

U.N. Air Force Trainees Receive Transfer Orders

Men From Ground and Service Forces Scheduled to Leave; Others Finish

Aviation students now stationed on the campus who have formerly seen service with the army ground forces or the army service forces will be transferred back into service with their old units, according to an announcement made this week by Captain John M. Preston, commanding officer.

When the men will leave is not certain, he said, but it will be some time in the near future. Other members of the college training detachment here will remain to continue air crew training, he announced, as far as it is possible to know at the present time.

Former ROTC Men Unable to Take Air Force Training

The four former university ROTC students who left recently for the air corps training center at Santa Ana will probably be unable to finish their training, due to the reduction of air force trainees, the university military department announced this week.

The men, Stan Reese, Donald Bagley, Charles Burke and Neil Stewart, will probably go to the infantry officer candidate school at Fort Benning, in the near future, the military department added.

These men were stationed on the campus with the AST unit, awaiting call to officer candidate school. They transferred to the air corps and left for Santa Ana shortly after the AST program was disbanded.

While civilian students on the campus last year they were all very active. Reese was affiliated with Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity; Bagley, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Burke, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Stewart belonged to Alpha Tau Omega. All three men were very active in ROTC last year and are members of Seaboard and Black, honorary military fraternities.

Palmer Attends Engineers Meet

Printing of Roster Due in Two Weeks

Dean Stanley G. Palmer of the college of engineering attended a meeting of the state board of registered professional engineers in Carson City yesterday. Dean Palmer is secretary of the organization.

The board considered 12 applications for registration, Dean Palmer said. Also plans for the printing and distribution of a roster of registered professional engineers were discussed. Printing of the roster is to be completed in two weeks, Dean Palmer noted.

Requirements

Requirements for becoming a registered professional engineer, he said, include five years of experience in a responsible engineering position, although graduation from an engineering college is accepted in lieu of some experience.

A considerable number of University of Nevada graduates, particularly in the field of civil and mining engineering, who are employed in the state, are registered with this organization, the dean said.

Others Approve

Recently the Nevada branch of American Institute of Mining Engineers endorsed the program of registration, and distributed information concerning the plan to its members, including a copy of the law governing the registration, and a letter advising qualified persons to register. Prof. Jay A. Carpenter, director of the Mackay School of Mines, is secretary of the Nevada branch of AIME.

Chairman of the state board of registered professional engineers is state engineer, A. M. Smith, Dean Palmer concluded.

Prof. Blair Writes Hartman Biography

A biographical sketch of the life of Dr. Leon W. Hartman, former president of the University of Nevada, has been written by Prof. Gilbert B. Blair, and will be published in the near future in the American Journal of Physics, according to an announcement of the physics department.

The sketch includes highlights of Dr. Hartman's life and tells of his work at this university as head of the physics department and as president of the school.

Blair is an associate professor of physics and astronomy at the university, and an intimate friend of the former president.

Prof. Carpenter Plans Inspection

Prof. Jay A. Carpenter, head of the Mackay School of Mines, left today for a trip to Las Vegas to inspect BMI and mining properties in connection with the Bureau of Mines.

He plans to visit Los Angeles where he will address the Southwestern Mining Association on the subject of "Western Cooperation on Present Problems of the Mining Industry" on April 11. He will deliver the same address April 18 in Las Vegas before a sub-section to the Nevada section of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

Professor Carpenter will return to the campus on the 19th of April. Substitute professors will handle his classes during his absence.

SENIOR NOTICE

All graduating seniors are requested to turn into the president's office the names and addresses of their parents or guardian to whom they would like an invitation of graduation sent.

Invitations will be sent to each parent or guardian of the graduating senior, Acting President Charles H. Gorman announced. The invitations are to request attendance at baccalaureate and commencement ceremonies.

The correct names and addresses should be left with Miss Alice Terry, secretary to the president, at the earliest opportunity.

GIBLIN COMMISSIONED

Bob Giblin, last year a freshman student here, has been commissioned with the army air forces at Marfa, Texas. He has been assigned to duty at Fresno, Calif.

Giblin was home on leave last week in Fallon. While on the campus, he was an arts and science student.

Campus Yearbook Goes to Printer; Will Add Mackay Day Pictures Later

The 1944 Artemisia will go to press this week, the only remaining work to be done on the book being mounting and engraving of pictures of the Mackay Day celebration, Bette Poe, editor, announced today.

