Wolves Entrain For Aggie Series With High Hopes For Double Win

Games With Chico Improve Nevadans

Expected Return of Motley Would Help Squad, Backers Believe

Confident of meeting the California Aggies on an equal footing after their surprise showing last week-end against Chico State, members of the varsity basketball team left this morning for a two-game series with Coach George Stromgren's Mustangs at Davis.

The Aggies stacked up as weaker than Chico as the result of two beatings at the hands of San Francisco State. Chico split a series with the powerful Gators.

"Although we were beaten in both games by the Wildcats, the boys are more confident now of their ability, and I am of the opinion that they will play better ball in every game as the season progresses," said Coach Charles Schuchardt.

Schuchardt revealed that the addition of Marion Motley to the squad for the Aggie series is a possibility. Motley, considered a key man in pre-season prognostications, took a final examination in a full semester course yesterday, and a ralling of the scholarship board will be made before game time tonight.

The mentor stated that his starters will probably be the same group that opened against Chico, with Lemich, Vaughn, O'Shaughnessy and Harris getting the nod. Motley, if eligible, will see lots of action, as will Dick Miller, who filled in well with the "first string" combination against the Wildcats.

"The Aggies have a squad almost as green as our own," the coach said. "We'll have to clamp down on Bobbie Forbes, who is a spearhead of the Davis scoring attack."

Scrimmage throughout the week stressed offensive rebounding, a department noticeably weak in the games last week. Schuchardt is satisfied that the defensive rebounds will be largely controlled by the Nevadans.

"Perhaps our greatest weakness is the lack of team experience," Nevada's coach surmised. "The boys should have had the second of the Chico games on ice, but a few mental lapses gave the 'Cats some dump shots in the hole. If the boys profit by such mistakes, they can give Stromgren's men a couple of bad nights."

Frosh Go Too

Coach Jim Bailey took a freshman five to meet the Aggie Colts in preliminary contests to the varsity trials. Varsity men making the trip included Ross, Vaughn, O'Shaughnessy, Harris, Lemich, McNabney, Hawley, Taylor, Miller, oMtle, and Edwards. Edsall, Graves, Forson, Hardy, Castellani, Seewald, Melarkey, Nichols, Bowen, Jensen and possibly Hatalla are members of the frosh five who will see action. Hatalla is also subject to approval of the scholarship board after having endeavored to remove a conditional grade from his fall semester record.

Honorary Captains To Be Chosen Soon

Nomination of honorary captains for the ROTC battalion will be held Jan. 24, it was announced this week by Ralston Hawkins, captain of Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military student.

Primary election will be held on Jan. 31 and the final election the following Friday.

Duties of the honorary military captains of the three cadet companies and the band are to represent their units in formal drill maneuvers and other administrative jobs.

The honorary captains are nominated and elected by the members of the respective companies.

Serving as honorary captains for the past year have been the Turano twins, Emily and Rita, A company; Margaret Hermansen, B company; Eileen Smith, C company, and Billie Jean Stinson, band.

Election of an honorary major will take place at a later date to replace Romietta Ward, who has served in that position for the past year. The honorary major is elected by members of Scabbard and Blade.

DRAFTING AWARD IS ANNOUNCED BY BOARD

The university board of regents today announced they would award a $25 scholarship to the winner of the high school drafting contest to be held during Engineers' Day here this spring.

The award will be given the winner of the statewide high school contest on the condition the winner enrolls at Nevada for the fall semester following.

Plans Formulated For Rejuvenated Student Meetings

Coach Charles Schuchardt will be the principal speaker at the first student body meeting of the semester next Friday morning at 10, Raymond Garamendi, president, announced today.

Intra-mural trophies will be presented and members of the basketball team introduced at this time.

In an effort to give the students more interesting meetings, Garamendi presented a letter to the faculty last week, containing statements concerning meetings at other Pacific coast universities.

Garamendi's letter stated that it was his belief that Nevada should have two student body meetings a month at a definite date and hour, and that these dates should be known before the beginning of the semester to enable the president to plan with organizations for attendance at the meetings.

A faculty committee of eight will investigate his proposal.

Winter Carnival Is Insured By Lloyd's

Lloyd's of London is doing business with the ASUN.

The fact came to light today when Graduate Manager Joe McDonnell announced that in order to eliminate the possibility of financial loss on the ski tournament part of the coming Winter Carnival, a contract is now being negotiated for a novel form of insurance to be taken out by the ASUN with Lloyd's San Francisco branch.

The policy is being contracted for so as to insure against the possibility of there being insufficient snow at the Galena creek ski area.

Today and Thursday were also set aside by Wilcox for the pictures of the new members of the campus organizations, with tomorrow being the final opportunity.

Senior pictures, he stated, will be taken from Jan. 20 to Jan. 29, at the Goodner studios. Normal school graduates will have their photographs taken in white gowns. The remainder of the picture schedule is posted on the bulletin board.

Wilcox reported that only a very small percentage of the seniors have filled out their questionnaires. The end of February is the deadline for this procedure, he said, and urged that the graduating classmen comply with this request as soon as possible so that the senior section of the yearbook can be completed as soon as possible.

Blanks may be obtained in the student body presidents' office, or in the box just outside his door. Completed blanks can be turned in at the Artemisia office.

Parking Rules To Be Strictly Enforced

"Blue key parking regulations will be more strictly enforced this semester," John Lemich, men's upperclass committee head, warned today.

Students should by now have learned the rules that were established last semester and all offenders will receive tickets and will be fined, he added.

To permit stricter enforcement of the parking rules, Joe Giomi, Dave Melarkey and Warren Ferguson were appointed to the parking committee at the last Senate meeting.

Parking signs will be placed on the campus in about two weeks giving the rules for campus parking.

Anker Is Vice-President

Leonard Anker, sophomore student from Lovelock, was elected vice-president of the Aggie Club at a meeting Tuesday night. He succeeds George Frey who failed to return to school this semester.

Anker has been prominent in the affairs of the club. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

Students Express Regret As Miller Resigns As Wolves' Frolic Director

Campus dramatic students are united in expressing sorrow over the recently announced resignation of Prof. Bill Miller as director of the annual Wolves' Frolic, it was revealed this week in a survey of campus opinion.

Miller's career as director of the student actors has been marked with a number of successful productions, the dramatic students agreed, and his loss will be deeply felt next fall when Homecoming time rolls around.

In addition to expressing regret over the reported resignation of Miller, some of the student actors also had some

Rifle Team Opens Year's Matches

The University of Nevada rifle team got off to a flying start this week with two matches, one against the Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam, N. Y., and the other against the University of Maine.

In the match with Clarkson the top five scores for the home team were:
Freemonth ..... 273
Bull ..... 260
Hill ..... 249
Righetti ..... 249
Morehouse ..... 245

(Possible 300)
The top five men in the match against Maine were:
Freemonth ..... 369
Hill ..... 346
Michael ..... 342
Righetti ..... 341
Morehouse ..... 340

(Possible 400)
The scores made by the opposing teams have not yet been exchanged so the winners of the matches have not been determined.

Circle N awards will be awarded at the close of the season to the captain, manager, and the team members with the top 10 scores. At the present time Frank Eastman is captain and Sol Karl holds the position as manager. Lieut. Otis Kittles is coach.

Members of the team are: Freemonth, Hill, Michael, Righetti, Morehouse, Garamendi, Domoncki, Darr, Moffatt, Etchemendy, Eastman, Hellwinkel, Burke, and Greenbaum.

Tomorrow Deadline For Pledge Photos

Pictures of new sorority and fraternity pledges for the Artemisia can be taken for the last time tomorrow, according to Walter Wilcox, editor.

Senior pictures, he stated, will be taken from Jan. 20 to Jan. 29, at the Goodner studios. Normal school graduates will have their photographs taken in white gowns. The remainder of the picture schedule is posted on the bulletin board.

Wilcox reported that only a very small percentage of the seniors have filled out their questionnaires. The end of February is the deadline for this procedure, he said, and urged that the graduating classmen comply with this request as soon as possible so that the senior section of the yearbook can be completed as soon as possible.

