

PAN-HEL PLANS AUCTION TO FEATURE BEAN FEED

Miscellaneous Items From Downtown Donors Will Be Purchased With Stamps and Bonds

Featuring the Pan-Hellenic bean feed next Wednesday night will be a war stamp auction of miscellaneous articles donated by several downtown business firms, Ruth Mary Noble, Pan-Hel president, announced today.

Purpose of the bean feed is to promote sales of stamps and bonds in conjunction with the nationwide fourth war loan drive, she added. Even to attend the affair the coeds will have to pay a 50 cent admission charge in war stamps. Bond booths will be placed in advantageous positions about the university dining hall, where the affair is to be held, so that the coeds can purchase bonds, if they so desire. No men are allowed, with the exception of Frank Apa, who is in charge of the student body's public address system.

One university coed has been appointed to serve as auctioneer at the bean feed, but her name has not been announced by the committee. Her job will be to sort out the various articles and sell them to the coeds.

Besides the auctioning, Pan-Hel is sponsoring a special skit as well as other entertainment on the program. Other entertainers include Beulah Haddow and Nadine Gibson, who play a piano duet; Rose Marie Mayhew, who will sing; Bette Poe, who will play several piano selections, and Jane McCuiston, who will present several imitations.

The coeds are expected to appear at the bean feed in very informal attire, jeans preferred, Miss Noble added. The refreshments consist of beans, crackers and coffee.

Members of the committee assisting Miss Noble are as follows: Jane Dugan, Brownlie Wylie, Nita Reifschneider, Pat Turner, Shirley Dimock and Katherine Little.

Western Educators Working With Army Aid AST Success

Faculty Cooperation is Responsible, Army Says

Success of the AST in the west was today attributed to cooperation existing between educators of institutions within the ninth service command, it was learned by the University of Nevada.

The primary aim of the AST program is to train soldiers to the highest duties they are capable of performing in specialized fields where the army has the greatest needs, it was stated.

To assure continuous refinement and improvement of the curriculum, visits by outstanding educators associated with the war department are made to schools and classes. Recommendations, based on their observations, are passed to the proper schools and to military authorities.

As a result of this procedure, a few corrections were made during the early stages of the program, the ninth service command announced, but due to close cooperation, the numerous utility and functional courses are now adequate for the streamlined training of thousands of future war technicians and specialists.

The need for personnel psychologists and chemical civil engineers, once dire, has been eliminated, according to army officials, and courses have been discontinued.

However, greater stress is now placed on electrical engineering and other allied fields.

Col. Arnehan States Importance

The importance of AST units was emphasized by Col. George E. Arnehan, who recently inspected the Nevada unit.

"Good war technicians, or scientists, are not made by the waving of a wand. They are the creation of years of diligent study," he stated.

"We are waging a war against an enemy utilizing thousands of highly scientifically trained men. Unless we have a continual annual flow of efficient war technicians from our universities and colleges, the present war cannot be concluded in a minimum of time."

Enrollment with the program has leveled off recently, but 29 colleges and universities within the ninth service command, comprised of Nevada, Washington, Oregon, California, Montana, Idaho, Arizona and Utah, hold contracts with the war department for training AST soldier-students who will be tomorrow's specialized war technicians.

CONTEST NOTICE

In order to obtain suggestions for the decoration of the home or laboratory dressing room, coeds mapping in that course are offering $5 in war stamps as a prize for any student offering the best drawing. The contest is open to all students, and the only requirement is that the contestant can not submit drawings on ruled paper. Katherine Henningsen is in charge of the contest.

RUTH MARY NOBLE, Pan-Hel council president and chairman of the finance bureau of the women's war council, who instigated the bean feed, which will be held in the university dining hall Wednesday night.

PESTS RESUME SWIM IN LAKE

Two muskrats that have inhabited Manzanita lake since early last fall have been seen again, according to Carl Horn, superintendent of the grounds and buildings. Since the ice has melted, they have resumed their regular evening swim on the lake's surface.

During the months that ice covered the water, the muskrats had comparative privacy. They swam under the protective covering, breathing the layer of air that exists between ice and water.

