

Vigilantes Promise Campus Men 'Bad Time' for Crashing She-Jinx

War Stamp Purchase To Be Demanded Of Uninvited Male Guests at Party

By Pat Riley

Campus men who crash the Tri-Delt She-Jinx this year will find themselves "assisting materially" in the purchase of war stamps sold that evening—if they are caught by the women's vigilante committee which will be watching all entrances and blocking all exits to the affair, it was announced this week.

Intruders will first be given a thorough "going over" after which they will be invited to purchase war stamps or receive a second grilling at the hands of the committee, headed by Betty Mollignoni.

Wolf Pack Leaves Sat. for Canada

By Madlen Maestretti, Sports Ed.

The first football team to leave the United States for a command performance this season for GI's is our own "Flying" Wolf Pack which will leave the Reno Army Air Base at 8:30 am Saturday by army transport for a game with the -ATC Alaskan Clippers at Edmonton, Canada.

The pack will arrive at the Alberta province capital late Saturday afternoon and will start warming up for their Sunday tilt with the ATC men. Scheduled to return shortly after the game Sunday, the team will probably arrive in Reno late Monday.

Starting Lineup

Liability releases and waivers for 20 members of the team were reported to be in the hands of university officials today. The starting lineup will be: Ends, Green, Hayes; tackles, McClure, Dieringer; guards, Cammarano, Kluge; halfbacks, Muslemann, Nicciolo; center, Corcen; quarterback, Sorenson; fullback, Mackrides.

Nevada Has Advantage

Available information is that the two teams are quite evenly matched although the edge is given to Nevada. The Clippers won 25-0 over the Great Falls Bombers and lost 7-6 to the University of Utah, southern branch, navy trainees.

Accompany Team

Accompanying the team will be Art Palmer, student manager; Charles Bennett, university publicity photographer; Ty Cobb, sports editor of the Nevada State Journal, and John Sanford of the Reno Evening Gazette.

Military Training Problem Discussed

Moseley Represents Nevada at Meeting

There was much discussion of universal compulsory military training after the war and the part the colleges will play in such a program at the Land Grant College Association conference held last week in Chicago, according to Dr. John O. Moseley, president of the university.

Under the pending peace time conscription bill, military basic training will be compulsory for the first summer of a boy's 18th year, Moseley said. The next three months he may be furloughed to attend a college, and if that college has military training, he may become an enrolled student.

At the same time all speakers stressed the importance of liberal education and were of the opinion that it is just as important to teach our students how to live as it is to teach them how to earn a living, he added.

The theme of general discussion concerned all post-war plans for colleges, Moseley said. The most important business was the tentative approval of a new constitution for the association.

It sets up four main divisions of the meetings under the headings of engineering, agriculture, home economics and arts and science.

Dr. John O. Moseley, president of the university, accompanied by Cecil W. Creel, director of the agricultural extension service, Dean Stanley G. Palmer of the engineering college and Mildred Swift, attended the conference.

Delinquent Notices Due November 15

Delinquent notices are due in the registrar's office November 15, according to Jeanette C. Rhodes, registrar. Faculty members who plan to give exams to determine students' grades must do so during the next two weeks, she said.

Cinches and D notices will be given to the advisors soon after that date.

Two Frats Plan Initiation Rites

Sigma Nu, ATO To Induct Men

Both Sigma Nu and Alpha Tau Omega are planning initiation ceremonies in the near future, and both fraternities are planning to engage in interfraternity sports.

Alpha Tau Omega will hold its fall initiation on November 19 at which time 19 men will be taken into the fraternity, while Sigma Nu will initiate members November 17.

A pre-initiation party for pledges and actives will be held by ATO November 18, according to Jack Good, president of the chapter.

ATO is also planning to have a basketball team this year in hope of reviving fraternity sports on the campus, abolished previously because of wartime curtailments.

Sigma Nu will also field a basketball team this fall. A round robin system will be worked out for all fraternity and independent teams.