Blanks may be obtained in the student body presidents' office, or in the box just outside his door. Completed blanks can be turned in at the Artemisia office.

Military Will Initiate Sixteen

Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military student, will hold formal initiation ceremonies for 16 junior officers Jan. 28, officers of the society said today.

On the same date Major William E. Gent will be installed as an honorary member of the fraternity.

In the formal initiation held early last semester, the candidates paraded about the campus in cast-off parts of military uniforms. A sham battle also was indulged in, to the dismay of innocent bystanders.

Those who will receive the final degree this month are Walter Bedal, Albert Cipolla, George Clark, Jim Duprat, Leon Etchemendy, Roger Hickman, Heath Hovey, Joseph Kosakowski, James McNabney, Francis Nagle, Robert Robens, Damon Tranter, John Uhalde, Leland Whipple, Tom Forman, and Edward Mulcahy.

ESSAY WINNER

Wendell Leavitt, sophomore agriculture student, was this week declared winner of the $75 first prize awarded by the Nevada Livestock Credit Association, for the best piece of work submitted in its recent essay contest. Leslie Stewart, junior was winner of the second prize of $25.

BOARD PUTS SPIKE TO SUBSIDY RUMOR

Putting the spike to current and growing rumors on the campus that money for athletic scholarships was being taken from student funds, officials of the board of athletic control this week issued a statement clarifying the situation.

The statement, issued by Harry Frost, chairman of the group, read: "The Board of Athletic Control wants every student to know that not a cent of ASUN money, regardless of whether it is received from the allotment to the board, gate receipts, guarantees, or any other source, is used for athletic scholarships.

"The board submits all budgets and reports of its activities to the ASUN finance control committee for their approval. Any student who desires to do so may go over these reports, which are on file in the graduate manager's office."

Selective Service Act Takes Three Former Students

Rodgers, Speers, Lee Must Leave Soon; Kot, Berry Given Until May 15

The hotly debated selective service act will again affect the University of Nevada campus next week when three former students will pack their bags and leave for a year's training with Uncle Sam's forces.

The three whose "numbers are up" in the draft are Blake Speers, SAE, who was graduated in December; Keith Lee, former student body president and graduate with the class of '33; and John Rodgers, Beta Kappa, who dropped out of the university last semester.

Two others deferred, Tom Kot and Jerome Berry, were also scheduled to leave on Jan. 21 but because they were once again enrolled in classes, their conscription is to be deferred until they finish the college year. However, if for any reason, either of these men should leave college he will be compelled to notify the draft board, at which time he is immediately eligible for service.

In addition to these four there are seven other men of university age, enrolled either in the local university or in out of state schools, who have been sent questionnaires by the Reno draft office.

Taus Are Leaders In Pledge Derby

Alpha Tau Omega fraternity emerged as leader of the spring pledge race, having garnered nine men in the first regular week of school. Sigma Nu was second with five neophytes.

Houses lists are as follows:
Alpha Tau Omega: Jack Freeman, David Ernst, Orin Probert, Richard Elmore, Jr., Peter Castellani, James Harris, Lloyd Root, Jr., James Barge, and Ernest Albright.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon: James Martin.

Beta Kappa: Westall Barkley, Gerald Wetzell, and Gordon Frazier.

Phi Sigma Kappa: George Rainone, Lincoln Hall Association: Zeb Kendall.

Sigma Nu: Orsie Graves, Manuel Chappell, Willard Branson, William Stead, Belford Dickerson.

Sigma Phi Sigma and Lambda Chi Alpha were not available.

McDonald Outlines Program For Three-day Winter Festival

Theta Semi-Formal Heads Social List For Weekend Whirl

Sorority winter semi-formals will end this week as the Kappa Alpha Theta dance, which will be held at the chapter house from 9 to 12.

Carrying out the theme of "Rhapsody in Blue" the house will be decorated in blue and silver. Harriet Hills is chairman of the decoration committee.

Other members of the decoration committee are Jean Cagle, Jeanette Taylor, Helen Cameron, Kathryn Devlin, Gloria Day and Elizabeth Schwartz.

The clean-up committee is composed of Marjorie Boyd, Juliana Dysart, Joyce Funkhauser, Loretta Geisendorfer, Lila Tler, Ruth Johnson, Iris Kinneberg, Rose Marie Mayhew, Lois Roviack, Nita Reifschneider, Dorothy Savage, Marianne Smith and Beth Whayne.

Mark Nesbitt's orchestra will furnish the music. Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. McDonnell, Mrs. Dean Duke and her guests.

Chicken Hop

The Aggie Chicken Hop will be held in the gym tomorrow night from 9 to 12, sponsored by the Aggie Club.

Spectators at the affair will sit on piles of hay, John Bazzini, Aggie Club president, said yesterday. Door prizes will be given as an added feature of the dance.

Members of the committee in charge are Walt Schmidt, chairman; John Telcott and Art Palmer. Buddy Williams' orchestra has been engaged for the evening.

SAE Tea Dance

Members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity honored brother Blake Speers with an informal tea dance this afternoon from 4 to 6. Speers will leave Sunday for a year's active duty in the Army.

Jack Pieri was in charge of the dance, which may become a weekly SAE function. Guests will be served punch and cookies.

Gamma Phi-SAE Social

Gamma Phi Beta sorority entertained members of SAE fraternity Sunday with an informal buffet supper and social hour. The SAE's will return Gamma Phi hospitality with a social in their honor next Sunday.

Conversion Of Gym Into Armory Starts

Anticipating eventual construction of Nevada's new gymnasium, WPA workers this week began excavation of a basement under the old gym, the first step in the conversion of the building into an armory for the university ROTC.

Funds for the work are provided under an $18,000 grant from the WPA. The university has set aside $6,000 which will be used in complete of the project.

Workers have started to dig tunnels under the old gym at two points on its northern side. It is expected that tracing will allow basement work to continue despite spring semester classes in the building and the basketball games scheduled for this season.

Army appropriations had been sought for the work, but efforts of the administration to obtain such funds proved unsuccessful. The university ROTC unit has long sought larger quarters, and it has been indicated that some expansion may be undertaken when the new quarters are occupied.

Westover Exhibit Placed In Library

An exhibition of Ned Westover's photographs of scenery of the western United States will be displayed in the library next week, Romietta Ward, president of the Fine Arts group, announced yesterday.

The exhibit will be open from one to five o'clock all of next week.

Nevada's Famous Quail Covey Has New Home After CE Building Ruins Old One

Nevada's famed quail population has a shelter again.

Hundreds of the game birds, which have made the campus their winter home for years past, were deprived of shelter and a feeding place when workmen tore down the old shelter to make way for the new engineering building.

An old wooden and willow structure located at the northern edge of the baseball field had served as shelter for the quail for more years than anyone can remember. The only persons both-er disturbed the feeding birds to search for hard-hit balls.

Fast Moving Events and Entertainment Planned For Visitors

Promising a "rousing good time" for all visitors and the student body of the university, Joe McDonald, director of the Fifth Annual Winter Carnival, this week named several additions to the committees in charge of the show and announced the complete program of events for the week-end of Jan. 31-Feb. 2.

Assisting Betty Nash, Rose Arenaz, and Harriet Morrison in plans for the skiers banquet and the annual Winter Carnival ball will be

Casey Appointed Military Ball Head

William Casey, senior, was named this week as chairman for the annual military ball which will be held on March 1, this year.

Others placed on the committee were Dallas Downs, Gilbert Morehouse, Roger Hickman, and Damon Tranter.

Sponsored by the campus chapter of Scabbard and Blade, the military ball is one of the biggest social events of the school year.

The honorary major, who is chosen by members of Scabbard and Blade just previous to the ball, will preside over the affair. She is assisted by the honorary captains of the different companies within the university ROTC battalion.

Miller Announces Drama Production

A play reading, "The Family Portrait," an entirely new undertaking by the Campus Players, will be presented to the campus within three weeks, according to William Miller, director of the group.

Miller said that trypouts would be held Monday, the cast chosen, and rehearsal would proceed for two weeks.

"The Family Portrait," by Cowan and Cooffee, is a relatively new play with a successful career on Broadway. The play will be presented in readings. The idea was first introduced on the Stanford University campus.

