbotham this week.

To be eligible, the person must be a senior in a land-grant university in the United States. He must receive his degree in agriculture during the academic year 1938-39. He may then enter competitive examinations for consideration to receive six months training at station WLW.

The WLW scholarships consist of six months of training at the station. The amount for each scholarship is $500, to be apportioned in weekly salary to the two successful students.

The winners will be given training in radio announcing, producing programs, writing various types of radio copy, program research and other activities. Their work will be supervised by the WLW agricultural department.

All additional information may be secured by seeing Professor Higginbotham in the Hall of English.

WITS AND BRAWN MARK FACULTY, COED CONTEST THURSDAY

In a battle matching wits and brawn, members of the faculty came through to win a rousing victory over the girls' W. A. A. team in the gymnasium last Thursday afternoon, bringing down a score of 41-12.

Captain "Toughie" Deming took the floor, leading his squad of players in the game in which the girls' rules were rigidly enforced. Those making up the faculty team were: "Bat-em" Billings, "Wow-em" Wheeler, "Pass-out" Brown, "Flash-in-the-pan" Irwin, "Big Boy" Puffinbarger and "Blondie" Batdorf.

The women's team was made up of Sarah and Marcelle Bawden, Eileen Angus, Eleanor Goldsworthy, Shirley Fuetsch, Ann Wedertz, Earlmond Baker, Marie Varnon, Dorothy Hansen, Betty Parrish, Carolyn Best, Betty Johnson and Lola Fraser.

Many time-out periods were called by both teams, one member of the faculty finding it especially hard to keep up with the wild Amazons. Puffinbarger sparked the faculty squad, collecting a total of ten points before he was finally taken out of the game on fouls. Earlmond Baker was high scorer for the women, accounting for eight points. "Flash-in-the-pan" Irwin showed surprising passing attacks, throwing the ball from one end of the court to the other.

Besides basketball, mixed teams competed in a lively volleyball game, Irwin knocking several players off their feet with hard smashes.

Miss Katherine Schnell refereed both games, Chet Scranton acting as scorekeeper and Mrs. Mae Simas, time-keeper.

SENIOR SKETCHES

DAVE GOLDWATER

Top man of the some thousand-odd students that make up the university student body is no mean accomplishment, but the position came easily to Dave Goldwater.

Blessed with the gift of a silvery tongue and a flare for the dramatics, Dave expanded into the field opened by both and really went to town.

A varsity debater, and a really good one—ask his professor, Griffen, his coach since sophomore days. Dave spiced his speaking ability with necessary attributes of a good leader, ran for student body president and all this year he has guided the destinies of the student body.

Dramatics, however, has been his great love and, with the presentation of "Washington Jitters" with him in the lead, Dave will have been in five major university productions besides being in a number of Wolves Frolics. As a result of all the dramatic effort, he has three year membership in Campus Players and Masque and Dagger which is a national dramatic society.

Contributing to his exceedingly active college life, Dave lent his abilities to the Artemisia publication for two years, gained membership in the Press Club for this work, then went to find himself a member of Coffin and Keys.

Scholastically, Dave is right in there, having spent a couple of semesters resting comfortably as an honor roll member. Then last semester he was one of the students chosen from the university to compete for a Rhodes scholarship. However, he failed to survive the scholarship's district committee selection.

He started school at Stanford University, but poor health drove him back to Nevada and in a few months he will take leave of us, carrying with him a philosophy major and the expectation of going through law school to come out a polished lawyer.

Dave has got what it takes, no matter what he attempts—and it's good luck, Dave, in all you do.

The more curves a girl has the more men she has running around in circles.

Thomas P. Brown To Visit Campus

Thomas P. Brown, son of LeRoy D. Brown, president of the University of Nevada from 1887 to 1889, will visit the campus this weekend.

Now public relations officer for the Western Pacific railroad, Brown will attend the annual meeting of the Nevada State Press Association on the hill tomorrow.

Brown was graduated from the University of Nevada with the class of 1898.

NEVADA STUDENTS ENTER BADMINTON TOURNAMENT

The Nevada state badminton champion will be chosen next Sunday when finals will be held in the California State building at Idlewild park, following games on Friday and Saturday.

Delegates from the university who will be entered in the singles tournament are Shirley Fuetsch, Earlmond Baker, Frances Larragueta, Mary Anxo, Lola Fraser, Betty Parrish and Eleanor Goldsworthy. Mrs. Mae Simas, physical education instructor, and Miriam Butler will be entered in the doubles play-off.

Mixed badminton games are played in the gymnasium Thursday nights at 8 o'clock, and anyone wanting to play is invited. A charge of ten cents is being made in order to cover the cost of shuttlecocks. It is hoped enough students will be interested so a racquet club may be formed.

Barbs May Change Club Arrangements

At a business meeting of the Organized Independents last Monday night reorganization of the group was discussed with men and women to hold separate meetings and a combined social once a month, it was stated. Eleanor Goldsworthy was appointed chairman of a committee to draw up a constitution for the reorganized group.

