Cadet Corps Open For More Recruits

The U. S. Cadet Nursing Corps, which is attracting recruits from pre-nursing students in colleges and universities throughout the nation, is now accepting applications for entrance with the January training classes, according to Mrs. R. L. Osborne, Jr., state recruiting officer.

Many applicants for entrance with the fall classes had to be rejected because there were no vacancies in the hospital or college of the student's choice, so Mrs. Osborne urges interested students to file early for the new year.

A list of the training schools and their requirements and any further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Osborne at Reno 2-2624, or by contacting Mrs. Walter Sutton, Washoe county chairman, at Reno 5327, who will arrange for personal interviews.

Students to Receive University Diplomas

The board of regents will this week consider for approval the diplomas of five students who completed their courses of study at the summer session of the University of Nevada, according to Dr. Harold N. Brown, who was in charge of summer school.

Graduating from the college of arts and science are Margaret Echevarria, psychology major; Pat Chism Wilson, chemistry major, and Flo Z. Reed, education major.

Ruth Velma Johnson received her bachelor of science degree in home economics from the college of agriculture, and David Everett Campbell graduated with a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from the college of engineering.

Freshmen Election Slated for Sept. 21

Primary election for the freshman class manager will be held September 21, it was decided at a senate meeting Wednesday night. Nominations are now open and must be on file in the ASUN building by September 14.

A general election will be held September 28 if more than three candidates run for the office. Any member of the ASUN may nominate a freshman to run in the election.

Candidates are limited to a $5 campaign fund.

Italian Soldiers Present Program

Former Artists Give Campus Show

By Tosca Masini

Italians stationed at the Sierra Ordnance Depot, who are now training for overseas service with the allies, will present a special program for the University of Nevada students Tuesday.

Besides university students, residents of Reno are also invited to attend the program, which will be held in the Education building auditorium at 8:00 pm.

Featuring various instrumental and vocal selections, the program will include Italian soldiers, who at one time were famous artists in the theaters of Italy.

Stationed at the depot since July, these Italians have been training for overseas duty with the United States army. It is expected that members of the Italian group in Reno and Sparks will extend a friendly greeting to these Italian soldiers.

A special art exhibit, drawn by an Italian officer, Lt. Flario Vittoni, will be placed on display at the electrical engineering building September 11 through the 15th. The officer has not only painted pictures of Italy but California as well.

Arrangements for the entertainment and exhibits have been prepared by the executive officer at the depot, Capt. W. C. Kreger, in cooperation with Mrs. Adriana Merin, field director of the American Red Cross. Campus arrangements are being made by Mrs. Helen Joslin of the art department.

FROSH BIBLES

Frosh bibles are now available at the office of the ASUN president. It is mandatory that all freshmen carry a bible, and the upperclass committees will begin checking frosh Monday. The price of the bible is fifty cents.

Former Nevada Football Captain Heads Patrol to Wipe Out Fifteen Japanese

By Marine Combat Correspondent

Guam (Delayed)—A 15-man Jap outpost inexplicably passed up a chance today to ambush a patrol led by Marine First Lt. C. Wesley Schlager, former University of Nevada football captain from Las Vegas. It was the last mistake the Japs ever made.

The enemy outpost was discovered a few minutes later and was wiped out by the fast shooting marines.

"I had about 20 men from my artillery outfit with me on the patrol, and I know we all passed within range of their light machine guns," Lt. Schlager said. "They were serving as an outpost for a big pocket of Japs our infantry had by-passed on the other side of the ridge, and I guess they wanted us to pass by without finding them."

Flushes First Jap

The husky Nevada officer flushed the first Jap himself.

"I poked my nose into the brush," he said, "and there was a Jap with his rifle pointed right at me. I killed him, and later we found his rifle was also on safety. I don't know what good it did him to have the thing along at all."

Lt. Schlager then called in his scouts and machine gunners, and the marines poured a heavy fire into the area. One Jap tried to make a run for it, and the Nevada got him with his pistol.