However, when heavy rains fell and melted the ice, the muskrats came to the top of the lake to dive and splash in exhibition for spectators.

They Must Die

These small animals must be exterminated because of their destructive habits of eating the roots of flowers and building their homes beneath the sidewalks that border the lake, Horn added. They are usually shot.

Robert R. Frisbie has killed such pests in the past when they made their annual visit to the university, and when he returns from Fallon where he is trapping muskrats, he will be called upon to handle the job, Horn announced.

Former Nevada Coed Advanced in Office At Fort Oglethorpe

Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.—First Lieut. Sylvia C. Blackburn of Carson City has been advanced from assistant secretary to secretary of the officer candidate school at the third WAC training center in Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Trained at Nevada

Lieutenant Blackburn is a graduate of the University of Nevada; she majored in English and journalism. She was a member of Gamma Phi Beta and president of Pan-Hellenic while here.

As a civilian, she was one of a committee of three who wrote the course of study now employed by the Nevada high schools.

Basic at Des Moines

Lieutenant Blackburn received her basic training at the first WAC training center, Fort Des Moines, Iowa, after which she entered administrative school there.

Her first assignment was with the original WAC company that activated the second WAC training center, Daytona Beach, Fla., where she was private secretary to Gen. Don Faith.

From there she went to officer candidate school, was commissioned February 9, and four months later was promoted to first lieutenant.

WHITTAKER CONFINED

Melba Whittaker, co-editor of the Sagebrush, is confined to the university infirmary with a sore throat.

CADETS TO LEAVE CAMPUS IN JUNE

The last group of air force students will complete their courses at the university in June, according to Dean Fredrick Wood. The curricula is arranged in five-month semesters with 100 men graduating each month.

One-third of the ASTP students will finish their course in March, and the remaining two-thirds will not graduate until June. When the last group of engineer students leave, a new group will be brought in for basic training, Wood added.

Pat Thomas Heads Red Cross Group

Haddow Resigns Duties At Campus Workshop

Following the resignation of Beulah Haddow as production head of the campus division of the local Red Cross, Pat Thomas, Tri-Delt, was appointed to fill the position, according to Brownlie Wylie, chairman of the women's war council.

The campus Red Cross workshop continued operations this week, although coeds were still slow in offering their services, Miss Wylie said. Seven staff assistants were appointed to handle administrative duties. Coeds who will supervise workers, give information and keep the workshop open from 1 to 4 weekday afternoons are Virginia Waltenstiel, Dorothy Savage, Bette Poe, Mary Beth Winchester, Jeanne Charter, Marie Aldrich and Lillian Sloan.

Plans are being drawn up for a Red Cross senior life saving and instructors course, Miss Wylie added. The classes will be completed within two or three weeks from their commencement and are tentatively scheduled for 7:30 to 9:30 on Tuesday and Thursday. Students who pass the course will be eligible to serve at community swimming pools during the summer and will be paid for their services. Anyone interested in the course should report to Brownlie Wylie.

The Red Cross home nursing course which was started last week was cancelled Monday as not enough students enrolled to support it.

Six Books Added To Campus Lib, Thompson States

Six new books have been added to the library recently, according to Miss Thea Thompson, librarian.

"War and Children," by Anna Freud and "Dorothy Burlingham," is a book dealing with the reactions of children cared for in the foster parents nurseries.

Miss Freud and Mrs. Burlingham direct three wartime nurseries in England for the foster parents plan, which is an organization for bombed out children and is supported by voluntary contributions from America. The plan first operated in 1936 in Spain and later it cared for French, Polish, Dutch and Belgian children in France. After the fall of France, England took up the idea.

"Food Enough," by John D. Black; "Consumers Can Help Win the War," by Jessie V. Coles, and "Plastics for Industrial Use," by John Sasso, are three books dealing with contemporary problems. "Our Invisible Friends," by Maurice Allen, is the story of an experiment with the spirit world.

