

Campus Sorority Rushing Begins Sunday With 94 Women Wanting Bids

Pan-Hellenic on Guard as Four Greek Houses Prepare for Week's Activity

"Ninety-four women thus far have signed up for sorority rushing and more are expected to do so by Saturday," Pat Traner, Pan-Hellenic president, announced today.

The fall rushing season will commence Sunday afternoon at which time sororities will hold open house for all rushees. Teas and dessert hours will be given throughout the week to be climaxed Friday evening by the preferential dinner, Miss Traner said. Pledging ceremonies will occur after rushees have stated their preferences to the Pan-Hellenic lawyer on Saturday morning of next week.

Afternoon dresses and hats will be worn to the Sunday teas, while campus clothes will be worn throughout the week. The policy of informal dress, as well as the abandonment of themes and decorations at rushing parties, was inaugurated last year by Pan-Hellenic as a wartime measure.

Rush parties are scheduled for the week as follows:
Monday: Gamma Phi Beta and Kappa Alpha Theta—teas;
Tuesday: Delta Delta Delta and Pi Beta Phi—dessert hour.
Wednesday: Same schedule as Monday.
Thursday: Same schedule as Tuesday.
Friday: Preferential dinners at all houses.

Pan-Hellenic meetings for all rushees will be held Saturday at 10 am and Thursday at 8 pm in room 109 in the Agriculture building. These meetings are compulsory for all rushees, and any woman failing to attend them will be automatically barred from further rushing. At this time rushing rules will be explained and all questions answered.

Silence between rushees and all sorority women on the campus begins at 10 pm Sunday, September 3, and will continue until 2 pm Saturday, September 9. During this time no rushee will be able to have dates or communicate in any way with affiliated women either off or on the campus. This plan was inaugurated in order to prevent any "dirty rushing" that might go on during the period before pledging.

Sorority presidents for the coming year are Kathleen Norris, Gamma Phi Beta; Beulah Haddow, Pi Beta Phi; Katherine O'Leary, Kappa Alpha Theta; Marie Aldrich, Delta Delta Delta.

Pan-Hellenic delegates are Valerie Scheeline, Delta Delta Delta; Thelma Charlton, Kappa Alpha Theta; Eileen Kerr, Gamma Phi Beta; Jacqueline Thompson; Pi Beta Phi, Rosemary Mayhew.

Robert S. Palmer Is War Prisoner

Lieutenant Colonel Robert S. Palmer, son of Dean Stanley G. Palmer, has been officially reported a prisoner of war in Germany.

Word was received by the lieutenant colonel's wife through the International Red Cross and U. S. War Department, which notified the dean and his wife.

Lt. Col. Palmer, missing in action since D-Day, was with the 82nd airborne division, engineering battalion, paratroopers.

Reports have been received from men with the landing force of the lieutenant colonel who escaped capture that the place of capture of Palmer and other officers is known, the dean said.

Palmer is a graduate of West Point and had a year of special engineering training at Cornell University. He had participated in the campaigns of North Africa, Sicily and Italy.

UNIVERSITY DANCERS TO SIGN NEW WOMEN

The University Dancers, honorary dancing group of the Women's Athletic Association, has posted notices to be signed by all those interested in working for eligibility to the organization. Dancing classes will be held in the regular PE classes, and also at 5 pm on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

New Aggie Course For Nevada Campus Studied by Deans

With the idea of installing a four-year course in agricultural engineering at the University of Nevada, courses in this subject offered at other universities are being studied, according to Dean Stanley G. Palmer of the college of engineering.

A probable schedule is being drawn up by the two deans in which the college of engineering and the college of agriculture will work jointly in presenting the program.

The freshman year of the proposed course will be basic, similar to the general first year of study in all engineering courses, the dean said. The sophomore, junior and senior years will include courses in both colleges—about one-third agriculture and two-thirds engineering.

When a sample schedule is complete, it will be presented to the president for consideration, and finally to the general faculty.

Such a course would fit men to work with firms manufacturing farm implements. The initial suggestion that it be inaugurated here was made last spring by the representative of one of these business corporations.

HIGHWAY MEN PLAN COURSE FOR VETERANS

A two-year academic course designed to fit returning war veterans for specialized work with the state highway department was the subject of a conference last Saturday between Robert A. Allen, state highway engineer, and Dean Stanley G. Palmer of the college of engineering.

Such a course would fit the needs of men 25 years old or older, or veterans with families, who did not wish to spend four years in college, the dean said. Training would fit such students to step into positions with the highway department, which will need a number of specially trained men in carrying out projects planned for future years.

Subjects studied would consist of mathematics, physics, chemistry and general engineering would probably be included, Dean Palmer said.

Lecturers, men employed by the state highway department in special fields, would be furnished to the school to give addresses on their particular activities. Topics such as soils, testing of oils for road making, testing of concrete and other substances used in construction, may be included.

The installation of such a course will depend on the war situation and the time that men will be returning from the war, Dean Palmer said.

However, he noted, the plans are being made now so that the university will be ready for the influx of new students, and facilities for handling such cases will be ready.