One of the Jap machine gunners opened up in retaliation, the bul-

Students Attend First Assembly

By Madlen Maestretti

On Constitution Day, September 8, the first student assembly of the semester was held in the auditorium of the Education building, presided over by student body president, Leonore Hill.

Introduced by chairman of the assembly committee, Dr. H. E. Hutcherson, Dr. Moseley began his first official address to the student body of the University of Nevada. His talk, entitled "The Curriculum—Race Track or Merry-Go-Round," dealt with the advantages of liberal education in a changing post-war world. He stressed throughout his address the importance of a liberal education foundation for a better life, quoting frequently the works of Greek philosophers and great educators through the ages who also believed in liberal education.

Senators Introduced

During the assembly the members of the student senate were introduced to the student body by Student President Hill. Professor L. E. Chadwick, graduate manager, was presented and spoke briefly to the group on the function of his office.

Two Pan-Hellenic awards for scholastic honor were made by Mrs. A. B. Marsh, acting dean of women. The first was a revolving trophy, which was presented by Patricia Traner, Pan-Hellenic president, to Gamma Phi Beta sorority and received by president of Gammi Phi, Kathleen Norris. The second award was a plaque presented by Dorothy Abel, president of the Associated Women Students, to Zeta Phi Zeta for the greatest improvement in scholastic average for the past year. The plaque was received by Lucile Shea, president of Zeta Phi Zeta.

Senators Choose Upperclass Heads

Dean Dukes and Betty Molognoni were appointed chairmen of the men's and women's upperclass committees, respectively, at the first U of N senate meeting held last Wednesday.

Traditions Listed

Upperclass committees will enforce university traditions, and decree punishment for violators. Among such traditions are the front steps of orrill MHall and the senior benches, which freshmen are not allowed to use. Frosh are also required to carry "bibles," now available at the office of the ASUN president, and the men must wear dinks while women will wear white and blue ribbons.

Forbidden to all students are walking or sitting on campus lawns, and smoking in front of buildings on the campus.

Committee Members

Members of the women's upperclass committee include chairman, Betty Molognoni, Novella Larsen, Genevieve Johns, Beth Winchester, Barbara Heany, Pat Traner, Terry Nagle, Kathleen Blythe and Maribeth Elkins. Ticket books have been given members of the committee, and tickets will be given to violators. Functions will begin Monday.

Men's upperclass committee consists of chairman, Dean Dukes, Gor Mills, Gilbert Sutton, Jack Good, John Jensen, Charles Blenio, Dorman Patton, Paul Yparraguirre, Alfred Sorenson and Clayton Trigo. This committee will also start to function immediately.

Fleischmann Gives Ladino Dairy Farm To U of N Students

Major Max C. Fleischmann this week presented the University of Nevada with the Ladino dairy farm on South Virginia road. It will be formally accepted at a meeting of the board of regents scheduled for Saturday morning.

Major Fleischmann, Dr. John Moseley, president of the university; Mr. S. E. Ross, chairman of the board of regents; Dr. C. H. Gorman, vice-president of the university, and Dean Fred W. Wilson of the college of agriculture made the arrangements for the transfer of the property at a meeting Wednesday.

250-Acre Farm

The Ladino farm consists of two hundred and fifty acres with a fully equipped dairy, undercover milking capacity for one hundred head of cattle and feeding capacity for one hundred and twenty-five, and various types of farm machinery.

Also with the farm are two hundred head of Holstein-Friesian grades and purebred dairy cows, three registered bulls, and seven horses. Major Fleischmann purchased the property in September, 1943, and since then has made improvements totaling about $175,000.

Large Income

The income to the university is expected to be approximately $700 to $800 per month. At the board meeting this week Dean Wilson is expected to present a plan on how the farm will be managed and what work will be done there.

About the gift to the university Major Fleischmann stated: "From the time that I purchased this ranch and property it had been my intention ultimately, by will or otherwise, to turn it over to the University of Nevada, and my action at this time simply accelerates what has always been in my mind."

