

INAUGURATION THURSDAY FOR 7TH PRESIDENT

Ten Weeks Left For Bond Drive

Groups to Sell at Campus Bond Booths

By Pat Riley

Jane Creel, senior Kappa Alpha Theta and chairman of the bond drive committee of the campus war board, announced Wednesday that there are just ten weeks remaining in the campus bond drive to purchase a navy Hellcat fighter plane.

Activities Scheduled

The plan proposed by the committee is to divide the remaining time among the various campus organizations. The duty of the selected organizations will be to conduct bond booths and sponsor any activity to stimulate bond and stamp sales for one week.

Organizations which will be considered to conduct the weekly drives are Kappa Alpha Theta, Gamma Phi Beta, Pi Beta Phi, Delta Delta Delta, Pan-Hellenic, Interfrat Council, Sagers, Sagens, Home Economics Club, Chi Delta Phi, YWCA, Alpha Epsilon Delta, Fine Arts, Cap and Scroll, Press Club, WAA, Coffin and Keys, Independents and Zeta Phi Zeta.

Sagens Successful

Last week the Sagens raised $312.20 with a campus booth and football game sales. As the calendar for the 10 weeks will not be released until next week, no campus organization is in charge of sales this week.

The student body will requisition $500 to the bond drive committee to start the sales. Stamps are to be purchased through the comptroller's office and loaned to the various campus clubs.

Campus Sales

Valerie Scheeline, junior Tri-Delt and co-chairman of the bond drive committee, is in charge of sales for all campus organizations. Marilyn Dugan, city chairman; Thelma Charlton, subscription advisor; Dean Dukes, alumni chairman; Betty Walker and Betty Waugh, publicity co-chairmen; Jean Marie Proctor and Paul Yparra-guirre, in charge of the calendar, are assisting Miss Creel with the finance division of the campus war board.

Six Weeks Report Includes D, E, F's

Delinquent reports issued every six weeks will take the place of mid-terms, according to Dean Fredrick Wood, head of the college of arts and science.

The first report will be out October 9, and the next two are scheduled for November 15 and December 27.

Only D, E and F grades will go out, otherwise the student will know he is doing passing work. This gives the students, especially freshmen, an idea of their standing in classes.

A majority of the faculty also felt that it was to their advantage to send out more frequent reports before mid-term.

A few members of the faculty requested regular four-week reports, but the six-week system was chosen by vote at the last faculty meeting held September 21.

UN Band to Play For Inauguration

Making its initial appearance at the inauguration of President John O. Moseley October 12, the band will play at the next football game, October 15, when the Wolf Pack will meet Tonopah and will play for future games.

There are several new players as well as some experienced veterans. The band will perform from the grandstand at the football games as they have not done any marching.

Campusites Face Six-Week Tests

By Barbara Mills

New dark circles under the eyes and a general harried look are getting to be the latest style on the campus since the realization of six week test struck Nevada students.

A thoroughly remarkable barrage of exams, papers, weekly tests, and outside reading has befallen suddenly frosh and seniors alike. All of us realize, when campus activity meetings peter out with only one or two members present, that students who never before quite understood the real significance of books are burning the midnight oil.

Rationing Postponed

Coffee rationing has been postponed in Reno—we have this from a reliable source—until the most vicious of exams are over for college students, for the run on coffee would leave everyone without his cup for breakfast for months, if it were rationed at this critical hour. Of course the true reason for such rationing might be different in other localities, but for the section of Reno concerned with the university, it presents a real problem.

Originator Unknown

It has not yet leaked out which professor or department is primarily responsible for changing the test schedule from the old tradition of mid-terms, but we suspect that he (or they, as the case may be) is keeping quiet to save his life, for truly he would be in critical danger were the facts known. The happy go lucky student of former years who managed to hold off all thought of serious study until the very week of mid-terms is lost in this new mad whirl of activity.

Indications are that this year, of all years, students will learn what is being taught in the classes, and that coverage of the classes in the catalog will have some importance.

Pan-Hel to Sponsor Bond Drive Bean Feed To Buy Navy Hellcat

A bond drive bean feed, sponsored by Pan-Hellenic, will be held before December 15 so that the proceeds may be included on the present campus bond drive to buy a navy Hellcat fighter plane, according to Pan-Hellenic president, Pat Traner.

