

AWS FASHION SHOW IS SLATED FOR FOUR O'CLOCK ON TUESDAY, MAY 9

Sponsored by the Associated Women Students, 27 models, representing all groups on the campus, will parade the latest in spring apparel for the remaining 250 University of Nevada coeds at the annual fashion show Tuesday. It is mandatory for freshman women to attend.

While at the university he was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. He also belonged to Scabbard and Blade, Coffin and Key, Press Club, Sagens and Blue Key.

Lieutenant Quilici attended officers candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga., last summer and was commissioned the last of September.

Those elected were Katherine O'Leary, Kappa Alpha Theta; Annette Leighton, Kappa Alpha Theta; Nancy Herz, Delta Delta Delta; Nadine Gibson, Pi Beta Phi, and Leonore Hill, Gamma Phi Beta.

Initiation services will be held for the new members Friday evening, May 12, at the Trocadero. Guests at the dinner will be emeritus dean of women, Margaret E. Mack, and Dr. James E. Church.

Dedication Slated For WAA Fireplace At May 11 Meeting

Benches To Be Added Before Dedication, Carl Horn States

The dedication of the recently completed WAA fireplace, to take place on May 11, will follow the installation of new officers for the coming year in order that the new president, Nancy Herz, may conduct the ceremony, according to Dorothy Reynolds, president.

Miss Herz will present the fireplace to the university board of regents, and Mr. Silas E. Ross will accept on their behalf.

Guests

Among the guests to be invited to the dedication of the outdoor fireplace will be the president of the university, board of regents, women of the faculty, superintendent of grounds, ASUN senate, class managers, honorary members of WAA and its members.

There will be no charge for the use of the fireplace, it has been decided, Miss Reynolds said. The only regulations for its use are now as follows: Limited to the use of campus and faculty organizations; each organization will supply its own fuel, and any organization wishing to use the fireplace is asked to sign the small bulletin board to be placed below the regular bulletin board on the first floor of the library.

More Work to Be Done

Stone benches to match the cut stone fireplace are under construction by the university and will be completed by dedication day, Miss Reynolds announced. Carl Horn, superintendent of grounds and buildings is supervising the construction.

Although no charge is being made for the use of the fireplace, it is understood that any equipment which anyone has to donate would be appreciated.

Norris Is Named War Board Head

Kathleen Norris, president of Gamma Phi Beta, was elected president of the women's war board at a meeting held last Monday, according to Brownlie Wylie, outgoing head of the organization. Miss Norris has served as head of the speaker's bureau for the board during the past year and has been responsible for securing speakers for many campus assemblies.

She is a junior student majoring in English and has been active with the university physical education department, and is a member of Sagens. She has appeared in campus dramatic productions.

A revision of the constitution was read at the meeting and approved by the members present. Additional officers for the WWC will be appointed by the new president at a meeting scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The program will include May Day Carol arranged by Deems Taylor, Chit-Chat by Moffat, America's On the March by Thownsey-Riegger and They Thought, by Borch. The accompanist will be Dorothy B. Post, and Prof. Theodore H. Post will direct.

RETIRING ENGLISH HEAD

Prof. A. E. Hill, head of the department of English and a member of the University of Nevada faculty for 31 years, who will retire at the end of the present term, having reached retirement age.

Professor A. E. Hill to Retire

At the end of the present term, one of our faculty members will have reached his ultimate majority, retirement age, and will officially retire from new officers for the coming year in order that the new president, Nancy Herz, may conduct the ceremony, according to Dorothy Reynolds, president.

Professor Hill came to the University of Nevada in 1913 from the University of Chicago, where he received his A.B. degree in 1899. He was an associate and then instructor in English at the midwestern university from 1907 till 1913.

Rapid Promotions

At Nevada, after a year's service, he was made an associate professor, which he remained until 1916 when he was granted a full professorship. He has retained that position and was made acting head of the department of English in 1928 when Dr. H. W. Hill, then head, resigned to take a position at the University of Southern California. In 1942, he was made department head.

Students through the years will remember the quiet voice of Prof. Hill in his Bible course, Shakespeare, the English novel, and many others. He always has a smile and a quip to add, and according to witnesses, "he really got off a sharp one" now and then.