It was decided tentatively by the group to hold a dinner meeting for the April social meeting at Carlan's Inn. The next meetin g will be a combined business and social on March 6.

FINE ARTS GIVES TEA FOR JOSLIN

Miss Helen Joslin, new faculty addition and art instructor, was guest of honor at a tea held by the Fine Arts Club Thursday at the home of Miss Eva Adams, English instructor.

Tuesday evening the group held a business meeting and social at the Gamma Phi sorority. Refreshments were served and guest speakers, including Mrs. Lois Olds and Mrs. Anne Ruedy, spoke on interior decorating. Gwen Meginess, junior arts and science student, was in charge of the gathering.

OUT OF THE SCRAPBOOK

COED DORMS

The University of California Honor Students' Association recently announced a plan for the erection of co-educational dormitories on the California campus.

The association believes the plan will insure social orientation of undergraduates and at the same time build up relationships with the university.

If the plan is accepted, the university will construct dormitories that will be easily turned into all-man or all-woman residences if the proposition does not work.

HITLER PARTY

Phi Sigma Kappa students at the University of West Virginia recently got into Hitler's hair when they staged a Hitler costume party. Members of the fraternity came costumed like Hitler and, believe it or not, it was a democratic affair.

In fact, the party was such a success that German newspapers made it a point to give the Phi Sigs a good tongue-lashing.

In retaliation, the fraternity cabled Hitler and made it plain that they were severing relations with the German government.

WE'RE NOT ALONE

The University of Nevada is not alone when it comes to legislative investigations. Investigation also is in vogue at the Montana State University. Montana legislators recently conducted a three-day investigation of university affairs.

BEER-BIB

Since 1912 it has been a tradition of Princeton University senior students to wear beer suits. The object behind this was to prevent mug drippings from covering the good clothes of partakers. This year, the conventional overall is expected to bow before something more elaborate in design.

NIX JITTERS

Jitterbugs and their arch-cracking antics have all but disappeared at Clemson University, S. C. The president of the university's dance association recently cautioned potential swingers to be a bit more conservative on the dance floor. If they don't take the hint, there probably will be an official restriction of the bugs.

The membership of this club includes students from all over the globe.

WOMEN AND SONG

University of Colorado students recently featured an annual event known as the "Rhythm Circus." Known as "A Lovely Thing" in title, the yearly production featured chorus girls, singing, dancing and a 15-piece orchestra. The best feminine legs belonging to Colorado students entertained a packed auditorium. For the premiere, campus celebrities were greeted a la floodlight and microphone. The title tune of the show, "Isn't She a Lovely Thing," was written by a Colorado student, and other tunes originated by campus writers were a feature at the song-fest.

SPORTS CUT

According to Montana "Kaimin,"

SHORT STORY

He was very arrogant about his golf, always overestimating his ability. On one particular hole he berated his caddy for handing him a driver. A mashie shot and putt would do it for him. He swung the mashie; the ball dudded off the tee amid clouds of dirt. There was a moment's silence, and then the caddy's voice: "Now for a helluva long putt."

Montana State College at Bozeman has decided to eliminate track from the major sports schedule this year.

LONG AND EAGERLY AWAITED

throughout the entire state of Nevada as an anti-climax to the alumni report of the Board of Regents several weeks ago, the legislative investigating committee Wednesday morning submitted a report to the 1939 session of the Nevada state legislature.

The Sagebrush wishes to congratulate the committee on its report in that it does, indeed, set forth many of the details in which the University of Nevada could be bettered and does provide a great deal of material for good hard work. It is a level-headed piece of work and the sensationalism which many newspapers have been hinting at various times is not evident.

However, as the alumni report was only a wedge to drive forward to other things, so is the investigating committee's report. The report itself only provides copy for the newspapers and a topic of conversation for a period of time. Action on phases of the report—if not all of it at once—is up to the legislature, so that the university can begin building immediately for a finer school. The legislature hasn't too much time left in which to act on measures pertaining to the university or anything else, and any amount of delay might mean a delay of two years at least.

"We find the University of Nevada is a first-class institution which compares very favorably with other institutions corresponding in facilities and enrollment. The buildings and grounds are well maintained with a few exceptions. In many instances departments and schools are giving satisfactory results..." runs the first few paragraphs of the general findings of the report.

In an analysis of those few words, we believe that a great deal of the text may be boiled down to simply this: The University of Nevada has been running at skeleton cost for the past few years and, naturally, has suffered. Much of the wrong can be corrected by additional finances.

We imagine it is a surprise to many people throughout the state to learn that the university is a "first-class institution." Much of this trouble has resulted from the fact that only unfavorable publicity concerning the school has reached the public. An attempt to place the favorable aspects of the university before the public was started last week when acting-President Hartman named a faculty committee on public relations. The work of this committee may bring forth to the people of the state that constructive work also is done at the university.