Tentative date for the bean feed is during the first week in December, and Beulah Haddow is to be in charge of food, while Marie Aldrich will obtain prizes for the auction.

Date for the annual presentation tea is set for Sunday, November 5, and a limit of three guests per pledge was established, Miss Traner said.

It was announced that Jacqueline Prescott, Pi Beta Phi rush captain for the coming year, will be Pi Phi representative to Pan-Hellenic.

These decisions were made at a meeting held last Tuesday at the Pi Beta Phi sorority house with all representatives present, she stated. Mrs. Wilbur R. Stewart, Delta Delta Delta district president, was introduced.

Phi Kappa Phi to Elect New Members Friday, October 20

Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic fraternity, will elect new members Friday, October 20, according to Professor F. L. Bixby, president. Members will be elected from the senior class and among the faculty.

Initiation and breakfast will be held October 22 in honor of the new members.

Officers for this year are Professor F. L. Bixby, president; Dr. V. T. Gianella, vice-president; Professor Louis Titus, treasurer; Professor A. E. Hutcheson, secretary; Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, corresponding secretary; Dr. Eldon Wittwer, marshal.

Faculty Included In Delegation For Inauguration

Bringing the total of inaugural delegates to 104, the following additional colleges and universities this week designated representatives to bring greetings to Dr. John O. Moseley on his formal induction into the office of president of the University of Nevada October 12.

Boston University, Brown University, Cornell University, Dartmouth College, Drury College, Georgetown University, Goucher College, Haverford College, Mississippi State College, University of Missouri, North Dakota Agricultural College, University of Oklahoma.

Ohio University, University of Oregon, Oberlin College, Reed College, Russell Sage College, University of Santa Clara, University of Tennessee, University of Utah, Utah State Agricultural College, Vanderbilt University, Whitman College and the College of Wooster.

Other Organizations

Additional organizations are Theta Chi fraternity, American Library Association, Alpha Epsilon Delta, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, National Education Association, Delta Delta Delta and the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Many of the representatives designated are members of the University of Nevada faculty.

Nevada Faculty

Dr. Philip A. Lehenbauer, Dr. Anatole Mazour, Dr. Benjamin F. Chappelle, Prof. Alfred Higginbotham, Prof. Gilbert B. Blair, Prof. James R. Van Dyke, Miss Jessie P. Pope, Miss Mildred Swift, and Mrs. Andrew Rice.

In addition to these, a number of Reno townspeople will act as representatives.

Mills Named New Head of Sagers

New Secretary and Vice-Proxy Chosen

Gordon Mills was elected president of the Sagers at a meeting held last Tuesday in the ASUN building. Other officers elected were Jack Dieringer, vice-president; Bob Craig, secretary, and Paul Yparra-guirre, treasurer.

Dance Was Success

The Sagers dance last Friday in the old gym was reported a financial success by Bob Craig, acting president at the time.

Craig also said that the Sagers had 100 per cent turn out for the game last Sunday. Besides lining the field for the game, the Sagers sold programs.

Future Plans

Plans for the future include a social to be held in the old gym after the November 11 football game.

It was decided that the Sagers would take over the bond booth the first Friday in November in cooperation with the university war board.

Future meetings of the Sagers will be regularly held at 7:15 pm in the ASUN building on the first and third Tuesdays of every month, Mills said.

Bob Craig announced that blue, white, or blue and white streamers 50 feet in length can be obtained for four cents a roll. Organizations wishing such material for decorative purposes may get it from Craig.

DR. ATKINSON OF ARIZONA MAKES CHIEF ADDRESS THURSDAY AT 10

Dr. John Ohleyer Moseley will be inaugurated as the seventh president of the University of Nevada Thursday, October 12, 70 years to the day from the time the university first opened its doors.

Representatives of about 75 other colleges and universities, state officials, faculty, alumni, students and others will be present at the exercises to be held in the old gymnasium or Mackay stadium, depending on the weather, at 10 am. Townspeople are invited, Dean Fredrick Wood, chairman of the inaugural committee, said.

Dr. Atkinson to Speak

Chief address at the exercises will be delivered by Dr. Alfred Atkinson, president of the University of Arizona and former president of the Land Grant College Association, of which the U of N is a member.

In his response to the address, Dr. Moseley is expected to outline his educational philosophy.

Sworn in by Chief Justice

The president will be sworn into office by Judge William E. Orr, chief justice of the Nevada supreme court, and he will receive the official seal of the institution from Silas E. Ross, chairman of the board of regents.