Other Contributions

Major Fleischmann has given the university several scholarships in past years and, very recently, a valuable stuffed animal collection.

Women's Gym Dept. Wants Used Suits For Large Class

There has been an urgent request by Miss Elsa Sameth, head of the women's physical education department, for all older girls who bought the regulation gym suits for PE while in their freshman or sophomore years to please get in touch with her.

In past years the students bought their own suits. Now the university buys them. This year, however, there have been more girls than even before registered for PE classes and the present equipment is inadequate, Miss Sameth stated.

Miss Sameth says that the department will be more than willing to rent or buy them. She will pay half the original price of the suits, if the girls will sell their old ones, or will pay a deposit on rented suits.

Anyone who has or knows where to obtain any regulation gym suits, please bring them to the women's physical education department as soon as possible.

Pre-Med Society Schedules Meet

First fall meeting of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-med fraternity is scheduled for Wednesday, September 13, at the home of Dr. Frank Richardson, assistant professor of biology. New candidates for membership will be considered on pre-medical activity and scholastic pre-med standing for a year's work. Old business as well as the policy and activities for the semester will be discussed and election of vice-president and historian is planned.

Dean Dukes, president of the fraternity, announced that lectures by various doctors, moving pictures of related sciences and various exhibits are several of the activities planned for the semester. All pre-med students will be invited to attend.

A new exhibit on joint articulation of the main joints of the body is at the present time being prepared by Dukes and will be placed in the upstairs hallway of the Agriculture building.

Another relatively recent exhibit now on display is the disarticulation of the human skull which Dukes prepared at the end of the spring semester.

The University of Nevada chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, one of two national pre-medical fraternities, has at the present time ten active members.

They include Dr. Richardson; Professor Gilbert Blair, associate professor of physics and astronomy; and Dr. Edward Lowrance, associate professor of biology, faculty members; Dean Dukes, president; Marilyn Bradley, secretary-treasurer; Lavina Ramelli, representative to the national pre-med paper "Scapel"; Thelma Charlton, Frances Cook, Charles Fleming and Shirley Campbell, members.

Intelligence Tests Required for Credit

All new students must take intelligence tests before receiving credit at the university, according to Dr. Ralph A. Irwin of the psychology department.

Dr. Albert G. Wiederhold, assistant professor of philosophy and psychology, gave the tests August 31 to 193 new students in the absence of Dr. Irwin. Students who missed the first test may see Dr. Irwin for appointments for make-up tests.

The mental tests similar to those given in previous years, test ability to think, and are not a measure of knowledge of grammar, mathematics or chemistry. No one is refused entrance into the school because of failure, he said.

Anyone wishing to obtain his score on the test may do so by seeing Dr. Irwin, room 210, Education building, after September 25.

Sub-Committee and Secretary Selected At Initial Senate Meeting of Semester

ASUN senate sub-committees and the ASUN secretary were appointed at the initial student senate meeting of the semester Wednesday night, over which Lenore Hill, student body president, presided.

Nadine Gibson, senior Pi Beta Phi, was appointed ASUN secretary to replace Barbara Heany, junior Pi Phi, who has been acting in that capacity.

Bob Uhlig, junior Phi Sigma Kappa, was elected chairman of the rally committee. Assisting him are Bette Poe, Tosca Masini, Leonore Hill, Art Palmer, John Baker, and the university band president, who will be elected next week.

Head yell leader is Bette Poe, senior Kappa Alpha Theta, and editor of the Artemisia. Tosca Masini will be her assistant, and several other new yell leaders will be chosen by Miss Poe.

Publication Board

Dr. Charles R. Hicks, faculty member in the history department, was elected chairman of the publications board. Student members of the board are Betty Molognoni, Sagebrush editor; Thelma Charlton, Sagebrush business manager; Bette Poe, Artemisia editor; Mary Watts, Artemisia business manager, and Kathleen Norris, Rose Marie Mayhew and Italo Gavazzi.

