Army Negotiation Committee To Arrive Soon To Make Contract

Pre-Cadets Head Plans Courses To Rush Program

A telegram received yesterday by President Leon W. Hartman from the army air force western procurement district announced that a site planning and negotiation committee would visit the campus in the near future to prepare a formal contract with the school officials.

The district supervisor asked the university officials to prepare the following data so that the committee could finish its business as soon as possible. First a schedule showing alterations, improvements and additional equipment necessary to accomplish the air force training program. A schedule identifying buildings to be used, including dormitory, dining halls and gymnasium, also cost of building operations.

The officer also requested a list of cubic foot content and square foot floor area of each of the buildings used by the pre-cadets with the book value of each building.

Report on Staff

Along with these details they want a report on the average salaries of the teaching staff to be used for the program, a list of necessary classroom supplies, including text books, and an estimate of subsistence expense on per man per day basis with cost analyzed.

All of the costs listed for the committee must conform to operations for the past three years of university as indicated by the published financial statements.

Pre-Cadet Training

At Nevada pre-cadets already here will receive at least one month of actual flight training, according to Capt. Murrell D. Nelson, commanding officer of the detachment.

The Reno Sky Ranch facilities and instructors probably will be used, Captain Nelson said, but the entire training is to be under the commanding officer of the men.

At present the academic course being taken by the trainees is being speeded up in order to have the last month free for active flight training. The men are having regular classes four days each week rather than three as was originally planned, Captain Nelson said.

Men now training here who show proficiency will probably be removed to flight schools sooner than those who do not, he said. These latter men will probably remain here for further training.

The next group of trainees to arrive about April 1 will be beginners just as the first were, he stated, and will take essentially the same course. They will, however, be housed in the new gymnasium.

Facilities to care for the second contingent are being organized and many improvements are being made. A few additions are expected to be made to the facility, although many of the instructors plan to double-up in teaching the second group. Hospital facilities of the Reno Air Base may be used in case of emergencies, Captain Nelson added.

Infirmary Reports

A considerable number of cadets have visited the infirmary this week, according to nurse Eunice Griffith, and some have had to be confined.

Most troublesome illness was cold which necessitated hospitalization of some of the men.

Several cases of measles appeared among the pre-cadets and these men were removed to the Reno Air Base hospital, Nurse Griffith said.

First Aid Classes

First aid classes for pre-cadets are well under way due to the efforts of voluntary instructors, Dr. Edward W. Lowrance, supervisor of first aid and professor of biology, announced.

The cadets are divided into seven sections each consisting of 35 men. The classes will meet once a week for approximately 20 weeks.

Some difficulty was experienced in obtaining certified Red Cross instructors to serve at the designated hours of the classes. Fire Chief George Twaddle and Willis Pressel, of the local Red Cross chapter, assisted in securing the instructors, Lowrance said.

Coach Jake Lawlor and Professor Eldon Witwer of the University of Nevada faculty, Captains J. P. Mosconi, H. G. Van Meter and R. A. Trimbald of the Reno fire department and E. D. Hershey and George Hamilton are the present instructors.

The course emphasizes splinting, bandaging and treatment of wounds.

NEW GAMMA PHI PLEDGE

Harriet McNeil, sophomore student from Sparks, was pledged to Gamma Phi Beta sorority last night, Betty Nash Carlson, announced today.

TWO IN FACULTY ILL

Dr. Phillip A. Lehenbauer and Dean Reuben C. Thompson were confined to their homes this week due to illness.

Poe Only Woman To Win in Ballot At Yesterday's Poll

Hattala Noses Melarkey Out of Representative Position

The student body marched to the polls again yesterday to elect a representative to the board of athletic control and three class managers. The new officers were sworn into office at the student body assembly this morning.

Bette Poe, recently appointed Artemisia editor, won the sophomore class managership prize by defeating her Sigma Nu opponent, Robert Ast. During the primary balloting she led the voting.

Hattala Elected

In the representative race John Hattala, junior ATO, who trailed Jim Melarkey, SAE finalist, in the primaries, forged ahead in the final ballot and won the election by a count of 94 to 86.

The junior race turned out to be one of the most closely contested posts on the ballot as Bruce Bowen, Lambda Chi junior, edged out Gamma Phi Brownlie Wylie by a vote of 29 to 25. Bowen also led in the Thursday primaries.

The freshman contest was the closest on the ballot as Jack Swedberg, ATO frosh, nosed out Genevieve Siri, freshman Delta Delta Delta. The count was 35 to 33.

Amendments

The six constitutional amendments were all approved by large majorities. The first amendment dealing with rewording of ASUN cards and the deleting of section 5 was passed by a vote of 175 to 9.

Amendment 2, which had to do with the changing of the word "dues" to read "assessment" for the privilege of participating in ASUN activities, was also favored by a vote of 166 to 15.

Number Three

Amendment 3, which concerned budget appropriation for the support of intercollegiate activities not to exceed a certain sum, was also supported by a count of 165 to 11.

Division 1, Article V, Section 5, which was deleted, was voted on favorably by a tally of 137 to 21.

Amendment 5 phraseology the word "appropriated" to "allotted" was approved by a vote of 151 to 18.

The tenure of office of ASUN senators was changed to accord with the senatorial election of the organization represented and was favored by a count of 166 to 10.

A total of 19 votes were cast in the election.

Campus Officials Turn Down Offer For 400 Engineers

Investigating the feasibility of training 400 army engineers at the University of Nevada, Col. William A. McAdam of Ogden, Utah, inspected the campus Monday.