Representatives of the various colleges and universities will be introduced to the audience at the ceremony.

Academic Procession

Prior to the exercises, the academic procession, with representatives in cap, gown and hood will form at 9:30 am and march to the site of the inauguration.

Following the exercises, a luncheon will be held in the new gymnasium with Dean Fred Traner of the school of education as toastmaster.

Nevadan's Reception

A special reception at which all Nevadans are welcome is scheduled for Thursday night between 8 and 10 pm at the Twentieth Century Club, and people not connected with the university are especially invited.

Governor and Mrs. E. P. Carville, on behalf of the people of the state, will be in the receiving line with the president, Mrs. Moseley and others.

Student Reception

First event of inauguration week will be Monday, however, with a reception for the university students to be held at the president's home.

Among the representatives of 75 colleges planning to attend the colorful ceremonies are four college presidents and four deans.

Presidents Attend

The presidents attending include President Franklin S. Harris of Brigham Young University, President James F. Zimmerman of the University of New Mexico, President Nicholas Ricciardi of Sacramento Junior College, and Dr. Alfred Atkinson, president of the University of Arizona and principal speaker at the exercises.

Deans Represent Colleges

Deans representing their various colleges and universities will be Dean P. T. Miller of the University of Wyoming, Dean Claude B. Hutchison of the University of California, Dean George L. Sullivan of Santa Clara University, and Dean Michael J. Berkeley and the president of Sacramento Junior College.

Dean Hutchison also will represent two organizations with which the University of Nevada is affiliated—the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities, of which he is president, and the Association of American Universities.

Oldest U N Grad

As the oldest holder of a degree from the University of Nevada, Judge Frank Norcross of the Nevada federal district court, will be present on behalf of his alma mater. Judge Norcross was graduated in the first four-year class of 1891.

NOTICE

Canterbury Club will meet at St. Stephens House Sunday at eleven. Father William Holt will speak on his experiences in the Philippines.

University Students Take Active Part In Inauguration of Seventh President

Classes Dismissed Thursday, October 12

By Patricia Ussery

University students will take an active part in the events scheduled to start Monday in connection with the inauguration of Dr. John O. Moseley as president of the University of Nevada, Dean Fredrick Wood, chairman of the inaugural committee, said today.

Student Reception

To give the students an opportunity to meet President Moseley and his family, the inaugural committee has arranged for a special reception to be held October 9 from 8 to 10 pm at the president's house. Arrangements have been made with the fraternities and sororities for the early adjournment of regular meetings so that all members may attend.

Professor Jay A. Carpenter, director of the Mackay School of Mines, is in charge of the reception. It is to be informal, and refreshments will be served. Leonore Hill, ASUN president, will assist with the introductions.

No Classes Thursday

Classes will be dispensed with Thursday, October 12, after 9 o'clock to enable students to attend the inaugural exercises.

ROTC units and student body officers will march in the academic procession along with members of the faculty, representatives of the various American and Canadian universities, and those taking part in the program. The procession will assemble at the quadrangle at 9:30 am.

The university band will play the processional march, this being their first appearance of the year.

Students Invited

At 10 am the formal inauguration will be held in either the old gymnasium or Mackay stadium, depending upon the weather. All students are invited to the exercises, and invitations are not necessary. Dr. Alfred Atkinson, former president of the Land Grant Colleges and Universities, will be the featured speaker. Members of the Blue Peppers will usher.

Inaugural Luncheon

Immediately following the exercises the inaugural luncheon will be served in the new gymnasium. Tickets were distributed to students last week from the office of Dean Fredrick Wilson who is in charge, and approximately 800 places will be set. Jim Grayson, university chef, will manage preparation of the food.

With Dean Fred W. Traner serving as toastmaster, various features will be presented at the luncheon. The university singers, under the direction of Professor Theodore H. Post, will present a group of three musical numbers. Blue Peppers will again serve as ushers.