LT. DEANE QUILICI KILLED IN FRANCE

Lt. Deane L. Quilici, former business manager of the Sagebrush who was graduated from the University of Nevada in 1943, was killed in action July 16 in France.

While on the campus he was a member of Sigma Nu, Coffin and Keyes, Blue Key, Sagers and Scabbard and Blade. He was business manager of the Sagebrush during his senior year and was listed in Who's Who in American colleges. A graduate of the campus military department, he was an ROTC officer.

Following graduation from the university, he attended officers' candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga., and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the infantry and assigned to the 29th division, with which he entered France.

Scholarships Won By Six Freshmen

Grades and Activities Are Basis of Selection

By U. of N. News Service

(Special) Six Nevada high school graduates were named this week as winners of 1944-45 scholarships at the University of Nevada under the Josephine Beam educational fund.

Representing various parts of the state, the half dozen young men and women were chosen for the freshman scholarships in a state wide competition.

They are Zina Coe of Boulder City, Odette Darrigrand of Battle Mountain, Barbara Lampman of Sparks, Betty Jane Vilas of Reno, Barbara Olesen of Lovelock, and Rex Ricketts of Yerington.

All ranked high in their classes in scholarship and took an active part in student affairs.

STATE WIDE BASIS

The scholarship recipients were chosen in a state wide competition based upon the recommendation of the principals of the high schools from which they were graduated.

In accordance with the will of Mrs. Beam, the selection was made by the president of the University of Nevada and the state superintendent of public instruction, with the approval of the trustee of the fund.

Dr. Harold N. Brown, chairman of the university committee on scholarships and prizes, represented President John O. Moseley, and worked with Miss Mildred Bray, state superintendent, in making the choices, which were accepted by Clarence O. Spencer of Salt Lake City, fund trustee.

The fund now provides about $1500 annually for the scholarships which will be awarded to "deserving and needy students of good moral character" about to enter the university.

A like arrangement is in effect under the fund for students at the University of Utah.

HIGH SCHOOL LEADERS

Miss Vilas, whose scholarship is for $250, was graduated from Reno high school last spring, ranking third in her class of 128 students. She not only stood high in scholarship but served as the editor of the Red and Blue, school newspaper. She attended high school in Butte, Montana, for two years before coming to Reno.

Miss Lampman, whose scholarship is for $250, is a graduate of Sparks high school last June, ranking second in a graduating class of 62. She was a leader in school activities including bond sales, salvage drives.

Miss Coe, whose scholarship is for $400, was graduated from Boulder City high school in 1944 with the high honor of valedictorian. As valedictorian she prepared and delivered an address at the commencement exercises. Miss Coe has held several student offices, played in the school band, and been the editor of the school newspaper.

Miss Darrigrand, whose scholarship is for $400, was graduated from Lander county high school at Battle Mountain with the class of last spring. Ranking high in scholarship, she was also active in school extra curricular affairs. Before attending the Battle Mountain school, she was a student for three years in Humboldt county high school in Winnemucca.

Miss Olesen, whose scholarship is for $400, was salutatorian of her graduating class of June. She was active in student affairs, including the high school orchestra and the girls athletic association.

Mr. Ricketts, whose scholarship is for $400, was the salutatorian of Yerington high school with the class of last June. He was chosen the outstanding boy of his class. During his senior year he was president of the high school student body.

HOSPITAL CHANGE

Mrs. George Gressot, temporarily replacing Mrs. Eunice Griffith, is registered nurse in charge of the infirmary, according to Dr. E. W. Lowrance, chairman of the university health committee.

Mrs. Griffith is now in Alaska, but expects to return to the campus before registration closes.

U OF N SONG BOOKS ON SALE THIS WEEK

University of Nevada song books are now at the ASUN president's office and available to students, Lenore Hill, student body president, announced today.

Copies of the book, selling at 25 cents, contain lyrics and music for all of the school songs. It was edited by Professor Theodore H. Post, director of the department of music.

Funds obtained from the sale of song books will be put into the general ASUN fund, Miss Hill said.

WAA BOARD MEET HELD WEDNESDAY

Women's Athletic Association activities for the coming semester were discussed at a meeting of the WAA board Wednesday, and the group decided to give WAA credit to women who join Blue Peppers.

It was pointed out that women with medical excuses from physical education would not be eligible for WAA, and therefore would get no credit for Blue Peppers.

Sports to be sponsored by WAA this semester are tennis, basketball, archery, University Dancers, riding, bowling and possibly swimming.

The group will hold a social for freshmen women during the early part of this semester, they said.

Plan Special Course In Econ Department

A special four-year course leading to the degree of bachelor of science in business administration is proposed in response to a rising demand by students of the university, according to Dr. M. J. Webster of the department.

This proposal has the approval of the university administration, but must have the approval of the faculty before it can be put into effect, Webster said.

In connection with this development it is projected that laboratories equipped with up-to-date office machines of the types most commonly used in modern commercial practice shall be furnished for the courses in accounting, statistics and related subjects.