On numerous occasions, Prof. and Mrs. Hill have been host and hostess to Chi Delta Phi, English honorary, and the dinners held at their home have been some of the most interesting the group has had. The two have been intimate friends of every student who ever got past freshman English, and of some who didn't. They have taken an interested part in the activities of the campus and have been guests of honor on many occasions of various campus groups.

He has never written a book because, he says, "I have devoted most of my energies to my work at the university." He was so busy getting his students to love fine literature, he couldn't find time to create much of his own.

After his retirement, he and Mrs. Hill plan a trip to the coast, namely, Palo Alto, where they may consider living. At any rate, he said, they will spend the summer there.

"The main object," he stated, "is to get away for a rest." Perhaps, being away from the campus will give him the rest he deserves. Being away after such a long service will probably, however, be quite a strain. Thirty-one years is a long time to spend with one institution and a long time to serve in the interests of higher and finer education.

Carpenter Urges West to Organize

Organization of the mining interests of 11 western states to preserve the gains made by industry during the war was suggested by Prof. Jay A. Carpenter, director of the Nevada Bureau of Mines, to the recently appointed California state mining board.

This suggestion was made at the request of Gov. E. P. Carville, who considers the plan for the mutual benefit of those states concerned, Professor Carpenter said.

Professor Carpenter, who left last Tuesday for San Francisco to meet with the board, returned to the university last Friday.

Commendation Given To Sgt. McCormick

S/Sgt. Michael J. McCormick of the university military department has received a commendation for developing a method of disassembling the Garand M1 rifle, Major J. C. Howard, professor of military science and tactics, announced recently.

In a letter from Major F. A. Ryder of the ordnance department at Fort Douglas, the method for "field stripping" the rifle in event of a misfire was described as of "sufficient merit to be included in the manuals and bulletins issued to the field."

The disassembling method for the rifle cuts down on the time required by a soldier in the field in taking the gun apart to one-fourth of the original time. The procedure has been forwarded to the commanding general of the army service forces at Washington, D. C., according to Major Ryder.

Sergeant McCormick developed the new method while serving as manager of the Nevada rifle team.

CRIDER ON LEAVE

Jack Crider, former student at the university was here on leave recently from his station at Port Huenele, Calif. He is a member of the naval construction battalions (seabees). His rating is seaman second class and he has recently been in training at Camp Peary, Va.

Seniors Meet Tuesday To Plan Senior Week

BOOK OF OATH PUT ON EXHIBIT

The blue leather silver bound Book of the Oath will be brought from its place in the president's safe and put in the outer office during senior week on exhibition and so that seniors graduating with baccalaureate degrees may sign it, according to an announcement from the president's office.

This book, which is brought out on all worthy occasions and always at commencement, is placed on the stand in front of the presiding officer during the graduation ceremonies.

Orr Administrators Oath The oath, printed on the first page of the book, will be administered to all graduates by Chief Justice William E. Orr, of the state supreme court.

All senior students are allowed to sign the book, and if possible, it is requested that students graduating in the middle of the year come to sign it, Miss Alice Terry, secretary to the president, said.

The Book of the Oath was established under the administration of President Walter E. Clark in 1920. It was especially made for the university in San Jose, and the printing was done by a professional artist, Mr. Espina.

The first graduating class to sign the book was that of 1920. Parchment pages up to 1945 have been engraved for the class of each year to sign. After that year more pages will be added, Miss Terry said.

In the back of the book is a gold star honor role of the University of Nevada students who gave their lives during World War I. It is probable that another will be added upon the completion of this war, according to Miss Terry.

In 1921 it was decided by the board of regents that a plate containing the text of the oath be made so that parchment copies could be given to graduates with their diplomas.

Publication Heads To Be Appointed

Next year's editors and business managers of the Artemisia and Sagebrush will be appointed at a meeting to be held Tuesday in the Student Union building, Prof. Leonard E. Chadwick, acting graduate manager, stated.

The publication's board, composed of present Sagebrush and Artemisia heads, three student representatives-at-large, Professor Chadwick and Dr. Ernest L. Inwood, meet at least twice each semester to discuss the existing conditions of the campus yearbook and newspaper.