Precedent Broken

Named chairman of the Homecoming Day committee was Gloria Mapes, sophomore Delta Delta Delta, and her assistants will be Bette Poe, Jackie Prescott, Jack Good, Genevieve Siri, Myrl Nygren, Frank Apa and Jackie Thompson.

In selecting Miss Mapes to head the Homecoming Day committee, the senate chose for the first time an underclass woman. Formerly, the job was held by an upperclass man, but the wartime shortage of experienced committee heads led to the senate's breaking the established precedent.

The finance control board, also headed by Dr. Charles Hicks, will consist of Prof. Meryl Deming, ASUN President Leonore Hill, Lavina Ramelli and Dorman Patten.

Leonore Hill, Dorothy Able, Barbara Heany, Gordon Mills, Gilbert Sutton compose the executive committee for the next school year.

Nominating Committee

Chairman of the nominating committee is Nora Saunders, and other committee members are Italo Gavazzi, Bonnie Yater, Warren Parks and Beth Winchester.

Three ASUN senators, Bob Jones, Francis Escobar and Bonnie Yater, will be the senate investigating committee.

Election Board

The election board is headed by Jayne Creel, senior Kappa Alpha Theta. Other members of the board are Arleen Marialdo, Jane McCustin, Anna Belle McVicar, Harriet McNeil, Eileen Kerr, Madge Elder, Jeanne Chartier, Jacqueline Prescott, Eleanor Corle, Florene Miller, Betty Waugh, Lucille Leonard, Virginia Woodbury, Valerie Sheline, Patricia Herz Cooke, Dace Ricketts, Nora Saunders, Blanche Parker, Paul Yparraguirre, Bill Ward, Haskell Tarlow, Laurel Tuttle and Jack Dieringer.

ASUN historian will be Maurya Wogan, junior Independent and journalism major. Miss Wogan will select her assistants later.

NOTICE

An AWS executive meeting will be held Tuesday, September 12, at 4 pm in the ASUN building, according to Dorothy Able, AWS president.

This is the first meeting of the fall semester, and the business to be transacted is important, Miss Able said, and all women senators are requested to attend.

WAR BOARD TO MEET

The women's war board of the University of Nevada will hold its first meeting of the year Wednesday, September 13, at 3 pm in the office of Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, acting dean of women. Kathleen Norris, president of the board, stated that plans for the year will be discussed at that time.

Wayne Hinckley, University of Nevada graduate and Reno Associated Oil dealer, was instrumental in getting the equipment for the university. The oil company has given similar clocks to other colleges, including the College of the Pacific at Stockton.

Wartime shortages of material and manpower prevented its being installed in 1942, Prof. Chadwick added.

Funds for the installation of the clock were donated largely by the board of regents and supplemented by the student body.

Men who arranged for mounting the clock were Harry Frost, chairman of the board of athletic control; Silas Ross, chairman of the board of regents; Charles Gorman, University of Nevada comptroller; Prof. Chadwick, acting graduate manager.

A VOTE OF THANKS

With the announcement this week that a new time clock is being installed in Mackay stadium, students began to wonder how things like that come about.

They are not spontaneous. A great deal of deliberation and planning by members of the student body, faculty and alumni groups precedes projects that involve such sums of money as did the installation of the time clock.

Money is not spent carelessly at the University of Nevada. In this case, there was a definite need for a more accurate time-keeping system at football games. The need had existed for several years, but wartime conditions prevented its being adequately met.

The time clock was available—and had been since 1942. However, approximately a thousand dollars was necessary to install it for use.

People who cooperated to make possible the installation of the clock and scoreboard were Mr. Charles Gorman, comptroller and acting president of the university last year, the board of regents; Prof. Leonard Chadwick, acting graduate manager, and Harry Frost, chairman of the board of athletic control.

The board of regents contributed about three-fourths of the money required, and the student body paid the remainder.

This is no lecture on the red tape binding the university or on the high cost of living. It is a reminder that a small army of unsung laborers work very inconspicuously to keep the University of Nevada a modern and well-equipped school.