University officials, however, said that it would be impossible to accommodate the 400 training engineers in addition to the 500 pre-cadets of the Army Air Forces who will be here by April 1.

The University of Nevada had been named one of the approved colleges for additional courses in the specialized war training program for the armed forces in an OWI news release early this week. Training was to be in basic engineering.

Col. McAdam was accompanied on his inspection of the campus by J. E. Kitchen, of the local bureau of the U. S. Engineers, and Capt. Thomas C. Prunty, campus military department.

After discussion of the possibility of training the engineers at Nevada, a report stating that it was impossible for the institution to handle the grant was dispatched to headquarters of the Ninth Service Command.

Press Convention Registration Fee Raised by Costs

Registration fee for the annual high school press convention, April 2 and 3, will be slightly higher than last year, according to Carl Digno, convention chairman.

The fee has not yet been determined, but it is expected to exceed the $37.50 charged last year. One reason for the increased fee is the raised costs of transportation and food, Digno added.

This year the representatives will make reservations for their lodgings independently of the convention committee.

Capt. John Barrett, Nevada Graduate '39, Visits Alma Mater

Capt. John W. Barrett visited the campus briefly this week on his way to his new station at Camp Beale, California.

Captain Barrett has just returned from Schofield Barracks, Honolulu, where he was commissioned captain last fall.

His wife is the former Mary Margaret McGill, who attended the university and was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Captain Barrett was graduated from Nevada in 1939, and while on the campus was active in student affairs and a prominent member of Scabbard and Blade.

During his travels he has met many other Nevada graduates in the war zone, among them Robert Miller now with the United Press, and Mitchell Cobega, with the Army Air Forces.

Pi Beta Phi Wins Pan-Hellenic Cup For Scholarship

Awarded at Assembly By Betty Nash Carlson

Pi Beta Phi was awarded the Pan-Hellenic Scholarship cup for the fourth consecutive semester at assembly this morning having attained an average of 2.7 for last semester.

Artemisia-Manzanita Association was awarded the greatest improvement plaque with an improvement of .21 over their average of the corresponding semester of 1941.

Kappa Alpha Theta placed second in the race for the scholarship cup with an average of 2.5 and Gamma Phi Beta showed with 2.4.

Zeta Phi Zeta made an improvement of .16 thus making second place for the improvement plaque and Kappa Alpha Theta placed third with 1.3.

Pi Phi will be the first sorority to have its name engraved on the new cup. The former cup having been won by Pi Phi three consecutive semesters was awarded to them permanently last year. Pi Phi has won two scholarship cups. Delta Delta Delta has won one.

Doctor Birkhoff Chosen as Speaker For Engineers' Day

Speaker Picked by Local Chapter of Sigma Xi, Headed by Vance

Dr. George D. Birkhoff, professor of mathematics at Harvard University, will address the student body on "The Mathematical Nature of Modern Physical Theories" at the Engineers' Day assembly, March 19, it was announced today.

The lecture is sponsored by the Sigma Xi, national scientific and research society, headed on the campus by Dr. E. P. Vance.

Two years ago the group sponsored Dr. Harlow Shapley, instructor of astronomy at Harvard, and president of Sigma Xi, who addressed the students on topics of astronomy.

Doctor Birkhoff is an outstanding mathematician of the world today rated by many as being as proficient in his field as Einstein. He has written many books on mathematical theory.

Following the assembly a luncheon will be held by the Sigma Xi group at the Trocadero.

Gibson Leaves for Fort Hayes, Ohio; To Serve on the War Manpower Board

Col. John H. Gibson, professor of military science and tactics at the university since August 1, 1942, left early today for Fort Hayes, Ohio, where he will serve on the War Manpower Board.

Capt. T. C. Prunty will be acting head of the department until the war department names Colonel Gibson's successor. Another change in the campus military headquarters is the addition of Sgt. William C. Jones to assume the duties of staff sergeant.

Colonel Gibson took over the local ROTC unit after serving as head instructor for the Ogden high school cadets. He first entered the army in 1917 after spending two years at the University of Washington. While in school he was affiliated with the SAE fraternity.

Served Overseas

After entering the army Gibson was sent to Texas and then overseas where he served with the seventh division of the army. After overseas duties, he re-

First Reservists Leaving Sunday For Army Duty

Thirty-Four Men Go March 14; Others Follow Soon

Thirty-four ERC students leave Sunday for Salt Lake City to report for active duty with the United States Army.

The first group of six called about a month ago are under the supervision of Norman Towner. They are Howard Heckethorn, Stanley Cohen, Steve Zoradi, Paul Weaver and Mike Drakulich.

The second group called two weeks ago is headed by Ray Davis and consists of Bill Beko, Bob Bruce, Charles Culverwell, Emery DeRushia, Howard Farrell, William Eccles, James Forsyth, John Gabrieli, Ego Granata, Orsie Graves, Howard Haman, John Hawkins, Paul Hoefling, Bill Henley, Charles Irish, Charles Johnston, John Jorgensen, Robert Kendall, Crosten Stead, Forrest McQueen, William O'Brien, Harry Paille, Bernard Smith, Hale Tognoni, Richard Vietti, LeRoy Wadsworth and John Warren.

Eighteen reservists have calls for duty March 27, while two others report for duty March 29.

Debater Coach Receives Final Results of Meet

Echeverria and Young Win Ten Straight Debate Contests

Pete Echeverria and Clifton Young won first place in the debate contest at the tournament of speech held at Linfield College winning ten straight contests and being the only undefeated team in the tournament, according to the final results of the contests received, this week by Dr. Robert Griffin, debate coach.