In the past, qualifications for editor and business manager of the two publications have been limited to senior students who, for endeavor on the Artemisia or Sagebrush, have been recommended by the editors and business managers. However, this year, due to the war clause of the ASUN constitution, sophomores and juniors are also eligible for the four different positions.

Mining Students Plan Gabbs Trip

Under the sponsorship of the Hunt Foundation the Crucible Club and all mining students will take a trip to Gabbs Valley this weekend, President Frank Fitz, announced.

The party will leave Saturday morning at 7 o'clock from the Mackay School of Mines building and will return Sunday evening.

Prof. Jay A. Carpenter and Prof. William I. Smythe will accompany the group and a meeting of the Nevada branch of the American Institute of Mining Engineers will be held at the time the group will be at Gabbs Valley.

The BMI plant and Basic Refractories will be inspected by the group and a trip will be taken to the Sierra Magnums plant. In the evening, technical papers dealing with subjects in the field of mining will be presented.

Bears and Ohmert Named County Libe Assistants

Maxine Bears and Hazel Ohmert have been named assistants in the children's department of the Washoe county library, according to Miss Edith Ruebsam, instructor in education. The women have been taking courses in child education and particularly work in a class in children's literature. They will assist Miss Jeanette Veneman, children's librarian at the county library.

Noble Is Chairman For General Plans

A general meeting of the senior class will be held Tuesday at 4:00 in the ASUN building to discuss plans for senior week. Ruth Mary Noble, Tri-Delt, has already been appointed general chairman for the week of activities, but the preliminary plans of the other committees working with her will not be disclosed until the general meeting.

Katherine Henningsen, senior class manager, announced other committees which will be active in the next few days to organize events for the final week on campus of the class of '44.

Program Nita Reifschneider will head the program committee, to be assisted by Gloria Eather and Bette Sullivan, while the picnic committee is captained by Vern Keller, whose assistants will be Jack Good, Shirley Dimock, Fonita Ferguson, Geraldine McFarland and Dorothy Savage.

Chairman of the banquet committee is Jane Dugan. Her committee is Helen Cashbaugh, Frances Baumann, Doll Corbett and Jerry Streshley.

The senior gift will be obtained by Katherine Little with her assistants, Lois Weiden, Lela Iler and Janet McClellan.

The Trek On the committee to plan the senior trek is Dorothy Reynolds, chairman, and Molly Morse Griswold, Mary Margaret Mason and Clara Beth Haley, Lois Bradshaw and Melka Whittaker are in charge of publicity.

Final plans will be drawn for senior week at the general meeting of the class. All seniors are requested to attend that plans may be completed. Arrangements for the week's activities will then be announced.

Nevada Has Trained Nearly 2000 Men For Army Positions

CTD and AST Men Included Former Nevada Students

RENO, Nev. (Special)—Nearly 2000 soldiers have been trained by the University of Nevada during the last year in the three army contingents assigned to the institution by the war department.

Air corps trainees, forming the largest group educated by the U. of N. totalled 1800, while 100 men have been schooled as army engineers as part of the army specialized training program.

Seventeen formed Nevada students, after service in the army were returned to the campus to continue their advanced training as members of the Nevada reserve officers' training corps.

The engineering program and the advanced ROTC training were discontinued at Nevada and at most other institutions in the country this spring and their men transferred back to active duty or to further study elsewhere.

College air corps training also was discontinued by the war department, but those on the campus are being permitted to finish their courses. Air corps training, it is expected, will be concluded at Nevada about June 1.

Whether the University of Nevada will receive a contingent of 17-year-olds, on assignment by the army until they reach 18, has not yet been determined.

The university is approved for such training, however, and as an institution with an established ROTC unit, is believed to be under consideration at this time.

Students will not be assigned for such study and training before about July 1 at the earliest, according to word received by university officers.

The air corps training program, one of the first in the nation, was begun a year ago this spring. In comparison with progress at other institutions in the west with the same program, training at Nevada has ranked consistently high.

The engineering program at Nevada—part of the ASTP national plan—was begun last September.

Later in the fall, the former Nevada students were returned to the ROTC for further education toward officerships.

HOLT IS DELEGATE

Rev. W. T. Holt, minister of the university chapel, has been made an official delegate to the Synod of the Episcopal Province of the Pacific, which has been holding its annual meeting this week in Reno.

