Traner Says Nevada First Despite Many Calls From Out of State

"The teacher situation in the state as I see it is becoming more desperate every day," Fred W. Traner, dean of the department of education, said this

He further stated that in the last six weeks he had received requests for at least ten teachers to fill vacancies throughout the state. Some of the po are open now, others will be sitions open in January.

Some of the positions reported to Dean Traner have been a principalship in a high school, openings for two teachers of high school English, three vacan-cies in athletic departments, an elementary music and band teacher, a one-room school vacancy in January, a teacher of high school Spanish, and a teacher of high school history.

He has received some requests from out of state schools and employment bureaus for teachers, but is unable to find enough teachers to fill Nevada

FINAL CHORUS COMING UP

As this is printed, the time remaining in the semester adds up easily, a matter of weeks.

Although most of the male portion of the student body is still Friday's paper would be considerably better. in a quandary as to what will happen to them at the end of the semester, a great many of that male portion is convinced-and with considerable reason-that they will not be in school come next semester.

Those in the Army Enlisted Reserve, according to the last word had on the matter, will probably go onto active duty at the completion of their present semester. It has been some time since Secretary of War Stimson's declaration on the Enlisted Reserve, and some things have changed, but whether Stimson has changed his mindor precisely what he had on it in the first place-is not known.

Men now eligible for the draft under the 18-19 year old draft law will start going soon.

Marine Corps reservists are liable to call in the near future, having received notice to that effect some time ago.

Some men who had educational deferments have found in the last few weeks that they will no longer be deferred, due to changes

What we actually meant to say in starting this piece, before we launched into a summary of the likelihood of induction into the service of various reserve and unaffiliated groups of students, was that for many of us on the hill the verse music of our swan song may be heard, and the final chorus is coming up very shortly.

And those who are or who may be about to go-and the uncertainty of their stay is another factor in making it difficult for them to make up their minds about anything-quite naturally are lost souls, lar mark (we avoid use of exact figures at Mr. Prescott's request). in a sense. They will have memories of the rich, full years at Nevada, and they will savor this their last one as only seniors ordinarily can. And for the seniors among them who must leave before graduation it may be especially hard, for there is so much more here for them to miss, since they must have known more of Nevada than any others

The problem will be almost the same which faced those men at the beginning of the school year when it first became apparent that male students weren't destined to be going to school here much longer. But the problem is heightened now, multiplied many times.

ON KEEPING HOUSE

In the Letters to the Editor column of this issue is a letter received this week from three of the numerous critics of the Sagebrush. We would ordinarily print such a letter without comment, since popular demand in this league). Here we feel no necessity to make excuses on the charges made. However, this time, because of the tone of the letter and the everal inaccuracies, we feel we should reply.

The authors of the letter suggest-indeed they say almost bluntly -that the omission of certain types of news is due to deliberate discrimination—"petty prejudices" on the part of "higher ups" on the Brush; to laziness of the editor-lack of "looking around"; lack of news sense—failure to "get the really important stories and print them while they're important." After a first reading of the letter, we felt like a thorough scoundrel and a rank incompetent. A second reading made us feel better.

For one thing we saw that we could point out in regard to the instance offered by the Gothic N writers—omission of WAA news -the fact that our most important source for WAA news refused to give any information to a 'Brush reporter for over a month this semester. (Note: The 'Brush survived during that time.)

And we could also point out that what WAA news is made available to the 'Brush is always given to us late in the week, when it must compete with more important news for a place in the paper. If it was made available on Tuesday, its chances for appearing in Similar reasons might be found to explain the occasional absence of some other types of news in the paper, too, and our Gothic N correspondents might have discovered some of them had they bothered to make any preparation for writing their letter to the editor besides getting mad at him.

Selection of what to print and what not to print due to lack of space is an obvious necessity for the Sagebrush editor, and is entirely a matter of judgement on his part. He may be wrong, and admittedly often is, but at least his is a trained selection, and is based on more considerations than any of his readers are ordinarily aware of.

The editor does as fair and impartial a job in this selection and as complete a job of news coverage as is possible, and contrary to implications in the letter, he is not conducting any dark plot against WAA or any other group.