The tournament consisted of eight preliminaries and two finals. Of these the second Nevada team, Bob Crowell and Bruce Bowen, won four preliminaries and two finals, and tied for third place with Stanford University and Pepperdine College of Los Angeles. Redlands College and College of the Pacific tied for second place.

Echeverria of Nevada won first place in after dinner speaking, Williamette University second and Pepperdine, third. Echeverria was awarded six first places by ten judges in four rounds of speaking.

All four Nevada men were entered in extemporaneous speaking and among them won one first, two seconds, one third and five fourths.

Clifton Young took second place in oratory and the Nevada team tied for fourth and fifth places in impromptu speech. Each of the events consisted of four rounds.

Orders Cancelling Call to Service Received by Three

Three junior advanced ROTC students, Stan Reese, Charles Burke and Robert Brambilla, have received temporary cancellation orders from the ninth corps area this week.

They were called through the ERC channels to leave March 27, but Col. John H. Gibson wrote to the Salt Lake headquarters and asked army officials to let the cadets remain in school.

One other cadet, Bob Collins, has not received any notice of cancellation as yet.

New Play Tryouts Planned Next Week By Patsy Prescott

Patsy Prescott, who will direct the campus production of "Out of the Frying Pan," a three-act comedy by Francis Swann, announced this week that tryouts will be held Monday and Tuesday at 4 pm in the Education auditorium.

A cast of 12, six women and six men, is needed for the play which is the story of young would-be stage folks who try to interest a Broadway producer with themselves.

The class in play production will announce present three one-act dramas this spring. Adey May Dunnell, Mary Louise Griswold and Viola Sorenson will be the directors and will schedule tryouts next week.

Three Sororities Elect Officers For New Semester

Thetas, Tri-Delts, Gamma Phi Elect Sorority Leaders

Shirley Dimock, Delta Delta Delta; Nita Reifschneider, Kappa Alpha Theta; and Brownlie Wylie, Gamma Phi Beta, were elected presidents of their respective sororities at recent elections.

Miss Dimock is a junior home economics student from Las Vegas; Miss Reifschneider is a junior journalism student from Reno and is also active on the Sagebrush staff, and Miss Wylie is an economics student from Carson City.

Ruth Mary Noble is new vice-president of the Tri-Delts, Kathleen Norris of the Gamma Phi and Doris Post of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Theta Officers

Other officers of Theta are Bette Poe, treasurer; Katherine O'Leary, assistant treasurer; Lois Bradshaw, corresponding secretary; Ruth Johnson, assistant corresponding secretary; Clara Beth Haley, recording secretary; Jane Dugan, social chairman; Phyllis Kanters, assistant social chairman; Theresa Ann Nagle, house manager; Arlene Meriardo, assistant house manager; Dorothy Savage, senator; Bonnie Yater, assistant senator; Eley Williams, rush captain; Jacqueline Reid, town assistant rush captain; Mary Gusewelle, out-of-town rush captain; Lela Iler, chaplain; Jane McCustion, librarian; Frances Cook and Kathleen Blythe, marshalls; Jacqueline Reid, editor; Jayne Creel, pledge trainer; Mary Gusewelle, musician; Caroline Gibson, assistant musician; Jean Bailey, activity chairman; Alice Hardy, assistant activity chairman; Jean Bailey, archivist; Peggy Mueller, historian; Annette Leighton, publicity chairman; Thelma Charlton, service chairman, and Joyce Record, assistant service chairman.

Installation of the new officers will be held at the meeting Monday night.

Tri-Delts

Delta Delta Delta officers who were elected February 22 and installed March 1, are Fomita Ferguson, treasurer; Patricia Herz, assistant treasurer; Helen Cashbaugh, chaplain; Katherine Henningsen, corresponding secretary; Virginia Waltenspiel, recording secretary; Annette Donati, social chairman; Nancy Herz, assistant chairman; Lucile Brown, house manager; Janet Wilson, senator; Dorothy Locke, rush captain; Valerie Scheeline, assistant rush chairman; Jeanne Forsyth, librarian; Betty Sullivan, marshalls; Ruth Mary Noble, pledge trainer; Sara Lee Wylie, historian, and Betty Mognioni, publicity chairman.

Other Gamma Phi officers are Melba Triger, recording secretary; Mary Alice Holmes, corresponding secretary; Darden Tibbs, treasurer; Leonore Hill, pledge trainer; Lois Welden, rush chairman; Mary Beth Winchester, house manager; Doris Knight, social chairman; Lillian Sloan, scholarship chairman; Frances Crane, publicity; Carol Smith, historian; Betty Lou Kirkley, Crescent correspondent, and Jeanne Chartier, activity chairman.

Gamma Phi installation will be held Monday night.

Spring Election Omission Discussed At Senate Meet

Mackay Day May Receive Publicity From Radio, 'Life'

Coast Papers Contacted For Society Spread On Queens

Two radio programs, several coast newspapers and one national magazine will soon carry stories publicizing Mackay Day, if present committee plans materialize, Warren Salmon, chairman, announced today.

Life magazine has again been contacted in regard to publishing a pictorial story of Mackay Day. A Life photographer visited the campus last year and pictures of various campus personalities reached the pages of the magazine. Possibilities of a recurrence of this opportunity at such a short interval, however, are remote, Salmon remarked.

"Death Valley Days," radio program, has been notified of the possibilities of dramatizing some part of the life of John Mackay, but the committee has not as yet received a reply.