Eighty-Six Women Appear for Initial Blue Pepper Practice

Blue Peppers, girls' marching unit, held its first meeting Wednesday afternoon with a turnout of 86 girls.

Sgt. Michael J. McCormick of the military department, director of the group, announced that he plans to separate the girls into two platoons, training one to make the letter U and the other to make the letter N. They will march at football games, in the Armistice Day parade, act as ushers at the inauguration of President Moseley and take part in various other activities.

Nora Saunders, Delores Lavoy, Jean Bicknell, Tosca Masini and Adrian Sutton were appointed squad leaders and a system of promotion to rank will be introduced this year. There will be one staff sergeant, two platoon sergeants, six squad sergeants, two sergeant guides and six corporals. Anyone in the ranks may be promoted to private first class on the basis of marching ability.

The same uniform will be kept this semester as was worn last semester, a navy blue skirt, white blouse and a light blue "Sam Brown" belt. The girls have been asked to turn in ideas of their own for a new insignia.

The next meeting will be held a week from Monday, September 11, on the quad at 5 pm and regular meetings thereafter will be held at 5 pm on Monday and Wednesday. Sgt. McCormick is in complete charge of Blue Pepper activities and has carried on this organization for the past several years.

Coach Aiken Is Silent on Subject of 1944 Nevada Wolf Pack Possibilities

By Madlen Maestretti

Forty gridders appeared on Clark field Wednesday for the initial scrimmage of the 1944 Wolf Pack football season. Coaching the squad is the University of Nevada's chief football mentor, Jim Aiken, head coach here for the past six years.

Coach Aiken, who evaded questions of the 1944 Pack's possibilities, declined to make any comment on his aggregation of muscle men. From the spectator's standpoint, however, the prospects for a good team and season look promising.

Moseley States Executive Policy

"To preserve every good feature of the University of Nevada and to carry on the splendid tradition of my predecessors in office will be my policy toward the university," President John O. Moseley, newly appointed head of the University of Nevada, stated yesterday.

He added that the chief work of this year for the university staff is to plan for a larger postwar school in which consideration will be given the needs of returning veterans who will go to college under the GI Bill of Rights.

"Many men who didn't want to go to college or were unable to do so before the war will attend universities following the war," he said. "Some of them, after contact with hard reality, will see the necessity of education and take advantage of the GI Bill of Rights, which gives them university training government paid."

"Equal consideration, however, will be given the normal complement as well as to returning veterans," President Moseley said.

He also remarked that liberal arts will be stressed and that there will be a much larger opportunity for vocational and professional education.

Riding Club Plans Pend Prexy's Return

No definite plans have yet been made by Saddle and Spurs, honorary WAA riding club, but the club will assemble its program for the year upon the return of the president, Goldie Howard. Requirements for joining remain the same: each candidate must take riding and be present at every ride in order to be eligible. The riding classes will be held at the Carnation Stables.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

September 24: Tonopah Air Base at Tonopah.
October 1: Alameda Coast Guard at Mackay stadium.
October 7: Arizona State Teachers at Las Vegas.
October 14: Tonopah Air Base at Tonopah.
October 21: St. Mary's at Kezar stadium.
October 28: University of Utah at Mackay stadium.
November 11: Fleet City (Navy) at Mackay stadium.

The Wolf Pack holds scrimmage on Clark field from 4 to 6 pm daily and is served dinner at 6:30 pm in the campus dining hall. That their training may be enforced, the men have been installed in Lincoln Hall, contrary to tradition.

COACH AIKEN SILENT
Coach Aiken declined to comment on the football outlook this week, probably because plans are yet immature, although several meetings with the team and officials have taken place through the week. Football technique was also in the dark as Aiken drilled the Pack, but it is known that he is working on several variations of the T formation.

FORTY-MAN SQUAD
Members of the squad are as follows: Fred Abercrombie, Boulder City; Richard Bossart, West Orange, N. J.; Duke Brafford, University of Colorado; Hardy Bradford, University of Colorado; Jim Clarkson, East Rutherford, N. J.; Ben Coren, Philadelphia, Penn.; Phil Corrigan, Newark, N. J.; Walt Coughlin, Reno; Maurice Couture, University of Wisconsin; Ed Diercks, Glen Ridge, N. J.; Jack Dieringer, Reno; Frank Dimerio, Glen Ridge, N. J.; Al Dockery, Montclair, N. Mrs. Anna Warren Dies This Month

Mrs. Anna Mudd Warren, member of the university board of regents, died August 7 at her home in Reno.

Born at Pilot Hill, El Dorado county, California, Mrs. Warren was 81 years old at the time of her death.

Her family had moved to Nevada in 1873, and she moved to Reno in 1903. She was the second woman in Nevada to qualify for the bar, and has been the United States commissioner here since 1913.

Mrs. Warren's place on the board of regents was filled by Mrs. Clarence W. Henningsen, graduate of the university, by appointment of Governor E. P. Carville.