The idea is to bring back the old intramural sports to the campus, Good and Warren Parks, Sigma Nu president, agreed. All basketball lettermen will be prohibited from taking part in the play.

Actives of the Alpha Tau Omega have been holding meetings every other week at Jack Good's house, while the pledges meet during the alternate weeks in the Block N room on Tuesdays.

Sigma Nu pledges and members have been holding meetings in the Block N room in the training quarters on Mondays of each week.

Charles Blenio was elected president of the Sigma Nu pledges last week. He has called several meetings of the group to study fraternity songs in preparation for initiation. Jack Dieringer is the new vice-president, Larry Heinz is the treasurer and Jim Coleman is the chapter recorder for the Sigma Nu group.

ROTC, BLUE PEPPERS TO MARCH IN PARADE

University of Nevada ROTC men and the Blue Peppers, girls' marching unit, will march in the annual Armistice parade, according to Sergeant Michael J. McCormick.

The Blue Peppers will also drill between halves at the next home football game, to be played that day.

Revival of Two Old Traditions Adds To Success of Annual Homecoming

The Homecoming celebration which began Friday with the bonfire rally and ended with the traditional dance Saturday night was both a financial and social success, in spite of wartime curtailments, according to Gloria Mapes, general chairman.

Two activities formerly abandoned due to the restrictions of the war were renewed—the Wolves Frolic and the rally, Miss Mapes said.

The bonfire was light at 7 pm and speakers were introduced by Miss Mapes. Yells were led by the school cheer leaders.

Saturday afternoon at 2:15 pm in Mackay stadium the Wolf Pack met Utah in a game which ended 19-14 in favor of Utah. The Blue Peppers drilled between halves under the direction of Sgt. Michael McCormick, while the band played appropriate numbers.

Campus Groups To Back Drive

Will Sponsor Events To Spur Bond Buying

Various fraternities and social organizations have consented to sponsor events to advertise the sixth war loan drive on the campus during the remaining seven weeks, Jane Creel, sponsor of the bond committee of the campus war board.

Although these organizations have not revealed their individual plans, beginning November 5, Zeta Phi Zeta and Kappa Alpha Theta sorority respectively will take charge of the bond drive for the first two weeks.

The annual She-Jinx sponsored by Delta Delta Delta will highlight the third week, and a campus pin-up boy election under the sponsorship of Gamma Phi Beta and the men's interfraternity council is planned for the fourth week of the drive.

Pan-Hellenic's annual bean feed scheduled for December 1 is the planned event of the fifth week and the Pi Beta Phi sorority will be responsible for the last week's features. The war loan drive, which began November 1, will officially end December 16.

The following students were appointed by the committee to contact townspeople in an effort to boost bond sales through the campus: Gilbert Sutton, Toy Farrar, Betty Tracy, Jerry Brown and Margie Menu.

Letters are being sent to the business houses of Reno requesting that they contribute through the comptroller's office, Miss Creel said. This work is under the direction of Marilyn Dugan and Jean Marie Proctor, official city chairmen on the war board committee.

Assisting Miss Creel, in addition to the city chairmen are Valerie Scheeline, chairman; Betty Waugh and Betty Walker, publicity co-chairmen; Paul Yparaguire, interfraternity representative, and Dean Dukes, alumni chairman.

Olive S. Slocum Addresses Women

Olive A. Slocum, registrar of student nurse recruitment of the California citizens committee, Los Angeles, addressed a group of women students at an assembly in the education auditorium Monday.

Miss Slocum stressed the need for college women as leaders in the nursing profession and urged the students to consider the vocation. It will continue to be of vast importance after the war, she said.

Following her lecture, Miss Slocum held personal conferences with girls interested in the nursing profession.

Miss Slocum, a member of the National League of Nursing Education, is a graduate of the University of Southern California, and of the Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, Los Angeles.