Commenting upon the special recommendations of the report, the Sagebrush believes as in the paragraphs immediately following:

A new president should be found for the university as soon as possible. The sooner he can begin his work of rehabilitation the better. A young man full of courage and creative desire, attempting towards an outstanding reputation, might be the best man for the job. The Sagebrush has reviewed the qualifications of the University of Nevada president and is of the opinion that people qualified to hold the office can be found within the state, although we do not recommend such a person necessarily be given the office.

The administrative policy as outlined by the committee is exceptionally well done and sets forth projects that should have been accomplished years ago.

However, the fourth paragraph of that section of the report dealing with the shortening of the term of the Board of Regents should be given considerable thought. In 1917 a man named Capen, from the Carnegie Foundation, was hired at a cost of $2000 to make a report on the length of the term which should be served by the Board of Regents. The result was that the term was lengthened from four to ten years. The Sagebrush recommends that the report be secured and thoroughly read before action is taken on this subject. It is available at the University of Nevada library.

There are, admittedly, evils to the ten-year system. However, until convinced differently the Sagebrush backs the long-term system. There is possible, under the present set-up, a turnover in the majority of the board every six years. That would be only two years longer than the turnover under the four-year plan. Furthermore, possibly no longer would a candidate be running for the board as a non-partisan but very likely, under the four-year plan, as a Republican or a Democrat. However, as stated before, the Sagebrush believes that the Capen report is the best authority on the subject. Furthermore, if the personnel of the board is faulty, as many persons suggest, then it is the fault of the voters of the state responsible for that regent's election.

Over-expansion in academic work, the retirement plan, and graduate and research work as suggested in the report by the committee may be true. The Sagebrush feels that these subjects are the problem of the administration and that, when the new president is appointed, he can without doubt do away with much of the difficulty in these fields.

The committee stated that "a definite decision should be made upon the ultimate disposal or rehabilitation of the university farm."

Without a doubt let it be the rehabilitation of the farm. The farm was rented out in a period when the university was in sore financial straits, otherwise its control never should have been relinquished.

For an agricultural course what better laboratories can be found than on an actual farm? What better position can be found for such a farm than the present site? It is only a ten-minute ride from the university. It was selected by competent agriculturists because it was representative of the ground to be found throughout the state.

Furthermore, the university can realize only a relatively small amount of money from its sale. Within a couple of years that money, under present conditions, will have been dissipated for university running expenses. What then? Without money and, the Sagebrush believes, without very much laboratory equipment which the agricultural department sorely needs. It will take a little money and time to rehabilitate the university farm, but it will be time and money well spent.

In regards to the athletic situation, the Sagebrush believes that the alumni report should have been adopted a short time after it was presented.

At least the physical education division under the new set-up by this time would have been functioning smoothly. A board of athletic control would have been elected and gone about its duties of regulating the athletic department.

If the athletic report is accepted, no present coach at the University of Nevada necessarily will be retained. Applications will be asked for in all positions—football, basketball and track—and the board will choose the man, in their opinion, best qualified for the jobs.

The Sagebrush believes that unnecessary delay has been caused in the athletic situation and that immediate steps should be taken to reorganize that section of the university.

*****

Everyone has known for over a year that an engineering building and a new gymnasium is needed. It rests with the legislature now whether or not adequate buildings are erected.

As far as losing the R. O. T. C. unit is concerned, congressional action would be necessary to accomplish such action. This, the Sagebrush believes, hardly is probable.

A cooperative bookstore for the University of Nevada is a dream of long standing. The Sagebrush is subject to correction in this matter but understands that a state law would have to be amended or killed in the first place to make such a project possible. In the second place, the Sagebrush believes that the cost of housing such a proposition and initial expense of starting the enterprise, together with other unpleasanties, would adequately offset any beneficial gains.

Therefore, as long and as eagerly awaited was the report, even more eagerly awaited will be the measures taken within the next few weeks by the legislature and the Board of Regents.

It is no job to be dismissed lightly with a shrug of the shoulders. To put the recommendations of the alumni and the investigating committee into practice will involve quite a sizeable sum of money and legislation.

We can only hope that, in connection with this matter, we will not continuously be hearing in our ears, "Manana."

SCREAMS...

From the Dark

By OPHELIA '00

Senators Lattin, Wadsworth, Gibson, Shelly, Germain and McElroy, the University of Nevada student body salutes you! Your anxiously awaited report clearly stated the many needs of the university. The students have been carrying the torch for these needs quite some time now and, therefore, are especially grateful for the manner in which your report, with its advocated new policies, was made.

The entire student body seems to have been caught with a new spirit as a result of the committee's work. Some persons seem to hold beliefs that nothing will be done now that the report has been made. 'Tis true that, since there remain only a few short weeks in which the legislature can consider and act upon these proposals, things could be allowed to slide by and we would find ourselves facing the same complications next year.