Possibly the Tonopah Air Base band will present a few University of Nevada songs on their Saturday afternoon broadcast. The committee is awaiting word from the air base on that regard.

Queen candidates will have group pictures taken next week for distribution to various papers on the coast.

Additional plans for Mackay Day were also announced by Salmon.

Impersonations of Buffalo Bill, Pochontas, Sandy Bowers, Elley Orrum or any other western character, famous or not, will be permitted on the campus Friday, April 9, and Saturday, April 10.

As usual prizes will be awarded for the best woman's costume and the best man's costume at the date Saturday evening. Costume contestants will be requested to parade before the judges who will eliminate a few at a time until a decision is reached.

The beard judging contest will also take place at the dance in much the same manner. Prizes will be awarded for the reddest beard, the heaviest beard and the best trimmed beard.

Harry Upson's seven-piece band and vocalists have consented to perform for the dance. The State building ballroom will be decorated in a western theme for the affair. Doors will be open at 9 o'clock for all "Mackay Dayers" who are willing to pay $1.10 to "see the fun."

Mackay Day luncheon will be served as usual in the old gymnasium. Enough food has been made available through the efforts of the Mackay Day committee. Plates will sell at 40 cents.

Cadets on the campus are invited to all Mackay Day affairs, Salmon said.

Dot Savage Elected New AWS President

Honor Rotates to Thetas This Year

Dorothy Savage, Kappa Alpha Theta, was elected president for the Associated Women Students at a meeting Monday night and will replace Betty Nash Carlson, present head.

The AWS presidency is a rotating honor for the various houses and the Independents. The office is held by a different house every year.

Miss Savage, a junior, was elected to the office by the Thetas. She has been active on the campus and is one of the yell leaders this year. The AWS president also serves as vice-president of the student body.

Committee Asks Help of Coeds

The university presidents' convention committee this week is recruiting university women for assistance during the convention, April 29 through May 2, Bruce Bowen, chairman, announced this week.

Two separate tasks are slated for volunteers to choose from: One is taking minutes in shorthand at all business sessions and typing the notes for file, and the other is to serve as dates for the visiting presidents.

Friday night of the convention will be a stag party under the direction of Blue Key, men's honorary group. Visiting women presidents will be entertained by Nevada coeds during that evening.

Saturday night a dinner meeting will be held at the Trocadero.

Opinion of Greeks Will Decide Fate Of New Proposal

Discussion of possible amendments aimed at the elimination of the spring election for student body and class officers and at making it possible for women to run for the position of student body president were discussed in Senate Wednesday night, according to Gene Mastroianni, ASUN president.

Senators were instructed to sound out the opinions of their respective groups at Monday night meetings and report to Addison Millard, chairman of the constitutional revision committee, by Wednesday of next week, Mastroianni said.

If a majority of groups represented in Senate are in favor of writing such amendments into the constitution, the revision committee will draw up the necessary constitutional changes and they will be considered by Senate at its next meeting. If approved there they may be voted on by the student body in a general election.

In other business, the Senate was asked by a delegation from Pan-Hellenic consisting of Fritz Jane Neddereip and Betty Nash Carlson, for a clarification of the status of Zeta Phi Zeta.

President Mastroianni, appointed a committee headed by Frances Hawkins, Pi Phi senator, to look into the matter and report at the Senate's next meeting.

Other Members

Also on the investigating committee are Jerry Streshley, Zeta Phi Zeta; Bob Crowell, Theta Chi; Betty Nash Carlson, Gamma Phi Beta; Rose Arenaz, Independent.

Miss Hawkins introduced a proposal that all underclass men be required to paint the "N" the week before Mackay Day, since the reduced enrollment in the frosh class makes it difficult for the one class to do a good job.

She also asked that upperclass men show up to work on the painting of the "N." Attendance would not be compulsory for upperclass men.

The Senate agreed to ask President Leon W. Hartman to put Homecoming on the calendar in the catalogue, even though there may be some chance that the celebration will not be held.

The group accepted revisions of the Senate by-laws.

Important changes made were: Time of meeting was left to the discretion of the chairman, the only remaining stipulation being that a meeting be held at least twice a month.

Memberships

The legal Senate membership was changed to 14 from 18; quorum number was changed from 14 to nine; the number to be recognized as a two-thirds majority was changed from 12 to nine.

A ruling providing that minutes of all Senate meetings appear in the Sagebrush was changed so that a news story summarizing important points is sufficient.

The group decided to have the annual Senate party at a meeting at the Gamma Phi Beta house March 24. Bob Hoyer, Sigma Rho Delta and Betty Nash Carlson were placed in charge of the affair.

Two new senators were introduced at the meeting: Janet Wilson, Delta Delta Delta, and Dorothy Savage, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Intramural Sports Dropped by Martie

"There will be no intramural sports this semester," Dr. J. E. Martie, head of the physical education department, announced this week.

"Due to the increasing amount of men leaving for military service, a complete interfraternity program would not be feasible," Martie concluded.

The condition is further complicated as to what place the cadets will take in the athletic picture. The cadets are awaiting army orders as to when they will begin flying before any definite plans for sports competition can be concluded.

Plans are now being made to organize a complete intramural program of sports activities that would embrace almost every male in the institution. The cadets have a very strenuous academic schedule and there is a possibility that they will not be able to participate in a full athletic program.

Under the proposed athletic plan competition will be held in most sports this semester. Competition will be held in volleyball, track, softball, baseball and possibly horsehoes.

Martie stated that a definite program will be submitted in the near future, after the army physical fitness program is submitted to the department. Martie has also received detailed plans for an obstacle course suggested for the university.