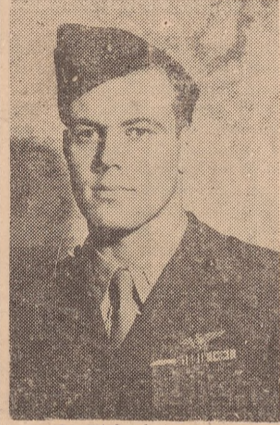

Authority to Speak On Pacific War Zone

Gen. Victor A. Yakhontoff, an outstanding authority on far eastern affairs, and particularly Russo-Japanese tensions, will address students November 21 in the Education building auditorium, Prof. Austin E. Hutcheson, chairman of the lectures committee, announced this week.

General Yakhontoff's speech will be the last on the lecture program for this semester, Professor Hutcheson concluded.

Twice Shot Down, Veteran Officer Here on Furlough

Lt. Richard Armstrong

Nevada student, is now here on leave visiting his parents and friends.

Lt. Armstrong was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity while on the campus and entered the navy in 1942. He graduated from Corpus Christi, Texas, and transferred to the marine air force early in 1943.

Before sailing for the South Pacific, he participated in carrier operations. In the Pacific battle zone Lt. Armstrong completed missions over Pago Pago, Tarawa, the Marshall Islands and the Mariannas. While overseas he was promoted to first lieutenant.

Following his leave here, he will report at Jacksonville, Fla., marine air base, for reassignment.

Student Fund Official Visits

Stresses Foreign Student Relief

Miss Mary Robe, traveling secretary of the World Student Service Fund, visited the campus this week to talk with student leaders on world relief from the educational standpoint.

Speaking to eight campus women at a luncheon Wednesday at the home of Dean Alice Marsh, she stressed the need of cooperating with other college students throughout the United States in giving educational relief to foreign students.

Suggests Campaign

The talk was to interest University of Nevada students in contributing to the fund. She suggested plans for starting a campus campaign next semester.

In addition, Miss Robe showed pictures taken by American soldiers of Oriental students and told stories of students in the United States helping with the service fund.

Student Leaders

Organization leaders present at the luncheon were Leonore Hill, ASUN president; Dorothy Abel, AWS president; Nancy Herz, WAA and Delta Delta Delta; Kathleen Norris, Gamma Phi Beta; Katy O'Leary, Kappa Alpha Theta; Beulah Haddow, Pi Beta Phi; Phyllis Baumann, Artemisia-Manzanita Association. Also present were Miss Pat Lowry, Margaret Moseley and Dean Marsh.

Nearly One-Third Of Student Body Can Vote Tuesday

Senior Class Has Largest Number Of Voting Age

By Roger Lamb

Nearly one-third of the University of Nevada student body, which now numbers 492, will be eligible to vote in next Tuesday's election, a survey of registration records in the office of Mrs. Jeannette Rhodes, registrar, revealed.

The university student body will cast a potential 144 votes in the national election, that number of students being of voting age. There is no means, however, of determining how many of them registered to vote and how many actually intend to cast ballots.

All but one of the veterans now attending school under the G. I. Bill of Rights are of voting age, and it is expected most of them will have a particular interest in casting their votes.

More Women Vote

Of the total student body, there are 62 men and 82 women who may vote. A total of 153 men and 339 women are now registered at the university. This means about 45 per cent of the male population on campus is old enough to vote and about 24 per cent of the women on campus are of voting age.

Seniors compose the greatest number of those of voting age, 36 seniors being over 21 years of age, nine men and 27 women.

Juniors are next in number with a total of 32 eligible to vote, 15 men and 17 women. Special students in the voting brackets number 25, with 16 men and nine women.

Graduate Students

Eighteen graduate students, 12 women and six men, may vote, while the sophomore class voters number nine women and eight men, a total of 17. The freshman class, with a total of 16 persons able to vote, is equally divided, eight men and eight women.

It was pointed out by Mrs. Rhodes that some of the students who have registered to vote, will vote in absentia from their home precinct and may not cast ballots in Nevada on election day.

Figures on registration in the state indicate a total of 68,050 persons have registered to vote November 7, one of the highest registration figures in many years. Of the total 21,603 have registered Republican and the other 42,143 have signed Democratic preferences.