WE FIND THE POLICY

At about this point every semester—after the first Sagebrush has been read and digested, we hope—a statement of editorial policy is more or less demanded.

Statement of a definite policy this year would not only be foolish, but also an attempt to pound around the well-known rhododendron. This, said from a store of three years' sometimes unpleasant experience, cannot be done on this campus.

One policy has for years been prevalent among editors of the Sagebrush: a student newspaper for students, with the interests of the University of Nevada foremost.

Last spring when two women were appointed co-editors of the Sagebrush for the first time in the history of the U of N, men students vented resounding sighs of despair—the last man's outpost was manned by women.

Despite misgivings, the student paper did not change as radically as students expected. It kept the same old face, and, fundamentally, the same old policy; news continued to be reported objectively and editorial and feature comment were labeled as such. The tradition of the Brush was preserved, and the student body settled back to normal.

Again this year, we perpetuate the tradition.

If anyone feels as though he or his particular group is being ignored, he is privileged to write a letter to the editor. We eagerly accept a legitimate gripe. This is the student newspaper; it will be managed as the students want it.

Letters to the Editor

POOR EVERYBODY!

Dear Editor:
The slaughter is over. Or almost over. Tomorrow night two-thirds of the campus women will be elated over the end of another successful (?) rush season.

But what about the other one-third? They're the "not-belonger" or the "Mis-belongers." They will either be sitting in their rooms feeling they're misfits or they'll be trying to smile at some pledge banquet, all the while realizing that they're stuck for four years. It's not too pleasant.

This situation is really intolerable because it can be remedied. It must be remedied if sororities are to function as a real value to the campus.

To anyone who thinks about the situation it is fantastic to believe any girl can arrive on the campus and within two weeks' time pick a group of girls with whom she believes she would be happy. Most of these two weeks is spent in "silence," which means that no conversation can exist between sororities and prospective pledges. The only time conversation is allowed is at three organized rush parties which last approximately two hours each. Could you pick your college friends in this time?

The sororities cannot be condemned for pledging girls who are "cute" or attractive instead of those whose worthwhile qualities are not apparent in the sum total of six hours (and sometimes less than that). A few days of acquaintance brings the realization of their loss. But the harm is done.

Too often rushees caught in this unfortunate situation feel that they were swept in on the tide of false emotion and excitement or that they were shoved aside without a chance. And they are right.

We propose a system of delayed rushing where no newcomers to the campus could be pledged until mid-semester. There would be no organized rushing until this time. Unorganized rushing would be limited to allowing rushees to enter sorority houses at any time but with restrictions regarding the number of invitations for any one girl to meals, dances or parties.

The number of women who signed up for rushing this year has made the situation acute. We know our system isn't a success. Let's overcome our lethargy and do something about it now.

Sincerely,
Jane Creel
Toni Suverkrup.

Dr. Hicks Discovers World War I Plot By Japanese to Expand Into Germany

By U of N News Service

Documentary evidence, hitherto unpublished, which proves that Japan entered World War I for the sole purpose of extending her holdings in the Orient at the expense of Germany, and not merely as an ally of Great Britain, has been unearthed by Dr. Charles R. Hicks, head of the department of history and political science at the University of Nevada.

A summary of the facts contained in these documents, the original copies of which remain in the files of the British foreign office in London, has been set forth by Dr. Hicks in a pamphlet soon to be published under the auspices of the U of N research committee.

This is the first of a series of publications planned by the University of Nevada Press.

Eminent historians and scholars to whom Dr. Hicks sent advance copies of his article acknowledged the importance of the information by stressing the fact that in the light of Dr. Hicks' discoveries certain formerly held theories and conclusions regarding Japan's rise to power since the last war will now be subject to complete revision and re-evaluation.

For many years a recognized authority on Japanese affairs and problems of the far east, Dr. Hicks lived for two years, from 1916 to 1918, in Japan.