Plans for four fraternities, the sororities on the hill and all other organizations have been mounted and are at the engravers, she added. The printer will begin working on the pages which have been completed and the remaining pages will be in print as soon as possible.

Editorial Complete

Editorial work on the book has been completed and Mary Watts, advertising manager, announced the quota of ads for the annual had been exceeded. The ad section is above the same size as that in last year's book.

The editorial section will be about half the size of the 1943 Artemisia, the entire book being about 123 pages, Miss Poe said.

Brown

She added the cover of the book would be brown again this year and that colored drawings by Lew Hyman, Nevada artist, would be featured as they have in past years.

As far as can be determined, the book is on schedule, Miss Poe pointed out, but a definite date for issuing the book to students will not be announced for some time.

May Order Extras

Students may get their yearbooks by presenting the comptroller's receipt for semester fees when the book is ready for delivery. Arrangements are being made for some deliveries by mail.

Any student who wishes to send the annual to friends or former students may obtain an extra copy by ordering it now and paying the fee of $3.

Campus Social Unit To Be Established Through Local AWVS

A campus social unit, to be established with the cooperation of the AWVS campus division, may soon be established, it was announced today. Campus women have been working through the director of the Snack Bar downtown in an effort to have the unit activated.

Plans are to have the different social groups on the campus act as hostesses for the servicemen at tea dances to be held at the Snack Bar each Sunday afternoon.

Plans also include a ski trip to Galena Creek. The Reno army air base personnel will sponsor this activity for all campus women who wish to participate in such a trip, it was stated.

Last week a formal dance was held at the air base and campus women were in attendance. It is hoped that these dances may become a regularly scheduled affair and that the campus social unit to be established can be instrumental in making the plan a success.

Regents Decide Against Handling Foreign Laborers

Refusing to handle foreign labor on an intra-state matter, the Nevada board of regents met recently and decided the matter should be turned over to the federal government, it was announced here.

Last year, the labor program of bringing Mexican nationals to work on the state's farms and ranches was handled by the agricultural extension division at the university. However, this year, the problem involves importation of Japanese laborers as well as Mexican workers.

The board of regents sent a telegram to the war food administrator stating its position that the matter should be handled by the federal government but the state agencies were willing to cooperate to the fullest to make the problem a success.

Chief objection to handling the program in the state, it was learned, is that the state has not the necessary facilities for policing and supervising the laborers.

Fine Arts Obtains Walt Disney Works

Fine Arts will exhibit 25 Walt Disney original oil paintings between April 17-21, Lois Bradshaw, group president, announced this week.

Through the cooperation of the local AWVS and the Courvoisier Galleries in California, the club was able to obtain the originals, which have never been shown in Reno.

Forty per cent of the sales of Walt Disney originals is given to war relief agencies.

The exhibit will consist of Walt Disney's animated medium of expression which is typed by the Courvoisier Galleries as the first important new medium of expression in art since the invention of oil paint by the Van Eyck brothers in the 17th Century.

ASUN Senate Honored At Dinner Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Gorman

Members of the ASUN senate were guests of honor at a dinner held last night at the El Cortez Hotel. Acting President and Mrs. Gorman were hosts to the group.

Invitations sent to each member stated the hosts for the occasion as "the acting president, the vice-president, the comptroller and the Missus."

Senate members invited to attend were Italo Gavazzi (Dorothy Reynolds), Bob Uhlig, Warren Parks, Jack Good, Charles Fleming, Jack Fleming, Marie Aldrich, Dorothy Savage, Leonore Hill, Nadine Gibson, Katherine Little and Helene Batjer, student body president.

Acting Dean Plans Visit To Nevada High Schools

Acting dean of women, Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, will leave Sunday afternoon to visit high school girls throughout the southern part of the state. She will speak to them on scholastic and campus life at the University of Nevada.

She plans to visit the high schools at Tonopah, Las Vegas, Boulder, Bunkerville, Overton, Penaca, and Ely. As she visits each of the high schools, she will try to meet the parents of the girls now in school as far as it is possible, Mrs. Marsh added.

Later in the semester she will take a similar trip throughout the northern part of the state.