OUR NUMBERED DAYS

Days are funny things. They pass quickly when an approaching pleasant event is in store. They pass slowly when perhaps we don't receive an awaited letter. Our days at Nevada are now numbered. There remain two weeks until the close of the present semester. There is one week left for study and one for exams and then time for packing and planning on going home for a summer of work or play.

At the senior dinner given recently for the graduating class, ASUN President Helene Batjer mentioned how numbered our days were and pointed out some of the memories we would carry with us.

Underclassmen will carry them only through a summer to be renewed next fall, but the graduating class will carry them through life never to be renewed save or some distant homecoming.

With this commencement, Nevada will mark its fifty-eighth year of service to the people of this state. Many of its faculty and affiliated personnel will mark milestones in their service, too.

Among these, whom we recall during our numbered days is Silas E. Ross, chairman of our Board of Regents.

Here is a man who has met violent criticism, in many cases bitter opposition, in many the helping hand necessary to successful administration of this university. He has given to the University of Nevada the greatest part of his life in the twelve years he has served as one of its regents. He became chairman of the board in 1937.

In these last days, tribute is due such a man for the untiring and unremunerated hours he has spent in putting the university on the map of education in this country. His acts have afforded Nevada her rightful place in the scheme of higher learning in America which she might not have been able to claim had not a person with such foresight taken the initiative in boosting her up the ladder.

Because of the responsible position he holds, Silas Ross has been the point of much criticism. His is a thankless job, that of handling all the ins and outs of effective administration. Things are likely to go awry, but due to the leadership and understanding he has put into his job, many things have not gone wrong, but have gone forward in progress to ultimate achievement.

He has not worked single handed in his tasks, for administration is a job which demands cooperation of other high officials at a university.

Charles H. Gorman, as acting president, vice-president, comptroller or what have you, has worked closely with the chairman of our regents in operating this institution.

Gorman has been, because of circumstance, given the job of front man, because he more directly represents the university as its executive. Ross has, also because of circumstance, been in the background, receiving little notice save from those who, hearing rumors of closed doors, have seen fit to criticize.

There have never been closed doors on any action taken by our regents. As the administrative body, they naturally discuss matters vital to each student here and those matters are always made public that the public may judge the wisdom of their actions. The regents are not a small machine operating against our interests, secreting from us what we should know, going over the heads of anyone concerned.

There is nothing piratical or dictatorial about the regents or any of their members. In the past years, we have suffered the loss of some of the able members and more work has shifted to those remaining on the board who were leaders, who were needed, who responded to the need.

So, in these last days, we would like to remember the two men who have together been going abuilding for Nevada. Salud! To our friends Si and Charlie.

AFTER THE BALLOTING'S OVER

When all the ballots are cast and then counted, the election is over and the real task of the newly elected officers begins. They begin summing up their positions, doubtful and distant during election. They take store of their goods—what and whom they have with which to work.

Being a candidate for office is one thing, but as our new executive and class managers will find, being elected is quite another. There will be defeats for some, who, intelligently will pledge their support to the winner.

There will be some bitterness and much disorganization. Many will consider that now that elections are over, there is nothing more to worry about.

We cannot fancy a person working to set up a platform, then when the vote is cast his way, stepping down, to leave the voters with the responsibility of keeping the platform in shape.

Our new executive faces a tough year and a long list of precedents, some outmoded, which must be considered.

What happens at Nevada next year depends on the eager and efficient planning which is done now.

Women are having a rough time of stepping into a man's shoes. This year, Lee Hill steps into the place occupied for the last year by a woman. That much ice is broken. But there have been many who have been dissatisfied with the way things have been operated. The new executive can't be expected to change everything overnight. In fact, if she did, she would be severely criticized.

The Sagebrush went on record before elections as favoring a platform of conservatism and intelligent administration. We did not name our candidate. Any step in the way of good government is enough regardless of the person accomplishing it.

It is up to the students of this university who will again walk through its gates next fall to think now and suggest now and plan now for the eventualities of our next school year.

It is now we must take stock of ourselves and prepare for a new year of intelligent thinking, effective government, with none of the hitches. One misstep and the whole idea will be shattered.