Miller announced that beside the present undertaking, two dramatic plays will be given.

He has tentatively in mind George Cohan's "Return of the Vagabond," which is a sequel to "The Tavern." The latter, a melo-dramatic farce, was given a few years ago on this campus. The "Return of the Vagabond" has a large cast, 15 men players, and four women.

"Youth at the Helm," Vollgius, and translated by Griffith; "Allison's House," by Zona Galle; and "Miss Lulu Bett," by Zoe Aikans, have also been considered.

Miller stated that the plays this semester would be held three nights, the last night given especially for the attendance of CCC boys and the proposed army camp to be stationed here. This program has been suggested in cooperation with the WPA recreation division and the United States government's request for various schools and colleges throughout the country to provide entertainment for the stationed men.

HARTMANS WILL MEET STUDENTS ON MONDAY

A reception for students will be held by President and Mrs. Leon W. Hartman Sunday afternoon at the president's home between 4 and 6 p. m.

Dr. Hartman said today that all students are cordially welcome to visit the president's home and that he and Mrs. Hartman are anxious to renew old acquaintances and to meet new students.

The afternoon tea for students has been an annual custom of the president and his wife since Dr. Hartman became president of the university.

Yvonne Rosasco, Mary Jane McSorley, Eileen Buck, Bob Hoyer, Ed Dodson, Elliot Lima, Jim Gibbs, George Eccles, Ralph Sullivan, Bill Wylie, Mario Recanzone, Barbara Chapman, Jack Pieri, Mary Anxo, Marie Dooner, Ruth Mary Noble, George Basta, John Gabrielli. The skier's banquet is scheduled for Saturday evening Feb. 1 at 7 p. m. and will be followed by the Winter Ball in the State building, starting at 9:30 p. m.

Feature of the Winter Carnival Ball is the crowning of the snow queen, who is chosen from all the coed skiers attending the festivities. For the past two years coeds other than those from Nevada have been named to this honor.

The publicity committee, with Bryn Armstrong as head, has been augmented by the addition of Bernice Trimbell, Molly Morse, Gloria Gildone, William Friel, Jerry Brennan, Glenn Ranson, George Ross, Gene Carlson, Jack Fleming, and Lloyd Rogers.

Opening the tournament officially, the skiers will meet Friday at 7 p. m. in the education building auditorium for discussion and outline of the program of events and for registration of the competitors.

Tourney Starts Saturday

Actual competition in the tournament will get under way Saturday morning with the running of the cross-country, scheduled for 10 a. m. The course has been laid out over a two-mile stretch of slope and promises to be one of the thrilling events of the tourney.

Saturday afternoon the contestants will line up for the downhill. Charles Matson, director of the tournament events, has indicated that the course to be covered in this event will be lightning fast and should test the skill of the most accomplished skier.

Wind-up
The tourney will be wound up Sunday with the staging of the slalom at 10 a. m. and the jumping contests at 2 p. m.

Immediately following the jumps, presentation of the trophies won by competitors will be made.

As added attractions, a schedule of events for novice and women skiers is being planned. Exhibition jumping, special ski stunts and added events for competition among the spectators will be given. Matson has announced.

New Frosh Warned To Follow Rulings

Upperclass committeemen will begin checking up on the new freshmen students next week for dinks for the men and blue and white ribbons for the coeds, it was announced today by Lola Frazer and John Lemich, heads of the tradition-enforcing groups.

All men students entering Nevada for the first time this semester will be required to purchase a "bibble" and a dink at the office of student body president Ray Garamendi in the ASUN building. All new freshman women must purchase a blue and white hair ribbon, which must be worn on the campus until school ends in May.

Strict penalties will be meted out to offenders, Lemich and Miss Frazer warned.

Second semester freshmen are now free to discard dinks and bibbles, and the coeds no longer have to wear the hair ribbons, according to a ruling voted upon by the student senate last week.

Trimble To Head Coed Prep Group

Bernice Trimble, sophomore, has been named head of the Blue Peppers, replace Betty Gifford, who did not return to school this semester, James Kehoe, drill master, announced this week.

According to Kehoe, a meeting will be called the first part of next week to discuss the possibility of sponsoring a dance in order to raise funds for uniforms in expectation of new members entering the university next fall.

The organization will not participate in any activity this semester because of lack of space in the gymnasium and the difficulty in assembling the group for evening events.

Hawkins Is Named New Cadet Major, Promotions Made

Cadet Captain Ralston Hawkins was named battalion commander of the Nevada ROTC corps this week to replace Bob Grenig, commissioned a second lieutenant in the regular army last month.

Cadet Brevet Major Guy Brown also completed his military training at Christmas, and accepted a commission similar to that of Grenig. A general reorganization in the department was in part caused by the vacancies left by these men.

Hawkins was advanced to the rank of cadet major this week. Last semester he was commander of Company A. Lee Conoway was promoted to the rank of brevet major this week by order of President Leon Hartman and Col. Clark. Conoway completed the military course at Christmas, and is at present undertaking a naval flying corps instruction course in California.

Cadet Captain Dallas Downs has been named to head Company A. Nicolas Evasovic will remain commander of Company B, and Company C will be headed by Nicholas Pappas for this semester, Col. Clark stated.

The battalion staff has also undergone changes, it was revealed. Cadet Capt. Phillip Carroll remains as adjutant. Battalion intelligence is headed by Cadet First Lieutenant Raymond Cochran. Plans and training is in command of Cadet Capt. Raymond Garamendi, and Cadet Capt. Henry Morehead is in charge of battalion supply.

Several new men have been admitted to the advanced course this semester. They are Perry C. Pollock, Ernest S. Williams, James E. Barrett, George M. Basta, Frank E. Eastman, Hugh Wilton, and Robert Hawley. Pollock, Barrett, and Williams were members of the advanced course during previous semesters but were not registered last term. Wilber G. Hedquist is another new member of the advanced course, having transferred from the University of California.

Promotions published in the military department this week were: To be cadet first lieutenants, Eugene S. Williams, James E. Barrett, Joseph E. Kowskowsky, Francis A. Nagle, Tom P. Forman, and Walter J. Beidel. George Basta and Hugh Wilton were raised to master sergeant and Robert Hawley was promoted to staff sergeant.

Five appointments were announced during the week in the cadet corps. Wilber Hedquist was appointed cadet second lieutenant. Galen DeLongchamps, Robert Peterson, George Rainone and Willard Branson were named cadet corporals. Further advancements and appointments are expected in the near future.

Grads Write School World-Wide Letters

If the thoughts that graduates of this university hold for their school mean anything, then the bulletin board in the Mackay School of Mines bears eloquent testimony.

Posted there are cards from mining graduates located the world over. Cards have been received from New York to the Philippines, and from Alaska to South Africa.

Prof. Jay Carpenter, director of the school, stated that he has received cards and letters from nearly every graduate of the mining college. Messages are received from graduates of the first class, that of '12, and they range upward until they include every class up to the present time.

Some students have written from the copper and silver mines located high in the Andes mountains in Peru and Chile. Others have sent letters from diamond and gold mines in South Africa. From the rich gold fields of the Philippines, from the mines of silver on the Mexican plateau, and from Alaska have come the letters.

Most of them tell of their experiences, some contain personal messages, all of them remember "Prof. Carpenter and the staff of Mackay School of Mines."

In the days of Queen Elizabeth some of the ladies of the court liked to curl up with a good book, while others preferred simply to curl up with one of the pages.

Nevada Instructor May Play Important U. S. Defense Part

Carl Elges, an assistant in meteorology at the University of Nevada, may be destined to play an important role in Nevada's contribution to national defense, when his battalion, the 121st Coast Artillery, separate battalion of anti-aircraft, is pressed into active service next summer.

Elges, who was chief officer of the cadet corps while an undergraduate at the university, is senior officer of the national guard battalion and will remain in command of the group unless relieved by a gubernatorial appointment.

"While my rank is the highest in the battalion, my age will be a determinant factor in the governor's decision when we are called to service," Elges stated. Elges, who holds the rank of major, is in his early 30's.