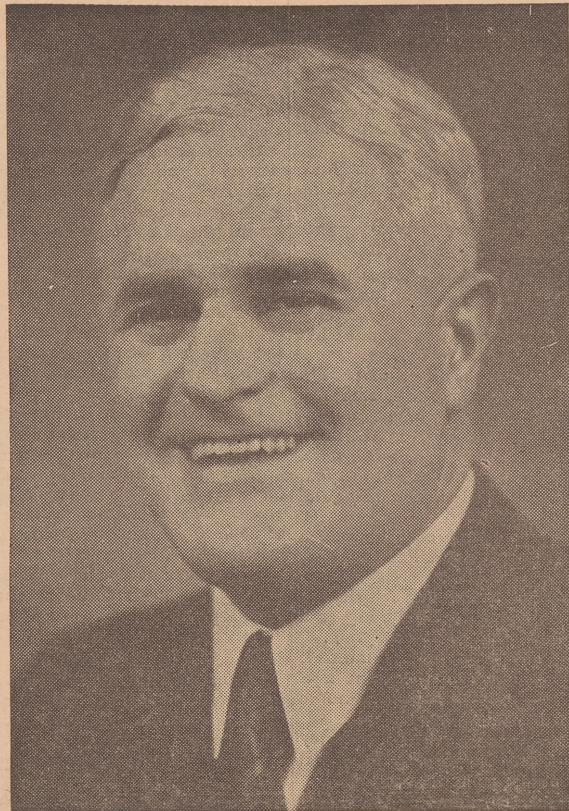

Luncheon features will include brief addresses by the following people on behalf of their offices: E. P. Carville, governor of Nevada; Silas E. Ross, chairman of the board of regents; C. D. Roeder, president of the alumni association, and Leonore Hill, ASUN president.

Dean Reuben C. Thompson will speak on behalf of the faculty, being the oldest member in point of service. Other speakers will be President Franklin S. Harris, Brigham Young University; President James F. Zimmerman, University of New Mexico; President Nicholas Ricciardi, Sacramento Junior College, and President Claude Hutchison, Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities.

SAGENS SELL $312.20 IN BONDS LAST WEEK

Three hundred and twelve dollars and twenty cents was the total bond and stamp sales made by the Sagens bond booth conducted last Friday in front of the library and Sunday at the Nevada-Coast Guard football game.

DR. JOHN O. MOSELEY

Dr. John O. Moseley will officially become the seventh president of the University of Nevada at inauguration ceremonies on this campus October 12. Dr. Moseley, Rhodes scholar and Oxford graduate, has had 30 years' experience as an educator and instructor and came to this university from the University of Tennessee where he was dean of students.

Thirty Years of Service in Education Credited to the Record of Dr. Moseley

New University President Has Served As College Instructor, Administrator

Dr. John O. Moseley, who, on October 12, will be inaugurated as seventh president of the University of Nevada, has devoted more than 30 years to service in the field of education as instructor, administrator and graduate student.

As an instructor, he spent more than 15 years at the University of Oklahoma, where he was professor of Latin and classical archeology.

As an administrator, he was for a time principal and professor of education at Kendall Academy, now Tulsa University, and served four years as president of Central State Teachers College at Edmond, Oklahoma.

Dean of Students

From this position he went to the University of Tennessee in 1939 as dean of students, a post he held until elected to head the University of Nevada following the death of President Leon W. Hartman.

At Durant, Oklahoma, high school, his first teaching position, he was athletic coach, also, and during his years as principal of Kendall Academy at Tulsa he served as assistant to the athletic director. While at the University of Oklahoma, he coached tennis for many years.

Educational Background

Dr. Moseley's educational background is wide and varied. With a B.A. degree from Austin College in Sherman, Texas, in 1912, he won his masters degree from Oklahoma University in 1916.

In the same year he was elected to Oxford University as Rhodes scholar from Oklahoma, but did not enter on this phase of his education until after his discharge from the army following World War I. He received his B.A. from Oxford in 1922, and his M.A. in 1928.

OPPORTUNITY NOX

With the inauguration of Dr. John Ohleyer Moseley as seventh president of the University of Nevada, the institution gains a valuable leader of renown as a scholar and educator. Dr. Moseley, Rhodes scholar and Oxford graduate, has 30 years' experience as both student and teacher. As dean of students at the University of Tennessee, Dr. Moseley gained valuable experience in working with students. He believes in promoting student activities and student government, and he hopes to have full cooperation from the University of Nevada student body in that phase of his work here. His inauguration will be one of the biggest events of the year on this campus. Several receptions as well as the inaugural ceremonies are open to the student body. Students are often inclined to feel that occasions such as the inauguration are more for faculty and alumni and hesitate to attend the affairs. However, Dr. Moseley welcomes every opportunity to meet students. He would be pleased if the student body as a whole attended the inaugural ceremonies and the reception. Dean Fredrick Wood, head of the inauguration committee, said this week that students would be welcomed by the new president at a special student reception at the president's home on the campus Monday night. Students should take this opportunity to let Dr. Moseley know how much we appreciate his being here—by being there!