His personal knowledge of the situation at that time, together with years of research, led him to agree with historians who questioned Japan's role in the first World War.

Existence of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, as revised in 1911, gave credence to the assumption of most scholars that Japan entered the war solely at the request of Great Britain to aid in controlling armed German merchantmen who reportedly were hampering English commerce and shipping in the east, and documents which had been published since the war from the files of the foreign office held nothing to refute this assumption.

However, careful research had revealed that there was a gap of about 10 days—August 5 to 15, 1914—in the sequence of published documents and of communications between members of the diplomatic staffs of both Japan and Great Britain, and Dr. Hicks was among those who believed that those 10 days held the key to the problems which had puzzled historians for 30 years.

Through the cooperation of the New York office of the British information service, summaries and quotations from the files of the foreign office, taken from communications which passed between Sir Edward Grey, then British secretary of foreign affairs, and Sir J.

Jordan, British minister in Peking, and the representatives of the Japanese government in London and Tokyo, were obtained by Dr. Hicks.

From these documents, which covered the 10-day period heretofore missing in the sequence, the evidence clearly indicates that Japan became a belligerent nation in the conflict of her own volition and not upon specific request from England.

Among the historians who received advance copies of the new material were Harley F. McNair of the University of Chicago; A. Whitney Griswold, director of foreign area studies at Yale University; George H. Blakeslee, of the department of history and international relations, Clark University; and Kenneth Colegrove, professor of political science at Northwestern University.

Ike: Say, I forgot to lock the safe when we closed up.

Spike: That's all right, we're both here!

University Library On Normal Schedule

The university library is back on normal schedule and is open from 7:45 am until 9:30 pm every day except Saturday and Sunday, according to Miss Thea Thompson, librarian. Saturday it is open from 8 am to 12 noon and from 2 pm until 5 pm on Sunday.

Students who wish to make use of the seminars must obtain written permission from their professor in order to use the hall. Available seminars are English, foreign language, history and mathematics. There is to be no typing in the room.

"There should be a minimum of talking to avoid distraction, especially in the halls, as they reverberate the slightest noise," Miss Thompson said.

New Cartoon Book Includes Campusites

Cartoons and caricatures of many university professors, students and alumni appeared in Lew Hymer's book, "Seen About Town," which was published in Reno this summer.

Consisting of a series of cartoons that have appeared in the Reno Evening Gazette over a period of five years, the book includes 45 University of Nevada professors, many of whom are now in the armed forces. It also contains pictures of former student body presidents and heads of various campus activities. Mr. Hymer's cartoons of student leaders have appeared in the last two issues of the Artemisia.

Old clothes should be saved for wearing while answering the doorbell—in case it's a collector.

PACK PRINTS

By Mitz Maestretti, Sports Editor
Just two more weeks and the Wolf Pack will face their first opponents of the 1944 season. They will play the Tonopah Air Base eleven at Tonopah and five days later, on October 1, the Pack will face the Alameda Coast Guard team on Mackay field. This means pom-poms, pennants and game garb for students so keep the date in mind and be prepared.

Aiken Comments

Aiken said yesterday that the team is working into good shape. He added that the line averages 200 pounds which is substantial to say the least. Practices continued this week from 4 to 6 pm daily with grid meetings for discussion held 12:30 to 1 pm every day.

A practice scrimmage is scheduled for tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon between two groups designated as the Whites and the Blues. It is said that the Blues represent the varsity.

Another Rumor

Rumor has it this week that the game with St. Mary's may be held at Kezar stadium, Seals stadium or

This and That

Misc. data of the gridders' week . . . Acting Dean of Women Alice B. Marsh spoke to the squad this week on table manners . . . we have yet to see a football player curve his little finger over a cup of tea (but who cares if he can really play ball?) . . . Latest additions to the squad are two boys from Iowa, total poundage between the two is 500 pounds. The football manager, Art Palmer, scratched his head and wondered over his charges this week when he found a box of sweat socks missing from the equipment room . . . misplaced, perhaps.