Major Elges explained that a lieutenant-colonel is usually in command of such a battalion, but that his twelve and a half years in the Nevada National Guard and his position of commanding officer of the group, may bear some weight when a permanent senior officer is to be named.

"I have always been deeply interested in military life and am looking forward with great expectancy to our training period," Major Elges stated.

The Nevada unit was recently converted into an anti-aircraft battalion from an engineering and police corps. Originally slated to encamp at Riverside, Calif., late in January, the detachment of 342 men and 27 officers will not be put into barracks until June.

Made up entirely of Nevadans, the battalion is composed of batteries in Reno, Elko and Winnemucca, while a new group in Las Vegas will be ready to join the others at the Riverside encampment, Elges stated.

Pieri Announces Staff Assistants

Three assistant business managers were named to the business staff of the Artemisia by Jack Pieri, business manager, this week. Mary Ann Lockridge, Nellie Isola and Frances Larra-guetta were those named.

Pieri also selected a secretarial staff, the largest in the history of the Nevada yearbook. Members of the staff are Mary Ann Smith, Peggy Connelly, Betty Cole, Elizabeth Schwartz, Billie Jean Stinson, Joyce Funkhouser, Kay Devlin, Dolores McConnell, Bryant Cleary, Katie Little, Lois Bradshaw, Mary Prida and Gloria Gildone.

Other staff members will be announced soon, Pieri said, and ad lists for staff members will be released shortly. He asked that all persons wishing to try out for Artemisia attend the next business meeting. This will be the last tryout chance this semester, he stated.

AWs To Sponsor Speakers During Coming Semester

The A. W. S. will sponsor two speakers during the coming semester, in addition to its annual fashion show which will begin sometime in March.

One of the speakers will probably be sponsored in conjunction with the YMCA, said aryM Kormmayer, president. Definite plans have not been made, however.

Nevada CAA Graduates Anxious To Enter Active Service With U. S. Armed Forces

Interviews with four of twelve Civil Aeronautics Authority students receiving private licenses last semester revealed that professional flying is the main objective of Nevada CAA graduates.

Those who received licenses are William Moran, Bill Andrews, Chesley Freemonth, Bob McElwee, Harry Morrison, Glenn Ranson, Harold Baird, Grant Cloud, Francis Nagle, John Rodgers, Walter Schmidt and Joe White.

All four of the students questioned preferred to enter the active service, three with the U. S. Army Air Corps and with the U. S. navy.

Ranson, junior Sigma Phi Sigma, stated that he plans to take tests this June preparatory to going into three months training at San Diego. He hopes to complete his training at Randolph and Kelly Fields.

His only worry is that his 6 feet four inches puts him too high in the air to be eligible.

Moran, who did not return to school this semester, will leave for the next training station at Oakland next month. After his training period, he will be transferred to Pensacola, Fla.

Baird, SAE, will enlist in the U. S. army at the close of the semester. As his conscription number is extremely low, Baird believes he would be drafted soon after school is out. He hopes to enter the aviation branch of the army.

Andrews, senior Alpha Tau Omega, will enlist in the army flying school following graduation in May. He hopes to graduate from Kelly Field.

Nine Qualify For Drafting Course

Nine University of Nevada engineering students were accepted this week for the newly-inaugurated civil engineering drafting class to train men for national defense. Classes began Tuesday.

The men are Wesley Johnson, Walter Bedel, Joe Cleary, Fred Heinen, Stanley Fluty, Jerry Brennan, Harry Cornwall, Charles Chun, and Ben Collins.

The class is under supervision of the federal government, and all tuition fees and training expense are paid by the government.

To qualify for the training the men had to have at least one year of engineering college completed, or enough engineering experience to offset this requirement. The quota of 35 was rapidly filled; in fact, several over the allotted number qualified and paring of the class will take place next week.

Topographical and structural drafting are the principal subjects taught at the classes, which meet Monday through Friday from 7 to 10 p. m. No college credit is given for those completing the course because the fees are paid by the government. The class is being directed by Prof. W. O. Wagner.

JOCK-HIBERNIAN WARFARE FLAMES ANEW

Animated by the reported presence of subversive Jock activities on the local campus, the local Royal Order of Hibernians came to life with a bang here this week.

Explaining that "most of our work during the past semester has been done entirely in the dark," O'Leary, O'Reilly and O'Rourke today proclaimed themselves as ready, willing and able to bring their anti-Jock work before the eyes of the public.

Inspector Pieri and Junior Inspector Carroll, the Hibernians claim, is at the bottom of the latest Jock uprising and may become an immediate project of the O' club. If such becomes the case, it is expected that open warfare will flame again on the Nevada campus, since Pieri's Jock supporters will probably emerge from their obscurity to help II Inspector in his battle for life. Pieri, say the Celts, is usually found at the bottom of all campus movements.

Whether or not the famed athletic contests which last year were the vehicle of arbitration between the warring groups would be revived was still a most moot question late last night. The Hibernians claimed that Pieri, an expert under-cover worker, refused to meet any of the terms they offered, while Pieri in turn charged that the Celts placed too much significance on his past experience as Jock athletic manager in dictating their conditions for any athletic meet between the two organizations.

The two groups may settle their differences at a secluded spot on North Virginia street in the near future, with Pieri threatening to take the matter before the bar, authorized sources said today.

Requirements For Gothic N. Changed

Changes in the requirements for Gothic N membership were announced this week by Ruth Russell, faculty advisor.

Gothic N, women's athletic honorary society, represents scholarship, service to the WAA and university, and good sportsmanship.

Tryees for membership must have at least a second semester sophomore standing and have ten participation credits in WAA activities. A participation credit is earned by turning out for the required number of practice periods and all but one scheduled game.

They must have participated in at least four activities, one of which was a team sport, and two individual or dual sports.

It is also required that the tryee be judged by Gothic N and the faculty advisor as outstanding in sports, before she may become a member.

The scholastic requirement will be determined when a suitable mark under the new grading system has been set.

Gothic N bids are given out on Mackay Day, when newly-elected members are presented with Gothic N jackets. On graduating all members receive a life-long pass to all university-athletic functions.

There is an additional award of a Gothic N blanket to the woman who has been judged the most outstanding.

Dramatic Students To Produce Plays

Members of the university play production class will "really have a chance to produce plays" for campus presentation this spring, Prof. Bill Miller announced this week.

According to present plans, members of the class will present a series of programs of one-act plays directed by the students. Students will be allowed to try out for the plays as well as for major campus productions.

Student directors will pick their own casts, build their own scenery, secure their own props, and take care of lighting effects and make-up.

Ray Garamendi, ASUN president, has asked to have several short skits or comedies produced for student body meetings.

Some girls are like paint. Get them stirred up and you can't get them off your hands.

Amonette Elected To Honor Society

Grace Amonette was elected into membership in Cap and Scroll, women's honorary society, yesterday afternoon.

Initiation of the new member will be held Wednesday at Manzanita hall. Miss Amonette, a senior student, will be honored at a dinner after initiation.

Requirements for membership in the honor society are high scholarship standing and campus leadership.

Among Miss Amonette's activities are women's riflery and presidency of Manzanita Hall association.

Members of Cap and Scroll are Marjory Gusewelle and Kathryn Devlin, Kappa Alpha Theta; Margaret Hermansen, Pi Beta Phi; Eleanor Goldsworthy and Mary Kormmayer, Delta Delta Delta, and Dean Margaret Mack.

I GOTTA LEAVE HOME NOW

There ain't no dopin' out these women, especially this species that flourish and multiply out here in the sand and sagebrush.

Now you can just look at my sis, Sorority Sue, who spends half her time bawlin' the devil out of me cause I won't wash my face, nor comb my hair.

The other night we was sittin' around, and as usual, she was giving me holy smokes because I wouldn't take that snooty little brat next door to a grammar school dance, when all of a sudden the phone gives a ring.

Now there is two things my sister can do, one of them is talk, and the other is run like hell for the phone, so she got the receiver off the hook before I even had time to answer the insultin' remarks she made about my social position, and it wasn't long before I heard a lot of syrupy goo come dribblin' out of the hall where the phone is.