Tuttle Assigns Campus Areas To Sorority Work Day Groups

Committee Names Dr. Mack to Speak At Luncheon; Find Site for Seedling

Campus areas to be tackled by women students under the arrangement whereby sororities will take over the traditional fraternity work day were assigned this week to the organizations by Laurel Tuttle, work day chairman. Sweeping the stadium will be the job of Tri-Delts, Tuttle said, and Kappa Alpha Theta women will rake the parking lots. Painting the tennis courts has been assigned to Gamma Phi Beta. Pi Beta Phi will be in charge of dance decorations for the annual Mackay Day dance at the State building. Gymnasium arrangements and clean-up has been allotted to Zeta Phi Zeta, the Independents and all campus men will aid the two groups.

WWC Submits Constitution

Members Will Pass On Document

A tentative constitution for the women's war council has been drawn up by Katherine O'Leary and Kathleen Norris and the document will be presented to the group at a meeting soon, according to Brownlie Wylie, president of the WWC.

The constitution will be submitted to the general group for suggestions as to changes or amendments and will be considered for approval at the meeting, she said.

A meeting of the group is planned for the last Wednesday in April, when new officers for the coming year will be elected, she said.

The Red Cross board of the council met yesterday afternoon in the Agriculture building to discuss business of the group. Suggestions were given by committee heads as to new officers for the organization. They will be chosen at a later date.

Pan-Hel Members Hold Annual Dinner

A dinner was given Tuesday night at the Tri-Delt house in honor of all members of Pan-Hellenic Association, according to Pat Traner, newly elected president.

All old and new members of the group were present at the dinner, which is an annual affair, following spring elections of new officers for the group.

At the meeting, plans were discussed for changes in the rushees' handbook which will be compiled soon and ready for distribution by May, it was stated.

New members of the Pan-Hel council present at the dinner were, besides Miss Traner, Marie Aldrich, Valerie Scheeline, Katherine O'Leary, Thelma Charlton, Kathleen Norris, Leonore Hill and Beulah Haddow.

Old members attending were Ruth Mary Noble, Shirley Dimock, Dorothy Logan, Brownlie Wylie, Lois Welden and Katherine Little.

Army Requests 50 Primary Teachers

SALT LAKE CITY (Special) — Half a hundred civilian teachers are needed as instructors in primary education for illiterate soldiers in the ninth service command, it was announced today at the headquarters of Major General David McCoach, Jr., commanding general at Fort Douglas, Utah.

The civilians will replace soldier instructors who are being assigned to more active military duties. White and negro teachers are needed, both men and women. There are no age limits for applicants.

The special training unit for the ninth service command, one of 18 other such units in the United States, is located at Camp McQuaide, 16 miles from Santa Cruz, Calif. Applications, however, should be mailed to the commanding general, ninth service command, Fort Douglas, Utah.

Instruction is comparable to that given in the first four grades of elementary schools, but it is not necessary that an applicant have experience in primary instruction.

Installs DuPratt As Frosh Manager

Ronald DuPratt, newly appointed freshman class manager, was sworn into office by Helen Batyer, student body president, on March 28. DuPratt was elected by the ASUN senate to complete the office for the spring term after the resignation of Hallie Betty who enlisted in the army.

Seedling Site

The site of the silver spruce seedling planting has been chosen, it was announced at the Mackay Day committee meeting this week and the tree will be planted north of the Education building, directly in front of the University infirmary.

The seedling is to be secured from a Salt Lake City nursery and will be planted Friday, April 14, during the time usually allotted for the fraternity assembly.

The tree is to be planted in commemoration of Thomas Jefferson, promoter of universal education. His birthday falls on April 13.

Luncheon Speaker

Dr. Effie Mona Mack, instructor of history and political science at Reno high school, has been named principal speaker for the Mackay Day luncheon, Bob Uhlig, chairman, announced.

Chris Sheerin, member of the board of regents and newspaperman from Elko, was considered for the main speaker, but was unable to attend the celebration.

The subject of Dr. Mack's address has not been decided, but will be announced later, Uhlig said.

Open House Debated

The prospect of having sorority open houses on Friday night is as yet unsettled, it was announced at the committee meeting. It depends largely on the status of aviation students now stationed on the campus and whether they will be here to attend the sorority socials, Uhlig said.

A booth for selling Mackay Day luncheon and dance tickets will be set up on campus next week, it was announced. Members of the Mackay Day committee will sell tickets throughout the days of the celebration.

Placards advertising activities of the Mackay Day festivities will be posted on campus and in downtown stores some time during the next week, it was stated. The posters will be intended to induce townspeople and Reno army air base personnel to attend the celebration.

