FROM HERE ON IN . . . the Taus will have no trouble in holding their lead in the Kinnear trophy race. Come fall and the coveted trophy will be back in the showcase, where it sat for seven long years. Anyway, that LXA engraving at the end of the seventh is some consolation. Or is it?

INTERFRATERNITY BASEBALL . . . has some queer angles attached. For instance the Tau pitchers, O'Shaughnessy and Sorenson, have allowed only two hits in each of the three games they have worked. Then there is the 11 to 2 score in the Tau-Sigma Nu game Monday—and the Taus got only four hits. Our guess is that there will be no more 700 batting averages contracted in last year's games, especially with Roush and O'Shag failing to get their quotas so far. Maybe it's the dead balls, eh boys!

HERE'S WHERE WE PUT A PLUG . . . in for Chet Scranton and his interfraternity baseball program. Each year he is faced with the time element when it comes to interfrat baseball—this year no exception. There is one week left in which to make up cancelled games and to date there are enough cancelled games to fill a two-week schedule. Now what is to be done with these games that keep piling up? This bothers Scranton and his assistant, Lyle Roush, but seemingly no one else. After three weeks a few teams have played only one game and one Greek nine has played none. There is no excuse for cancelled games other than bad weather. This will not be agreed on by most kibitzer we know, but a policy by Director Scranton taken to enforce the playing of all scheduled games might come into effect if the Greeksters do not show a little more interest in getting these games out of the way.

NUMEROUS RUMORS HAVE . . . been floating around the campus as to the whereabouts of the ski trophies that were so carelessly lost after they were recently presented to the student body by the captain of the Nevada team, Gaylord Nelson. The rumors have been going around that both fraternity and sorority houses have them stored away; each one accusing the other. And then someone whispered in our ear the other day that they were sitting in a local pawn shop. When a group of five boys, representing the University of Nevada in an athletic contest come home and present three cups, one the Winter Carnival trophy, a 36-inch silver cup, another, the huge bronze PCISU cup and the third, a small jumping cup won at the Winter Carnival, and those cups are lost through carelessness on the

Nevada Students To Enter Amateur Boxing Tournament

Golden Gloves Tourney To Be Held in Reno April 15, 16 and 17

At least four University of Nevada men will fight in the Golden Gloves tournament to be held here April 15, 16 and 17.

George Pendo, Orin (Zug) Bennett, Warren Dark and Howard Heckethorne have all signed up for the tournament and will start training in evening sessions this week at the YMCA.

Rube Boyce, Phi Sigma Kappa and former university football player, will coach the four-man contingent from the university and several other entries from this locality who complete the entry from Reno.

Tony Poloni, a former University of Nevada boxer, will be one of the golden gloves referees, and football coach, Jim Aiken, is on the state AAU committee directing the tourney.

All of the university men will enter the novice division, although Heckethorne, Pendo and Dark have had some boxing experience either in high school or junior college rings.

Heckethorne had some high school boxing in Las Vegas; Pendo and Dark have both had slight experience knocking about in Jaycee gyms.

Zug Bennett will probably go in with the least practical experience, but he is reported to be a hard puncher and he is in good condition from football and basketball. Zug showed plenty of speed, stamina and shiftness so far.

Dark and Bennett will fight in the heavyweight class. Dark weighs 180 pounds and Bennett 170. Heckethorne and Pendo will box in the welterweight class. Heckethorne weighs 145 pounds and Pendo 143.

part of our student body officers, then it is high time that somebody gets hot under the collar even if it is the ski team itself. Think it over.

WITH VACATION IN MOST . . . of the high schools this week, Niel Olds, 170-pound halfback from Bishop high school, was seen around town this week in the company of Coach Aiken. Short on backfield material, the Nevada coach is especially pleased with the prospect of having the Bishop prepster on the Pack's roster next fall. And with spring football starting Monday, he is right in the mood for bargaining with potential footballers.

THE BLOCK N STAG NIGHT . . . went on the rocks a couple of weeks ago, but fight fans will still have a chance to see University of Nevada boxers in the Golden Gloves tournament, April 15, 16 and 17. Warren Dark fights in the heavyweight division; Zug Bennett also is entered as a heavyweight, while George Pendo is in the welterweight class along with Howard Heckethorne.