"Helloooooo." "Uh huh, this is Susie, who?—Who?—Oh! Mr. Hardpan, you simply overwhelm me!"

"Do you really mean it? I just can't believe it. Yes, I'd just LOOOOOve to go to the dance with you . . . I just can't tell you how HAAAAAaaaaapee this makes me . . . But I'll tell you tomorrow night . . . 'till tomorrow night then . . . good byeese!"

Well, when sis comes swoonin' back into the room where I was, she looked as if one of them tough kids had whacked her with an Irish rose. Her eyes bugged out so far I thought Clark Gable had given her an invite to come eat chicken with him.

Boy, was she all a flutter. Next day there wasn't no peace around the place, cause sister Sue was having historical fits. You see, the trouble was she had got this date with the football hero up to the college and she didn't know whether the dope could dance or not.

I decided to have some fun so I started to tell her what clumsy oxes these football players was. And how he would hold her like she was a tacklin' dummy, and how she would probably be black and blue after bouncin' around the dance floor with this prize ape all night.

Boy was she perturbed. I guess I did a pretty good job of work on her because she phoned this rube and called the whole show off.

Right now, I'm throwing a few rags together with the idea in mind of flyin' the coop.

This mornin' spread right across the society page is the handsome face of Joe Hardpan, football hero of Beowawe Normal who last night won the prize waltz at the dance sponsored by the Better Homes and Gardens Club of Cactus City.

Spring Semester WAA Schedule Is Announced

The WAA schedule for the spring semester was announced this week by Ruth Russell, women's athletic coach.

Six activities have been scheduled, and three more will be added, if sufficient interest is shown.

Basketball practice at 4 p. m. Tuesday and Thursday will continue until Feb. 27.

Archery practice at one Monday and Wednesday and at two to four on Friday will end the first week in March.

WAA dance is tentatively set for 5 p. m. Friday.

Beginning Feb. 18, riding and badminton will be offered. Badminton practice is scheduled for one and four Monday and Wednesday.

Bowling as a WAA activity which is open to all students, will commence March 7 from 2 to 4 p. m. on Fridays.

Social dancing will be offered as soon as the men's basketball season is over if sufficient interest is shown.

Baseball and hockey dates have not yet been set, although the activities will be offered if there is a large enough turnout.

Washington Alumni Plan Annual Dance

The annual Silver State ball in the nation's capital will be given Jan. 20. It will be co-sponsored by the University of Nevada Alumni association and the Nevada State society of Washington, D. C.

The ball will be held at The Chateau, home of former Ely residents Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Caperton.

Nicholas E. Basta and Walter States, Nevada graduates of the University of Nevada, are co-chairmen of the dance committee.

Librarian Asks For Return Of Five Missing Volumes

Five books from the "Books You May Have Missed" shelf in the library are still missing, librarians announced this week.

Until the books are returned the leisure-reading shelf books must be asked for at the charging desk. If the books are returned, no action will be taken, and the shelf will be again placed in the main reading room.

The missing books are "Emily," by Benson; "The Citadel," Cronin; "Fashion Career," Oglesby; "The Time of Your Life," Saroyan; "American Doctor's Odyssey," Heiser.

GO STEADY AND STAGNATE

"Blonde, please." "How about this Washington model?" "They're Eskimos up there, br-r-r-r. Anything from Stanford?"

"Anything your warm heart desires, you know." And that will be the spirit of the Ski Carnival Date Bureau.

McDonald's Date Market, designed to make college students world-minded, give them a new perspective and a grand time, will swing into high next week.

When the file is completed, every skiing Lochinvar will have his own decoder. If students cooperate. Naturally, as the demand for our campus cuties will be great, everyone should take advantage of this opportunity, the first of its kind at Nevada.

"Come on and get acquainted," urges McDonald. "Go steady and stagnate."

Pi Beta Phi Tops Sorority Pledging

Pi Beta Phi took the mid-year pledging lead this week by adding three new pledges to their sorority. Mary Maloney, Adey Mae Dunnell and Jean Bryant are the three coeds taking pins from the Pi Phis.

Abbie West, Gamma Phi Beta, is the only other Nevada coed pledged yet this semester.

Several of the other sororities are planning to pledge girls within the next two weeks.

Pledging has been slower this semester than last year at this time. A year ago the Pi Phis pledged four girls, the Tri Deltas four, the Gamma Phi one and the Thetas two.

Recent changes in Pan-Hellenic rulings allow the sororities to participate in an open rush season. Prospective pledges may be invited to lunch, dinner or a social activity and may accept a bid at any time. No off-the-campus rushing rules need be observed. There will be no rush parties and no official bid day as there has been in the past.

Campus Club Elects Chism Vice-President

Alice Jane Chism was elected vice-president of the Campus Club and Caroline Bailey was elected secretary at the group's first spring semester meeting Sunday evening.

Movies of some of western America's most scenic spots were shown by Dr. Elbridge Vance and Dr. Dwight Billings of the university faculty, following the election.

Jo Ann Record Heads Dancers

Jo Ann Record, Kappa Alpha Theta, was elected president of the University Dancers at the first meeting of the semester.

Miss Record succeeds Myrtle Elges, who although elected for a year has held the office for only one semester. She resigned because of lack of time to participate in the activities of the organization and complete her last semester at school.

Billy Jean Stinson was elected secretary to fill the vacancy left by Miss Record.

First performance under the new regime was given Thursday afternoon for the Twentieth Century club.

Most important undertaking of the group this semester is the sponsoring of a concert to be given by Marian Van Tuyl and Dance Company Jan. 26.

The Mills College dance group will also give a demonstration Jan. 25. Group tickets for $20 admitting 30 persons to both events will be offered to different organizations on the campus.

Tickets or information may be obtained from Elsa Sameth or Mrs. H. G. Osgood.

Cochran Plans Drama Study

Bette Cochran, former Nevada coed, member of Kappa Alpha Theta, is planning to enter the Pasadena Playhouse, a dramatic school in Pasadena, Calif., when the semester opens there Feb. 17. She is now vacationing at Palm Springs.

IN A CIGARETTE THE SMOKE'S THE THING!

THE SMOKE OF SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS GIVES YOU EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, EXTRA FLAVOR

"SMOKING OUT" THE FACTS about nicotine. Experts, chemists analyze the smoke of 5 of the largest-selling brands . . . find that the smoke of slower-burning Camels contains 28% less nicotine than the average of the other brands tested—less than any of them!

AND— 28% LESS NICOTINE

than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—less than any of them—according to independent laboratory tests of the smoke itself

By burning 25% slower than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—Camels also give you a smoking plus equal, on the average, to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

YES, the smoke's the thing! After all, you don't get anything from a cigarette until you've lit it . . . until it's burning. And there is the secret of an advantage Camel smokers have enjoyed for years. For Camel's costlier tobaccos are slower-burning. Slower-burning for more flavor because slow burning preserves tobacco flavor and fragrance. Now Science confirms still another advantage—less nicotine in the smoke—less than any of the four other largest-selling brands tested . . . 28% less than the average! Make Camels your steady smoke and enjoy all the advantages that only Camel's slower burning . . . costlier tobaccos can give—even economy (see left).

Sagens To Begin Semester Activities With Initiation

Sagen activities will begin this semester with the initiation of Betty Nash, sophomore member of Gamma Phi Beta. She is a member of the Artemisia staff, the Y. W. C. A., the Ski Carnival Committee, and has been prominent in other campus activities.

She replaces Maude Patterson, who graduated at Christmas.

Formal initiation ceremonies will be held for the new member on Jan. 21, and will be followed by a social hour honoring her, Betty Ross, president of the organization, announced this week.

Little Bo-Peep Is losing sleep Running around to dances. Let her alone And she'll come home, Herding her new romances.

The Sagebrush advocates and asks for:

1. The erection of a Pittman memorial union building on the University of Nevada campus.
2. The unification of the diverse elements of the Nevada campus.
3. The improvement of conditions in the parking lots both behind and in front of the gym to eliminate the quagmires which every storm brings to both places.
4. The strict enforcement and observation of Blue Key parking control rules.
5. The complete support of Nevada athletic teams by students.
6. The immediate beginning of work on the new gymnasium.