But the investigators were quick on the trigger—when a request was made by some members of the assembly that time for action on the report be delayed until some time next week the suggestion was blocked—so-ooo, the report is to be given legislative consideration at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Important campus committee meetings of the week were those held by the Associated Women's Executive Board, Blue Key and the Mackay Day committee. The women put their heads together to round out their plans for the fashion show which will be held next week; also they considered and reconsidered their proposed change in campus finance control activities in regard to women's organizations and representation in general money matters of the student body. A head committee to work with the board was selected to work out in detail their plans and to show as clearly as possible to skeptical males just how the money would be used and what the resulting benefits would be.

George Hardman and the boys and girls who are making preparations for the up-and-coming Mackay Day celebration put in lengthy sessions this week whipping novel plans into shape. Evidences of cooperation with the committee was shown by the sophomore vigilance committee when it met this week and pledged itself to help enforce all traditions observed in connection with this celebration.

The Blue Key boys as always are ready and willing to do their part—the particular part they are going to play the next few weeks is going to be the sponsorship of this first annual Mackay Day show which will be held at the Granada theater March 24.

Time marches on and so do the germs or sompthin'. Anyhow seven poor little girls are nursing swollen jaws in one of the upper-story rooms of Manzanita Hall. Woe is to you—sorry there is nothing more than we can do other than say we ARE sorry.

Among things worth seeing on the Mackay Day campus this week was the art exhibit consisting of both paintings and sculpture work held in the Fine Arts seminar in the library. Many of the works exhibited there also will be shown at a national art exhibit to be held in the east.

"Oldsters" seen about the campus were Basil Kehoe, former captain of Scabbard and Blade, and Ruben Tuttle of Blue Pepper and U. of N. band fame. Kehoe came back to the haunts to take in the Military Ball and "Tut" breezed in to give the Mardi Gras revelers some breezy music.

Announcement of Senior Week committees makes one realize that time, as always, is steadily going on its way.

Silly sillies of the week—Twinkle, twinkle little star—How I wonder what you are Up there on that policeman's chest—Oh, my gosh, I'm under arrest!

Orchid of the week (and I don't mean the on-sale variety) goes to one of Nevada's staunchest and most enthusiastic rooters—none other than "Terrior of the Frosh English Classes" William C. Miller. This choice was made on the basis of both first-hand observations and the comments of the yell-leaders to the effect that, if there were more rooters like Miller, leading yells would be a cinch and a pleasure.

So it's hi-ho for another week, some are going to the big city, others to the "Frosh Thaw" and still others will go home to see the folksies but it's time to go to press, so tally, tally!

Dances are quite different today than they were years ago. In days of old when a woman had nothing to wear she stayed at home.

State Art Exhibit Displayed at U. N.

The Nevada committee for the fourth annual exhibit of Nevada art is sponsoring an exhibit in the Fine Arts room in the library. It was announced this week. Girls of the Fine Arts society are acting as hostesses for the affair. From the exhibit five paintings and one piece of sculpture are to be sent to the fourth annual exhibition of American art to be held in New York this fall.

Artists whose work has been chosen include Sybil Huntington, Sulphur; Virginia Davis Harsh, Carson City; Beach Pruet, Carson City; Harriet Fairhurst, Reno; Hans Meyer-Kassel, Reno; Marcus Murillo, Stewart; Minerva Pierce, Reno; Zella Piersall, Reno; Muriel Goodwin, Reno. The exhibit is open to the public. The schedule includes the following hours: 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 8:30 p. m. Monday through Thursday and from Friday through Sunday, from 2 to 5 p. m. only.

LANGUAGE CLUBS HOLD JOINT MEETING

The two language clubs of the University of Nevada held a joint meeting Tuesday, February 21, at 7:30 p. m. This was the first time this semester that the French club, Cercle Français, and the German club, Deutsche Verein, have met together at an organized meeting. The business of the meeting included discussion of aims of language clubs and purposes of the University of Nevada clubs.

SPORTSLITE

By FRANK McCULLOCH
This weekend when Nevada's Wolf Pack plays its final series of the 1939 season, one of the steadiest, most reliable guards ever to play at Nevada will be finishing his university basketball career. That guard is Ray Waldren. Rangy and smooth, Ray has been outstanding in defensive work and developed a special knack of blocking opponents' shots in mid-air.

He started his basketball at Nevada as a star with the freshman squad in 1936 and since has played one year with the Junior Varsity and two with the varsity. The letter which he will earn this year will be his second.

Speaking of graduates, the Wolf Pack, with the exception of Waldren, will not lose a single man from this year's squad by graduation. Every man on the first string has at least one more year of college competition still coming, and most of the reserves have two years.

Considering the showing the Pack made this year, with inexperience and greenies, very evident in the first games of the season, next year's basketball team should be comparable to the '38 edition of the Pack which Coach J. E. "Doc" Martie classified as "the greatest I've ever coached at Nevada." That team won the conference championship and was acclaimed by many to be one of the strongest teams on the Pacific coast.