Some thought should be given to traditions and the usual activities. Soem thought should be given to the ways and means of integrating the student body. We believe the leader who was chosen had the leadership and organization abilities needed. It remains for those of us who will be saying hello next year on the hill to lend a hand in maintaining the student government and pace of student affairs which has distinguished this university in the past.

Astronomy Group Hears UCLA Man

Immigrants From Space, a lecture by Frederick C. Leonard, was presented last Thursday evening in the Mackay science hall to members of the Astronomical Society of Nevada, students and faculty members.

The lecturer discussed meteorites, and illustrated his speech with lantern slides and samples from meteorites.

The speaker was brought to the university by the Astronomical Society, according to Prof. G. B. Blair, president. The group is composed of people interested in astronomy and holds monthly meetings. When outside speakers are to be presented, the public is invited.

Doctor Leonard is chairman of the department of astronomy at the University of California at Los Angeles and editor of the bulletins for the Society for Research on Meteorites. At present he is on leave of absence from UCLA to do work at Lick Observatory near San Jose.

FARMERETTES INVADE DEPARTMENT FOR AGGIE COURSES

Women have invaded another department of the university, with three farmerettes taking a course called animal husbandry literature, Dr. Eldon Wittwer reported this week. Katherine Henningsen, Lucile Brown and Helen Cashbaugh out number the male portion of the class, which is Al Dockery.

Dr. Wittwer reports they are doing better work in the course than the regular aggie students.

Campus Joe, a horse, with his all-that's-left-of-the-aggie-farm banner, is also feeling the effects of the feminine invasion.

Joe Has a New Jaw
He has the very latest of Veronica Lake manes and a new Tyrone Power jaw supplied by F. E. Fink, technical assistant in soils research. Joe has also recently received a fine currying job done with the horsetest of shellac and his glass eyes now have that light in them.

Piebe Paul has a new ring in his nose. Piebe Paul is the mate of Piebe Pauline and the two are model Holsteins quartered in the agricultural building.

Staff in the Field
Staff members of the department have gone out of their own field to teach army trainees on the campus and other work in connection with the war has called some to other fields.

C. W. Hodgson, agronomy professor, has gone to Ely with the extension service there and Louis Titus, of the same branch of the department, will do summer work in connection with farm machinery for vocational high school students and farmers in the district.

BY HELLEN MEAKER
The Thetas are full of new ideas this spring, first changing their time honored spring formal into a picnic and swimming party to answer the manpower shortage, then resorting to the time worn V & T for transportation to the site of their picnic.

Bowers Mansion was chosen for the affair, strictly gettette, and when mothers and fathers didn't see the necessity of using the family auto for picnic purposes, the Thetas approached the Virginia and Truckee Railroad Company.

Mary Harriman, in charge of arrangements, arranged with the engineer to hold the train until 8 o'clock Saturday morning to enable the KATs to board the train for the little Washoe valley. They will have about a mile to walk after leaving the train at the nearest point to the Nevada landmark.

At five in the evening, the train will await them to transport them back to Reno. Necessity is often the mother of something as the saying goes.

More Flowers Arrive To Beautify Campus

Canna bulbs will arrive this week to be planted in the flower bed along the north end of Manzanita Lake, Carl Horn, superintendent of buildings and grounds, announced.

The bed, 300 feet long (we measured it) is now being spaded to prepare it for the seven or eight hundred bulbs. Perennial phlox will remain in the bed to give color contrast, Horn said.

The main work in beautifying the campus, however, Mr. Horn said, is still upkeep. One man is busy all day, every day, mowing with the power mower, and another man is employed three days each week. Then there are seven men kept busy watering lawns, except those days it rains, and an eighth man does nothing but water flowers. The annual flowers would probably not be planted for another three weeks, Mr. Horn said.

Four New Courses Approved for BMI

Expect Another To Be Added

Approval of four of the five proposed courses to be added to the curriculum offered at BMI and the Manganese Ore Co. under the Engineering, Science and Management War Training program was received this week from the head office in Washington, D. C., Dr. Sig-mund W. Lefson, university representative, said today.

The fifth proposed course will probably be approved in the near future, he added. Organization of these courses is now underway, and classes will soon begin.