Good Registration For Summer Session

The summer session at the university had an enrollment of 160 students this year, identical with the registration last year, it was announced.

During the three sessions offered, 121 women and 39 men registered, many of them teachers who were taking additional courses to renew their wartime teaching certificates.

Of the total, 155 students were Nevada and 11 from California. Other states represented included New York, Minnesota, New Jersey, Michigan, Illinois, Utah, Nebraska, and Idaho with one student from Alaska and one from Canada enrolled.

INFIRMARY REPORT

There has been one hospitalization case this week, and a small number of incidental calls at the university infirmary, according to Dr. John Bibb, physician in charge of the infirmary.

PORTRAYS MOSELEY

Mathias Noheimer, Cincinnati painter, works on the portrait of Dr. John O. Moseley, University of Nevada president, while Mrs. Moseley looks on. The painting is hung in the Levere Memorial Temple of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity in Evanston, Illinois, in recognition of Dr. Moseley's work with college youth for a fifth of a century.

Pres. Moseley Honored in East

On August 22 an oil portrait of Dr. John O. Moseley, new president of the University of Nevada, was unveiled at the Levere Memorial temple of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity on the campus of Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois.

Also on that date he made the commencement address at the summer graduation exercises of the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. Four hundred students were given their degrees at the exercises. The painting, a tribute to Dr.

Moseley in recognition of 20 years of work with college youth, was done by Mathias Noheimer, celebrated Cincinnati artist and was donated by a number of his friends.

The portrait was unveiled in the presence of the University of Nevada president.

Dr. Moseley is a member of "The Panel," a permanent committee of the national interfraternity conference of New York City. He has long been an active officer in the national organization of SAE and is now past supreme archon. He is the originator of the leadership training school of the fraternity.

He is also a member of a number of honorary fraternities in the affairs of which he has been active.

Post Organizes Band and Choir

Despite the decrease in enrollment, Professor Theodore H. Post, head of the university music department, expresses hope for a successful band this year.

Seven veteran members and 13 new ones have signed up. Although there is a good balanced section in all departments of the band, there is a lack of alto horns, saxophones, trombones, baritones and base horns he said.

Students interested in becoming members of the band are asked to see Professor Post immediately in the music room of the Education building. The first meeting of the band will be at 4 pm Thursday, September 7, in the band room in the basement of the new gymnasium.

Post also states that all of the university owned instruments have been overhauled during the summer and at the present time are in excellent condition and are available for use of the students.

Appearances of the band this year will be mainly for U of N functions, although it will play at

CANEERBURY CLUB TO HOLD SOCIAL SUNDAY

First Sunday services offered particularly for the University of Nevada faculty and students will be held September 3 at the Church of St. Stephens at University avenue and Eighth street.

Holy communion will be at 10 am. The Rt. Rev. W. F. Lewis, bishop of Nevada, will be the preacher, and the Rev. W. T. Holt will be the celebrant. At 11 am, following the service, the Canterbury Club, under the direction of Virginia Olesen, president, will hold an open house at St. Stephens for all new university students.

community affairs if asked.

Twenty women students have signed up for women's choir, Prof. Post said.

All girls interested in participating see Prof. Post for tryouts next week.

The choir will meet at 4 pm every Monday, Wednesday and Friday in room 204 of the Education building.

Post added that there are prospects for a male quartet of football players. Any football man interested should see Prof. Post.

The voices desired are one first tenor, one second tenor, one baritone and one bass.

THE CAMPUS MAN'S OPINION

Traditions confused the freshman student.

It had been the first time he had ever come to college. College was new to him.

He sat in his room, dreaming of high school days and of the incentive that brought him to school, and now he was here he was lost.

Lost to the many strange faces that were surrounding him. Across the table in the dining hall is a football player, ugly, tough, a man. The freshman wondered why he was there. College, he thought, wasn't for him.

He looked about the room. Many uncommon faces, all lost, stared back at him. He was suddenly conscious that they too were freshmen.

Someone told him, and he could not remember who, that freshmen students were subject to rules founded many years before by predecessors. He had to obey, for if he did not, his trousers would be dampened by an unasked for swim in Manzanita lake. He didn't know—he was afraid.

Now he was sitting alone in his room wondering why. Just why.

He remembered the burly fellow from Jersey, the guy with the drawl, who said that he wasn't going to obey the traditional ceremony common of all freshmen students. The burly from Jersey was a football player, and was supported in his singular decision by all of the other athletes from the east.

The freshman thought again. He wondered whether it was fair for him to join the stronger set, the football mob. He wondered whether he was justified in ignoring what at one time had kept the school alive—traditions were of the school, was going to wear the freshman dink and obey the many simple traditions to keep the college spirit alive. That alone, he knew, was most important.

He looked upon the wall, saw a picture of some former student, who many years before had studied in that room, on that table—sat in that chair. That, too, took some thought.

The former student at whom he was looking was now fighting a battle in some slit trench in order to keep America alive. And the America the former student had known was the tradition at the University of Nevada.

A thought enveloped the room. The thought came from the ghostly minds of the many students who had previously lived there.