And we might add that he accepts all responsibility for everything that appears in the 'Brush-and for much that does not, in a in draft board rulings as to what groups are worthy of deferment. different way. For this reason we suggest our critics should not refer vaguely to "higher ups" on the 'Brush, but address all their complaints directly to Friel, because most likely he dood it anyway-

And without making any admissions, but just to make a point of logic in regard to the statement that the 'Brush should get its own We could make some remarks about the very real need for a house in order before starting to clean up the campus, we would like clear and understandable policy on the part of the government agen- to point out that an untidy person can be a perfectly good house-

WAR TAKES NO HOLIDAYS

Examination of the weekly figures supplied the Sagebrush by Robert Prescott, campus postmaster, shows that war stamp buying, after getting under way nicely a month and a half ago, took a terrific nose dive this week.

short, dribbling swiftly out between our fingers with each passing day

How best to spend it? How best to spend the elusive running moments?

With the observation of Pearl Harbor Day this very week, and especially since it was observed here at Nevada with the dedication of the service flag already studded with several gold stars, we wonder if many of these men whose time is running out would be tempted to spend their last weeks in mere idle pleasure, even though in past good times at Nevada will some of their best and greenest memories of the Hill exist.

But, perhaps, they might be so tempted, because even though there's a war, and even though it's getting closer and closer to home, in many ways, human beings are always human beings. College students, like all other people, cannot change over night, and not even in a full year of war can they do a complete about-face.

And it is not even desirable that they should, even though they should, of course, do everything possible to further the war effort in such ways as lie open to them.

They should and do remain human-still with love of the good things, still with nostalgia for good things past, still with bright hope of good things to come from the same place.

And so they are tempted.

To these people we say this, and we say it out of a sincerity and concern born of the fact that we belong to the very group to which we would speak:

Your beloved Hill will be greener in your memory if it is not marred by a cloud built between you and it by the fact that you spent your last days on it too foolishly to give them worth.

You have every right to have all the good times possible in the closing weeks of your stay at Nevada so long as these times do not interfere with any more serious business you have here, but you should remember this:

The fabric of all that you will remember of your stay at Nevada is woven of many things, not just one. It is woven of hard work and

Hawthorne Prepsters Defeated by Frosh; Meet Reno Tonight

By a score of 33-21 the Nevada frosh downed Hawthorne high school to win their opening game of the season last Friday night in the University of Nevada gym. The cubs were led by Ed Reed, allstater from Reno high school, who pounded the hoop for ten points, and Jack Swedenborg of Ely who made six; these two frosh also play for the varsity squad. At the end of the first half the frosh held a lopsided lead of 20-2. Hawthorne came to life in the last half and scored 19 points to the cubs' 13, and as the game progressed it looked as though Hawthorne might catch them. Parker carried much of the Hawthorne burden, but in the last half Buonamic of Hawthorne strated sink Buonamici of Hawthorne started sink-ing baskets from all angles to score nine points and scoring honors for the Hawthorne team.

The frosh who saw action were Smith Turcott, Williams, Kramer, Bell, Bel-nap, Hilts, Martinez, Brannan, Swed-enborg, Bruce, Shaw, Reed, Drakulich, Cross, Knox, Hawkins, Olds, Audrain Baciscolumi, Comer, ONEdi Bacigalupi, Crew, O'Neil, Bradshwa, Cashbaugh, Minor and Clark. high school, according to Jim Aiken, frosh coach. Aiken stated that the lineup would probably be Drakulich and Hilts at forwards, Hank Menaberry or Don Bruce at center, and Cross and Crew at guards. Reed and Swedenborg are sure to see action if they decide to play for the frosh again this week.

Not much is known about the Reno team; however, Reno has a couple of veterans back on the team and are rounding into shape rapidly.

Old Band Uniforms Used By Swift's Class For Material

Twelve members of Jessie P. Pope's a theme subject. beginning clothing class have had a busy term. It all began when Professor Theodore Post donated the old band uniforms to the home economics department. With so many sweaters, so many good flannel and gold buttons on hand, Mildred Swift, head of the department, conceived the idea of making over the uniforms into useful clothes for some glers. Outside of these, their stipula-