Stan Reese Visits Reno on Furlough

Stan Reese, former advanced ROTC student at the University of Nevada, was in Reno this week on furlough. He came from officers candidate school at Ft. Benning, Georgia, where he was recently commissioned a second lieutenant.

Upon completion of his furlough he will report to Walters Field, Texas.

Reese left the campus in 1942 with the army reserve corps and went to Camp Roberts, Calif., where he received basic training in the infantry.

After leaving that field he returned to the U of N campus with an advanced ROTC contingent attached to the engineering trainee corps to await call to OCS.

Mrs. Jack Douglass will be the commentator for a fashion show to be held tonight at 8 pm in the new gymnasium, according to Jane Creel, president of the Home Ec Club and head of the financial bureau of the campus war board.

Mrs. Douglass, who has also acted as commentator for the Century Club fashion shows on various occasions, was secured by sponsors of the show, the courtesy clinic of the war board and the Home Ec Club.

Models Named

The 12 student models are Dorothy Hooper and Nancy Heckman, Pi Beta Phi; Suzanne Evans and Jeanne Forson, Delta Delta Delta; Brownlie Wylie and Billie Heath, Gamma Phi Beta; Kathleen and Isabel Blythe, Kappa Alpha Theta; Maie and Myrl Nygren, Zeta Phi Zeta; Winkie Musick and Pat Hamilton, Independents.

Entertainment will include vocal solos by Alice Ruth Doyle and Florence Shakarian and a violin solo by Lois Post, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Theodore Post.

Admission to the show is 50 cents and refreshments will be served, Miss Creel said.

This fashion show is the first activity of the courtesy clinic this year. Last year a similar show was sponsored by the University of Nevada war board.

Purpose of this show is to aid girls in the proper selection of clothes and to promote social graciousness. Clothes were obtained from local firms.

Workers Listed

Working with Jane Creel, president of the Home Ec Club, and Mary Watts, chairman of the courtesy clinic, are Phyllis Snyder and Dorothy Sewell, co-chairmen; Barbara Mills, Marianne Wells, Maie Nygren, Georgianne Hicks, Pauline Sirkegian, Dawna Jeppson and Margaret Crehore.

Honored guests invited to the affair will include Mrs. John O. Moseley, Mrs. Fredrick Wood, Mrs. Stanley G. Palmer, Mrs. Fredrick Wilson, Mrs. Reuben C. Thompson, Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, acting dean of Women, and Miss Mildred Swift, head of the home economics department.

Isabel Blythe Compiles Data For War History

Isabel Blythe, junior journalism student and president of the Press Club, has recently completed a compilation of two sections of the war history of the University of Nevada covering the first two and one-half years of the present conflict.

This record will compose a part of the state's war history to be published after the war, stated Prof. A. L. Higginbotham, head of the department of journalism and chairman of the war history committee.

The two sections of the university history include a list of dates signifying changes in the university brought about by the war, and a story of the effect of the war on student activity and life. Also in this report are the contributions of the university to the war effort.

Governor Carville requested that this information be made available to the state committee appointed by him which is compiling the war history for the entire state of Nevada. This will be published after the war and the university history will be an important chapter.

A book of the war history of the university itself will be published also, according to present plans, stated Prof. Higginbotham.

COED JOINS WAVES

Blanche Armstrong, a student of the University of Nevada, has joined the WAVES, and will leave for Hunter College, New York, about November 12.

Miss Armstrong is an arts and science student and a graduate of Reno high school. She is a sophomore student on the campus.