Etiquette for Pan-Hellenic Bean Feed Defined by Sophomore Sports Reporter

BY MADLEN MAESTRETTI

Etiquette for bean feeds: the first and most important step is that you war jeans—preferably an old pair that won't be harmed by spilled coffee or beans with Mexican tendencies. Second, put some spare cash in the pocket that is still intact. Third, forget everything your mother used to tell you about Emily Post and table manners. Then consider yourself ready for a bean feed.

You enter the mess hall looking like a high school girl, pigtailed and rolled trousers, and you smile as the upper-classwoman takes your 50 cent piece and gives you five 10 cent saving stamps.

Inside the hall you follow the pattern of others. Balanced in one hand is a plate of beans, in the other, a cup of doffee. Your fork and spoon are by this time somewhere near your feet and some Pan-Hel member advances and wants to know if you aren't going to get in the stamp and bond auction.

Where's the Coin? "Of course," you stutter trying to remember how much coin you have left in your jacket and how in the world you're going to get it out. You teeter off to a corner milling with coeds who are waving cabbage leaves in the air and screaming, "I'll raise the bid 50 cents!"

You join the throng and, in the excitement, overbid the dean of women by a dollar, thus winning some sort of a prize. They cram the prize under your left arm, dig coins out of your jacket pocket and set you free.

By this time you have developed an appetite and join a group of the same notion. No doubt you have eaten beans before, but it seems that someone swiped your fork and you resort necessarily to a spoon or knife. You find that a spoon holds only two beans at a time and in your state of mind that isn't enough. Six beans balanced on a knife are as treacherous as a cart of bombs. Drop one, and you're a social outcast. A feminine faculty member advances and thinks that you are either cutting up or are a moron, but chats with you anyhow.

The entertainment begins, and people stop laughing at others and laugh at a couple of coeds handling one of their characteristic skits. This is undoubtedly the best part of the evening. When you leave, you conclude that you have enjoyed yourself in possibly six different ways. A feeling of righteous self satisfaction comes away with you for you know that you have helped your school, your community and your man at war.

Palmer Represents Nevada at Meeting

Question of CAA Discussed by Group

At a meeting concerning the continuance of the Civil Aeronautics Authority program in post-war years, Dean Stanley G. Palmer, coordinator of the program on the campus, represented the University of Nevada.

The discussion involved Senate Bill S1432 which would, if passed, continue the existence of the present organization, although no congressional appropriation would be included at this time. Since the Civilian Pilot Training Act of 1939 expires June 30 of this year, the organization would die if some provision were not made.

Called by Stone The meeting was called by D. F. Stone, president of the National Association of Colleges and University in War Training Service, Region 6, and all colleges who had sponsored the CAA program on their campuses were invited to attend. It was held in the Arlington Hotel in Carson City Thursday. Coordinators and flight operators in the program representing colleges and universities in Region 6, which includes Arizona, California, Utah, and Nevada, attended.

The morning program included a report from Stone, who has been in Washington supporting the bill at a senate committee hearing held recently. Then Senator Pat McCarran, who advanced the bill, talked on conditions surrounding the program at this time, and the necessity of such a provision.

Committee Reports After luncheon reports from various committees of the NACU in WTS concerning the CAA, were heard.

The CAA has proved its value in peace time, according to national statistics. More pilots were trained by the program in the first year of its existence than had been trained in army air corps programs since the end of the last world war. When the second world war began, these OPT trainees formed a large fraction of the present army and navy air corps.

The program was begun on the Nevada campus in 1939 and was continued until after the second war began, and the drop in civilian students enrolled in the university made the program impractical.

WTS Replaces CAA

The Civil Aeronautics Authority was discontinued in favor of the War Training Service for the duration of the war. The WTS includes training members of the army and navy air corps under programs, such as the one existing on our campus at present.

However, to insure the training of skilled pilots in post-war years, the CAA is the most practical plan. An important advantage is that the program is already organized and has functioned successfully in the past, Dean Palmer stated.

PI PHI PREXY VISITS LOCAL CHAPTER HOUSE

Mrs. Paul R. Manning, president of Mu province which includes the western division, will make her annual visit to the Nevada Alpha chapter of Pi Beta Phi sorority on February 14 and 15, according to Beulah Haddow, president.