Taus Down Snakes, Hold Big Edge in Frat Ball League

'Mystery' Pitcher Gets Little Chance As BK's Postpone

ATO has virtually clinched the baseball crown, with only two opponents, weak SAE and doubtful Beta Kappa, remaining on its schedule. The Taus have not yet been pressed in league play, while SAE was trounced in its only encounter to date, and non-playing Beta Kappa, barring actual presence of a much-discussed "mystery" pitcher, does not appear to have the answer to Bob O'Shaughnessy and Alf Sorenson.

It was O'Shaughnessy's turn on the mound Monday and he kept command in a 11-2 Tau-Sigma Nu battle that started out as a pitcher's duel. All six batters went down via the strikeout route in the first inning. After that, however, Hugh Gallagher, Sigma Nu hurler, lost the plate, and a succession of walks and Snake errors bought an ATO four-run bounty in the second frame. Sigma Nu got back into the picture with a two-run third inning rally, but it wasn't enough. Gallagher couldn't get the ball over, and his successor, Jack Streeter, walked in five runs. O'Shaughnessy's consistent pitching and Gallagher's early inning efforts were the only outstanding features of the abbreviated five-inning tussle.

Lambda Chi hit Harold McGuirk hard and often after a slow start in their 15-6 triumph over SAE. McGuirk was effective in the first three stanzas, but Chi suddenly began a hitting spree, overcome a scoring deficit, and rode roughshod over the Violets, Lyle Roush strengthened his hold on SAE's batsmen after allow four runs in the first three frames, and chucked crafty, consistent ball during the remainder of the contest. Turk Eliades was the day's hitting star, slamming out two home runs, while his mates, led by Carl Dignino's two-for-four, secured their quota of safe blows. Eliades and Bob Robens again turned in a sparkling game field. McGuirk rode a fast pitch out of the park and Bill Morse doubled to center field for the Violets, whose defense was studded with errors.

Thursday's ATO-SAE postponement added more gray hairs to Director Chet Scranton's scalp. The three-week-old season has produced five games; postponements and Phi Sig-Independent forfeits have riddled the rest of the schedule.

Each nine is given two gift victories, while the Independent-Phi Sig game is considered a double foret, in the

Football Practice Starts Next Week; Material Is Scarce

Coach Aiken will definitely start spring football practice Monday, he announced this week. Suits will be issued Monday and practice will get under way Tuesday.

The practice will be informal as Aiken is short on material at this time, but he encourages anybody interested in this sport to appear at the training quarters Monday. This will give the coaches an opportunity to look over all players. Aiken stated that potential footballers who have any ability at all can be discovered at this time, and also it will give him and his staff a chance to work more with the boys at this time than in the fall. Many a good player could be uncovered at this time, he added.

As to the type of players Aiken expects, he said, "with the exception of a few boys, most of them would be very young."

Those expected for practice are veterans Sorenson and Hatalla along with Eliades in the backfield. In the line the only members from last year's varsity are Smithwick, Leavitt, Edsall, Beko, and Al Bader while up from the frosh are Pasquale, Wise, Parish and Cohen.

Freshman Women Make Poor Showing At Whitewash Party

Punishment will be severe for nearly 40 freshmen girls who did not report to paint the "N." Maryanne Lockridge, chairman of the upperclass committee, said this week. Out of a possible 80 girls who should have reported only about 40 were present when roll was checked on Peavine Saturday morning.

All offenders will be called to appear before the body and receive their punishment April 9, the next meeting of the committee.

Whitewashing the "N" is traditionally the job for freshmen men and women, and this year, in view of the smaller number of frosh, everyone was warned to be present or to have a valid excuse presented beforehand.

George Smith, chairman for the day, had requested previously that the whole class be present so there would be enough students to do the job.

Just a mild example of the punishment, Miss Lockridge said, was the exhibition put on last Friday in assembly by four offenders, punished for cutting campus. These girls were required to parade around school and through the assembly period wearing silly signs, tinkling bells, blowing whistles and doing other such nonsensical things.