HOG WALLOW HOLLOW

Hog Wallow Hollow intruded itself rudely on the perception of Nevada students again this week when Reno received some .20 of an inch of rain last Sunday.

Like snowbirds, which come with the storm and disappear with the coming of the sun, the wallow oozed into being again with the advent of Sunday's little sprinkle. Unlike the snowbirds, it obstinately refuses to go away with a little sunshine.

More generally known as Blue Key's parking lot for upperclassmen, the current campus eyesore becomes a more and more serious problem with each storm. Converted into a sea of mud by the season's first rain back before Christmas, it now stands as the perfect facsimile of some farmer's poorly-kept cow corral after a seven-day cloudburst.

Blue Key is certainly not to blame for the situation nor the organization to turn to for its solution. The service group has already overloaded itself with debts to pay for the initial costs of beginning its parking control program. The wisdom and necessity of that program is too obvious to point out again in these columns.

Obviously the current flagrant violations of the rules are no solution to the problem either. Blue Key and the men's upperclass committee will and must insist that the regulations be observed as strictly as they were at the end of last semester. Yet it must also be granted that the student who is loathe to park his car in the lot because of the mess he then has to wade through has more than a little justification for simply not parking it there.

Ten or twelve loads of gravel could supply effective, though temporary, relief in the situation. Perhaps with the possibility that within the next few years a new building may be placed in the lot, the temporary relief is the wisest course to follow. The suggestion of some that this year's graduating senior class contribute funds to have the area concreted would be the logical solution if it were not for the possibility of later building.

In the meantime, it seems that it would be a good idea for somebody to do something before some innocent senior steps blithely out of his car and is drowned in the mess beneath him.

A VITAL ISSUE

A question vital to every man of selective service age in American universities and colleges today is that of conscription. What faces them in May and in June when these students between 21 and 31 complete the spring term?

Not only does this question hold anxiety for those who will graduate, but also for the thousands of undergraduates. For them the matter is most vital. Under the terms of the present selective service act, the deferment of students now enrolled in college is terminated at the conclusion of the spring term.

As the law now stands, for those students whose names and numbers head the list of those eligible for induction, other than the college deferred, one year of immediate military training is in prospect. At Nevada there are several students who were notified that if they failed to return to the university for the second semester, they would be ordered to report at Sacramento for induction on January 21.

One graduate of this university at Christmas will leave next week to enter the steadily swelling ranks of the first peace-time mobilization in our nation's history.

It is to be hoped, and actively sought, that congress and the directors of the draft machinery take cognizance of this situation of young men who are now in the midst of college activity and study.

If college students are to be drafted, it is only logical and sound that they be so after graduation, not before. A year taken from these young men at this time would raise havoc with carefully arranged plans for the completion of their education. Scholastic schedules would be badly disarranged. A very large percentage of those drafted would undoubtedly never return to college.

No one doubts the courage and bravery of these men, nor their willingness to do their part in national preparedness against the dictators. But, they should be allowed to complete their work at college, or as much of it as possible, for it is upon them that the history of the future will in part largely depend. Allow them to finish college. Then, if they are still needed, draft them.

A year's military service immediately after graduation is by far the soundest policy, as well as presenting the least obstacles and hardships in the lives of the selectees-to-be now at Nevada and the other schools of this nation.—BB.

If you make money your God, you're bound to end up arguing about it with the devil.

PROSPECTING

WITH SMOKY EVANS

If the ice boxes in fraternity houses could only talk, the world's supply of useless literature would be tremendously enriched. The competition would put funnypapers out of business. But ice boxes can't tell what they know, so the smears on the walls of the god or the furniture, and the haunting odor of over-heated Dagwoods—all these need interpretation.

The opening scene is the combined bedroom, study, storeroom, bar, and gymnasium of one student. The hour-hand is at 10 p. m. and he is mentally enmeshed in economics. That is, he WAS a student, and he WAS enmeshed, but for these 20 minutes, the print has been replaced by visions. Suddenly, the soft filmy profile is replaced by a plate supporting a sandwich, and now it is his stomach that thumps. In a trice, nay, half a trice, the desk is abandoned, the chair is in mid-air, the student is zipped between piles A, B, and C, zoomed over the waste-basket, and is half-way through the door before remembering the doorknob.

Half-way down stairs, he wonders if someone else has beat him to the supplies. This distraction causes him to be definitely out of synchronance with the last seven steps.

Luckily he is the first to the ice box. Speed now turns to sure, deft talent. He puts the coffee pot with water on the stove. He puts one slice of bread in the toaster, lays the other on the oil cloth for treatment. The ice box is robbed of sharp, hard chips of butter. These are rolled around on the bread with a knife, until the center of the slice is a mass of lumps, separated by little patches of space showing the oil cloth beneath.

He attempts to lift the slice, but the center is structurally weak, and falls back on the oil cloth. Desperately, he attempts to wipe the knife off by laying it flat on the bread and withdrawing it cunningly, as if to catch the butter by surprise. His left hand is pressed down to hold the whole mess together. This cements the bread to the knife, and as the knife emerges, the crust unwinds and comes off in a long string.

Several loud damns are heard, rounded off with a vigorous blasphemy which attracts other hungry amateurs. He is about to say some more hideous things when he notices the other end of the kitchen is hidden in a blue haze. He lurches for the toaster, pulls it out by the plug, walks back to the table, and withdraws a slice of Fraternity Toast, black and smoking. Well anyway, the coffee will do. Investigation reveals boiling water—he forgot the coffee.

He again examines what were two normal slices of white bread. Only one thing could be done; support the lacerated bread with the toast, and get something in between. This can't be just anything. This, something must soften the toast, kill its taste, hold the top slice of bread together while being breathed on, and generally have such outstanding quality that all this that has gone before will be forgotten. That, at least, is the theory.

Catsup! Spreads easy, has a powerful taste, goes with anything, and holds together. Smears it on the burned toast.

Peanut butter! As an adhesive for unwieldy sandwiches, can hardly be beat. Gouges out a big gob and plunks it down on the thing that used to be unsold and shapely bread. He attempts to spread it, and—look there—those damn daisies on the oil cloth are peeking through again. This time he gets two knives, lays them both on the peanut butter and works in opposite directions. The bread gives up, and folds itself about the peanut butter, which is now through the bread and cemented to the daisies.

This is not funny, this is madness. His fraternity brothers are helpless. They back up a few more feet, and wait apprehensively. The situation is approaching climax.

He lifts the knives, each loaded with unmitigated confusion, and a long thread of peanut butter, catsup, butter and coffee grains maintains contact with the table. Peels one knife with the other, gets the handles and both thumbs plastered. Picks up a fork to clean the knives. The string of peanut butter lets go and plops over the edge of the table, where it lably drools into the apples below.

Suddenly goes berserk, grabs the gob on one knife, and as if to teach it a lesson, crushes it to a ball in one mighty fist. Tries to throw it at the slop bucket, but it won't let go. His erstwhile friends are now crouched behind the stove; only a horizon of eyes betrays them. Picks up the fork and scrapes the toast furiously, when suddenly it flies into a hundred fragments and one knife falls in the coffee. He swings the fork madly through the air, and its gob sloughs into the butter. The fork zips through his trembling fingers with a hissing noise and knocks over the catsup bottle.

With a loud scream, picks up the knife and brings it down into the butter plate where it folds up like an accordion, wraps the toaster cord around the butter plate, stuffs the loaf of bread in the coffee pot, and rams the catsup bottle through the toaster. His face is aflame as he lifts each over his head and with both hands zooms them through the window. As he stumbles through the back door into the cold snowy midnight, his head is bowed, a broken, frustrated shadow of what was once a man.

Wedding of Charles Bacon, Reveau Hanson Revealed

Raveau Hanson '40 and Charles Bacon, mining engineer, were married in November, it was learned this week. Bacon, who now has a position in the Dayton mining mills, plans to return to school next year to finish his course in mining engineering. Mrs. Bacon, an education major when she was in school, taught at Battle Mountain. Mr. and Mrs. Bacon are living in Carson City.