Word from Earl Carroll, Hollywood beauty expert, announcing the name of the Mackay Day queen will be received next week and will be published in the Mackay Day edition of the Sagebrush. Measurements and pictures of contestants from the campus women's groups competing were sent to Carroll for selection.

Moseley Can't Attend

Dr. John O. Moseley, newly appointed president of the university, has been invited to attend the ceremonies, but will be unable to be present, Uhlig stated.

Members of the committee present at Tuesday's meeting were Chairman Uhlig, Dorothy Abel, Janet McClellan, Katherine Little, Mary Alice Holmes Bean, Dean Dukes, Marvin Triger, Jack Fleming, Laurel Tuttle and Isabel Blythe, Sagebrush reporter.

CAMPUS EXCEEDS RED CROSS QUOTA

On the final day of the Red Cross war fund drive, the U. of N. reported a collection of $948 which is $92 over the quota set for the university, according to Marie Aldrich, chairman of the university division of the local Red Cross drive.

The drive which began two weeks ago ended last night. Social organizations are credited with having contributed $153.40 of the final total. The balance was donated by college officials, faculty members, university employees and individual students and amounted to $794.60.

Lieut. McMillen Goes To Camp Beale, Calif.

Lieut. Hugh O. McMillen left recently for Camp Beale, California, the military department announced this week. He has been attached to the military department here since the first contingent of AST men arrived on the campus and was assistant professor of military science and tactics.

Prior to being sent here, Lieutenant McMillen had experienced in the southwest, Pacific combat zone and while here instructed the first year advanced ROTC in modern combat tactics.

IDEOLOGY FOR EASTER

Once again this year, we ponder the ramifications of a wartime Easter. The circumstances of this Holy Week and its culminating Sabbath are not pretty to many who have lost their sons and brothers and even more distressing for the little peoples of the world who have been crushed by the tyrant's blow.

This Sunday, Americans will rise early, dress in their new-bought finery, pilgrimage to the church, listen to the sermon and return home by way of the streets on which they will be most noticed.

Simple gestures, all American. And so many of us will be able to see more clearly now the things which let us live in our secure ways here at home.

We are among the few who still walk freely, unfeared, down the street on a bright spring morning. We walk to churches of our individual choice and spend our brief time there, as is the custom.

But this year, more than the last, our voices will carry down the long sea channels to those who fight for us abroad. We are the remaining free and they fight at the last frontier of freedom that we may share with the world our hard-won treasure.

Many of our own have lain long under white crosses on alien soil, awaiting this day, the day of resurrection.

For, just as Christ arose on this day in the century long past, so this Easter, will their ghost voices of our fighters for freedom speak with us the familiar words of prayer.

This Easter, our houses of worship will swell with the sounds of not alone our voices, but theirs. From their miserable camps in all the world, the hymns of freedom and resurrection will sound and we will find them walking with us down each sunlit street.

From the men who fight, we have learned a new creed, we have again found God. With such as this to guide us and hold us fast, we can bow with them in keeping faith. Less we could not understand. More we will then have strength to do.—M. Whitaker.

LAST, BUT NOT LEAST

Since campus women began signing up as blood donors some weeks ago, the fact that we did so has rather slipped our minds, but a few have become curious and asked when they were to be called to give their pint of blood.

Some people seem to think we were forgotten and that perhaps signing up for this was like a lot of other programs. We sign our names and then go home and forget about it.

At first, technical difficulties at the hospital forced postponement of taking any blood donors from the Reno area. Soon, however, that was ironed out and the hospital staff began calling those who had pledged blood for the bank at the county hospital.

We discover this week that we are at the bottom of the list. The quota for Reno is small, 500 donors to be exact, and the authorities in charge have been taking donors in the order in which they signed. This puts the townsperson first and the university students, partly because their program got started late, at the bottom.

University student donors will be among the last to be called but they WILL be called.

At present the hospital staff is working only two days a week taking blood donations because they have not yet got the program entirely coordinated. The whole idea is new to the hospital here and a good many arrangements for an effective program will take time to complete.

Monday, the hospital staff took blood donations from 20 volunteers and it is hoped that in only a short time they will be able to take capacity numbers each day of the week instead of using the twice-a-week arrangement as it now stands.—M. Whitaker.