"The punishment for the 40 freshman women offenders will be much more severe," she added, "since the necessity for their attendance Saturday was so important."

Offenders punished last Friday were Clara Beth Haley, Ethel Crouch, Pat Henry and Phyllis Baumann.

NO SLEEP FOR THE FUNNY PEOPLE

What with people screaming at midnight and races in the upper regions of the building, sleep has always been difficult in Artemisia hall. Now it has become a luxury.

Imagine the surprise of one girl the other night when she jumped into bed and felt her feet suddenly connect with the claws of a crayfish. The creature had, of course, been well preserved in formaldehyde.

Then there was another unfortunate who found her bed well filled with salt. Most dreaded of all practical jokes, however, is suffocation. The victim comes in late and quietly retires. Soon the fragrance of honeysuckle overwhelms her. She arises to find the source of the heavenly odor and finds that the surrounding area has been soaked with cheap perfume.

BELLS AT EASTER

The war seemed far away as the hiker moved slowly along the desert road. To the west, the mountain ranges hid the face of the sun. They were snow-capped and white on top, with long blue shadows creeping up the valley floor. Forming a backdrop was a pale sky, out of which the rays of the sun were slowly ebbing, leaving the capped peaks silhouetted against the blue.

Somewhere down the valley a church bell rang, and the hiker thought, "Church bells ringing—strange how much they mean—yet how little their significance strikes home."

"Church bells ringing—calling free people to worship, to honor and revere the name of a Man who taught the principles of brotherly love."

"Church bells don't ring like that in many places in this world, or when they do, it isn't a call to worship. No, it's a warning to run and hide in some cave or basement, and sit there, shaking in the fear that a bomb will be dropped on your head."

"Church bells ringing in Germany do not mean that men gather to hear words spoken without fear, or out of a true conscience; they mean that men shall gather to hear only the words of an earth-borne creature who preaches, not of the equality of man, but of a superior race whose duty it is to place in chains all members of other races. Who works not his miracles in behalf of the poor, or the sick or the blind, or those in need of alms. But commits crimes upon the spirits of liberty loving peoples. Who uses not tenderness nor kindness to work his miracles, but is a disciple of brute force incorporating the horror machines of modern warfare to scatter his doctrines. Though his miracles are wide in scope, they are not of the spirit, but of the flesh, and the people must pay homage to him or be imprisoned."

"Church bells ringing in France do not mean that the French people shall gather together at Eastertide to say again the praises of one who triumphed over oppressors. Such thoughts are taboo in France. Church bells tolling in France mean that sorrowing relatives and friends shall gather to mourn patriots who have sought to revenge the fall of their motherland through personal deeds of valor. And the church bells have tolled many times in France of late for that very purpose. Maybe there is some significance to this. Perhaps if the church bells toll often enough in France over some hero who has sacrificed himself for freedom, his fellow citizens will take it upon themselves to see that he does not die in vain. Such has happened before."

"Church bells—ringing in America. Speaking again and again of the spirit which made us a free people, telling of freedom of speech, of worship and thought. Whether they be Catholic or Protestant, Gentile or Jew, their story is the same. The story of America."

Brushing the Surface

BY BILL WYLIE

The Pocket Book Company is the recipient of this week's dedication; the reason is their two-bit edition of Abbe Ernest Dimmet's "The Art of Thinking." And we simultaneously salute anyone with enough financial recklessness to buy the book and enough intellectual curiosity to read it. Democracy as a theory is not sloppy nor is it inefficient; sloppy thinking and the indolent American attitude of "Let Joe do it" is what has made it at times sloppy in practice. We do not claim that a thorough reading of Abbe Dimmet's book will solve anything that has already been done; we do claim that if many of the people of this country read more books like it, it would prevent a re-occurrence of many of our national mistakes, and it would not take a war or higher taxes as the only ultimate thing which would instigate an interest in the government of the country. Our thinking is still too decorated with subjective bric-a-brac; when we begin to realize the objective simplicity of deciding whether it is more important to do anything at all than it is to win this war, we will begin to read the handwriting on the wall as it is written for us to read, and not as we personally want to read it. As we have pleaded here before, so do we plead again—"Buy defense stamps." And as that pleading goes unheeded, so will the story about the ostrich who woke up one morning to find himself goose stepping become decreasingly humorous and increasingly ironic.