Mrs. Manning will be entertained at a cookie shine next Tuesday night at the chapter house. Both actives and pledges will be present.

She will reside at the Pi Beta Phi house during her stay in Reno, Miss Haddow added.

McClellan Tops Semester Roll Of Eighteen Nevada Students

Number Three Test For ASTP and V-12 Planned March 15

Those Accepted Receive College Education Free At Expense of Uncle Sam

For the purpose of selecting men to serve as officers for the navy, marines and coast guard and to provide the army with technicians and specialists, the third nationwide test for ASTP and V-12 candidates will be given at the university on March 15, according to Dean Fredrick Wood of the college of arts and sciences.

Men selected through this test will study, at government expense, at colleges and universities to be chosen by the government, Dean Wood said.

Under the AST program, the men are soldiers on active duty, in uniform, under military discipline and on regular army pay.

No obligation to serve in the army longer than any other soldier, but one condition is that all trainees are subject to call to other active duty whether or not their courses are completed. Training varies in length from one to eight 12-week terms, except for medical and dental students, whose curricula is of standard college length.

College credits are given AST students upon the completion of their courses, Dean Wood emphasized.

Some of the main branches of service which AST trainees enter are chemical, civil, mechanical, electrical, marine or sanitary engineering; medicine or dentistry; personal psychology, foreign area or language study, veterinary medicine, surveying, communications, optics, and military and physical training.

Civilian men who will be 17 but not yet 22 by July 1, 1944, who are high school graduates or who will be graduated by that time are eligible to take the tests.

If the score made is unsatisfactory, the applicant is not entirely excluded from the AST program, since after induction, army general classification tests serve as further opportunity for eligibility.

Navy Positions Open

Navy programs open under the V-12 program include officer candidates for deck officer, the medical or dental corps, general engineering, civil engineering, construction corps, engineer specialists, aerology, supply corps and chaplains.

While studying under the V-12 program, men are also under active duty and in uniform, subject to military discipline. Expenses are paid by the navy, including tuition, fees, textbooks, board and room and uniforms. Regular navy pay is given trainees.

Test Only in Morning

This examination, Dean Wood pointed out, is the initial step in choosing men for college training for either the army or navy. The test will be given only on the morning of March 15, requires two hours and is divided into three parts.

The first test knowledge of the meaning and use of words, the second asks questions of scientific matters and the third concerns mathematical problems. Candidates taking the test may elect either the army or the navy and do not obligate themselves to enlist by taking the test, Dean Wood concluded.

Marine Lt. Helphinstine Leads Squad in Rescue

Marine First Lieut. Bill Helphinstine, 1942 graduate of the university, was in charge of marines who were first on the scene when a medium bomber crashed near a navy base in Iceland, according to word received here today.

Lieutenant Helphinstine set up a guard detail around the wreck while other marines worked with sailors and seaboats in efforts to rescue the crew. All aboard the bomber were found to have perished instantly.

While on the campus, Helphinstine was a member of Sigma Nu and was a student in agriculture.

MAJOR WALTER FLAGG

Major Walter Flagg, graduate of the university with the class of 1941, is now stationed in England with the army major corps.

Major Flagg has received four medals—the air medal with four oak leaf clusters, silver star, distinguished flying cross and distinguished service cross.

While on the campus he was affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

MACKAY DAY OVERSIGHT

ASUN senators seemingly disregarded the annual Mackay Day celebration this week when Student Body President Helene Batjer decided that a senate meeting wasn't necessary—because of lack of business. Actually Mackay Day is the business, and the students, who are represented by the senators and Miss Batjer, want to know the answer.

Miss Batjer also forgot that arrangements for normal time Mackay Days commenced with the first senate meeting of the spring semester, when the student body president submitted his panel to the senate for approval.

However, as she has not submitted her panel, a Mackay Day committee head has not been appointed by the senate. This year more than ever, as it is automatically fatal to delay student activities, immediate preparation for the annual celebration is almost mandatory.