SAGA FROM A SOAP BOX

About one-third of the University of Nevada student body will be eligible to vote in the presidential election November 7, according to statistics received from the registrar's office today. A total of 144 students are 21 years of age. The question is: have they registered to vote?
Probably they have. Usually people who have the right to vote for the first time do register to vote. It is a part of the process of growing up—voting for the first time.
Possibly some of them did not register. They would say they did not know which candidate was best—so they let those who did know do the voting.
However, the one-third of the student body voting will likely have a voice in the future of the entire student body, since two-thirds of the ASUN will be unable to vote.
We must cast a vote—because a great deal of the futures of the present student body of the University of Nevada will be determined by the men elected by the balloting November 7. Men who are elected now will be our leaders for the next few years.
If they are men of vigor and vision—men who understand the problems of youth—they will know how to deal with the problems of returning veterans and the problems of peace, as well as those of war.
This election is neither a question of party, personality nor platform for the college student who casts his vote. It is a question of his immediate future.
A privilege unused is a privilege lost. Get out and vote! It's the American way.

G. I. Education Topic Discussed

Accelerated Plan Approved by Brown

By Evelyn Payne
Dr. Harold N. Brown, professor of education and director of summer sessions, stated today that he is in accord with Dr. B. V. Moore, head of the department of education and psychology at the Pennsylvania State College, in his opinion that there should be an accelerated education plan for returning war veterans.
This plan was the keynote of a conference of the Institute of Personnel Work attended by Dr. Brown this summer on the UCLA campus.
Sponsored by the Western Personnel Service and UCLA the institute discussed the necessity of shortened courses in specialized fields to meet the needs of the returning men.
Dr. Brown said, "Every effort should be bent to satisfy the needs and demands of returning war veterans. Difficulty of the plan on this campus will be a singular one in that the number of students who want one special line of work will be limited. In spite of a small demand in one field, the courses should be offered if it is at all possible."
He also stated that the larger colleges, such as UCLA, will not encounter as much difficulty in that the number of men enrolled for a course will undoubtedly be larger.

"Meeting the demands of the men will probably necessitate drastic readjustment for the faculty in course offerings and break into the routine of administration," Dr. Brown continued.
Dr. Moore of Pennsylvania State College also advanced a system whereby the student alternates academic study with actual experience in his chosen type of work, and omits the long summer vacation which he believes is a waste of time to many.
Dr. Brown said this is not a new idea, and it has been tried in places where positions are plentiful and the instructor is able to watch the progress of the student.
"This vicinity is not, however, entirely suitable to this process," Dr. Brown said.
"The education of the civilian student may be speeded by the summer sessions if the individual so desires, and as many courses will be offered as the demands warrants," he continued.
Dr. Brown pointed to the danger of an acceleration of credits which will not allow for accompanying maturity of mental development.
"A full four-year college career provides a ripening of the student which enables him to better handle his problems when he is graduated," concluded Dr. Brown.
Dad: Why do you always serve doughnuts when the new fellow calls?
Daughter: I try to remind him of rings and dough at the same time.

Out Of The Cobwebs

By Betty Molignoni
Recently President Hutchins of the University of Chicago stated the primary aim of a university to be intellectual—leaving experience to life.
"A college or university," he said, "has a vast and complicated job if it does only what it can do. In general education, therefore, we may wisely leave experience to life and set about our job of intellectual training."
President Hutchins climbed out on a dead limb that is rapidly being sawed from the tree.
Text Book Outlook
One signal question immediately enters the minds of all thinking students: when we enter "life"—which we interpret as being the down-to-earth process of keeping out of the breadline and making ourselves semi-respectable citizens in a democratic community—are we to be armed only with a motley assortment of bookish facts and a text book outlook on everyday living?
Upon facing complicated decisions in the ordinary course of events, are we to look to page 9756 in the Encyclopedia of Human Relations?
Of course not! Taking lecture and laboratory courses in class rooms is merely preparation for practical experience and application of class room theories. Experience must be had to solidify the knowledge we gain in the university.
Experience Now!
Wouldn't it be far better to have a little of that experience when in college rather than wait until we tuck our books in little libraries and struggle out on our own?
Perhaps we have misinterpreted President Hutchins—but we are not alone in the error.
The Varsity, undergraduate newspaper at the University of Toronto, Canada, referred to his statement in an editorial last week.
The matter was brought to the front when Oxford University in England established a school of drama. The school will study methods of drama instruction employed in American universities. This was, indeed, a radical step to be taken by such a traditionally "intellectual" university.
The Varsity suggested possible eyebrow raising on the part of advocates of higher learning—in that they are always opposed to teaching any subject that might be found in another type of institution.
Need Departments
Students at the University of Toronto have long been asking for drama and journalism departments on their campus. However, it was