Letters to the Editor

ADD FOR OMISSION

University of Nevada, Sagebrush Editors:

In the paragraph beginning on the second page of my letter there was an omission which you may not have noticed. A listing of activities, most of which have been referred to in the Brush during the year, has no point at all without the figures indicating participations. Following are the figures quoted from my last letter and omitted:

Activity	Fall	Spring
Basketball	5	5
Bowling	7	7
Dance	3	10
Games	5	5
Outing Club	15	15
Riding	45	25
Roller Skating	5	5
Softball
Swimming
Tennis	6	6
Volleyball	3	3

The totals are 64 for the fall semester, 72 for the spring semester, and 136 for the year. This does not include 14 who are playing softball making a total to date of 150. Forty of the total participations are upperclass women.

Sincerely,
(Signed) Elsa Sameth.

Sentry: Halt! Who goes there?
Voice: You wouldn't know me anyway, I'm new here.

Sameth Announces Cut Make-Up Plan

Miss Elsa Sameth, head of the women's PE department, announced this week that any girl who has exceeded the number of cuts allotted her may make them up by participating in any of the following classes:

Dance, Tuesday and Thursday at 8 am at Northside junior high school or 3:30 pm in the Reno high school gym; games, Tuesday and Thursday at 4:15 pm at Reno high school; bowling, Wednesday and Friday at 11:00 am at the bowling alley.

Two periods of make-up work will remove one class cut, and any girl making up dance or games classes must attend at least three successive meetings, Miss Sameth added.

Home Econ Women Sew Woolen Easter Ensembles

Women in the home economics department have been occupied the last week putting finishing touches on their Easter ensembles, according to Miss Jessie P. Pope, of the home ec department.

Most of the women have been sewing wool suits for the holiday occasion and suits have been completed by Maie Nygren, Phyllis Baumann, Elva May Schooley, Marjorie Whipple, Barbara Smith, Madge Elder and Annabelle McVicar, it was announced.

EDITOR'S DESK

GREMLINS' GAMBOL

Since a broad and general discussion of tradition seems to be the order of the day, there's a little issue of who painted the N. Out of a total of 143 freshmen in the class who were supposed to put in their cheery appearance Saturday at dawn, 61 women and 7 men were absent, only a few justifiably so.

Just what frightened the freshmen away from the N, nobody knows; but it may have been gremlins. At any rate, the high rate of absenteeism would have shocked the local WLB to distraction—as it did the upperclass committee.

Dagging lime and water up that hill tends to be a bit of a job for so few people as those who showed up to do the work. Those who did appear were slightly disgruntled to notice that a good number of their classmates were among the missing.

What is wrong with the 1944 freshman class? In former years the freshmen classes haven't found the task unbearable; in fact, they rather enjoyed the day's outing while doing the lowly, traditionally tiresome job. Despite any personal attitude toward the need of paint on the N, we painted it—and the upperclass committee supervised the work with a great deal of vigor.

Perhaps the whole trouble this year is that the upperclass committees have been too lenient with the freshman class. We have made sissies of the whole bunch! They have reached the point where they ignore upperclass rulings, break every known tradition, and, on the whole, have a tendency to irritate upperclassmen in general.

Let's get on the ball! You'll be running this campus in a couple of years, and you won't appreciate underclassmen who refuse to uphold the traditions you've learned to respect. When you're asked to obey rules, DO IT! When there's fun to be had, YOU'LL HAVE YOUR SHARE. When you're an alumni, you'll look back at these tedious traditions and think that they are the greatest part of your alma mater, the University of Nevada.

BRUSH METAMORPHOSIS

Hollow echoes of bygone jokes, the distant clang of long-empty beer bottles, the lonesome vacancy of the stained old desk—all this is a part of the metamorphosis that has taken place at the 'Brush office in not-so-long a time.

To the uninitiated, this difference is not too noticeable, but to those who have pecked a typewriter for the slave driving old rag for the last three or four years—it's Hell!

We miss hearing the bedlam of half a dozen aimlessly beaten typewriters; we miss the endless throng of pointless questions; most of all WE MISS THE COPY!

On weeks like this, when the news simply doesn't break right for us, there is a horrible creepy feeling up around the office while the co-editors scan cartoons, risque poems, and questionable signs tacked about by former Brushmen. When we can't laugh at them anymore, we think about the fellows who were up in this same office a few years ago—laughing at the same things, insisting that a war was a remote possibility.