University Growth Traced on 70th Anniversary of First Graduating Class

By U of N News Service
 Dr. John O. Moseley, whose formal inauguration as president of the University of Nevada will take place October 12, is the twelfth man to head the university in the 70 years since the first class of seven students entered the school at Elko. In charge of the class of seven at Elko on the opening day was D. R. Sessions, a native of South Carolina, who was a graduate of Princeton with special honors in English and modern languages. As principal and sole faculty member, Sessions taught a variety of subjects ranging from spelling and syntax to French and German.

Small Enrollment
 During the four years Sessions was principal, a dormitory building was constructed in the hope of attracting students from other parts of the state, but the total enrollment of the Elko school never exceeded 30 students.

After Sessions resigned in 1878, four principals followed in quick succession during the next six years until the school closed its doors at Elko.

Successive Heads
 W. C. Davey of Silver City became principal immediately following Mr. Sessions, and in 1882 he resigned to make way for T. N. Stone, who served approximately one year. E. S. Farrington was the next principal, and, although the number of students had now reached its highest peak, no additions were made to the faculty, and A. T. Sterns was head of the school when it ceased to function at the Elko location.

Moved to Reno
 After a two-year interval, marked by keen rivalry between various communities for the location of the university in the western portion of the state, the Reno site was chosen, and the University of Nevada began its first term in 1887 with Leroy D. Brown as president.

Two-Man Faculty
 With 50 students enrolled, and a faculty of one besides President Brown himself, the university then boasted of one building, now known as Morrill Hall. However, the faculty was soon increased by several members, and, in 1889, the second building to be erected on the campus was opened for use.

President Brown resigned in 1890 after taking the first steps toward securing a dormitory where out of town students could live and having more than tripled the enrollment during his term in office.

Second President
 Stephen A. Jones was selected as second president of the growing institution, and, shortly, after he took office, the dormitory building, now called Stewart Hall, was completed.

President Jones was in charge of the university from 1890 to 1894, during which time the country at large experienced one of the most severe financial depressions of history, yet the university never ceased to expand.

First Graduates
 President Jones' second year at the university was highlighted by the graduation of the first four-year class from the liberal arts school when three young men were presented diplomas with due ceremony.

Following the resignation of President Jones, on September 10, 1894, Dr. Joseph Edward Stubbs began an administration as President of the university which lasted nearly 20 years.

Standards Raised
 Chief among the immediate problems facing Dr. Stubbs was the need for reorganizing the curriculum to eliminate the many preparatory subjects hitherto included and to concentrate on advanced work. This was accomplished gradually and by 1903 the university could meet the standards required of any college of the day.

Mackay Contributions
 It was during the administration of Dr. Stubbs that the Mackay family began a series of contributions and donations, which have done much to expand and beautify the university.

In 1907 Mrs. John Mackay and Clarence H. Mackay founded the Mackay School of Mines through donations, and of mines it. The Mackay athletic field and training quarters were secured, and the statue of John W. Mackay presented to the school.

With the death of Dr. Stubbs in 1914, Archer B. Hendrick was named president, and served the university for three years.

Stock Farm Bought
 During his term the stock farm for instruction in animal husbandry was purchased, and money was appropriated by the legislature of 1917 for the construction of an agriculture building on the campus. The state veterinary control service was also organized during the administration of President Hendrick.

Dr. Walter E. Clark succeeded Hendrick, who resigned in 1917 to take a banking position in California.

On Approved List
 Dr. Clark served as president of the university until 1938. Under his guidance the enrollment topped the 1000 mark for the first time, and early in his administration the university was placed on the approved list of the Association of American Colleges and Universities.

Additional gifts from the Mackay family provided for the increased efficiency of the Mackay School of Mines, and many historical relics of the Comstock days in Virginia City were presented to the university through the generosity of the Mackay family.

In 1929 construction of the Mackay science hall was begun. This building, gift of Clarence H. Mackay and costing $415,000, houses the departments of chemistry, physics and mathematics. Also during this time additional gifts were made for enlarging the stadium and re-furnishing the training quarters.

