Veterans Balance Newcomers As Conditioning Work Begins in Earnest

Returning veterans two deep in every of being sweated into shape for the opening of the varsity football season last night under the optimistic eye of Coach Jim Aiken.

Aiken expressed himself as confident that the team will find little difficulty in rounding into top form for the season's opener, Sept. 21, against the Golden 'Gators from San Francisco The game will be played in

"We are fairly confident of the opener, inasmuch as Dick Boyle, the San Francisco mentor, has lost many of his outstanding men." the coach "We can field two complete teams of veterans, tipping the scales at near a two hundred pound average and that, without taking into consideration the turnout of new men who will keep the lettermen hustling to hold their jobs, is a nice outlook."

Vandals Are Bugaboo Of the complete season's schedule, the coaching staff fears most the University of Idaho Vandals, who will field a team of veterans in the tussle to be played in Moscow, Nov. 16.

"One of the most colorful teams, and one toward which we're pointing, is the Arkansas A. and M. eleven, which came up with seven wins against two defeats in a tough league last season," Aiken 'Having the southerners here for a Homecoming game should add a lot to the spectator appeal of the

Complete Schedule

The complete schedule lists games with San Francisco State, Sept. 21; Brigham Young University at Provo Sept. 27: Idaho Southern Branch in Reno, Oct. 12; the A. & M. "Arkies, Oct. 19; New Mexico College in Rend Oct. 26; Fresno State in Fresno, Nov 2; University of Idaho, Nov. 16; College of Pacific at Stockton, Nov. 21, and San Jose State College at San Jose, on Nov. 30.

Even Terms

Welcomed with open arms and three or four hours of gritle-reducing drill Monday were the following veterans: Dick Miller, "Trig" Trigero, Hugh Swithwick; and Wes Goodner, ends Bud Young, Vince Shea, Joe McDonald and Gino Quilici, tackles; Bob Robi net, Wes Schlager, Bill Bennett and Boyce Royalty, guards; and Art Korni-gabel and Ken Skidmore, centers. In the backfield the returning neclues in-cludes Clyde Vinson, Frank Beloso, Don Burrus, Brad Johns, Alf Sorenson and Marion Motley.

Newcomers

An impressive list of newcomers will probably see plenty of action. Among the "name" players who are trying to hook a ride on the varsity machine are Jack Eldridge, two hundred pound lineman who captioned Menlo Junior College's eleven last year and who has been named the outstanding transfer tain at Los Angeles Junior College and picked at the fullback post on the Southern California junior college allconference roster.

Marion Amesais, Ventura Junior College, who was second string all-conferbehind Jackie Robinson, UCLA'S famed negro mainstay, then at Pasadena J. C.; Dan Baker, San Francisco Junior College halfback and one of the finest ball handlers in the Northern California J. C. loop; Henry Gaspar, mainstay of the San Mateo C, squad which romped off with the league cup last season.

Volma Heaton, a lineman from Dixie J. C. in Utah; "Dutch" Schiderider, tranfer from an Oregon J. C.; John Peconen, 210 pound tackle from Lassen Jaysee; Orrin Garrish, a Bakersfield J. backfield luminary, and Jesse Graham, who carried the blocking assignment on the Santa Anna J. C. squad last year.

University Income Fails to Match Larger Enrollment

New Hospital May Be Result Of Raise in Health Charges

Added expense of operation due to a steadily growing enrollment and a correspondingly larger faculty was given by officials here yesterday as the principal reason for the increase in registration fees at the University of Nevada this year. A $7.50 fee for registration and incidentals, a library fee of fifty cents, and a health fee of $6.00 instead of theformer $3.00, faced returning students here during registra-

"In the firs tplace, I want to emphasize that the registration and inci-dental fee is not a new one," said Dr Leon W. Hartman, president of the university. LOOK WHO'S BACK

High-strutting Elsie Crabtree, probably the world's most famous collegiate majorette in the business today, returned to classes at the University of Nevada this week after a semester's absence.

Shoved into the national limelight last fall when university officials decreed that she must make her skirts longer and her strut milder, Elsie stuck to her guns, along with 99.9% of the rest of the university, and was allowed to continue the antics which have made her famous,

"This year?" said Elsie. "Well, I only hope I'll be allowed to major-

ON OUR WAY

President Roosevelt once concluded one of his most famous fire-side chats with a statement to the effect that "I am not sure where we are going, or how we are going, but we are definitely on our way.

Such is the case at the University of Nevada this year with one great exception-we're pretty sure we know where we're going and how we're going to get there. That, of course, leaves only one simialrity between the national situation described by Mr. Roosevelt in his historic speech and the condition on the local campus today: 'We are definitely on our way.'