Courses Approved

Industrial instruments, general chemistry and electrical engineering are the courses to be offered at BMI, while a course in industrial chemistry dealing with a particular process of refining manganese ore, is to be offered at the Manganese Ore Company.

The course which has not yet been approved, deals with basic electrical knowledge. This course has been offered before, and was very popular. Officials of the plant believed that it would be valuable to repeat it, Doctor Lefson concluded.

Women's Choir Renews Old May Day Tradition Through Carol Singing

On the morning of May 1, before the sun was up, the university women's choir gathered to sing May carols in the traditional May day serenade.

This tradition has not been kept for a number of years on the campus. It was introduced some 20 years ago by Dean and Mrs. John W. Hall and kept alive for a long time by the girls of the normal school.

The object of its revival was to surprise Dean and Mrs. Hall. A number of other people were serenaded including Mrs. Leon W. Hartman and the convalescents in the infirmary.

Carols sung were Spring, Lovely May Is Coming, Winter Goodbye, On a Merry Morn in May, May Song, and In Sunny May.

After the sing, the choir was invited to the residence of Professor and Mrs. Theodore H. Post for a waffle breakfast.

Committee Studies Faculty Council

Several meetings of the committee appointed to study the advisability of appointing a faculty advisory council have been held, Dr. George W. Sears, chairman, said, but nothing definite has been decided. In any event, it will not be known as the grievance committee, he emphasized.

However, if it is found desirable to have such a council, the committee will decide on the method of appointing members and the function of the council, Doctor Sears added.

This committee was appointed to consider the question upon the suggestion of Acting President Charles H. Gorman at a faculty meeting held last week.

The colleges of arts and science, engineering and agriculture are each represented by three committee members.

SPORT SNORTS

BY MADLEN MAESTRETTI

From the looks of the sunbathers sported by University of Nevada coeds the past week, one would imagine that Nevada is almost 100 per cent sports minded. In fact, one might think that our brown beauties did little other than play tennis, swim, ride horseback and play softball.

However, being downright honest, about one-fifth of the women on the campus are enrolled in volunteer outdoor sports activity. From this conclusion it is evident that most of our tanned tanalizers are of the soft indoor type.

Dishonest?

Decorating the sorority house lawns, sorority sisters of every color (from baby pink to lobster red) may be found any time after sunup. This is what I prefer to call getting a dishonest suntan.

However, the main point to be put across is that this type of sun tanning is not altogether safe for any girl. Many women haven't sense enough to come in out of the sun. They're the ones you'll notice with blisters and peeling skin. They may think that they are adding to their beauty, but unless it is done carefully, sun bathing can be detrimental to one's look and health.

Sunned Advice

From the infirmary yesterday came this advice: sun bathers are urged to spend not longer than 20 minutes in the sun for starting a tan and only a slightly longer period each day thereafter. For burns, Tannafax is recommended. Girls who do not tan easily may receive painful burns, but vinegar may help to give them a comfortable even tan.

Fishermen Reprimanded

A slight misunderstanding arose this week when Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings Carl Horn discovered that men between the ages of six and 60 were fishing in Manzanita Lake.

Undoubtedly these fishermen didn't know that fishing in the sacred lake was forbidden. The only fish allowed to be taken out of the lake are the kind that don't grow beards for Mackay Day.

The lake was stocked with black bass about 20 years ago. Later, trout were added. However, there has been no trace of these in the past several years.

Catches Fish

Although the water lies quiet and dirty brown under a hot sun today, the water isn't by any means stagnant and the fish (according to successful fishermen) are not under par. One sportsman reports the presence of catfish.

However, I hope that all concerned with lake and its care realize that the offenders had no idea that they were treading forbidden ground. In actuality, I think that Mr. Horn's main objection was that the young fishermen trampled his flowerbeds. If the situation were looked into properly, perhaps investigators would find that the lake was overstocked with fish anyhow.

In preparation for the western Nevada high school track meet which will get under way tomorrow at 10 am. Hi-Y boys from the Reno high school under the direction of Neil Scott, have been conditioning the Mackay field track throughout this week.

Tomorrow starts the semi-final session for 14 high schools from the western part of Nevada with the state track meet scheduled for the following Saturday on Mackay field. Participating tomorrow will be groups from Reno, Sparks, Fernley, Wadsworth, Fallon, Lovelock, Hawthorne, Yerington, Stewart, Carson, Virginia City, Dayton, Douglas and Smith Valley.