The legislative investigating committee which submitted its report Wednesday apparently got at the root of the athletic trouble at the university, and everything should be well now if—and that a big IF—the legislature will take immediate action on the recommendations.

Spring football practice should be starting early next month but, until the situation is entirely cleared up, it is very likely that no practices will be held. The lack of spring practice, usually due to bad weather, has always been a weak point with Nevada teams and was particularly evident last fall.

And that isn't all. With conditions such as they are now, the ski team, the one claim the university has to national athletic recognition at present, is having a bad time. They are making all their trips largely at the expense of their own pockets and are receiving very little help in any other way.

How about it, legislators? Let's hurry this thing through!

The interfraternity council took a wise step this week when it initiated a move to eliminate the small cups given to the fraternity winning the sports of horseshoes, handball and tennis. Hitherto, the winners of each have been awarded a small cup to remain permanently in their possession. From now on, however, the fraternity winning the sport will win a large revolving trophy which will remain in its possession only so long as it is champion. Winning of the cup three times gives permanent possession. These revolving trophies will be given for both the singles and doubles in each sport.

Interfraternity trackmen and baseball players have been taking advantage of the recent warm weather to work out some of the winter's kinks. As yet it is too early to make any definite predictions but Lambda Chi, Tau, S. A. E. and Sigma Nu should dominate in track. Sigma Phi Sigma and S. A. E. should be just about tops in the baseball race.

The competition for the handball doubles title was thrown wide open this week when Beta Kappa's Tucker, who won the singles championship, and Aoy were whipped by Lambda Chi team of Dimmock and Garamendi this week. Beta Kappa had been pre-tourney favorites to walk away with the honors, but this defeat indicates that the title is still anybody's.

A professor of anatomy of one of our larger colleges is quoted as saying, "You're just built that way, girls—your hips are put together like that and no matter how many pairs of pants you put on, how much you try to act like a man, you're going to wiggle when you walk. That's what makes you cute."

Lambda Chi—What do you think would go well with my new purple and green golf socks?
Sigma Nu—Hip boots.

Frosh Will Meet Mustang Colts In Final Series

Wolf Cubs to Defend Record of Eight Wins And Three Defeats

Nevada's freshman basketball team will play its last games of the season this week-end when it invades Davis, Cal., for a two-game series with the strong California Aggies frosh quintet. The Nevada Yearlings will go into the contests with eight wins and three defeats to their credit and, as a result, are expected to end the season on the winning side.

Hard Practices
In preparation for this important tilt, Freshman Coach Jim Coleman this week ran his players through several hard practice sessions, stressing simple shots, free throws and defensive and offensive work which in the past few games has not been up to par.

Not much is known of the Aggies except that they lost two games to the Fresno State College Bullpups in the series played at Fresno last week-end. Despite the losses the Aggie frosh turned in their best games of the year, showing much improvement in ball-handling, and advance indications show that the Nevada Cubs will have a tough club to beat.

Led by Sharpshooter
The leg team is headed by Raymond Barron, who has constantly been the sharpshooter of the squad, and by Bob Jones, who can always be counted upon to play an outstanding defensive game.

The regular first squad that last week downed the Hawthorne Serpents by the score of 50-33 will probably start for the Yearlings. Paul Seaborn, known for his fine performances, and Winfield Babcock, scoring ace, are the forwards. Robert Hawley, lanky and fast, will be the center spot, while Bill Harrington, who is a clever ball-handler, and Bud Anderson, outstanding floor-worker, will be in the guard spots.

Others almost certain to make the trip are Peter Rosaschi, Marvin Luhrs, Bryon Waldman, Bill Lattin and Kenneth Mann.

Handball Playoff For Singles Crown Taken by Tucker

The intramural singles championship became the official property of Beta Kappa fraternity when Leland Tucker stopped Bill Peccole, S. A. E., in their championship match Monday by scores of 21-11, 21-9.

Peccole had previously thrown the race into a three-way tie for first place when he beat Tucker earlier in the season, but dropped a match to "Lefty" Mayer, Phi Sigma Kappa.

Mayer lost to Tucker and these three contestants were deadlocked in the tourney with only one loss apiece. Mayer was later the victim of an upset at the hands of Ken Dimmock, Lambda Chi Alpha and the latter two finished the season in a tie for third and fourth places.

As the result of the match Monday, Tucker takes the cup, but Beta Kappa and Sigma Alpha Epsilon split the points awarded for first and second places in the competition for the Kinnear trophy. Lambda Chi Alpha and Phi Sigma Kappa divide the points accruing from third and fourth places.

ENDS CAREER

R. Waldren Plays Final Pack Game

Saturday night marks the final Nevada appearance of Ray Waldren, senior guard for the Wolf Pack. When the Pack leaves for its weekend tussle with the Cal Aggies, Ray will be playing his last game for the university.