The unappointed Mackay Day committee already has one strike against them, since no official date for the affair has been scheduled. The cause of this blunder has been traced to two different sources:

1. When the official university calendar was printed in the university catalogue last summer, the compilers scheduled Mackay Day on the weekend of Easter vacation.
2. When the social calendar committee met last week, instead of correcting the error, they ignored Mackay Day. The celebration was not scheduled at all.

The fact that Mackay Day has been disregarded is secondary, for the error can always be mended. It is the celebration itself that offers the greatest problem.

An extensive program is impossible in wartime for several reasons, and so the committee will have the problem of presenting a satisfactory, but simple, Mackay Day with limitations of all sorts presenting barriers from all sides.

Mackay Day has always depended upon masculine influences. It was originated by the engineers in commemoration of the Mackay family, the university's most pronounced donors. The celebration evolved around fraternity competition—the sororities were actually secondary in consideration.

This year, since Nevada is almost a coed campus, sororities and unaffiliated women must shoulder the entire responsibility of presenting a successful Mackay Day celebration. However, if they use common sense, these sorority leaders, who are also campus leaders, will recruit the few remaining civilian men as assistants, instead of hogging the entire show for themselves.

Mackay Day is one of the traditions that must not falter in annual appearance. No matter how scanty the arrangements might appear, the celebration must live.

In former years its gayness was centered around the Saturday morning campus clean up by fraternities, the floats on parade, the Greek houses in decoration, and, of course, the costumes on Friday. The finale of the affair, which has also developed into an annual tradition, is the Mackay Day dance, costumes and all. None of these should die, but, for obvious reasons, some of them must pass into oblivion until the campus is normal again.

This year Mackay Day could serve in lieu of several campus traditions: Mackay Day proper, junior cut day and the senior picnic.

The committee could also plan a military theme for Mackay Day by legally incorporating the aviation students and army engineers in a mass field day. The obvious competitive spirit between the two groups could be played into this program. The method would be to sponsor competitive sports between the engineers and the remaining squadrons of aviation students. If the committee head makes arrangements with the proper army authorities, these officials could have no basis for objection to such a contest.

As for the celebration, civilian men are anxious to grow beards in preparation for Mackay Day—many have already inquired when they should stop shaving. If nothing else, this proves they are interested and the tradition still carries some meaning.

This precedent interest gives the sororities an opportunity to retire from active participation in the preparation of Mackay Day. It will give the few men left on the campus an opportunity to prove they are still here.

After the last coed fiasco, most of the men also are positive they can present a better assembly program. Mackay Day is their first opportunity to prove themselves ridiculous or talented.

Perhaps secondary to arrangements for Mackay Day, but equally important, is whole hearted student cooperation. However, if the arrangements are placed in the hands of a capable and experienced student, there will be no question concerning student cooperation. They will naturally back the affair, since they want it in the first place.

Despite the many problems that confront senate and the committee, which will undoubtedly be appointed, Mackay Day must continue. It is one of Nevada's living traditions that can not be denied existence.

CAP AND SCROLL HOLDS DINNER TUESDAY NIGHT

All five members of the Cap and Scroll, women's honorary society, were present at a regular meeting held Tuesday at the Trocadero, according to Dorothy Reynolds, president. Members of the organization are Dorothy Reynolds, Nita Reifschneider, Ruth Mary Noble, Katherine Hemmingsen and Lois Bradshaw. Mrs. Bonnie Ottino of Richmond, Calif., house guest of Miss Bradshaw, was also present.

Adolph's Friend, Mr. Bug, Plots Plan to Destroy Pan-Hellenic Council Bean Feed

SQUANDER CONCOCTS A DASTARDLY SCHEME

Squander has been working on the sly for the last two weeks. Something about shady grades, which, because of a university scholarship committee, made him study for some tests he forgot to take. The committee took him off probation this week.

Nevertheless, despite the probation and despite the extra task of studying, Squander has been thinking. Most of his thoughts were directed against the Pan-Hellenic council and their bean feed.

Squander doesn't actually mind beans, but he does dislike the reasons for a bean feed. Especially this bean feed. Pan-Hellenic council is going to sell stamps and bonds at this bean feed.