Our editorial contribution now finished, let us turn to topics more amusing. It has been sometime since Bill (Scrivels on Publicity) Harrigan was nominated by this column for Nevada's ruggedest rugged individual. We now add to that our further nomination of Bill as Nevada's foremost floor show supplementer. His chiming in on Tom Hart's "Election Day Parade" number

Saturday night was without qualification the funniest thing these old eyes have seen in many moons. When Tom leaves for Chicago in a couple of weeks, we suggest that Bill plan his life around one thing—filling Harty's shoes (and it'll be a good snug fit, too).

If any of you reading this happens to know one of the boys who develops sad yearnings whenever he thinks of Nita Reifschneider, you might casually suggest that a fine pipe is just what she'd like for Easter. Three Matches Set For Tennis Team By Coach Deming

Netsters Will Invade COP, Chico and Cal Aggies In Single Trip

Tennis matches dates have definitely been set with College of the Pacific, Cal Aggies and Chico State college, Prof. M. W. Deming, tennis coach, announced this week.

On the morning of April 11 the COP tennis players will meet Nevada in Reno. The following weekend Nevada's men will play the Cal Aggies at Davis on Friday and Chico Saturday morning at Chico.

A fourth match with Sacramento JC is still undecided, but Dr. Deming said the other three matches will be all conference games and the most important for the squad.

This year's tennis squad includes six men. Al Mills, Lyle Roush and Dick Joplin are veterans from last year, while John Knemeyer, Hugh Wilton and John Gabrielli make up the rest of the squad. Mills, Roush and Joplin are almost certain starters in any competition, but playoffs are now underway to decide who will place on the starting squad.

The coach declined to comment on how this year's squad compares with last year's or what he thought their chances would be. He did say that the boys were doing well, considering the minor sports muddle and the early dates of his matches, which will deprive the boys of three weeks' practice usually counted on.

Bailey Is Pleased By Interfrat Times

Many of the intramural marks in last week's meet gladdened the heart of Jim Bailey, varsity coach. He was particularly impressed by Dick Waldman's 52.9 for the 440, Frank Knemeyer's 12-foot pole vault, Floyd Edsall's and Allan Bader's 5-foot 10-inch tie in the high jump and Bob O'Shaughnessy's 22-foot 1-inch broad jump.

Most distance and sprint marks were comparatively slow, but the track was too soft for any record breaking.

These intramural stars, and many of the other track meet winners, are on the varsity squad. Their performances Saturday indicate that Nevada will make a strong showing against their coast rivals this spring, according to Bailey. One source of pessimism developed, however, when Royce Hardy's pulled leg muscle kept him out of the competition. Bailey is doubtful whether the speedy sprinter will be able to work out for two or three weeks.

Bailey has watched San Francisco State's track team in action, and sized them up as an aggregation with half a dozen stars but little second and third place strength. He feels that his cinder men stand an excellent chance against the Gators, and, consequently, against the foe they defeated, Chico State.

ATO Takes Frat Track Meet and Kinneer Cup Lead

Edsall Tops Individual Point Getters With 17 1/2 Points

Outpacing its closest rival by 22 points, Alpha Tau Omega last Saturday annexed the 1942 track and field interfraternity championship to earn 100 points toward the Kinneer trophy.

Handicapped by the loss of Royce Hardy, who pulled a leg muscle, the pre-meet favorite Sigma Nus finished second with 38 points. In third place was last year's winners, Lambda Chi Alpha. Sigma Rho Delta was fourth; Beta Kappa, fifth, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, sixth.

The Taus placed at least one man in the first three places in every event except the mile and high jump. Bob O'Shaughnessy placed second in the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes to give the ATO team points in these events that they were not expected to get by pre-meet dopsters. Gould won the shot-put and discus events for the Taus and with Slocum, who won the 100 and 220-yard dashes for the Lambda Chis, was a double winner in the day's events.

Edsall of the Sigma Nus topped individual performers with a 17 1/2-point total and three first places to his credit.