The thought drew a picture. The picture was the meaning of tradition. It was simple—it had its effect.

Many smiling faces were standing there, many old familiar former students who once had to make the same singular decision. They had all been good Nevada men and they found the right answer. They all hadn't been born in Nevada, either. One face had come from Minnesota, another from Arkansas, but both faces smiled, "yes."

The answer was his. The freshman suddenly without hesitation made up his mind. The tradition must be kept alive.

He walked into the hall, saw another new guy, and both smiled a greeting. Inwardly both knew they had made the same decision. They shook hands; it seems somewhere in high school athletics they had faced each other in the basketball court, the football field—it didn't make any difference.

A guy from Jersey appeared. Shrugged his brawny shoulders at them, went on his way. He would never know the meaning. Its meaning was only common of them.

Another ball player, a funny looking jerk from New York, came by. Both freshmen saw that in him was the same decision that both had recently made. No one must make him change his mind. The big football player came back. He was dripping wet. Both knew that the lake had been his that evening.

On the campus they each felt the presence of hidden faces. They looked at the Mackay statue. It seemed as if the man it depicted smiled at them. He also seemed to know.

College for them had begun. Those who neglect to absorb all of the gaiety that comes with the life on the campus, they felt, would lose the very thing upon which college was founded; traditional existence of people among themselves in a little pool so that when comes the river and the sea they can span its mystery without losing self-control, that self-satisfaction of actually being alive and loving and living all that surrounds them.

A four-year student, they both knew, whether he be football player or scholar, wins by his own sacrifice to keep a certain undefinable something alive. They knew that as long as they were there they would keep it alive.

That something is tradition. And it is to be theirs to keep for four long, happy years.

(Editor's Note: In response to a request by various men on the campus for a chance to express their current opinions, The Sagebrush will feature weekly The Campus Man's Opinion. Men wishing to write the column should submit their copy, which must be signed by the author. His name may be withheld from publication if he wishes, but no anonymous material will be accepted.)

ON THE HILL IT'S "HELLO"

This week as we watched a large class of freshmen march onto the campus, we congratulated ourselves on the fact that we seemingly have a promising group of students who are excited about coming to the University of Nevada and eager to start the varied pattern of the college year.

Some will be graduated; some will not. In either case, each freshman can make his stay here more pleasant and profitable by pledging his best efforts to the university, both scholastically and socially.

"On the hill it's hello" is the old University of Nevada slogan practiced for many years. The spirit of friendliness and cooperation is distinctive of this school. Newcomers will find that a mere "hello" is the only introduction needed on the campus, and that one can make ten friends in as many days if he wishes.

The smallness of the campus encourages this friendly spirit. By the end of this semester, everybody will know everybody else, as it has always been. The size of the college also enhances opportunities to enter any type of activity that the individual desires. Activities do not belong to any one group or clique, as they sometimes did in high school. They are open to any student with sufficient interest in that particular activity, and the group heads are always glad to find a new recruit.

There is an activity for every type of student. Some of them are similar to those sponsored by high schools, and new students may continue the type of work they enjoyed there. New ideas will be introduced to the group, and the new recruit will profit in a like way. Some will find new fun in new activities.

Tradition is another issue freshmen may find confusing at first. It is a thorn in every freshman's woolen sock until he learns to conform to and appreciate traditions. They are changeless, and they are here to stay. They are as much a part of the university as the library or the gym. The best policy is to conform to the set rule and have as much fun as possible while observing them.

Loyalty, enthusiasm and wholehearted support of campus activities will add sufficient pleasure to the process of going to school to make it rather worthwhile. Attendance at football games, dances and assemblies will help build enthusiasm and a spirit of good-fellowship toward the rest of the students.

Nevada belongs to its students. Make it your home for four years. At the end of that time, each of you will leave it with the same regrets and the same pride every Nevada alumnus feels in this great little college, the University of Nevada.

Women's War Board Organizes Program To Be Approved by Acting Dean Marsh

By Pat Ussery
Tentative plans for the year's program are being outlined by the Women's War Board of the University of Nevada, according to Kathleen Norris, president. Following acceptance of the plans by Dean Alice Marsh, group advisor, the details will be completed at a meeting of the bureau members.

A special radio program featuring students of the various colleges is being scheduled by the speakers' bureau, with Madeleine Maestretti as its chairman. The program will be in the nature of a round table discussion on war activities of the various departments and post-war plans from a university standpoint.

Mary Watts, chairman of the courtesy clinic, is making plans to select five or six outstanding Reno women to speak to the sororities on a rotating basis. The purpose of these speeches will be to discuss dress, etiquette and problems of so-

PREXY SPEAKS

*By Lenore Hill
ASUN President*

To all new and returning members of the ASUN:

The clan has gathered for another year. Once again we see students grouped in front of the libe exchanging notes on what they have been doing during vacation. Again we see the Wolf Den crowded with those who would sell their old books, buy new ones, or catch an early morning cup of coffee.