NO VALEDICTORY NECESSARY

The first group of ERC men from Nevada pulls out Sunday night, 34 strong. Others follow March 27 and 29.

Most of them will probably be glad to go, for certain reasons, probably largely because of the fact that they prefer definite action to uncertainty, and also because most of them realize that they have been going to school on borrowed time since September, anyway.

But they will be sorry to go for certain reasons, too. They won't want to leave Nevada, most likely, especially if they've been here long enough to really grow to like the Hill, and if they realize that their years here were the time of their lives.

For the seniors especially, the departure may not be particularly easy, because they were just beginning the last and best part of their college career, and even though they will be allowed to graduate, they will miss much—senior week, commencement and all the rest.

Others may come back to school after the war, but not the seniors. It's all over for them.

But they and their fellow enlisted reservists, both those who leave Sunday and those who leave in two weeks, will pass it off as nonchalantly as possible.

"What the hell," they will say when asked how they feel about leaving. "I'll make a good buck private."

We have certain faith that they will, as a matter of fact. Most of them will probably rise higher, for if a man is a good buck private his chances these days of making a fair-to-middling lieutenant are pretty good.

But probably, in making such a reply, the reservists are on the defensive. They're not thinking so much of their army careers as they are trying to keep from becoming maudlin about losing something they have grown to love.

It's typical of the men at Nevada, perhaps of young men most places these days, that they should wriggle out of being forced to say anything sincerely about a thing that means a great deal to them.

They are especially reluctant to say anything about Nevada because they probably are not at all certain what it is about the Hill that they like.

We know how difficult that is, because we have tried to do it several times in print during the year, and even last spring, and while we thought we nearly explained what it meant to us at least once, we grew to realize that it means something different to everyone. There are, of course, some common denominators, but we doubt any writer's ability to say for anyone else why or how much Nevada has meant to him.

Realizing our inability to say something important for any reservists about their Nevada, we wondered if we should not attempt some kind of goodbye, or valedictory for them.

In the course of thinking it over, we looked at some of the things we had previously written about Nevada in the Sagebrush files, and found a column we wrote a little more than a year ago in which we tried to offer a valedictory for those who were leaving for the armed forces. We had decided this:

"... no valedictory, no goodbye is really necessary after all.

"Because you can't really leave behind anything which you have been part of and which has been part of you.

"And you need not worry that memories, however fine and numerous, are poor substitutes for the real thing.

"For at bottom Nevada is not a place or some buildings or even some people so much as it is a feeling and a spirit that live in the hearts of its men and women.

"And they will carry these with them wherever they go."

We couldn't say it better again, and we won't try. We hope it was worth the saying, and for the reservists, especially, worth remembering.

It's a nice thing to know.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Two important amendments to the ASUN constitution were discussed in Senate Wednesday night.

One of them, providing for a change which would allow women to run for the ASUN presidency has been discussed for several weeks and was no surprise to anybody.

The other, which would give the Senate the power to fix the time of elections, even to the point of postponing them until the following year, is designed to do away with the spring election, and was something that hadn't occurred to most people.

The second proposed amendment was offered because it was felt that because of the many rapid changes in the makeup of the student body, it might be better to postpone election for student body president and the class managerships until next fall, when the officers could be chosen from among those who actually came back to school.

Both proposals deserve consideration, and both are good ideas, in the opinion of this writer.

It is evident that if there is a school next fall, it will be predominantly a woman's school. Only men in the ASUN next fall will be a few who are ineligible for military service and perhaps a very few pursuing technical courses.

To force next year's student body to choose a president from so limited a group would be patently unfair to those who come back.

Male student politicians (who have gotten so used to pulling the strings that they want to control what happens even after they are gone) who complain that a woman can't do as good a job in the ASUN presidency as a man are forgetting something.

Even supposing them correct, that a woman would not ordinarily do as good a job as a man, the fact is that if there is a student body next year which is predominantly composed of women, and that's a pretty safe bet, then not only will that group deserve a woman president if they want one, by the old principle of rule of the majority, but a woman president might even do a better job since it will be a woman's school.

The amendment is necessary to give the women any kind of an even break at running their own affairs next year.

The amendment which would postpone the spring election also has its merits.

Officers would be elected next fall from among those who actually come back to school. Considerable waste motion might be involved in having a spring election, in which several people who haven't a ghost of a chance of coming back to school are a cinch to run just because of the supposed prestige involved.

If this happens, and if it does some of these people will probably be elected, new elections will be necessary next fall anyway.

And if the other amendment allowing the women to run for the student presidency goes through, the stage will be set for an election next fall without loss of time.

Changing the constitution to allow a woman president might be a little unfair to the male minority, however, if the vice-president still is required to be a woman.

The vice-president set-up has always been a lousy political situation anyway, in that it allows one sorority each year to elect a girl who might serve as student president for a time, under the present rotation system.

Thirty-five women can elect somebody to a post in which she would conceivably rule the affairs of the entire student body.

At California their constitution was recently amended to allow women to run for ASUC prexy—BUT AT THE SAME TIME THE RULING REQUIRING THE VICE-PRESIDENT TO BE A WOMAN WAS CHANGED.

If the constitution revision committee ever gets around to considering these proposed amendments, they should take a close look at the vice-president situation as well as the others.

Students can be assured of their opportunity to vote on these amendments by voting in favor of submitting them to the revision committee in their own sorority and fraternity meetings next Monday.

Every student has a responsibility in the matter because the amendments are important.

Think it over.