The latest dope that this scribe can discern regarding coming dramatic productions is that "Our Bill" is thinking seriously about doing the sequel to "The Tavern." The play written by the same author as "The Tavern" writer, George M. Cohan, is "The Return of the Vagabond" which seems like a fitting piece for amateur productions—a comedy with laughs sufficient. Another thing our versatile dramatic director has the lead role in the Reno Little Theater's play "Room Service," not to mention the additional info that talented Grant Sawyer is on the same stage.

Bette Cochran is a lucky girl this year, for she's attending Pasadena Playhouse. We're looking toward a bright and big future for Bette in the way of dramatics.

With much gabbing with our prey, Ray Garamendi, this columnist learns that Ray is most anxious to give youse guys interesting meetings. He needs plenty of cooperation and help to put his ideas across. With your help, he feels that the assemblies would be worth while. In other words, kiddies, less cokin' and more jokin'... get it???

I don't know whether you little chums would be sad to hear this bit of glug, but it looks as if the Radio Club, which was so full of enthusiasm and stuff last semester, is on the decline.

- The reasons are kind of obscure. But maybe these might be suggested:
1. No time because of additional commercial programs this year.
  2. There would be too much conflict connected with the new ASCAP and B. M. I. dispute.
  3. Too much competition for the other local programs (oh yeah).
  4. The programs just plainly reeked (could be).
  5. Too many radio stars on the programs flunked too many things last semester (quite logical at that).
  6. Etc. . . etc. . . etc.—into the night.
- No more for now, see yez next week, as time is nigh so see yez collex chums.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Ed:—

I have recently been making a study of amoeba and guinea pigs, which quite naturally led me around to preparing a little questionnaire. (You may wonder just what amoeba and guinea pigs have to do with this questionnaire—I do myself—but that's the way all the scientists do, so it is really quite proper.)

1. What has become of the Radio Club?
  2. What effect does eight o'clock at midnight have upon an eight o'clock class?
  3. Where is the Radio Club?
  4. What about beer at midnight?
  5. Found out anything about the Radio Club, yet?
- Prizes will be given for the best answers to questions 1, 3 and 5. (Questions 2 and 4 were inserted so that any mention of the Radio Club would not be obvious.) You will be scored only the first, third and fifth questions. A score of 100 per cent will indicate that you know a lot more about this Radio Club business than I do.

R. W.

Counsel (to police witness)—But if a man is on his hand and knees in the middle of the road, that does not prove he is drunk?
Policeman—No, sir, it does not. But this one was trying to roll up the white line!—Jester.

Wolf Prints
BY GEORGE ROSS

Basketball gets into full stride this week at Davis, with both the varsity and frosh squads getting into action. Odds favor the Mustangs, but we like the Nevadans, who looked good in spots against Chico State.

The beauty of the Pack, as pointed out by Coach Schuchardt, is that the team is still afflicted by "mental lapses" and a victim of its inexperience. After a few games, the tangle-foot plays which set several Chico scores should be a less frequent part of the Nevada strategy.

Schuchardt, Aiken, and Bailey all subscribe to the theory that a team that looks lousy in practice sessions should be on edge for a good game when the chips are down, so put your kopeks on the hometowners.

Motley, if he gets back on the eligibility list, will add power on offensive rebounding, weak to date.

Football is still news, with lots of newcomers enrolling. Chappelle, who starred against the Frosh in the Salinas game—Brennan, star of the Placer J. C. backfield—Placer's Ostrom, a fullback slated to play a line spot—Branson, Salinas lineman—Rainone, workhorse fullback from Sacramento—Graham, Santa Ana all-southern California blocker—Blaylock, flash from Ventura J. C.—There's John Polish, hailed as one of the greatest of the prep backs in the state, and a veteran of Wolf Pack wars—Motley, due to put on the pressure in what is slated as the best schedule Nevada has had for a decade—little Ken Skidmore, still remembered as the defensive standout in the Fresno game, heading for a first string job—Fred Forson, up from the frosh with a handful of others—talk that Bob Lovelady, ex-Oregon frosh light, will enroll for a vital end job come fall.

Robinett To Serve
As Swim Coach

Bob Robinett, captain and guard on the 1940 University of Nevada football team and a former member of the San Francisco Olympic club swimming team, will serve as beginners' swimming instructor at the Reno YMCA during the remainder of the semester.

Paul Gale, freshman and former member of the Beverly Hills high school swimming team, will work with Jack Layson as an instructor in the advanced class.

The beginners class meets Wednesday at 3:30 and the advanced class Tuesday nights at 7 p. m.

Arriving at a strange hotel, a fussy woman thought she'd better know where the fire escape was. So she started exploring. During her tour, she opened a door and found herself in a bathroom occupied by an elderly gentleman.

"Oh, I'm sorry!" she twittered. "I was looking for the fire escape."

Continuing her search, presently she heard the pad of bare feet behind her and a shout made her turn. It was the elderly man, clad in a bath towel. "Wait a minute!" he gasped. "Where's the fire?"—Exchange.

Preliminary Trials For Nevada Skiers
Scheduled For Weekend, Scrugham Says

Preliminary team trials for Nevada's varsity ski team are scheduled for this week-end, according to Coach J. G. Scrugham, and a growing group of candidates is expected to try for places on the squad.

Eligibility troubles kept the Pack from participating in the informal meet sponsored by the University of California last week-end, which Scrugham had expected to use as a preliminary try-out for the squad. Trials thus had to be postponed until this week-end.

Intercollegiate competition so far lined up for Nevada snow men includes participation in Nevada's own Ski Carnival, beginning Jan. 31, and the Pacific Coast conference championships, which will be held at Yellowstone around the first of March. Squad members who have not yet won their letters will compete in the inter-frat ski meet Jan. 25 and 26.

Scrugham Optimistic
Coach Scrugham was optimistic over the showing of his yet untried team in practice, although it is possible that Charles and Oliver Henrikson may be lost to the team because of scholarship deficiencies. Their status is still uncertain. Their loss would be a blow to the Nevada team, as Oliver Henrikson won his letter last year, and Charles has been showing good form in practice sessions.

Scrugham pointed out that most of the trees for the squad are freshmen and sophomores, which augurs well for Nevada's skiing future, although lack of experience may keep some of the skiers from realizing their potentialities this year.

Smith, Gliessman Show Well
The showing of Bernard Smith and Lester Gliessman, sophomore skiers, particular pleased him. Scrugham said the veteran ski-and-pole men, Bill Nelson, Toby Larsen, and Duane Ramsey, have turned in good performances in practice sessions. Gerald Wetzel, transfer student, and a strong contender in the jumping event, sustained a slight leg injury while practicing jumps last week-end, but is expected to be in shape for team finals.

Regular Practice to Begin
Regular practice sessions will be held as soon as the preliminary team trials are over, Scrugham said. He explained that week-day practices have been difficult to hold, both because of the fact that some of the skiers have been busy during the week and because he has not yet been able to name a definite squad, since no trials have been held.

Varsity candidates include—beside Smith, Gliessman, Nelson, Larsen, Ramsey and Wetzel—Dick Sawyer, Charley Matson, Sam Osgood and Harold McCormick.

Hospital Claims Three

James Kehoe, Manuel Chappell, and Evelyn Osgood were this week confined to the university infirmary with influenza. John Stiefelberger is still under the care of Mrs. Griffin, the infirmary nurse, with a knee injury suffered last semester.

Pack Drops Close
Series To Chico

Proving much stronger than had been expected by pre-game dopsters, the Wolf Pack varsity hoop team dropped two close games to Chico State Friday and Saturday nights.

The Staters swept the series by winning the first contest 44-36 and fighting off a determined Nevada comeback in the second game to come out on the long end of a 47-43 score.

The two games were almost identical in scoring. Both nights the Pack jumped into an early lead which was slowly overcome by the Wildcats until the half ended in a tie score. The first night the halftime score stood at 20-20, while in the second encounter the count was 21-21.

In the second half of each contest the Wolves once more jumped into the lead but could not hold off the consistent scoring power of the Chico squad. Inability to hit the bucket on both foul shots and field goal attempts proved the downfall of Nevada. Coupled with this was sloppy ball handling which is usual with the first games of the season.