Officials for the meet have been chosen from the university and include Chet Scranton, associate professor of men's PE, who will act as head judge; Dean Fredrick Wilson, dean of the college of agriculture, head timer; Sgt. Michael McCormick, instructor of military science, clerk of course. Additional officials will be chosen from the campus Block N organization.

Outline of the events of the day as scheduled by director of the meet, Jake Lawlor, follows:

120-yard hurdles, 100-yard dash, mile run, 440-yard dash, 200-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 880-yard run.

Javelin, broad jump, shot, pole vault, discus, high jump, half-mile relay.

Among the outstanding athletics present at the Yerington meet who will appear on Mackay field tomorrow are: Springer, Reno, champ of last week's 100 and 120-yard dash; Vodnick, Sparks, outstanding in 100 and 220-yard dash; Gruwell, Hawthorne, mile and half-mile; Russell, Sparks, last week's high jump star; Rix, Lovelock, pole vault; Homer, Fallon, outstanding in the 100-yard dash, javelin and broad jump; Rowley, Reno, 220-yard dash. Spectators at last week's event hesitate in choosing a winner for Saturday's relay with Sparks, Reno and Fallon fairly evenly matched.

A bore is a fellow who opens his mouth and puts his feet in it.

Summer School Faculty Changes Told by Dr. Harold N. Brown, Session Director

Dr. Ralph A. Irwin and Prof. William O. Holmes, originally listed among the faculty for the summer session at the university, will be unable to be here, according to Dr. Harold N. Brown, director of the summer session.

Dr. J. R. Young will substitute for Dr. Irwin. Dr. Irwin will teach at the University of Missouri. Professor Holmes plans for the summer are not yet complete, but Mrs. Lucy L. Adams will substitute in teaching his classes.

Other members of the resident faculty teaching this summer are Phillip G. Auchambaugh, Leonard E. Chadwick, Benjamin P. Chappelle, John Gottardi, Charles R. Hicks, Anatole G. Mazour, Christian W. F. Melz, George W. Sears, Claude C. Smith, Milan J. Webster, Albert G. Wiederhold, Loring R. Williams, Fredrick Wood, Mrs. Andrew C. Rice, Miss Joanna Chapman, and Harold N. Brown.

Guest Instructors
Guest members of the summer session faculty will be Mrs. Lucy L. Adams of Mills College; Marie L. Burgess, Rockridge School, Oakland; Roger Corbett, superintendent of Winnemucca school district; Genevieve W. Haight, Santa Barbara State College; and Hazel Durham McComas, California College of Arts and Crafts.

Although the freshman subjects are being stressed to allow high school graduates to get as much education as possible in a short time because of war conditions, the regular courses for teachers and graduate students will be offered as usual, Doctor Brown said.

Time To Be Earned
Courses are planned so that the inter-session will represent one school term and the summer session another, and follow up courses of those offered during the inter-session may be taken during the summer session.

Classes are scheduled so that the beginning student may take either chemistry and English or English and history. Thus a student could complete one semester's credit—one-fourth of the pre-medical requirements.

Reduced Rates
An innovation during this year's session will be the reduced rates, Doctor Brown said. This year the rate for 12 weeks of summer session will cost $35 in comparison with $50, the price last year. Similarly the rates for six weeks of school has been reduced from $25 to $20.

Board and room are also available to students for this session, which was not possible last year because of the

Prof. Gianella Speaks To Minden Rotary

Magnesium was the subject of a speech delivered by Prof. Vincent P. Gianella before the Minden Rotary Club last Monday night.

He discussed the sources of the metal, the reduction from the ore, its uses and probable future.

Since Nevada has one of the largest magnesite deposits in the world, and one of the largest plants for the refining of that ore is located in the state, the subject is becoming of increasing interest, Professor Gianella told the group.

Two Sophomore Women Confined to Hospital

Georgianna Hicks of Sparks and Mary Ancho of Battle Mountain, sophomore students, were confined to the hospital during the week and will probably spend the rest of the school term in the hospital, according to Mrs. E. Griffith, nurse in charge of the infirmary.