That, at least, according to "demand telegrams" from Berlin, just won't do. Pan-Hel can have a bean feed, but Adolph doesn't want them to sell stamps and bonds. Our fellow campusite, Mr. Bug, devised a scheme to stop the bean feed, Pan-Hel and the sale of bonds.

His scheme: to stop the females on the campus from attending the feed. If that would work, and with careful and thoughtful scheming, he, Squander Bug, would make it work—no coeds would attend that bean feed.

Sardonic Dean
First, he planned to work a deal with the dean of women to give the coeds a late night. If they should get that late night, and undoubtedly they will for attendance to the bean feed, he will entice them with evil thoughts. Thoughts that place a moving picture or anything before the bean feed.

To motivate the action, Squander wandered up to the dean of women and in a doubtful tone asked, "Mrs. Marsh, are the girls going to have a late night Wednesday?"

Her response—despite an attempt to be polite, but suspecting ulterior motives—in which she was justified since Squander is a man—was sardonic: "I am sorry, young man, but since you do not live at ATO, I don't think it is any of your business."

Squander felt that he wasn't doing very well with Dean Marsh.

No One, But One
After this discovery, Squander decided decided to probe the girls—maybe they would tell him. The only thing wrong was that there wasn't any girl he could think of who would talk to him. Oh, on the other hand, there was one. A talker in the hall; in fact, such a talker, that she would talk to anyone about anything.

Where was she? Rumor found her in the hospital with lockjaw—so Squander lost a valuable source of information.

Squander couldn't find out anything from anybody. More telegrams poured in from Berlin, and out of all, nobody, not even Adolph, could stop the Pan-Hel bean feed. He had only one hope—time. Time would save him. If time is good, Squander will not be sent to the first instituted American-Nazi concentration camp. Time is a wonderful institution. Having learned in the Nazi school of professional sabotage, Squander realized that time is invaluable and decided to use it. Three days might save him from further nasty letters from his iron cross bosses in Berlin.

The coeds might change their mind by that time, especially if he suggests other things tempting them away from the bean feed. This plan had to work.

Thetas, Tri-Delts Pledge Four Coeds

Kappa Alpha Theta and Delta Delta Delta each pledged two university women this weekend, according to their house presidents. This brings the semester pledging by sororities to 13 women.

Marilyn Amady and Norma Ferguson, both of Reno, were pledged Friday night to Kappa Alpha Theta, while Tri-Delta pledged Pela Oyarbide of Battle Mountain and Birdell Gillespie, Sparks, Monday night after their regular meeting.

Pi Beta Phi now leads Nevada's sororities with five pledges. Gamma Phi Beta is second with four and Tri-Delta and Theta each have two.

New members elected to Zeta Phi Zeta have not yet been announced.

campus. The bulletin board. The sorority houses. The classrooms.

So with this definite plan outlined, Squander called a session with his agents, or to be more specific, Adolph's agents. Squander actually felt, and he told the agents this, that he had a perfect plan. But, as always, and he didn't tell his agents this, he had a strange feeling that there was going to be a slip-up somewhere.

He found it. Each sorority on the campus made it mandatory for coeds of their respective groups to attend the bean feed.

After finding this barrier blocking his efforts, Squander retired to his secret submarine base at Virginia Lake. He let the telegrams come and come and come. Each message from Adolph went to the fishes in that very lake. Squander just didn't care any more.

ASTP Contest Ends With 'Eagers' Win

The double elimination tournament staged by the engineers ended Tuesday when the Eagers of the third platoon defeated the Yardbirds representing the second platoon, 18-12.

The tournament, managed by Johnny Hattala, began about two weeks ago between cadet and engineer teams. Most of the players are amateurs and former high school cagers, although there are several members with college experience to their credit.

Summarizing the games, the Eagers show continuous wins.

Eagers 11, Terriers 9.
Yardbirds 33, AST-ROTC 9.
Eagers 21, Yardbirds 18.
Terriers 17, AST-ROTC 16.
Eagers 19, Yardbirds 12.