The Alice McManus Clark memorial library was built in 1926, gift of William A. Clark, Jr.; and the education building was completed during Dr. Clark's administration.

resignation in 1938, Leon Wilson Hartman was named to head the university.

Under the administration of Dr. Hartman, which ended with his death in 1943, strengthening of academic standards was stressed.

Two new buildings, the engineering building and the new gymnasium, were constructed, and the campus was improved through the Works Projects Administration.

War struck the campus in 1941, and much of the remainder of Dr. Hartman's administration dealt with keeping the institution operating under wartime conditions and the training of soldiers assigned to the institution.

Following Dr. Hartman's death, Charles H. Gorman, vice-president and comptroller, was named acting president, an office he held until this summer when President Moseley assumed office.

Reorganization of university administration, bracketing of salaries and other changes were made during the Gorman administration.

RENO RECREATION CENTER

By Rocky Schroeder

Two thousand fans saw the powerful Coast Guard team run through the Wolf Pack 35-0 Sunday. They watched Farnum, Morales and Halbert make score after score and still cheered the Pack.

After the Sea Lions tossed a pass in the opening minutes of the game to score, most of the fans knew what the outcome would be. Coach Verducci substituted almost every man on the bench and each was as good as the man before him.

Packmen Too Small
The small Nevada backs were no match for the fast passing attack the Alameda boys put on and our inexperienced line was held out by the heavy Sea Lions defensive players. All agreed that the Pack was out-classed, but no one mentioned them as being out-played.

Alameda Fumbles
In the second quarter the Wolf Pack started to push the now tired Sea Lions back, but it was too late in the game. Alameda fumbled several times in the last part of the game, and the Pack recovered to gain many yards but no score.

Green picked up a fumble and was on his way for a touchdown but ran into a referee and was tackled. Penalties were given out riotously to both sides as they made mistakes in their anxiety to win the game.

McClure Complimented
After the game was over both coaches and the sports writers viewing the game complimented Nevada Captain Buster McClure as the outstanding player of the day. Also, favorable mention was given Al Noccio, Jerry Zaehring and Larry Heinz.

Pack Complimented
Coach Verducci stated after the game that if Nevada had a few more players like McClure, the outcome of the game might have been different.

Coach Jim Aiken had little to say, except that the game with Arizona would be more in his favor and he thought the boys all played a very good game.

Packman Leaves
All of the team will miss him for he has been one of the swiftest fellows on the campus. We mean Paul (Zerry) Zaehring, star halfback for the Wolf Pack. Zerry is leaving the university to rejoin the army air forces. He expects to see plenty of action in the Arizona game this Sunday, and that will be his last game for the U of N until after the war.

Paul will journey to Las Vegas with the team and leave for his home in Clinton, Iowa, from there. Everyone will regret his leaving, but all give him their best wishes for success on a much bigger team. Zaehring is the eighth member of Coach Aiken's squad to leave for one reason or another in the last few weeks, and probably the most important.

Other Players Leave
Members of the squad to leave in the last few weeks are Al Noccio, halfback, for breaking training rules; Phil Corrigan, varsity guard, breaking rules and causing a disturbance in the dining hall; Frank Egenstatter, back, for causing a disturbance in the dining hall; Warren Kyse, lineman, for breaking training and failing to observe traditions; Jack Dorr, end, who left to take a job in Reno, and Bob Wardell, back, who was drafted into the army.

Girls' Dorm Gets New Decorations

Manzanita Hall, girls' dormitory, has been undergoing redecoration since soon after the start of school. The downstairs living room has been papered and painted, drapes have been hung and the furniture refinished to blend with the new color scheme.

Also on the first floor, the reception room and Miss Ethel Dixon's room have been redecorated.

Several rooms on the second floor have been redecorated, but the third floor will not be decorated at this time because the rooms are unoccupied.

Sweaters Awarded To Cheer Leaders

In recognition of their services as yell leaders, Bette Poe and Tosca Masini will be awarded sweaters at a future senate meeting, according to Leonore Hill, ASUN president.

The sweaters are white slippers, and make up part of the regular yell leader's uniform. It is the custom for senate to award sweaters to yell leaders. Loren Black and Harold Clark are now serving as assistant leaders.

Miss Poe, senior Kappa Alpha Theta, has been yell leader for two years, and Miss Masini, sophomore Delta Delta Delta, was yell leader last year.