Four years ago, Ray graduated from the Fallon high school, where he was an all-state center. Since that time, Ray has starred on many university fives. He has played with the Frosh, Junior Varsity, and for two years has been on the varsity team.

Upon entering university, Ray was changed from his center berth to that of guard, which he now holds on the second-string varsity. Although handicapped by a sore arm in the earlier part of the season, Waldren has been invaluable to the varsity in keeping down the opponents' score.

Tall and lanky, Waldren is a fine defensive guard. His height has made it miserable for forwards to score on him, for one of Ray's specialties has been in blocking opponents' shots in mid-air. There is no doubt that Ray's fine defensive playing will be missed when he graduates.

Taus Lead Race For Copper Stein

S.A.E. Seen as Threat To A.T.O. Supremacy of Kinnear Trophy

Leading in the race for the Kinnear trophy for the seventh straight year is the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity which has held the trophy since its presentation to intermural sports.

The Kinnear trophy is a revolving copper stein presented each year to the fraternity amassing the highest total of aggregate points from the intermural sports program during the year.

Threat for Cup
Main threat to the chances of A. T. O. fraternity to repeat its performance of last year is S. A. E., which is about 75 points behind the leaders. However, the Evans avenue boys usually field a top-ranking baseball team and if they pick up high standings in the rest of the remaining fraternity sports may nose out the Taus.

The Taus during the year have taken first in five events—horseshoe singles, horseshoe doubles, tennis singles, volleyball and the cross-country run while Lincoln Hall and the S. A. E. each tallied in tennis doubles and basketball respectively.

First Events
Beta Kappa fraternity and S. A. E. tied for first place in the only event of the spring semester when Tucker, B. K., and Peccole, S. A. E., ended the event in a dead heat. Fraternity doubles teams are now competing at the doubles events in the same sport.

Standings of the fraternities in the race brought up to date and including the handball singles ratings are as follows:

A. T. O.	250
S. A. E.	166.75
Sigma Nu	97.5
Lambda Chi	83.5
Beta Kappa	66.25
Lincoln Hall	64.25
Sigma Phi Sigma	31
Phi Sigma Kappa	6.25

'STAG NITE' PLANS SHAPED BY ATHLETIC SOCIETY THIS WEEK

Already making plans for the annual "Stag Nite," which was successfully revived last year, the Block N society, which sponsors the entertainment, has been rounding out its program which is set for March 29, the Wednesday following Mackay Day.

Although the fight card, which is the main attraction of the evening, has not been definitely arranged, Len Carpenter, who heads the fisticuffs committee, has been contacting a few of the men around the campus who have seen action before and who probably will be matched for that night.

John Polish, Del Stewart, Jim Wilcox, Ted Olson and Jim McDonald are among those who are almost certain to see action.

An attempt to secure Lou Nova's services as referee for the evening will be made and the fact that he may be able to assist at that time is not improvable.

A match between the University of California wrestling team and the University of Nevada team is hoped for, and will be the mat attraction of the evening if secured. Nevada wrestlers are eager for audience, and the California opposition should make for a good contest.

The following committee has been put in charge of the affair: Finance, Harry Bradley; fight card, Len Carpenter; trophies, Bob Cameron; publicity, Ted Demosthenes; equipment, Hank Clayton.

The world will never be a safe place in which to live as long as it is infested by mankind.

One of the history instructors was amazed the other day when a student having been asked to name two ancient sports, replied: "Anthony and Cleopatra."

Pack Splits Rough Series With Dons

The University of Nevada cagers split a two-game series with the University of San Francisco Dons last week. Nevada won the first game Friday night by a 54-47 score but dropped the final tilt by the narrow margin of 43-41.

The series was the closest seen in the local gym this season. In the first game, matching basket for basket, the two teams put on a great exhibition of basketball. Near the end of the contest, Nevada went on a final scoring spree to forge far enough in front of the visitors to "put the game on ice."

Ray Harris, Nevada star guard, led his team to victory by his clever ball-handling, passing and shooting, although the team as a whole turned in a good performance.

Saturday night's game also started out in much the same manner as the preceding night. Putting in basket for basket the game proved to be fast and exciting. The game was considerably rougher than the night before, and no time was taken out to show any degree of sportsmanship by either team.

For the entire first half the lead changed hands time after time. Early in the second half the roughness really started, which probably cost the Nevadans the game. Fransich, San Francisco forward, was knocked down in the last seconds of play under his own basket. The Nevada team ignored him and swept down the court with the ball but the Dons intercepted one of their passes and threw the ball the length of the floor to Fransich who was lolling under the basket, to put in the final tally, winning the game.

A cute little lass approached the floor walker and asked, "Do you have notions on this floor?"
The floor walker looked at her and then remarked: "Yes, madam, but we suppress them during business hours."