ON THE BOTTOM OF A DRAWER

We cleaned out our desk in the 'Brush office late the other evening, preparatory to turning it over to our successor at the end of next week, the move being made necessary by our entrance into the army March 27.

Our passion for collecting junk showed itself in the conglomeration of useless stuff we managed to dig out of all the side drawers.

But the big middle drawer proved to be something different, for it provided us with a whole drawerful of sad little stories.

Notes we had made; letters from people with gripes against us; editorials that didn't get printed when late news invalidated them; beer openers; some correspondence with other college editors; even a couple of letters of appreciation, two of them sincere enough to balance all the remarks of our critics; a little assorted debris.

And on the wooden bottom of the drawer, some of the saddest little stories of all—scrawled signatures of predecessors, with their terms of service noted.

We sat in the ruins of a year's work and listened to the rain drip off the eaves outside the ASUN building. We thought of all the sad little stories and felt pretty sad and old ourselves.

So finally we shivered and cursed the heating system and went home. It was two o'clock in the morning and we were tired and there was no point in feeling sorry for ourselves.

It was a good year and the hell with it.

ORCHIDS IN ORDER

Commendation of the Sagens' feat of selling $1625 in war bonds in addition to $45 in stamps in the bond booth last Friday is in order this week.

Previous service club totals for war bond sales were Blue Key, $150; Sagens, $350.

The fact that the idea has slowly caught on may have something to do with the increasing success of the plan, but the energy and salesmanship of the women's service group was certainly an important factor, and they deserve recognition for it.

We were especially glad to see the Sagens top previous bond marks for one day's sale on the campus for the reason that it was they who got the idea ahead of either of the other groups. When the Senate finally got around to approving the plan and appointed a committee to put it into operation, Blue Key managed to snare for itself the opening spot.

And even the Sagens managed to slip in ahead of the Sagens. But the thing seems to have come out even in the end, anyway. Nice going, Sagens.

This is a call for help. Like all other campus activities, the Sagebrush has been badly hit during the last year by those two bogies, the manpower shortage

Seniors Present Wacky Assembly

Kehoe Presides as M. C. at Show

A three-ring circus of senior talent presented itself at last Friday's assembly.

Introduced by Jack Pierce, senior class manager, the show was kept going by the unceremonious master of ceremonies, Jim Kehoe.

Participating were Bea Thompson and her accordion, Patsy Prescott with songs, aided by Johnny Gabrielli, Bill Friel reading a hitherto unknown version of "Antony and Cleopatra," Warren Salmon and grass skirt doing the hula, Harry Paille at the piano with song, and a short skit on the drama of "Upper 13," featuring Barbara Francis, Jim Forsyth and Art Palmer.

A miniature "Hellzapoppin," the show was a constant riot, with the audience not only enjoying, but participating.

At the close of the assembly, Dean R. C. Thompson, dean of men, presented the scholarship cup to the fraternity having the highest grade average last semester, Sigma Rho Delta.

Frish violators, Pamela Kantor, Phyllis Kanters and Cosette Rowe, preceded the senior show with short skits which were their punishment for tradition transgressions.

and the general lack of normal interest in extra-curricular affairs.

But the 'Brush managed to struggle along, mostly on the strength of work done by journalism majors, some of whom, the sophomores, did reporting for school credit, and some of whom were wise enough to see that practical experience gained by working on the Sagebrush was likely to help them in their profession.

However, many of these journalism students have left school or quit taking journalism, for one reason or another, and the help situation—reporting, copy reading, feature writing, editing—has become increasingly more serious.

The slack was taken up mostly by increased work by the editor and a few assistants.

But there will be a new editor after next week, the March 18 issue being the present editor's swan song, and the new editor will be in a worse spot than this writer.

The very fact of the editor's leaving for the army reduces the office staff, composed of people who do rewrites and write heads and edit copy at night, but in addition to that there are the factors of the departure of the sports editor and several of the better reporters for the army this month also.

So in order to give our successor an even chance of getting out a good newspaper—and some of its readers won't appreciate that it has been that for many years until it gets to be a bad one—we ask this of students at Nevada:

If you like to write, if you want another activity, or if you think there is anything at all about the wacky racket of putting out a newspaper that might attract you, well, here's your chance.

We need copy editors, reporters and could even use a columnist.

If interested, just drop around the Sagebrush offices in the ASUN building any week night, especially on Tuesdays and Thursdays, any time after seven o'clock, and offer your services to the editor.

This writer or his successor will be glad to see you and will find something for you to do.

Besides finding work that may very likely interest you, there is usually a good crowd around.

This writer has had himself a whale of a time around this office for several years, and so may you.

It isn't impossible.

Barber: Was your tie red when you came in here?
Man: No, it wasn't.
Barber: Gosh.
Psychology Professor: Why are you late?
Wide-Awake Sophomore: Class started before I got here.

Cadet Teams Plan Basketball Game

Juniors Oppose Seniors Tomorrow Night

Officers of the first year advanced ROTC classes will oppose the senior officers in a basketball game to be played Saturday evening in the gymnasium according to John Hatfala, who is coaching the junior officers.

Sgt. Michael McCormick, who will referee the contest, stated that this would be a good opportunity to observe how well the men were conditioning themselves for the big job ahead when they enter actual military service.

Mainstays of the junior officers contingent will be Hatfala, John Stufberg, Floyd Edsall, Don Burrus, Addison Millard, Mike Zoradi, Bob Collins, Paul Gibbons, Charles Burke and Bob Burns. The senior officers will be led by Warren Salmon, Pete Echeverria, Gene Mastroianni, Clifton Young, Herb Chiara, Wendell Leavitt, Mario Recanzone, Jim Kehoe, Lyman Earl and Art Palmer.