Business Degree Added to College

A new degree, bachelor of science in business administration, has been added to the college of arts and science degrees.

Two new courses have been added to make this degree possible. They are personnel management and investments. The other courses required for this degree include some courses in the college of arts and science and business administration courses which have been offered before.

The course was outlined by Dr. Ernest L. Inwood, head of the department of economics, business and sociology, and developed and presented to the faculty for approval by Dr. Milan J. Webster, professor of economics, business and sociology.

It is a four-year course, but students having the pre-requisites fulfilled may obtain this degree next year.

CASH OFFERED STAR GRIDDER

Club Fortune is giving $5 to the outstanding University of Nevada football player for each home game played on the Mackay field, according to Gilbert Sutton, advertising manager for the football programs.

The player is to be chosen by the sports writers of the downtown papers.

The management of the Club Fortune in giving this prize hopes that it will be an inducement for the fellows on the team to play their best, Sutton said.

BLOCK N SOCIETY

Block N Society is planning a meeting early next week.

At the present time the four members of the society are recording the number of quarters that each football player has played this year.

Annual Meeting Headed by Young

With more than 100 persons attending, the University of Nevada Faculty Club held its annual joint meeting with the Women's Faculty Club Tuesday evening in the home economics rooms of the Agriculture building.

The meeting was under the direction of the president, Dr. J. R. Young, head of the department of psychology.

Included on the program for the evening was the presentation of new members. Dr. Muriel J. Hughes, assistant professor of English; Mrs. Katharine Norrid Mergen, journalism; Miss Patricia Lowry, dietitian at the university dining hall; Dr. Robert A. Hume, associate professor of English and Mrs. Hume, and Dr. John D. Bibb, university physician and Mrs. Bibb were introduced to the group.

War films were presented by Major J. C. Howard and Sgt. Michael McCormick. Later in the evening refreshments were served with Mrs. John Hall presiding at the punch bowl. Hosts and hostesses for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Young, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fleming and Miss Margaret E. Mack.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for November 7 when Prof. J. E. Martie will speak on the subject, "Physical Efficiency."

NEW INFIRMARY HOURS

Dr. John Bibb, university physician, will in the future hold office hours from 10:45 to 11:45 instead of 11:00 to 12:00, according to word received from the infirmary.

Women Educators Use Campus Dorm

Women educators in Reno next week for the conference at the university will stay at Manzanita Hall, Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, acting dean of women, stated in a letter to the women residing in the hall.

Phi Kappa Phi will use the living room of Manzanita Hall and the university dining hall for their annual breakfast, and the faculty will hold their annual dinner there as well.

Mrs. Marsh stated that use of the campus dormitories by guests of the university has become a tradition at the University of Nevada.

Conference Slated For Administrators

Post-war needs and emergency needs of Nevada's school systems will be discussed at an administrators' conference at the new Engineering building at the University of Nevada October 9, 10 and 11.

About 75 principals and superintendents from schools throughout the state will be present to hear talks and to discuss their problems.

Dean F. W. Traner and Dr. Harold A. Brown of the education department of the university will work with the elementary education phase of the conference. Dr. Brown will talk on "Cumulative Records in Nevada Schools" and Dean Traner will talk on "Global Geography."

SAGERS REPORT

Magazine Editor Describes Scene

The technique of assembling and editing material for the picture story as developed by Look magazine, was the topic of a talk given before members of the Press Club Monday night by Mrs. Isabel Miller, special features picture editor of Look.

Look, a feature magazine whose policy is entertainment, steers away from stories that cannot be told in pictures, she stated.

Ideas for the stories submitted by anyone of the 30-odd writers and editors on Look's staff, she explained, are discussed and developed in group meetings. A shooting script of possible picture situations is prepared, and the photographer and editor go out to take pictures.

They work together in close cooperation, she said, since the success of the story depends entirely on how good the pictures are.

Finished pictures are submitted to the art editor who selects certain ones of them to be "blown up" for full page features.

Prepare Captions
Next step is preparing the captions, and here Mrs. Miller, a former newspaper woman, explained the difficulties of writing "exactly to space."

A complete story must be told in 75 words or less. For that reason, she pointed out, only experienced writers, preferably those with newspaper background, who have learned to write simply, graphically and intelligently, are taken on the staff.

Mrs. Miller conducts a course at New York University dealing with picture assemblage and make-up, sponsored by Look.