New Mexico Professor Says Common Language Cannot Be Achieved

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (IP)—There is no hope for a language common to the whole world, such as Esperanto, in the near future, said Dr. Francisco Villagran Prado, director of the baccalaureate school of the National University of Mexico, in an address at the University of New Mexico before a conference on Mexican-American intellectual relations.

The practical solution to language differences between the two countries, he said, must therefore be to spread Spanish in the United States and English in Mexico. This is the responsibility, he declared, of the cultivated people of both nations.

Speaking under the joint auspices of the University of Texas and the University of New Mexico, Prof. Villagran traced the teaching of English in Mexico, and said that graduates of the baccalaureate college usually have a knowledge of the language permitting them to translate "with some difficulty" texts of reference books. These results, he said, are not enough, and he blamed lack of coordination in the teaching of English in Mexico and want of opportunity for practice.

Villagran traced the new American emphasis on Spanish since the war began, commenting on the trend toward Spanish instead of French and German, and pointing out that there are several kinds of Spanish and that the Spanish of Spain is not the Spanish of Mexico. That is why, he said, the National University has set up courses for the instruction of Americans in Mexican Spanish and how to teach it.

SATURDAY KNIGHTS

Washday came early last week—and with it came the washing out of all high aspirations of just a lot of the aviation students stationed on the campus when they received notice that all men who had been in ground and service forces were to return to their old units.

The "Saturday Knights," as the coeds choose to call the fellows, were a rather discouraged group. They'd been looking forward to those gold bars and silver wings too long to take the news cheerfully. Washed out. The bitterness of the war extended itself obligingly to include the men with hops sky-high.

We're going to miss the sight of kahki on the campus, and the enthusiastic singing, Saturday reviews, cadet attendance at dances and other campus social functions. But there's a war to be fought, and it begins to look as though the women are going to be left standing here saying goodbye until the thing is over.

We thought we were used to goodbye's, but here we are doing it again. Each time, the Sagebrush looks for a new way of saying so-long. And each time it seems a little bit more hopeless to juggle the same 26 old letters into a new phrase for "best of luck, men, goodbye!"—B. Mollignoni.

SAGEBRUSH HAS A VISITOR

A couple of boys from the Tonopah bombing and gunnery base dropped into the office the other day to get the low down on the campus, how it operated, who operated it and the rest of the story.

During the course of our chat, one of the boys quoted a piece of poetry written by Harold McKibbin, an aerial gunner at the base. We thought it suitable to print, and so we do.

THE GUNNER'S PRAYER
If I die, please bury me deep,
My B-24 placed at my feet,
My caliber 50 at my head,
My flying jacket for my bed,
My flying boots leave on my feet;
My flying pants leave on my seat.
My parachute beneath my head;
My diary to show the life I've led.
And when these things for me you've done,
Cover me with the setting sun.
And to my sweethearts and friends please tell
I flew the heavens, but landed in hell.

Those who failed to appear were Arthur Alles, Arthur Boardman, Ray Caccarelli, Arthur Gregory, Howard Preece and Gilbert Prucha. The men will receive punishment, probably a minimum of 10 swats for their offenses, Good stated.

High School Seniors and Grads Expected To Attend University Summer Sessions

A number of high school seniors and graduates are expected to attend the summer sessions at the University of Nevada, according to Dr. Harold N. Brown, who is in charge of summer sessions.

These students, he said, because many of them are facing the draft or induction into the armed forces, now realize how much an extra semester of schooling may benefit them. The preponderant number of commissioned officers in the army and navy, are college educated and this factor has been impressed upon high school students.

Catalogues put out by the education department and "bluebooks" issued from the publicity office, headed by Prof. A. L. Higginbotham, have been sent to every high school senior and prospective college student throughout the state, he added.

The literature has been sent for the purpose of pointing out to the teenage boys the value of an early start in their careers.

Nearly one-fourth of the required units of pre-medical training can be completed in one summer session of 12 weeks, Dr. Brown pointed out. This factor may promote many Nevada youths to begin their training in summer school before they are subject to the draft.

After they have successfully completed part of their training, they are generally deferred or sent to army specialized training schools, he said.

There has been a reduction of summer school rates this year, the summer session director announced.

The 12-week session which formerly cost the student $50 in fees has been reduced to a fee of $35. Students may earn up to 15 credits in this session.

Several instructors have been contracted to teach the summer sessions. Miss Marie Burgess of the Oakland public schools will teach a kindergarten.