A serious thought for today, is one that may cause us dismay—Just what are the forces that bring little horses
If all of the horses say "nay"?

Carville to Attend Engineers' Fete As Guest of Honor

Legislators Also Invited To Annual Celebration March 4 at U. N.

With Governor E. P. Carville slated to attend as the guest of honor and the state legislature also invited, arrangements for the Engineers' Day banquet and other features of the day are progressing rapidly, committeemen state.

The banquet, which will be held in the university dining hall on the evening of March 4, will climax a celebration which the engineers promise will be the biggest and best in years.

Secret Souvenir

An entirely new secret souvenir creation, the manufacture of which will start the early part of next week by the mechanical department, will be one of the features of the day.

Many of the exhibits of the chemistry and the four engineering departments are nearing completion at present and officials of the celebration promise that originality will be the keynote of every exhibit.

The chemistry department will feature the electroplating of metals and a miniature oil distillery which will be supplemented by samples of various grades of oil and their refining processes.

Electrical Features

Several electrical department features will include a Hammond organ demonstration, which will be in continued operation and on display in the communications department, and a Tessacoli generator which is being built and will feature a discharge of 200,000 volts of electricity.

Final arrangements for the event were made today at a meeting of the Associated Engineers and finishing touches will be put upon all plants next week.

Final arrangements are to be made next week regarding programs, exhibits and other features planned for the day.

SKIERS COMPETE FOR INDIVIDUAL HONORS AT S. F.

The University of Nevada ski team, competing for individual honors this time, left this week to take part in the Pacific Coast intercollegiate jumping meet being held at the San Francisco world's fair this weekend.

The skiers, who have been leaving for the bay city by plane, auto and train for the last two or three days, should all have a good chance of finishing well up in the running.

With the exception of Jack Starrat and Jimmy Worden, both suffering from stiff ankles, the squad is in excellent shape and may sweep honors without too much trouble.

The jump itself should be an enormous advantage of the Nevada men. Height 187 feet, it is to be covered with ground ice and should offer the best chance for distance and form given to the Wolves this year.

No team honors will be awarded at the meet, however. Each man is strictly on his own and there will be no winning team.

Men making the trip to take part in the meet include Earl Edmunds, Jack Starrat, Jimmy Worden, Frazer West, Don McMeekin, Martie Arrouge and Frank Titus.

Wayne Poulsen, coach of the Nevada squad, already is at the exposition, having competed in one meet there. He was slightly injured in a jump on Wednesday but returned to place well up among the jumpers on Thursday.

Varsity Debaters Speak at Schools

Leo McCuddin and Robert Joy, varsity debaters, last Wednesday were the principal speakers at two of the local schools.

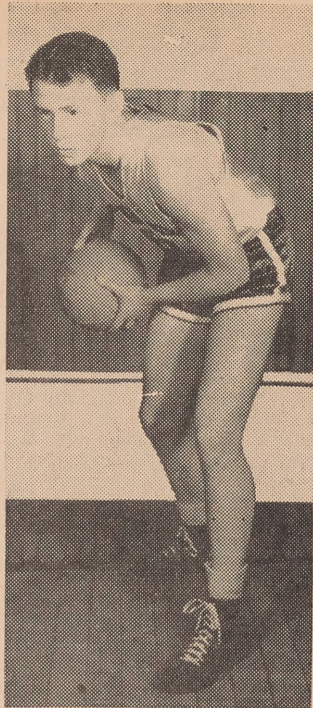

McCuddin, senior and veteran debater, spoke before the Billingshurst junior high school's P.-T. A. upon Lincoln, Washington and McKinley, whose birthdays all occur within this month. Joy, varsity debate manager, appeared before a student body assembly at the Sparks junior high school, where he delivered an oration upon the human side of the life of George Washington.

FORWARD

When one of the first string forwards lets up, a dangerous forward in the person of Gordon Thompson will take his place. Gordon had hard luck in hitting the bucket in early season but, according to reports, has found his shooting eye again.

Blue Key to Aid With Mackay Play

Blue Key last night pledged itself to support the Mackay celebration play, "Washington Jitters," which will be presented as a climax to the spring celebration for the first time this year. Blue Key's part in the production primarily will be the same as it had in the annual Wolves Frolic. This will consist of advance ticket selling, ushering and advertising and publicizing the production.

Professor William C. Miller, producer of the play, emphasized the fact that the success of the play would be an aid to the associated students as well as the Mackay Day celebration.

Election of new members into Blue Key, according to President Maurice Sheppard, would be April 7. New officers will be elected during the latter part of March.

EDUCATOR GIVES PHI KAPPA PHI TALK THIS MORNING

Speaking upon the trend of education in the future, Dr. John C. Almack, professor of education at Stanford University, delivered the Phi Kappa Phi Day address before the student body at 9:35 this morning.