It is good to see so many new faces among the familiar ones. We are glad to welcome the large and enthusiastic freshman class, and can feel certain that they will have much to add to our student body.

Those who have met President Moseley can feel further assured that this will be a good year for Nevada. For in him we will have a capable leader with many new ideas and the sincere interest of the students at heart.

Our aim for this year should be two-fold. We must do all possible to aid the war effort, and at the same time, should keep our regular activities and tradition alive and at a high standard. Only by doing this can we keep our campus one of which we are very proud. We want to see the freshmen, especially, interested in extra-curricular activities. You are our foundation, and upon your class will depend much of our future success. So plan to have one or two activities interspersed with English 1 and 2 and your other interests.

Under Coach Jim's direction, our football schedule is getting under way, and the first game of the season will soon be announced. Once again we will flock to Mackay stadium to watch our Wolf Pack go into action.

With the first senate meeting scheduled for next Wednesday evening, student government will again become active. At that meeting committees for the fall semester's activities will be announced.

Get your student body cards at the ASUN building as soon as possible. You will need them for admission to the football games. Office hours will be from 2:00 to 4:00 every afternoon. The frosh handbooks are not ready as yet, but will be released from the printers very soon.

Again a hearty welcome to all of the new and old students. With your cooperation and help our year is bound to be a success.

Veterans Return To Nevada Campus

Service Pays Fees And Buys Supplies

By U. of N. News Service

(Special) Returning service men and women of Nevada will find that the University of Nevada is among the first to make preparation for the enrollment of veterans under the service men's readjustment act, public law 346, better known as the "G. I. Bill of Rights," which was passed by congress on June 28, 1944.

With a score of discharged service men preparing to enter the university this fall, R. B. Jeppson, vocational advisor for the Veterans' Administration with offices in the new engineering building on the University of Nevada campus, is devoting full time to the problem relating to returning service men and women who desire further education or vocational training.

VETERANS' SERVICE

Interpreting the bill of rights and advising discharged veterans of the opportunities available under this and other rehabilitation acts constitute the major portion of the veterans' administration service.

To the honorably discharged service man or woman under 25 years of age who has served as much as 90 days in any branch of the armed forces, college training in any field for one year is available under the bill of rights.

After the first year of college or other training is completed successfully, the veteran will then be entitled to additional schooling equialent to the actual time spent as a member of the armed forces. Thus it is possible in some instances for a veteran to secure a four-year college education free, which is the maximum allowed under the bill of rights.

TUITION, FEES PAID

All tuition, fees, books, supplies, laboratory fees and the like are taken care of through the veterans' administration service.

In addition, $50 per month subsistence will be allowed single men and women, with $75 per month to go to those with dependents, either sum to be paid directly to the student.

Courses will be adapted to the needs of the service men at the University of Nevada, and, in the case of veterans who are without adequate college entrance requirements, college preparatory courses may be arranged sufficient to enable them to make up the deficiencies and continue their education.

RETRAINING COURSE

For veterans over 25 years of age, a one-year refresher or retraining course is available according to the bill of rights. This will enable professional or skilled workers to secure additional training to compensate for time lost in the practice of the occupation or profession.

Disabled veterans are given complete vocational advisement service under a separate rehabilitation act, and under the bill of rights the advisement service is optional.

In addition, other services of the bill, including placement bureau service in finding employment, government guaranteed loans for purchasing homes or business property, and the like, are all available to the returning service men.

In Nevada, Clark and Lincoln counties are under the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles veterans' administration facility, while the four eastern California counties bordering Nevada, Modoc, Lassen, Plumas and Alpine, are under the jurisdiction of Jeppson's office on the University of Nevada campus.

Location of the administration office through which application is made does not affect the choice of school or college open to the applicant.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor of the U of N Sagebrush,
Dear Editor:

We find that it is possible to mail the Sagebrush to former Nevada students overseas by a paid subscription if they were receiving the paper at the time they went into service. Therefore, we would like to suggest that anyone who wishes to subscribe to the Brush for a former Nevada student now in the service contact either me or Marilyn Dugan for further information.

Subscription rates for the Sagebrush are 75 cents a semester or $1.50 a year. Special subscription rates for former students in the services are 50 cents a semester or $1.00 a year.

Thelma Charlton,

MARINE CORPS PRIVATE

Loretta Edith Geisendorfer, former student here, is now a private in the marine corps women's reserve and is stationed at a San Diego, California, base.

Before taking over her present duties as a clerk and typist in San Diego, she underwent boot training at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

T. B. Patch Tests For New Students

The tuberculin patch test for new students will be given next Friday beginning at 12:50 pm, according to Dr. John Bibb, physician in charge of the infirmary.

Women will report to the old gymnasium building, and men to the military department, he said.

The patch will remain in contact with the skin for 72 hours, and may be then removed by the student, who will report the following Monday to the infirmary to have the test read and interpreted.

A test is not complete until the skin reaction has been read, interpreted and recorded. Tests not completed will have to be administered at the student's own expense.

PLATOON LEADER

Lieutenant James Kehoe is serving as platoon leader and liaison officer with the 11th armored force attached to the headquarters tank platoon now stationed in England.