Dean Lucile Benson Entertains Nevada Debate Squad Sunday

The university debate team was entertained at a waffle supper by Mrs. Lucile B. Benson, dean of women, Sunday evening.

The debaters had just returned from Linfield College where Mrs. Benson was formerly dean of women and "a very intellectual discussion was held on Linfield College and the people we all knew," Mrs. Benson said, laughingly.

Pete Echeverria, Bruce Bowen, Bob Crowell and Cliff Young attended the supper.

Faculty Members Give $77 to the Red Cross

Members of the faculty contributed $77 to the Red Cross since Friday, March 5, according to figures obtained from the comptroller's office on Tuesday.

The membership drive will continue through the month of March and students as well as faculty are requested to donate.

Contributions are accepted at the comptroller's office and each donor receives a button, automobile sticker and membership card. The minimum contribution is $1.

Ruebsam Addresses Parents-Teachers

Miss Edith Ruebsam, professor of education, addressed the regional conference of parents and teachers, stressing the need for better understanding of the problem child.

The meeting was held March 2 at the home of Mrs. Frank Bunker.

Chemist Speaks To Faculty at Club Meeting

M. R. Miller, chemist with the veterinary control service of the university, spoke to the Faculty Club last week on "Rubber—Natural and Synthetic."

Miller gave a brief historical background of natural rubber, its properties and uses. He made clear that all rubber made from any plant was natural, not synthetic.

Stating that synthetic rubber has never been made, probably never will be, and that there was no reason why it should be, Miller explained that there were about 1000 known varieties of artificial rubber still in the laboratories.

These experimental products have been designed for specific purposes, he said, and contain only some properties of natural rubber, but are not complete substitutes for the original.

NAVY THANKS COEDS

Thanks were accorded five Nevada coeds for AWVS work by the naval recruiting station in Reno in their issue last week of "Navyda News," a monthly publication.

Those mentioned in the mimeographed sheet's "Hats Off" department were June Sorenson, Kathleen Blythe, Joyce Record, Frances Frandsen and Isabel Blythe.

The article said the girls had spent "many patient hours addressing envelopes, writing letters and doing many other chores."

Members of the Nevada State Legislature committee on state institutions toured the University of Nevada campus recently under the guidance of Charles H. Gorman, comptroller and treasurer.

An inspection of the new gymnasium and engineering building was emphasized. The committee will report their findings to the state legislature sometime in the future, it was learned.

Members of the committee who made the tour of inspection were O. D. Jepson, chairman; Jearald Fisher, Milo Taber and Clarence Reudy.

Spring Practice Begins for Squad Monday Afternoon

Fifteen Expected to Respond to Aiken's First Call

Fifteen Wolf Pack candidates will answer Coach Jim Aiken's first call for spring football practice Monday afternoon.

Twenty veterans have been called into the armed forces and several more experienced gridsters are expected to be called shortly. Nevada's prospects during the 1943 football season do not look too optimistic, Aiken said.

Suits for the players will be issued at the training quarters Monday by Coach Aiken and Lawlor and Arthur Palmer, graduate manager. This year there will not be a team manager and the members of the squad will be responsible for their own suits.

Newcomers
Among the newcomers expected to report Monday are Ed Shayotovich, fullback, and Pete Millkovich, halfback, who both scale over 200 pounds; Bobby Bergen, 165-pound halfback, who scored 106 points last season and was mentioned on the all-state team of Nebraska; Basil Petroski and George Mituzas, two outstanding gridsters who made the Philadelphia all-city team last year.

Notable veterans who will be missing from this year's squad are little all-American Marion Motley, 1942 Wolf Pack captain Hugh Smithwick, Vince Shea, Fred Wristen, Poulakidas, Jordan Eliades and Don Talcott.

Alone in the moonlight is more fun if you aren't.

FUZZ MAY GROW; BEARDS WON'T

Excuses handed into the men's upperclass committee for not growing beards for Mackay Day have often been a little peculiar, indeed, usually giving the appearance of being concocted strictly from hunger.

But a new high along these lines was hit this week in two excuses turned in by freshmen.

It seems the two lads are having a little trouble.

The letters follow:

Gentlemen: I am unable to grow a beard for Mackay Day. I have a little fuzz, but it doesn't show. I intend on letting the fuzz grow and it might show itself.

The other was even better.

Upperclass Committee: I will not be able to grow a beard for Mackay Day because it just won't grow. Nature's fault.

P. S.: Fuzz might grow enough.

Twenty-Six More Students Drop From University

Twenty-six students have withdrawn from the university this week. Twenty-four will report immediately to the armed forces.

Bob Bell, Lambda Chi junior, has been called by the navy air corps. Anthony Martinez, freshman pledge of Sigma Nu, has reported to the Army Air Forces.

Twenty-one men of the Enlisted Reserve Corps who withdrew were George Brown, Bill Beko, Dean Berry, Lloyd Clements, Stanley Cohen, Ray Davis, Bill Eccles, Howard Farrell, George Gibson, Orsie Graves, Howard Haman, Bill Henley, Harold Larragueta, Harry Paille, Bill Shaw, Lloyd Stark, Croston Stead, Paul Tholl, LeRoy Wadsworth, Dan Walker and John Warren.

Merlin Murphy has been inducted into the army. Evan Botts and Basil Petroski have also withdrawn.

Ten Eligible for Sagen Election

Sagens, women's honorary group, will elect ten new members and announce them at the Mackay Day luncheon. Yvonne Rosasco, president, announced today.