The Eagers, by winning this tournament, will meet the regular Engineer quintet next week. Coach Joe Chera is confident that his players will give the trainee five a good game although the Engineers have college men such as Hattala, Tarr, Terry and Edsall on their side. It is expected that the Eagers will meet the varsity quintet in the near future.

Metalurgy Courses Added at Gabbs For BMI Foremen

Engineering Faculty Directs Program Of War Courses

With the opening of two courses in at Gabbs Valley, 192 students are now registered in advanced courses of instruction for supervisors and foremen of Basic Magnesium, Inc., according to Dr. Sigmund W. Leifson, head of the department of physics.

Evening classes are held weekly at Las Vegas where 60 students are enrolled in three metallurgy classes, 52 in two classes in electricity and 35 in a chemistry class. The courses are conducted for company employees only and are taught by engineers employed by BMI. Their purpose is to give supervisors and foremen additional knowledge which will be of use to them in their work, Dr. Leifson pointed out.

Financed Under ESMWT

The United States office of education finances these courses under a war training program of engineering, science and management (ESMWT).

Tradition Violators Must Appear Tuesday

All coed violators of University of Nevada tradition are required to attend a meeting of the women's upper-class committee to be held Tuesday at 4:00 pm, in the ASUN building, according to Doll Corbett, chairman.

Offenders will be punished, she added, and a list of those required to report will be posted on the bulletin board. A few women cut campus, but the large number of offenders are freshmen women who failed to turn in the money collected during the recent brick drive.

Women who have not turned in their money are Elizabeth Caldwell, Pansilla Case, Betty Jane Crosby, Elizabeth Dana, Madge Doerler, Dorothy Frisway, Addie Hom, Anita Iriarte, Winifred Johnson Grace Kincaid, Dolores Lavoy, Madlen Maestretti, Dace Ricketts, Dorothy Sewell, Beverly Thompson, Frances Ullom, Pat Ussery, Barbara Whipple and Beth Williams. These women must bring one dollar to meeting, and will be responsible for washing the bulletin board as punishment.

The University of Nevada, he said, does not qualify for courses in management under the program, but does qualify for courses in engineering, science and physics.

Classes may be conducted where there is an important war industry. Gabbs Valley and Las Vegas, Dr. Leifson added, are the only two places in Nevada where such courses are given at the present time.

University Faculty Supervises

Instruction is carried out under the supervision of some Nevada faculty members, he said.

Prof. Jay A. Carpenter, director of the Mackay School of Mines, is in charge of metallurgy classes. Dean Stanley G. Palmer of the school of engineering is in charge of classes in electricity. Prof. George W. Sears, head of the department of chemistry, supervises chemistry courses. The supervisors, he pointed out, visit the classes as often as possible.

The physics office of the university serves as a registration bureau for these classes and instructors submit weekly reports to Dr. Leifson.

Coeds Hear Talk By AAUW Speaker

Mrs. Wallace Stressed Value of Education

Mrs. Kent Wallace encouraged coeds to continue their education and promised them that their four years hard work would be a worthwhile lifetime investment, in an address to an assembly of campus women last Wednesday. She added that it is a thing that will grow in importance especially if nurtured by other women of the same cultural caliber.

The important of retaining a responsive as well as a culturally and educationally receptive attitude after leaving college was stressed in the speech, and the value of an organization which sponsors the creation of new ideas in the fields of art, languages, music and scientific fields.

Sponsored by AAUW

The assembly was sponsored by the American Association of University Women, of which Mrs. Wallace is the Nevada president. She appeared on the campus in honor of AAUW day.

The AAUW is a unified group of college women who have stood for the advancement of practical and liberal education since 1882. At that time there were only 13 women representing eight colleges. Today 70,000 women are active members of the national organization, representing 900 branches in 48 states.

This organization gave prewar college women an opportunity to help their community by doing varied social work. "Now you have learned how to work with men and their problems, and you have learned how to do without men," Mrs. Wallace said.

"The real value of any organization," she continued, "is judged by its creative value to the community and to the world."

WAA Plans Outing Club As Additional Activity

Tentative plans for an outing club to be established as a WAA activity were made at a meeting this week, according to Dorothy Reynolds, president.