30 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

he engaged in the study of law for a period, and spent two summers in the graduate school of law and Latin at Stanford University, where he was awarded the Royal Fellowship in 1930.

In 1936 he was awarded an LL.D. degree by Austin College.

In addition, he has studied at Columbia University and at the University of Southern California, attending lectures without credit.

Soon after the outbreak of World War I, Dr. Moseley was admitted to the first officers training camp at Fort Logan; he was commissioned a second lieutenant in August of the same year. He served with the 32nd division overseas on five active fronts in France and was discharged with the rank of first lieutenant in 1919.

A native of Meridian, Mississippi, Dr. Moseley was born October 21, 1893.

His father and grandfather were both ministers in the Presbyterian church and his family is of the old south. His wife, whom he married in 1923, is from Los Angeles. A son, John Nichols Moseley, is now in the armed forces stationed in England, while the daughter, Miss Margaret Moseley, is a sophomore student at the University of Nevada.

Dr. Moseley is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and was for a term head of the national organization. He also belongs to the American Legion and several honorary classical and educational fraternities.

He is the author of a text book on legal Latin, and many articles on fraternal and classic subjects by him have been published in various magazines.

AWS Gives Tea for Nevada Educators

Artemisia Hall will be the setting for a tea sponsored by the Associated Women Students and Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, acting dean of women, on Tuesday, October 10, from 4:30 to 5:30 pm.

Guests will be deputy superintendents of education and high school principals from all over the state who will be on the campus as representatives to the conference of state educators which begins October 9.

Hostesses for the occasion will be Nadine Gibson, Pi Beta Phi; Katherine O'Leary, Kappa Alpha Theta; Kay Kinneberg, Delta Delta Delta; Brownlie Wylie, Gamma Phi Beta; Dorothy Abel, Zeta Phi Zeta, and Katherine Wilkes Kelly, Artemisia-Manzanita Association.

Class, Lab, ASUN Buildings Planned

Recommendations that three new buildings be erected on the University of Nevada campus were presented to the state planning board in Carson recently by Silas E. Ross, chairman of the university board of regents, Dr. John O. Moseley, president of the university, and Dr. Charles H. Gorman, vice-president and comptroller.

Need Three Buildings
The planning board convened September 22 to hear testimony regarding the needs of the university presented by the board of regents who told the planning board that a classroom building, a laboratory building and a student union building were all needed now, since they would go a long way toward taking care of the increased enrollment of students after the war.

Under Advisement
Giving the recommendations an attentive hearing, the planning board now has them under advisement. From them the board will make its own recommendations, with facts and figures, to the state legislature next year.

Temporary Plans

DEAN ENTERTAINS UPPERCLASS WOMEN

Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, acting dean of women, gave a luncheon Monday at her home for the women's upperclass committee.

Campus regulations were discussed and the committee gave its opinions and reactions to them. Mrs. Marsh said, "It pleases me very much to find that the girls are in complete cooperation with the student affairs committee."

Mrs. Marsh hopes to have a meeting soon with Pan-Hellenic to discuss this matter with them and to hear their ideas on rushing.

Temporary plans on proposed campus improvements have been drawn for the regents by E. S. Parsons, architect for the state planning board. His service and those of Alex McKenzie, technical advisor to the board, have been loaned by the state planners to the regents.

The plans were discussed at length at a meeting of the regents here early in September.

Leading in priority is the classroom building which, as its name implies, will provide maximum space for students, office space be-

Next in importance, Ross pointed out, is the proposed laboratory building with the increased efficiency resulting from concentrating under one roof all laboratories which at present are scattered over the campus in various buildings. Ross is chairman of a building committee named by the regents.

Student Building
President Moseley has made known his desire to have a student union building erected on the campus as soon as possible to provide ample facilities for students.

The building will contain, among others, offices for student union president, the Sagebrush and yearbook and YMCA and YWCA secretaries, Dr. Moseley said. Even more important, there will be space to spare for dances and socials, so that all student activities will take place on the campus, where it has always been felt they belong, Dr. Moseley explained.

Have a Coca-Cola = Put 'er there, old timer

... or greeting new pals in Ketchikan

In Alaska, just as here in the States, to say Have a "Coke" is to say Pal, we're right glad you're here, just as it does in your own home. In many lands around the globe, the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola has become a symbol of a friendly way of living.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".