He graduated from the University of Nevada in 1942, and was affiliated with Sigma Rho Delta.

PACK PRINTS

Late one fall afternoon almost a year ago, the Brush editor slithered up, it was his natural way of walking, and shoved a query at me point blank. "How many men on a basketball team?" Before natural instinct told me to suspect something I said five. "Ok," he says, "you're it." That is how the Brush acquired a female sports editor.

I lay no claims on being skilled in the sports line, but my attempts are sincere so bear with me and we're off on another semester in the U of N sports world.

With the big boys keeping mum about the prospects of the '44 pigskin parade and the coach too busy to do anything but put the boys through their paces with his pudgy fingers crossed, dope on the subject is really hard to get. So this week I'll just try to give my readers (both of them) something about the squad they will soon be watching on Mackay field.

PACK PERSONALS

DID YOU KNOW . . . that Ed Kiercks, lanky Pack guard from Glen Ridge, N. J., graduated with third highest scholastic honor at his home town high . . . that wolf with flip ears, Bill Feiring from Kansas City, woos (not to be confused with wows) Artemisia fens with a terrific tenor after lunch daily . . . that Buster McClure isn't wasting time but singled out a Hall lovely the first day of this semester . . . that Al Dockery will cut his usual off-field pace because of six stitches taken in his lower lip as a result of a grid injury . . . Phil Corrigan, 238-pound tackle, was all-state in New Jersey and spent the summer at Holy Cross . . . Chick Kentera, 19, six foot one inch, 178 pounds, who looks fit and flashy, is 4-F . . . Elmer Green, Negro lad from Overbrook, holds a high school high jump record in Pennsylvania of six feet four inches . . . one griddler who can carry more than a one-reply conversation is Jack Musselmen from Fort Lauderdale.

Getting away from the chatter . . . some of the boys Aiken has signed really have impressive backgrounds. A number of them have played college ball before. In their home states many hold some form of sports record or reputation. Yet others among them are untried and unsung, all they need is time and practice. As soon as the first and second elevens are lined up I'll be able to give you a better background on them out-of-state players.

NAUGHTY RUMOR

Rumor on the campus this week has it that the team won't amount to much and that Aiken is plenty worried about the Pack and opponents. Whoever is responsible for this propaganda had better change his tactics. Since when in Aiken's six years at Nevada has he turned out a purely poor team? Although the squads of the past several seasons have not ranked with top Pacific coast teams, they have always managed to turn out a fair show. That, however, isn't the point. Truth is, football is still being played at Nevada. That alone is a fact to be proud of. So let's let Aiken and Lawlor and McClure worry about the team and just see that you drag out your U of N pennants.

How about it, students, will you let rumor influence your decision—or will you back the Pack?

MYERS WINS WINGS

After completing bombardier training in New Mexico early in August, Robert T. Myers of Reno received a commission as a second lieutenant in the army air forces. He reported for an undisclosed assignment immediately after graduation.

Lt. Myers was with the freshman class of 1943 and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

LT. EDWARD SILSBY

Former U. of N. student, First Lt. Edward M. Silsby, returned to Nevada last week after 22 months as a pilot of an army transport plane with a troop carrier squadron in the southwest Pacific.

Lt. Silsby has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the air medal. He also holds a unit citation with an oak leaf cluster and a southwest Pacific theater ribbon with two battle stars. He has been in the service nearly four years.

JESCH COMMISSIONED

Carl Jesch, who graduated from Nevada in January of this year, received his commission as ensign in the navy at the Great Lakes naval training station recently. Ensign Jesch graduated in electrical engineering.

HERB. CHIARA WOUNDED

Lieutenant Herb Chiara is now confined to an army base hospital in England after being wounded by a Nazi sniper, his parents were informed last week.

Lt. Chiara was serving in France with a tank destroyer unit and had been stationed at Camp Hood, Texas, after completing officer's training at Fort Benning, Ga.

He graduated from this university in 1943 and was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha.

LT. RICHARD BOOKER

Second Lieutenant Richard G. Booker has arrived at the Ephrata army air base, Washington, where he will take a combat fighter training course in flying a P-39 Airacobra plane.

Prior to entering the military service in February, 1943, Lt. Booker was a junior student at the university.

LT. BASTA PROMOTED

George B. Basta was promoted last week from second lieutenant to first lieutenant at Camp Roberts, California, where he is with the infantry.

Lt. Basta graduated from the University of Nevada in 1943 as did his wife, the former Harriett Morrison. He was a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, Blue Key and Scabbard and Blade.

Mrs. Basta was affiliated with Delta Delta Delta sorority, and was honorary major for the military ball in 1942.

STATIONED IN EAST

Dick Miller and Jack Pieri, former students of the University of Nevada, are now stationed at the University of Pennsylvania. Miller is a navy physical education instructor while Pieri is taking courses in the midshipman school there.

He was also awarded the air medal with two oak leaf clusters for "meritorious achievement while participating in 15 sorties against the enemy."