Dr. Almack spoke to the student body as part of the ceremonies of the annual Phi Kappa Phi Day during which eight members of the senior class were elected to membership in the honorary organization. He will speak again this afternoon to Phi Kappa Phi members and the newly elected students.

Dr. Almack is a nationally-known educator, having published several books upon the subject of education. One of Dr. Almack's books, "Research and Thesis Writing," has been for several years one of the best of its kind to be published. For many years he has devoted his time to school administration.

Most men treat a girl's "No!" just like a traffic light. They stop for a few moments and then go right ahead.

Brass Quartet Is Organized in Band

Professor T. H. Post announced this week that a community brass quartet has been formed with Felton Hickman, assistant band director, as leader. Members are Curtis Thomas, Cyril Ham and William Orr. They will make their first appearance when they play for the Women's Faculty Club meeting which is to be held March 4.

The University Singers and the "Co-ed" Quartet also will entertain at this meeting. In addition, on March 6, they will give a thirty-minute concert at the Rotary Club luncheon at the Golden hotel.

Some time in March all the music groups, including the University Singers, the "Co-ed" Quartet, the Brass Quartet and the band will give a program at the Northside Junior High, Professor Post stated.

Public Relations Board Appointed

A new committee, to be known as the public relations committee, was among the list of faculty standing committees named recently by Dr. Leon W. Hartman, acting president.

Members are Chairman A. L. Higginbotham, E. Wittwer, J. P. Puffinbarger, J. E. Wier and T. H. Post.

All public relations of the University of Nevada will be handled through this newly created committee, Dr. Hartman said. University news, publicity and various other relations the university will have with the public will be made through this body.

FRESHMAN CAGERS SWAMP HAWTHORNE, TAKE MARKETMEN

The Nevada freshman cagers took a close game with the California Grocery last Friday by a 31-33 score and swamped Hawthorne High on Saturday by a 50-33 count.

Highlight of the tilt with the City League quintet was a sleeper play by Vic Becas, Grocery forward, who tallied two points just before the gun sounded to clinch the game.

Star for the Cubs in the Hawthorne battle was Win Babcock, who amassed a total of 23 tallies.

U. N. Needs More Buildings, Students Say

More and better buildings constitute the greater need of the University of Nevada, according to a group of students polled by the Nevada State Journal this week.

The foremost need of the university, the students said, was a new gymnasium and a new engineering building.

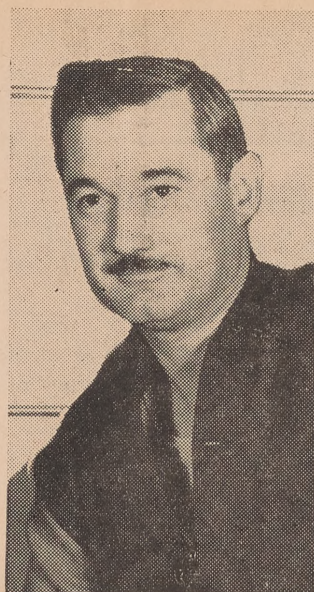

Other needs brought forth by the students was money, a publicity system, new equipment and more variety in the curriculum.

It's hard to follow the straight and narrow when you're on a bender.

"Doc" will be watching a team which is predicted to equal the championship quintet of 1938, Martie says the team is on the court to win and may by their performances this weekend throw the conference championship race into a tangle.

S.A.E. Initiates Fourteen Pledges

Formal initiation ceremonies were held Sunday afternoon at the Masonic temple for fourteen Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledges. At the conclusion of the ceremony a banquet was held in honor of the newly initiated members in the Lincoln Hotel at Sparks.

Coeds to Discipline Tradition Violators

Breakers of Nevada traditions will be called before the coed upperclass committee next Wednesday at 4 o'clock, Chairman Betty Kormmeyer announced today.

The offenders are Eileen Smith, Romietta Ward, Katherine Gianella, Elizabeth McDonald, Covy Wills, Gwen Nenzel and Eleanor Kearns, all guilty of cutting campus.

As punishment the girls will be obliged to appear on the campus without makeup the following Friday, carrying and ringing a cowbell to call attention to the signs they must wear advertising the A. W. S. fashion show.

Covy Wills, second offender, must also appear before the student body next Thursday or Friday.

Traditions Group Issues Beard Ultimatum

Saying students were not abiding by the Nevada tradition of growing Mackay Day beards, Duncan Dorsey, upperclass committee chief, promised last night that the men's governing committee would reprimand any student not having a beard.

Two exceptions were given: Students with legitimate excuses because of working and other business will be exempt, as would students not able to grow the required foliage.

Excuses, however, must be turned in to a member of the committee before Tuesday, at which time they will be considered and either accepted or rejected.

Dorsey made no direct statement as to the possible punishment for culprits, but said it would be the maximum degree.

"Ever since the second semester, students have continually insinuated that the upperclass committee is becoming lax. Our doings next week will convince those student of the falsity of that statement," Dorsey said.