Begin with the physical aspects of the matter. Within two months construction on the new engineering building and the new gymnasium, both crying needs of the university for so long that all but the incurable optimists had given up all hope of ever getting them, will begin. What that means to the University of Nevada may be a rather difficult thing for the new student to visualize, but suffice it to say that the new buildings will be as invaluable and as vital to this institution as the main cog of a piece of delicate machinery. The uplift in the morale of students, faculty, and backers of the university that the mere presence of these edifices will produce is in itself full justification of any expense they might entail. A goal as long striven for as the construction of these two buildings must inevitably be a tremendous uplift to the strivers when that goal is obtained.

Add to that the more obvious advantages of adequate athletic facilities for the first time in the school's history, the firm establishment of a foundation which should ultimately make Nevada's engineering department one of the best on the Pacific Coast, and the beauty added to a campus which is already the just pride of the students, and it is not hard to see "what this means to us."

Meantime, the rest of the campus has kept pace with the socalled major improvements. The fence around Mackay field to insure efficient handling of football crowds is a boon which can be fully realized only by those who have had something to do with the athletic situation of the past or the "gates" of games of former years. Dishonesty is a nasty word to apply without full amplification; but somehow, gate receipts in yesteryear were never quite what they should have been, if the size of the crowd seated in the stadium meant anything. The fence will eliminate that and many other annoying inconveniences besides. It's the removal of that kind of thing from a university that will eventually make it a leader in its world.

And last, and by far the most dangerous to deal with because of the volatility and explosiveness of its nature and its tendency to suddenly kick back in the face of those who speak of it, is that vague, undefinable something we term "spirit." The mere fact that a student body will cheer a winnig football team doesn't prove that the desired spirit does exist, but the conduct and morale of the Nevada student body as a whole, which took such a turn for the better last fall and then continued to build on a solid foundation during the following school year, looks from this corner to be at least approaching the thing we want.

A combination of circumstances has given this university a set of vigorous and resolute men as its leaders, each of whom has contributed his part toward making the whole the fine creation it is fast on its way to becoming. Whether it willed it or not, the student body was inevitably caught up and pulled along by that spirit and is rapidly growing one of its own to match it. We're on our way, all right, and our adminitsration has provided us with a four-lane highway to our final goal. All we have to do is see to it that we don't get tired on the road.

A very energetic young freshman enrolled in the University last year filled with the thoughts of becoming a "shot" on the campus. In the first place, he wished to make a name for himself in the various campus organizations. But due to his own carelessness, he failed in his aspirations.

Reason for his failure is common to many University students. When he walked up to the campus in the morning, he forgot to read the bulletin board. He forgot again the many times he passed the board to stop a minute and see what was going on. Consequently, he missed many meetings. His grades went down because he missed notices posted by professors concerning his classes. And he was called before the upper-class committee for not paying attention to rules posted by them.

The bulletin board is not a place of mystery. Although there are many notices which do not pertain to everybody, there are many which are very important, and they may be meant just for you. A habit of reading the bulletin board is not hard to form, and takes but little time each day.-M. G.

Highlights

Highlights of the Cub season, how ever, are the battles scheduled with Santa Rosa J. C. on Oct. 25 and with Salinas J. C. on Nov. 23. Both teams play some of the best junior college ball northern California is privileged to see, and Santa Rosa was the only team to dump the high-flying Cubs last year accomplishing that feat by a

Travel Appeal

"If travel has any appeal, we ought to get a better turnout next week since the Santa Rosa, Placer, and one Lassen game are all away from home, Bailey said in finishing his plea for more material

Though Bailey hasn't an overly large number of men out at present, those that he does have are all of top caliber. Summer Projects Improve Campus

Concrete Channel Finished In Orr Ditch; Mackay Field Is Fenced

The summer face-lifting of the Nevada campus, annually one of the biggest jobs of university employees, reached a new high level during the past vacation with extensive improvements touching virtually every part of Largest project carried on was the installation of a concrete channel for the Orr ditch, running from the main entrance bridge to the eastern edge of the campus. George Wingfield, former member of the board of regents, donated the funds for the project.

Most recently begun and certain to have a big effect on the university's athletic situation is the fence now being built around Mackay stadium. More efficient handling of crowds at football games is guaranteed by the fence, officials say, and expenses of the large gate crew needed in former years will be eliminated. If possible, the work on the fence will be hurried so that the job will be completed before the San Francisco State on September 21.

Road Improved

Scene of the most extensive improve ments is that between the University avenue entrance and the steps which lead onto the campus from Lake street

Additional projects will be finished during the first part of this semester, most important of which will be the installation of a pipe line to Clark field, future practice gridiron for Coach Aikens' Wolves and intended site of interfraternity baseball