He attended the University of Nevada, graduating in 1941 with a degree in economics. Lt. Jameson received his navigator's wings and commission as second lieutenant in the AAF at Hondo field, Hondo, Texas, January 7, 1943.

HOME ON FURLOUGH

Paul Gibbons, former student here, was home on furlough recently from pre-dental school at the University of Pennsylvania.

With the ROTC unit stationed at the University of Nevada last spring, he and Mike Zoradi, also a former student, were transferred to the University of Pennsylvania last March. They will complete pre-dental work soon.

Other members of the ROTC group were recently commissioned second lieutenants upon completion of studies at officer's candidate school, Fort Benning, Ga.

While on the campus, Gibbons was a member of Sigma Alpha Ep-

Pvt. Hallie Berry is now stationed at the army air field at Kingman, Ariz., taking special instruction in tail gunnery on a flying fortress.

He was called to active duty with the army air force in March and was temporarily stationed at the air field at Amarillo, Texas, prior to taking this course.

While on the campus, Pvt. Berry was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and freshman class manager during part of the fall semester. He was also a member of the Sagebrush staff.

His brother, Barnes, also a former student and member of Sigma Nu, is now at officer's candidate school at Ft. Benning, Ga. Before acceptance to officers school, Berry was a sergeant in the mountain troops stationed at Camp Hale, Colo.

"Spirit of Victory"

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, its twenty-one associated operating telephone companies, Bell Telephone Laboratories, and Western Electric Company, continue to face unprecedented demands for telephone communication.

Never before in the country's history has there been so much evidence of the indispensable part telephone service plays in the life of the nation. It makes a direct contribution to the effectiveness of every part of the war effort.

The sense of responsibility which telephone people call the "spirit of service" is in this war the "spirit of victory." The men and women of the Bell System, in whom this spirit lives, may be relied upon to do their utmost.

Frosh Confused, Says Sophomore

By Barbara Mills

The typical frosh is confused, in fact. Registration was quite a mix-up, but most of them are still hanging on. And from one frosh goes special thanks to whoever was responsible for the map in the front of the catalogue.

This meager group—not so meager as the other campus groups, we'll admit—promises to keep the upperclass committees on their toes. As a starter, several have already plunked down on the senior bench, gone down the front steps of Morrill Hall, and cut across the grass. They feel, however, that Nevada's traditions have merit, and no doubt will mend their ways when they get to be upperclassmen.

The third floor of Artemisia Hall is a madhouse by all accounts. Anything from a crap game to a game of cops and robbers in the hall can be found starting about 5:00 pm and lasting until some unmentionable wee hour of the morning. The rooms, however, can't compare with dear old ATO of last year. Except for a flood on the third floor and the false fire alarms, nothing exciting has come to the notice of Mrs. Rawles, house mother. A smoking room on the first floor will no doubt do away with the smoke filled rooms of yesteryear. The Wal and Cobrandt's are already on their "steady" list, and late night privileges won't stand a chance once they all get started.

Accents from New York, the deep south and the north woods can be found ringing around the campus this year. Despite the fact that mater and pater may be almost anywhere in the states, they all seem relatively glad to be here. How they, their profs, upperclassmen and the university as a whole will make out only time will tell, though, and we are here to welcome them and wish them luck.

Dr. Griffin Edits Alumni Publication, Named Wolf Tracks

"Wolf Tracks," a new University of Nevada publication, came off the press yesterday and will soon be sent to all alumni and former students whose present addresses are known.

Established by Dr. R. S. Griffin, assistant in administration and alumni secretary, the publication is intended primarily to establish and maintain contact between the university and the alumni and former students.

Special information cards have been sent out to the relatives and friends of alumni and former students in an effort to obtain their correct addresses. These men and women are to receive, without cost, special university bulletins, magazines and newsletters from the university.

Dr. Griffin, who was assisted by Mrs. Frank Robinson in the project, requests that any information concerning addresses be sent to him in care of the office of the university president.

CAMPUS INFIRMARY HOURS ANNOUNCED

Dr. John Bibb, campus physician, will receive students only once a day this year, it was announced. Normally, the campus physician had office hours twice a day for ailing students.

Attributed to the small enrollment, the changes went into effect this fall because of the lack of sufficient number of students. Regular hours were maintained last year because of the army cadets on the campus. The hour scheduled for consulting with the university physician is 11:00 am and only students in the consulting room at that time will be checked.

BACK IN BATTLE

First Lt. James Birch, who was wounded in Normandy on June 16, is now back on duty with his infantry unit in France. Lt. Birch entered the army on October 7, 1941, when in his senior year at the U of N. He was affiliated with Phi Sigma Kappa.

Lt. Birch has been awarded the bronze star for heroism in action and also holds the combat infantryman's badge and the purple heart.

THREE NEVADA OFFICERS

Lieutenant Chester Meckley, Lt. Leroy Geach and Lt. James Borge, all assigned to Santa Maria, Calif., air base, were in Reno on a short leave recently. All were former students of the University of Nevada.