Members of the club would participate in such activities as bicycle rides, hikes, skating parties and similar outings, Miss Reynolds stated.

Any coeds interested in such a club may obtain further details from the WAA president.

Miss Reynolds also said that any woman interested in acting as managers for WAA sports should secure petitions from Miss Ethel Dixon in the women's quarters of the gym.

Agency Serves Student Needs

MADISON, Wis.—(IP)—The U. S. Armed Forces Institute has now established a central clearing agency. Its functions will be (1) to assemble information, on the request of the individual within the armed forces or recently discharged therefrom, regarding his (or her) educational activities while in service; and (2) to transmit such information to the school or college to which the individual desires that it be sent.

Men and women who are being discharged from the services and who seek admission to colleges should apply directly to the U. S. Armed Forces Institute for the accreditation service. The collection of educational achievement records by the institute normally requires at least a few weeks time, but educational institutions may wish to accept students provisionally until they have been able to secure adequate accreditation information. The Armed Forces Institute submits official records only on request of the individual concerned.

WAA Members Receive Varsity, Proficiencies For Athletic Progress

Coeds were named for varsity and proficiency awards in WAA sports this week by sport managers, according to Dorothy Reynolds, president of WAA. Varsity awards are given to the upper ten per cent of those women who win tournaments, make notable progress or otherwise distinguish themselves in a sport. Proficiencies are given to the second ten per cent of these women. Managers of a sport automatically receive varsities.

Two Awarded

Tosca Masini and Rose Nannini received proficiencies in tennis, Nancy Herz, manager, announced.

Myrl Nygren was awarded a varsity and Pat Riley a proficiency in bowling, according to June Conser, manager.

Goldie Howard, manager of riding, named Frances Burke, Beulah Hadgaw, Phyllis Baumann and Goldie Howard for varsities. Proficiencies were given to Frances Frandsen, Nancy Herz, Bette Poe, Lavina Ramell, June Conser, Dorothy Reynolds, Mary Watts, Norma Ferguson, Frances Crane and Theresa Nagle.

equivalent civilian forms of the more important accreditation examinations used by the institute. College officials who wish to purchase these examinations should write to the Cooperative Test Service of the American Council on Education, 15 Amsterdam Avenue, New York City, for information about the available tests.

The use of these equivalent civilian forms will enable educational institutions to administer these tests to their own students, and establish local standards to aid in the interpretation of test results reported for individual service men. The institution may, of course, also use these tests for administration to ex-service men and women who have already applied to them for admission as students.

Stuntz Explains Latin Problems

Position of Americas Outlined by Speaker

Dr. Hugh C. Stuntz outlined the governments of Argentina and other Latin American countries as to their positions in the present world crisis in a recent address before a group of university students and members of the armed forces stationed on the campus.

Dr. Stuntz, who was in Reno under the sponsorship of the Reno Rotary Club, was a Christian educator in Latin American countries and recently was elected president of Scarritt College for Christian Workers at Nashville, Tenn.

He was frank in his comments on the very conservative and Fascist governments of Argentina. Although Argentina is in many ways like the United States, the people lack the experience of self-legislation; therefore, the present and past governments of Argentina have been run by the conservative cattle barons and aristocratic groups who represent only 20 per cent of the Argentine population, Dr. Stuntz stated.

Dictated Vote

Voting today in Argentina means very little if the voter opposes the Conservative party, he added.

Dr. Stuntz predicted, "Argentina will have another revolution within six months." He said that this revolution would be brought on by the vast majority of the Argentine people who want a democratic form of government.

These men, representing the factory owners, educators and small land owners, are rapidly gaining power and financial support. With the aid of the army and navy chiefs, who are becoming critics of the Fascist governments, they wish to rid their country of the feudal systems which have for so long held down Argentina's advancement, Dr. Stuntz concluded.

Bond Sales Total $6530 for Eight Days

Bond sales totaled $6530.5 for 45 purchasers during the first eight days in February, according to a report from the comptroller's office today.

This shows a decided increase over January sales which came to $14,739 for that entire period—only twice as much as have been sold in the first week of this month, it was added. December sales totaled $13,980.