Outstanding performances during the day were Waldman's 52.9 time in the 440; Knemeyer's clearing the pole vault bar at 12 feet after his opponents failed to make 11 feet 6 inches; O'Shaughnessy's 22-foot 1-inch broad jump and the 5-foot 9-inch mark in the high jump by Edsall and Bader.

Herb Chiara, Lambda Chi sprinter and broad jumper, suffered a severe spike wound while broad jumping and could not compete in this event, nor in the 220-yard dash.

Nevada Ski Team Aims for Another Cup on April 11

Vanderbilt Meet Will Cap Season for Nevada Champions

The University of Nevada ski team, present Pacific coast intercollegiate champions, will attempt to bring back to the Nevada campus one more cup before hanging up their skis this season. It will compete in the Vanderbilt meet on Donner Summit April 11 and 12 in the annual tournament sponsored by the University of California.

The five-man team will be composed of Duane Ramsey, Barnes Berry, Jerry Wetzel, Bill Becholdt and Bill Nelson.

All the coast schools, including Stanford, California, Oregon State, UCLA and a few junior colleges, are expected to enter.

Should the Nevada skiers win this meet, they will be undefeated in their 1942 season. They won the Winter Carnival tournament on Mt. Rose, then the PCISU championship in Yosemite. Coach Scrugham has been keeping the team in shape with weekly workouts on Mt. Rose and the Nevada coach feels confident that the team will bring back the handsome Vanderbilt trophy.

New Metallurgy Course Started In Mine School

Instruction Designed To Train Men in Strategic Metals

Designed to meet the growing demand for men trained in the testing and processing of strategic metals, a new course in metallurgy has been added to the Mackay school of mines curriculum at the University of Nevada.

The course leads to a B.S. degree in metallurgical engineering.

Its establishment is a direct result of the university's desire to keep step with the recent technological developments of the state, such as the rapid growth of the magnesium industry in southern Nevada.

Primary purpose of the new course is to provide broader training in modern metallurgical techniques.

Among the types of work that have been added are physical chemistry, electrometallurgy, iron and steel metallurgy and the metallurgy of rare and minor metals. In addition there will be more training in physics laboratory methods, in which students will learn to handle the many delicate testing instruments used in the profession.

Magnesium will receive special attention in several aspects of the new course.

Another important change has been the addition of 20 elective credits, that is, work which the individual student may elect to fill his particular needs. Thus the student will be able to take far more work in chemistry, for instance, than ever before.

This increased flexibility is regarded by university officials as one of the new course's chief advantages.

Nevada graduates are already taking their places in the magnesium industry, with at least a dozen now in the southern Nevada plants. To provide greater opportunity for future graduates and to help fill the great demand for specially trained metallurgists is expected to be the dual effect of the university's new course.

A new special course in the chemistry of strategic metals will also be offered at Nevada next fall.

Farm Machinery Class Cooperates

The department of farm mechanics of the college of agriculture is directing its efforts toward furthering the service of the university to the nation in time of war, Louis Titus, instructor, announced this week.

Students in farm machinery have completely repaired, overhauled and painted two farm machines that otherwise might have been discarded as un-serviceable. Members of this class are Dan Solari, Verl Hendriks and Merton Domonoske.

In addition the department has cooperated with the state war board and the state department of vocational education in giving a night course for ranchers in farm machinery. The class is instructed by W. C. Higgins of the university staff, and is supervised by R. B. Jeppson, state head of vocational agriculture.

Local implement dealers have opened their salesrooms and offered the services of their field men to group meetings of ranchers, stressing the problems of proper care, operation and adjustment of farm machinery.

Lambda Chi Alpha, defending champions in the fraternity division, will enter a contingent under the leadership of Gene Francovich, while Alpha Tau Omega, who won the cup for two years running previous to last year's Chi win, will enter a double quartette headed by Kenneth Eather.

Delta Delta Delta's double quartette will be headed by Shirley Dimock and Pat Johnson, while Patsy Prescott and Barbara Heany have whipped the always pleasing Pi Beta Phi contingent into shape. Gamma Phi Beta's team is headed by Sybil Furchner and Mary Hill.