Miss Ancho underwent an operation for appendicitis at a local hospital last Thursday and is reported doing nicely. Miss Hicks received a fracture when she fell on the steps of the Agricultural building last Friday morning, and is now in the infirmary.

Walt Riggie Begins Air Cadet Training

Walter Riggie, former student and editor of the 1943 Artemisia until he was called to the armed forces, has entered the air forces training command school at Yale University for aviation cadet training in armament.

Upon completion of the course, he will be commissioned a second lieutenant and assigned to active duty.

While at the university, Riggie was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and Coffin and Keys, secret honorary. He was a mechanical engineering student and edited the campus yearbook.

occupancy of the dormitories by the air force. Board for six weeks, seven-day service, may be obtained for $52.50, and rooms for six weeks are—single occupancy, $22.50; double occupancy, $15.

From present indications as many students or more than last year should attend the summer session, and more are expected to attend both sessions, Doctor Brown concluded.

Higginbotham Named To Editing Board

Word was received here today of the appointment of Prof. Alfred L. Higginbotham to an editing committee which will make recommendations for teaching of journalism in the postwar period.

The announcement of his new position was made by Dr. Fredric E. Merwin, president of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism. The committee to which Professor Higginbotham was named is one of nine created throughout the country and consisting of college deans and professors.

His duties will involve collecting and analyzing data concerning the field of journalism in the light of changes it has undergone during the war.

Aggie Engineering Course Considered By Nevada College

Interested in the possibility of adding a course of agricultural engineering to the curriculum of the college, A. W. Turner, educational director of the International Harvester Co., visited Dean Stanley G. Palmer of the college of engineering yesterday, the dean said.

Also interested in the possibility of obtaining graduates for work with his company, Turner questioned the dean on this point, but since all graduates are already in possession of positions, this was impossible.

Turner was accompanied by J. T. Elliott, of the San Francisco office.

Geology Classes Plan Sunday Trip to Donner

Beginning geology classes will leave on a field trip next Sunday morning at 8:30 for Donner summit, according to Prof. Vincent P. Gianella, instructor.

They will study such points of geological interest as the Truckee river canyon, lava flows, metamorphic rock, ancient glacial moraines and glacial deposits, he added.

Ashley Van Slyck, former university student and member of Sigma Nu fraternity, was recently commissioned a second lieutenant at Williams Field, Chandler, Ariz., it was reported here this week.

SEVENTEEN WITHDRAW

A total of 17 students dropped from school this semester, it was announced this week from the registrar's office. Of this number five withdrew to enter the armed forces.

Last semester there was a total of 71 withdrawals; from these, 42 boys and 1 girl withdrew to enter some branch of the service.

Sorority Catting

UNANIMOUSLY FEMALE

With this week's dictum from the dean of women's office to the effect that campus women will not be seen on the streets of Reno in their usual attire of jeans, the question uppermost in little Suzy's mind is: "What shall I wear to the Wal? . . . ow, the pink dimity is cute, but somehow, doesn't jive with beer. There's always the dotted swiss—nope, not when 10 others sit in the same booth! My Levi's just got back from the laundry, so that's out! What will I do?"

'Tis a problem, indeed, for now, after a snappy set of tennis, or a Saturday afternoon horseback ride, campus athletes will traipse home to dig through over-stuffed closets to find the appropriate frock to wear for the Saturday afternoon parade. You know—the typical afternoon frock! Renoites are so critical of collegiate dress—we must be right up to par!

Singularly enough, we did not find Suzy kicking when slacks were abolished from the campus. Realizing that slacks on campus violated Nevada traditions, she and her gang cooperated whole-heartedly when the order came through. Not even the iron hand of upperclass women could have enforced this, had it not been for that old spirit of teamwork Nevada has always known—teamwork that is at its best when fellows and gals realized a reasonable request has been made.

But back to our heroine! Sorority Sally has just phoned with the glad news that she has compromised on the old standby sloppy joe, and skirt—so Suzy, with a last regretful look at the jeans and plaid shirt hanging wistfully in the closet, leaves for the old stamping ground, wondering why the heck it's anybody's so and so biz what she wears to the Wal. We'd like to know, too!

He: I'd go through fire for you.
She: What a silly ash you would be.