Al Dockery of last year's Wolf Pack left today for the University of Miami; his leaving had something to do with entrance credits and Nevada's Aiken. Ron DuPratt, popular frosh manager last year, has been appointed assistant football manager. Jack Dowr, 22 years old, 200 pounds, is a World War II veteran and holds the Purple Heart award. Quiet Paul Zaehring, who will probably play first string half-back, is a former pilot. Sprinting contests among gridders have Elmer Green and Merlin Shea vying for top honors. The tip-off this week is to watch Phil Corrigan for a place kick, it is said to be good and his speciality. Jack Dierringer surprised quite a few by showing up on the tentative first string line-up but merits his position by his ability. Of the 45 men on the squad, only 15 of the boys are from Nevada . . . however, this is no fact to gripe about for quite a number of the boys from out-of-state are staunch U of N supporters . . . hailing from New Jersey or Philadelphia is no crime.

And Thou?

Most football players are considered boneheads, dopes and morons but have these people who so type the gridders ever considered that a

Aiken Announces Pack's First String

Buster McClure Helps the Coach

Coach Jim Aiken disclosed yesterday his tentative first string line-up for the 1944 football season. Working with a squad of 45 men, the coach said that he had plenty of material to work with, although much of it was green, and that the boys were working into good condition.

Assisting the coach this week were Bob McClure, Wolf Pack captain, and Alf Sorenson, veteran griddler. Five men dropped out of added. Conditioning and scrimmaging the squad this week while two were mages were continued at a stiffening pace.

Aiken pointed out that he has more material for the first string so that a number of the positions listed at this time are not necessarily permanent. Injuries in practices and at games generally necessitate the replacement of first string men, so fans may expect to see any number of new gridders on the field during the fall season.

FORMER STUDENT KILLED

The alumni office has recently learned that Joe DaGrade, second lieutenant, tenth air force, of Roscoe, Calif., who attended the agricultural college here in the fall of 1935, was killed in a plane accident while on duty May 29, 1942, on the eve of his departure for service in China.

Bill Mackrides, soft-spoken sophomore from Philadelphia, is our first subject for this series. In his two semesters here, Bill has become one of the most popular students on the hill. Quiet, serious and sincere, Mackrides is a fine student and athlete, majoring in mechanical engineering.

While at West Philadelphia high school he attained honors as all city center, which is no mean feat in a city of two million. Bill also pitched for the baseball team, winning a good portion of his games.

To prove his versatility, Bill turned to basketball here last semester and held down a first string guard berth. His first year on the football team he divided his time between center and end. This year Coach Aiken has him slated for the quarterback position, where his natural athletic ability should establish him as a fine leader.

According to Bill, Nevada is his choice of school because a fuller college life can be enjoyed here rather than at a larger university.

GRIDDER INJURED

Jack Musselman, '48, of Florida suffered a slight injury to his shoulder during football practice, and was treated by Dr. John Bibb, university physician.

MOUSE TRAPS USED FOR ROTC FAKE BOOBY TRAPS

Major John Howard, commandant of the ROTC, conducted a class on the detection and neutralizing of booby traps September 5. The session was arranged so that members of the class were able to obtain practical experience in that type of work.

Using several mouse and rat traps and a few pieces of string, dummy booby traps were set out. It was the problem of the students to locate and neutralize these traps.

The problem was partially tactical in the sense that it required a certain amount of form and alertness to do the job well without person harm, Major Howard stated. Members of the class were marked on the efficiency with which they proceeded.

Major Howard plans to give a

BOB MILLER IS WOUNDED

Robert C. Miller, 1938 graduate of the University of Nevada and United Press war correspondent, was wounded by shrapnel during the aerial bombardment of Verdun, according to word received from the London United Press bureau, by a local newspaper.

After completing the course in journalism offered at this university, Miller went to Fresno, California, where he was employed by United Press. He covered many parts of the Pacific coast for the next four years and became a war correspondent at the outbreak of the war.