Chico has already this year played 12 games and has won 11. Saturday night's game was marked by a great number of penalties and saw two men removed for the limit of fouls and found many others with a count of three on them at the final gun.

Coach Charles Schuchardt substituted entire quintets during both contests, and the reserves, although lacking the scoring punch of the regulars, showed a great deal of needed speed. Ray Harris, veteran guard, proved to be the mainstay of the Nevada team. Harris was high point man for both squads during the contests, ringing up 15 points in the first contest and garnering 13 in the second.

Other men who stood out in the Nevada line-up were Tom Ross and Bob O'Shaughnessy.

Al Schleuter of Chico was the high scorer for the Wildcats, getting 24 points for the two games.

Greek Ski Meet
Set For Jan. 25

Greek skiers will test their respective abilities Jan. 25 and 26 at the annual intramural meet on the slopes of Mount Rose.

The meet will be held under the same rules used last year. Each fraternity may enter as many men as it wishes in any of the events, but three men must finish before that frat is eligible for points in the particular event.

Men who earned letters on the university ski team last year are not eligible to enter the meet, but may coach the crews from their houses. Advantage of this system is to eliminate those who have wider experience and at the same time build material for the varsity.

Pre-meet dopsters figure the Beta Kappas stand about the best chance of coming out in front with earned points behind the European-trained Sam Osgood, Charles Henrikson and Gerald McCormack.

Sigma Nu should be a formidable runner because of the size of its team. Paul Seaborn, Hugh Chessher, Bob McDonough, Bill Paterson, Bill Stead, Orsie Graves, Tom Harvey and Lester Gliessman are all good barrel stave gallopers.

Lincoln hall, though not having a large team; should take points on the skill of Bud Owens and Jim Wolf.

Charles Matson will probably be the old stalwart of Sigma Phi Sigma and will be backed by Harry Plath and Rex Daniels.

SAE is a dark horse because of the loss of most of its men through ineligibility. Toby Larsen, the mainstay of the SAE outfit, earned his letter last year and will not be available.

The athletic frat managers will hold a meeting Wednesday, Jan. 22, in the gymnasium at 4 p. m. to make final arrangements for the meet. All representatives are urged to attend.

"I called on a little blonde last evening and gave her just one of my famous kisses.

"And what did she say afterward?"

"Good morning."

Frosh: I just brought home a skunk. Roommate: Where you gonna keep him?

Frosh: I'm gonna tie him under the bed.

Roommate: What about the smell?

Frosh: He'll just have to get used to it.

CE Building In Left
Field Puzzles Local
Interfrat Baseballers

Interfraternity baseball players, looking ahead some two months, this week found themselves faced with their usual eight-game schedule and no field to play it on.

The old "rock-pile" eliminated from the scene by the construction of Nevada's new engineering building in what used to be left field, intramural athletes also found the way blocked when they turned hopefully toward Clark field, site of future interfraternity competition. Comptroller Charles H. Gorman's announcement that though WPA work on the field would be finished within two weeks, the new turf to be laid there would not allow play this spring and perhaps not this year, left the situation completely up in the air.

Chet Scanton, professor of physical education who directs the intramural program, said that the problem would be "worked out" as soon as possible.

Possible fields for the coming season include the city softball park at Idlewild and Threlkel's ball park, generally conceded to be one of the finest baseball plants on the Pacific Coast. Interfraternity ball was played at Idlewild in former years, but city officials last spring refused permission to university athletes to compete there, saying that the intramural season opened too early in the spring and that the grass was damaged before it had a chance to begin its normal growth. Ball players also pointed out that the Idlewild site is primarily a softball plant and is too small for hardball play.

Threlkel's ball park has not in the past been available for any university competition, but is under new management this year and may become the scene of this spring's Greek competition if some other arrangement is not worked out.

Should the grass on Clark field "take hold" as expected, fall football practice will probably be run off there next semester, saving Mackay stadium's turf for actual games.

Tucker Takes Over
Lead In Handball

At the halfway mark the Beta Kappa's are leading the pack in the inter-fraternity handball play-offs.

So far Lee Tucker, the BK's singles artist, is undefeated in league play, having come out on the long end of the score against four opponents and had one contest defaulted to him.

The Phi Sigma Kappa's entrant and defending champion, "Lefty" Mayer, is running a strong second to Tucker with four wins and one loss against him. The loss was suffered at the hands of the BK star.

Into a tie for third place were placed the Alpha Tau Omega contender, Bill Andrews, and Don O'Hagan of the Lincoln Hall association.

Three houses are tied for the fourth position at the completion of this week's play with two wins each. They are, with the men representing each: John Mayse, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; John Gabrielli, Independents; and Warren Salmon, Sigma Nu.

Lambda Chi Alpha's entrant, Lyle Roush, is in fifth position with one victory. The only house not so far having a mark in the victory column is the Sigma Phi Sigma. This is due to the fact that they appear to be represented by Yehudi, the little man that is never there.

Nevada Freshmen Meet Cal Aggie Colts
In Two-Game Series In California City

Bailey To Call For
Trackmen Jan. 25

First call for spring track will be made by Coach Jim Bailey about Jan. 25, weather permitting. Another call will be made March 1, however, at which time all prospective contestants in the interfrat meet must report for conditioning work. The fraternity men will train for one month before the meet.

Several good prospects are expected for the varsity, and Bailey looks forward to a better than average season.

John Sala, holder of the school record in the discus, has returned to school this semester and is expected to gather his quota of points. John Polish should return in his usual great all-around performances, and Trigerio is expected to star in the 440. Jim McNabney and Paul Seaborn will team up for the hurdles while Tom Kent and Gene Mastrolanni, freshmen stars of last year, will be threats to Nevada opponents in distance running. Jim Perkins and Pete Rosaschi will handle the weights.

The frosh will also be a threat this year, having in their ranks many former high school athletes.

Expected to report for Cub track are Royce Hardy and Fred Forson, Reno high's great dashmen; Floyd Edsall, classy hurdler from Sparks. Dean Stice, Las Vegas' chief threat at the state meet last year, and Clayton Slocum and Glen White, both Ely.

Matson Appointed
Ski Tournay Head

For the second successive year, Charles Matson, senior Sigma Phi Sigma, was appointed ski tournament director of the University of Nevada's annual Winter Carnival. It was announced through Graduate Manager Joe T. McDonnell's office early this week.

"Matson is especially well qualified for a second term at this job because of his outstanding work on last year's carnival," said McDonnell.

The tournament director has general supervision over all actual athletic sides of the carnival. He is in charge of all committees laying out courses for the several events, as well as of timers, starters, recorders, and judges.

As tournament director, Matson will work in close cooperation with Ski Coach Jim Scrugham for the next few weeks preceding the meet in order to assure a smooth running of all events when the tournament takes place Feb. 1 and 2.

Frosh Lose Two
To Ely Hoopmen

Jim Bailey's green freshman basketballers lost both games in their week-end series with the Ely Bobcats, Friday's game ending 46-31 and Saturday's 38-32.

Outstanding frosh in the Ely series were Seewald and Melarkey. Seewald was high point man for the two games. Swendenberg, Rose and Lemch were outstanding for Ely, with Swendenberg taking high point honors.

The Ely Bobcats were coached by Dan Bledsoe former All-American forward at the University of Nevada. His team was in better condition than the frosh by virtue of their previous games, Bailey said.

Scholastic difficulties had cut several players from the frosh squad, weakening it considerably, Bailey added.

Players making the trip were Ward Nichols, Philip Seewald, Jim Melarkey, Don O'Hagen, Bud Nuendorfer, Bruce Bowen, Mead Walker and Clayton Slocum.

Blue Key Get-Together
Opens Semester Socials

The spring social whirl at the University of Nevada banded in last Friday night, with the annual get-together sponsored by Blue Key.

Held at Tony's ballroom, the dance was attended by a large campus crowd. Music was furnished by Mark Nesbitt's orchestra. Refreshments sold at the dance by members of the service group netted a substantial amount, it was announced.