The election of new members is based on the vacancy caused by seven graduating seniors and three students who failed to return to school this semester.

Only women with upperclass standing are eligible for membership. Sagens will meet again next Tuesday night.

THE SPECTATOR

BY BOB CROWELL

This is the story of a character I know. He is not purely fictional. You can take him with a grain of salt, or ignore him, as you will. He still exists.

He is a BMOC, a god of the campus, an oracle whose words of wisdom guide student policy. He is one of the chosen. He is a POLITICIAN.

He started as a freshman, convinced that his was the hand that should rock the college world. He joined a frat (for, of course, he must have the help of a frat to steer him through the troubled waters ahead) and his career had begun.

He began to take stock of his class members and to decide who were "live wires" (like himself) and who were not. He tended to gravitate toward these live wires. Of course he beamed at and spoke to everybody, for a potential vote was not to be cast lightly aside, but the "live wires" he especially cultivated, for they too were destined to rule.

At the end of his freshman year the elder sages in his house met to discuss his progress, and they were pleased. He was a speaking acquaintance of three-fourths of his class, many of the sophomores knew him, and even a few of the upperclassmen had noticed him and nodded their approval (for although they were butterflies now, they saw in this caterpillar who was carefully spinning his cocoon a reflection of their former selves).

So the elder sages solemnly decided that he had "it" and decided to bestow upon him the magic gift of "push," the open sesame to the fabulous treasure cave of campus activities, the elixir which causes the most formidable gates to swing inward. In rapid succession the neophyte politician found himself a member of countless organizations and committees. He had started on the royal road to success.

His sophomore year was rather uneventful. As befitted a neophyte, he said little, and when he did speak, his words were smiled upon, since he wisely chose to echo that which his elders had already said. But he worked industriously and added to his ever-growing circle of acquaintances. And his elders again nodded approval and began to list him in their catalogue of leaders-who-would-be.

His junior year was one of great activity. It was a year of never-ceasing competition. For the other live wires who had started school with him had not been idle. They, too, had been busily engaged in spinning cocoons, in hope of becoming a butterfly, and the race was on to see who would have the biggest wingspread. For the way to the top is a hard way, and the strong survive, but the weak fall unheeded by the way.

The politician used to the utmost the magic gift of push which his house had bestowed upon him, and his own happy faculty for splicing forth, on every occasion, a great many words which meant nothing and which therefore offended no one.

He rushed madly around slapping the other live wires on the back, and then stabbed them in the same place whenever the chance was afforded to him. He went out of his way to speak to people and to buy them drinks, and he exhibited an amazing knowledge of and interest in their personal affairs. He kow-towed deferentially to the elder gods (but he laughed to himself, for he knew that their days were numbered and that soon he would take their places. The year progressed, and the worked with increasing frenzy, for the day was soon to come when the great reward was to be given.

FOUR PRE-CADETS IN BAND

Henceforth the band will play for the pre-cadets at all their revues and parades, Post stated.

The day came at last. His senior year arrived and with it, arrived a golden flood of elections to important offices and into important organizations and manifold committee chairmanships.

And the freshmen glanced at him in reverential awe as he passed and whispered that he was a BMOC, and the future politicians among them sought eagerly for his nod of approval, even as he had done so many years before. He was there. He was in. The plaudits of the many greeted him. He had reaped the fruits of his labor. His cup was running over.

Or was it? It was not. For the politician found that these heights he had scaled were but an empty shell. He found that the many who applauded him while he kept them happy were ready to spring upon him with all the savage cruelty of the mob the minute that he displeased them. He found that he was not so much leader as led—led by the inexorable riptide of convention and tradition and precedent, against which none might stand.

He found that the heights were narrow and that few could stand on them. And those few fought constantly to keep the others from pushing them off and to push down those who were trying to rise from below—fought, not because they wanted to, but because they had made this fight up to the top their whole life, and the terror of descending from the top lashed them even onward.

And lastly he found that he had been so busy "using" people that he had had no time to make friends, but instead was surrounded by a sea of "speaking acquaintances" which he had so painfully cultivated.

Standing there naked, lonely, an integral part of a vast web of politics and hypocrisy, he cried to himself, "God, what a fool I've been. If I could only start again."

But, of course, he could not.

Griffin Cancels Forensic Contest

Gives Three Reasons for Not Having Contest

The annual high school forensic tournament was cancelled this week, Dr. Robert S. Griffin, forensic league director, announced this week.

Three reasons were given by Dr. Griffin for the cancellation of this year's event.

First, the answers to questionnaires sent to 27 high schools indicate that only four could attend the meet.

Second, members of the university debate team, who judge the contest, have been depleted to only a small number because of calls to military service.

Third, lack of housing facilities for the participating students make it impossible to have a meet.

The tournament is usually held in the month of April.

Sixteen Cadets Spend Night on 'Hell Week' Trek

Sixteen advanced ROTC cadets finished Scabbard and Blade's initiation "hell week" last night with the annual "all night" trek.

Best Essay Will Win $50 for Writer

The Philo Sherman Bennett prize of $50 will be awarded at commencement to the student submitting the best essay on the "Principles of Free Government," C. C. Smith, professor of history and political science, announced last week.

The prize is the interest on a fund of $400 established in 1909 and given to the University of Nevada by the Hon. Philo Sherman Bennett of New Haven, Connecticut. The income from the fund is allowed to accumulate until a prize of approximately $50 can be given. Full details as to procedure and suggestions for material will be given interested students at any available time, Smith said.