In this capacity he was sent to Honolulu, then to Guadalcanal, by Admiral Nimitz for the detail and accuracy of his reporting and complimented by Major General where he was publicly commended Alexander A. Vandegrift, commander of the United States marine forces at Guadalcanal. He was next transferred to the Solomons and finally to the European theater.

Pres. Moseley Given ASUN Card No. One

President John O. Moseley received the number one ASUN card, of the three hundred that have been issued, according to Lee Hill, student body president. Probably about one hundred students have not yet received their cards, she stated.

The ASUN president's office is open every afternoon after two o'clock, and anyone who hasn't obtained a card should do so at once, Miss Hill said. These cards admit students to all ASUN athletic events, and serve as identification for any student.

AWS PRESIDENT HOLDS REGULAR OFFICE HOURS

For the convenience of freshmen and new women students, Dorothy Able, president of the Associated Women Students, has established her office upstairs in the ASUN building.

Office hours will be from 2 pm to 4 pm Tuesdays and Thursdays, and from 1 pm to 3 pm Wednesdays.

Women desiring to confer with Miss Able may locate her at her office during these hours.

INCOMING MAIL HITS ALL-TIME HIGH MARK

Amount of incoming mail and the use of the box service at the university post office has hit an all-time high, Robert Prescott, postmaster, said this week. All accessible boxes have been rented, and mail distributed to students this semester by far over-ranks former records.

This growth in the university postal business Mr. Prescott attributes partly to the fact that mail is distributed here after the regular five o'clock closing hour and also on Sundays and holidays, although the window itself is closed.

Mr. Prescott added that all of the students are getting more mail than last year's students.

BLOCK N SOCIETY TO MEET THIS WEEK

Jack Good, president of the Block N society, has announced that the society will hold its first meeting of the semester sometime next week, the date and hour to be announced later.

Block N, now having a membership of only five, has been inactive for some time, but its members, Jack Good, Bill Mackrides, Ronald DuPratt, Alf Sorenson and Al Dockery, plan to carry on normal activities as soon as possible.

PI PHI PREXY RETURNS

Beulah Haddow returned Wednesday morning from the annual Pi Beta Phi president's convention at the University of Southern California.

Mrs. Paul R. Manning, MU province president, returned with Miss Haddow to spend a few days visiting the local chapter and will then return to her home in Palo Alto, California.

MISSING IN ACTION

The alumni office reports that Major William Kelly Collonan of San Francisco, Calif., serving in the infantry under Gen. Omar N. Bradley, was reported missing in action in France August 9, 1944.

Major Collonan received his B.A. degree in 1930 from the college of arts and science, and did some post graduate work here in 1931 and 1932.

Artemisia Staff To Meet Tuesday

Bette Poe, editor of the Artemisia, announces that the first staff meeting of the semester will be held in the Artemisia office of the ASUN building Tuesday, September 12, at 4 pm.

It is important that all regular members attend and new students who wish to try out for work on the yearbook are invited to be present.

Miss Poe calls attention to the need for men and women capable of handling filing, typing and other details of office routine. Freshmen are especially urged to report.

Home Ec Department Plans Demonstration

During the month of September, which has been designated as nutrition month throughout the United States, Renoites will be invited to attend a demonstration laboratory the home economics department, according to Miss Mildred Swift, head of the department.

The laboratory period is a regular home economics class, and during the public demonstrations in September, students in home economics will instruct the audience in well balanced meals and the efficient use of kitchen equipment.

The class is held on the ground floor of the Agriculture building and is designed to prepare dieticians for lecture work, teachers for classroom work, extension leaders for demonstrations. It will replace individual student's experiments.

Freshmen Honored At Home Ec Affair

Freshmen women were honored guests at a tea in the home economics rooms sponsored by the Home Ec Club on Monday, August 28, according to Jayne Creel, president of the club. Sherbet and cookies were served.

The club is planning a get-together picnic this next week for all home economics classes, as well as regular members. They will plan the semester's activities at the picnic.