Lieut. Duncan Serves With Navy in Pacific

Lieut. (jg) Charles T. Duncan, former professor of journalism at the University of Nevada, is now in charge of the plant which supplies printed materials for the armed forces staff in the South Pacific.

Lieutenant Duncan supervises the operation of a print shop and both this and his previous assignments are in line with his work as instructor in journalism at the university. He was formerly with a photographic interpretation squadron in the Solomons.

Intermediate grammar school work will be taught by Mrs. Genevieve Watson Haight of Santa Barbara State College. Mrs. Lucy Adams, head of English at Mills College, will instruct in that subject here.

Mrs. Hazel Durham McComas, now teaching at Billingshurst junior high school in Reno, will direct courses in arts and crafts.

School law and education will be under the direction of Roger Corbett, former principal of the Winnemucca schools and now principal of Reno high school.

Catalogues are available from the education office and Dr. Brown or Dean Fred W. Tramer who will assist students with information about the summer sessions.

SPORT SNORTS

BY MADLEN MAESTRETTI
Although charged with inactivity from five different quarters, it appears that Nevada's men are again doing something. Now it's softball. With the faculty team challenging the civilian men, there was little to do but get busy and form a team. The date of this classic event is unique itself—the Mackay Friday afternoon (April 14). And by the way fellas, this will be a good chance for you to get back at those profs who hand out blue slips and D notices. Any civilian man student in the campus who wants to take a crack at Deming, Lawlor, Argussa, Bessley, Reid, Aiken, Scranton or McCormick should see Gil Stutton and sign up for the student team immediately. Practices were scheduled to start last Sunday afternoon. (Incidentally, students, Gill needs your all-out cooperation—let's make this good!)

Coeds Play Ball, Too
But, not wanting the men to outshine them, our coeds have gotten together with the same air—softball. Rumor has it that Lambda Chi dorm girls challenged the ATO house frosh—watch for this mix-up . . . it's guaranteed to be terrific!

Orchids to AWS
And here's a verbal orchid to AWS for their plan to encourage women students to play ball, tennis, ski, etc., instead of bending over cigarettes, coffee and cokes in their spare time. With the cooperation of WAA and the college PE department, the idea could go far and work miracles, but that word "cooperation" is easy to say but difficult to attain.

Campus women with chocolate pampered torsos and complexions to match might do well by looking into the AWS deal. From the looks of some of the figures that dot the local landscape, you and you and me should try exercising for sun-tans instead of sleeping on the lawn in the back yard.

Former Students Wed Recently at Miami

Miss Laurayne Hamlyn and Ensign William Van Tassel, both former students at the University of Nevada, were married March 16 at Miami, Fla., where the bridegroom is stationed.

Mrs. Van Tassel attended the university for a year and was a pledge of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Ensign Van Tassel is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha and graduated in mechanical engineering with the class of 1943. He was elected to Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honorary, and to Nu Eta Epsilon, honorary engineering fraternity.

NEVADA ADMINISTRATORS FORSEE POSTWAR EDUCATIONAL CHANGES

RENO (Special)—A marked increase in enrollment of both civilian and military students in U. S. colleges and universities following the war has been predicted by two Nevada administrators. Dean Fredrick Wood of the college of arts and science and Acting President Charles H. Gorman also expect higher education in post-war America to show the effects of wartime demands, interests and techniques. Following World War I, college enrollments were swelled to large numbers and a similar trend is expected following this conflict.

Veterans Program

If the United States government provides education for soldiers of this war, as has been suggested by President Roosevelt, the Nevada educators believe the U. S. should pay the veterans' expenses including tuition, books and living expenses.

This educational program, President Gorman and Dean Wood believe, should be for not more than two years, except that disabled veterans should be given sufficient training for making a living, which might take up to four years.

For those able to do college work, the education should be given at regular colleges and universities, it is suggested, instead of at unused military camps, as some have proposed.

Military Training

Should compulsory military training for United States youth be decided upon following this war, the Nevada educators say that they believe it should coincide with college education, and for those able to do college work, should be carried on as part of higher education.

The Nevada educators express the opinion that higher education after the war should be operated on an accelerated basis, with students who wish to do so given the opportunity of attending classes nearly the year around.

This all-year program has been possible for two years at the University of Nevada through the two semesters and a long summer session, such as will be available this year.

But they do not believe in a concentrated work on a weekly basis, such as is common in most army and navy training programs, leaving little time for out-of-class study.

New Interests

An increased student interest during the war is reported in modern languages and geography, in addition, of course, to that in the physical sciences and the skills related to them.

A shift in student interest away from the presently very popular science, engineering, mathematics, medicine and so forth, is regarded as an after-the-war possibility.

The president and dean hope that few colleges and universities will shift to the two-year bachelor's degree, for centuries the reward for four years of work.

Adult Education

An expansion in adult education is foreseen by them in the post-war period, with science and social science the most popular fields and newspapers, magazines, lectures, extension centers, correspondence classes, radio and institutes the most likely media.

A continuation of the present engineering, science and management extension courses, financed by the federal government and with college credit, they believe, may be needed.

Major Prunty Named Travel Coordinator

Major Tom Prunty, formerly of the University of Nevada military department, has been appointed federal coordinator for travel at San Francisco, according to word received here by Maj. J. C. Howard, head of the department.

His new assignment will involve practices in connection with conservation of gasoline, rubber and general use of vehicles owned by the government in the western area.

Before receiving his latest position, Major Prunty was attached to an ASTP group which was training at Pasadena, Calif., Junior College. He is a resident of Sparks.

TWO BRUSH STAFFERS HAVE TALENTS OTHER THAN WRITING

In proof of the point that reporters can have other admirable talents, the appearance of two Sagebrush staff members in the next Reno Little Theater production should be considered.

Jo Miller, frosh editor, and Tosca Masini, freshman writer, have prominent parts in the forthcoming production entitled, "Kiss and Tell."

Jo is a recent addition to Nevada's campus census. She is a native of Duluth, Minn., having attended Stanbrook Hall, a Benedictine academy for girls. She has taken part in several plays put on by community organizations of Duluth.

Her favorite part was that of Jo in "Little Women." She also spread her journalistic experiences around the east, having been editor of the school annual. And she has even written a play! It was presented by the junior class at the school.

Tosca is a graduate of Sparks high school and has a good background of dramatic work. Her mother has taught her a good many Italian folk songs and as she puts it, "When the relatives got together, I sang and sang."

On the campus, Jo is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and Tosca is a Tri-Delt. Of course, the Sagebrush will have to suffer their immediate loss since the play is keeping them occupied, but we are looking forward to the performance.

"Kiss and Tell" opens at the Reno Little Theater on Sierra street April 10, under the direction of Rankin Mansfield.

Extension Seen In College Scope

DETROIT, Mich. (IP)—The postwar period will see opportunity for college training extended to all Americans who can benefit from it, regardless of their financial status, according to Dr. David D. Henry, executive vice-president of Wayne University.

"Our nation," he states, "will implement the equalization of opportunity so that no longer will higher education be available just to those who happen to be able to pay their way. I think we can safely prophesy in the years ahead there will be a demand for higher education unparalleled in the history of the nation or of the world."

Will Be Broadened

Dr. Henry also forecast that, with the coming of peace, collegiate education will forsake narrow specialization and will be re-established upon a much broader cultural basis.

"We recognize," he declares, "that the narrow specialization of university education today, forced upon our institutions by the war, does not represent the kind of balanced education which universities traditionally provide. Specialization has its place, but the great tradition of higher learning encompasses also the philosophies, the sciences, the humanities, and all those subjects which have to do with human relations in a civilized world. The day will come, when victory is won, when we shall find higher education returning to its normal balance."

There will also be practice, she said, at Reno high school on Tuesday and Thursday at 3:30 or 4:15. Since no courts are available there, the period will consist of stroke practice against a backboard.

A sign-up sheet for practices will be posted in the PE offices, she concluded.

Tennis Lessons Offered by WAA

WAA tennis will begin next week, according to Nancy Herz, newly elected president, and each women participating will be required to have six practice periods, two per week.

Courts will be available for practice Monday and Wednesday at the hours between 8 and 9, 2 and 3 and 4 and 5. Tuesday and Thursday, the courts will be available from 9 to 10 in the morning. Friday they will be available from 12:45 to 1:45.

Instruction will be given on Monday and Wednesday at 8 am and on Tuesday and Thursday at the practice hour, 9 am. It will also be given at the Friday period.

There will also be practice, she said, at Reno high school on Tuesday and Thursday at 3:30 or 4:15. Since no courts are available there, the period will consist of stroke practice against a backboard.

A sign-up sheet for practices will be posted in the PE offices, she concluded.