FORTY-FIVE ATTEND ZETA PHI SOCIAL

Members of Zeta Phi Zeta were hostesses on Monday night to about 45 guests at a social held in Manzanita parlor. All non-affiliated girls in dormitories were invited as well as all campus men.
Miss Pat Lowry and Miss Ethel Dixon attended as sponsors of the organization. Cider and doughnuts were served after dancing and card games.

inferred they met evasive answers of the type President Hutchins offered.
One issue the Varsity writer did overlook is the tendency on the part of some educators to regard occupations such as journalism and drama as being skilled trades rather than professions—in which category they properly belong.
Not Conservative
Fortunately, no stone walled conservatism of that type exists at the University of Nevada.
There is here a sound course in journalism and, before the war, some courses in dramatics. Following the war, both departments will undoubtedly be expanded in accordance with the university's postwar plans.
This is a pretty good indication the University of Nevada is abreast of the times—and not living under the chicanery of so-called intellectual training to the exclusion of liberal and practical studies.

Letters to the Editor

Editor:
On behalf of myself and Betty Poe, I would like to thank those students who aided in making the Homecoming bonfire rally a success.
On behalf of the director, chairman, and myself I also thank the stage crew who worked very hard in making the presentation of the skits possible. These students were Bill Fryer, John Jensen, Italo Gavazzi, James Coleman and Rocky Schroeder.
I would like to add that I enjoyed very much working with Gloria Mapes, general chairman, and other members of the Homecoming committee.
Sincerely,
(Signed) Frank Apa.

Sororities Honor U of N Alumni

Honoring their alumni, three luncheons and a dessert hour were given during Homecoming by the four sororities on Saturday.

Gamma Phi Beta entertained 40 alumni at a buffet luncheon arranged by Miss Jeanne Chartier, chairman. The house was decorated in an October theme with gourds, autumn leaves and yellow candles in the living room and dining room.

Pat Thomas was chairman of the Delta Delta Delta luncheon at which blue and white pennants made by the pledges were presented to the 45 alumni attending.

Kappa Alpha Theta entertained with a luncheon arranged by Annabelle McVicar, chairman. There were 35 alumni present.

A dessert hour at the Pi Beta Phi house was in charge of Rose Marie Mayhew, chairman. The house was decorated with fall leaves, and orange, brown and yellow candles. Forty alumni members were present.

Former UN Students Marry at Las Vegas

Neil Stewart and Velma Heaton, former students here, were married this week in Las Vegas.

Stewart was on furlough from Ft. Benning, Georgia, officers candidate school, where he was recently commissioned a second lieutenant in the infantry.

He left the campus in 1942 with the army reserve corps to go to Camp Roberts, Calif., where he received basic training.

Later he was returned to the university with an advanced ROTC unit attached to the engineering trainees corps to await call to OCS. Upon completion of training here, he was sent to Ft. Benning.

While on the campus he was a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Miss Heaton left the university after completing her junior year in the spring of 1944. She was a member of Delta Delta Delta.

New Books on War, Biographies, Added To Library Stacks

The war and international problems arising from it are the subjects of several volumes added to the university library's list of new books this week, according to Dr. James J. Hill, librarian.

Among them are: German Army, Rosinski; Tarawa, Sherrod; Blockade of Germany After Armistice, Bane; Europe, Russia and the Future, Cole; Crusade for Pan-Europe, Coudenhove; and Germanizing Prussian Poland, Tims.

Biographies on the new list include the following: Shakespeare and the Nature of the Man, Spencer; Carrie Chapman Catt, Peck; Walt Whitman, Canby; Edward Douglas White, Chief Justice, Kinkhamer.

The selections also cover a wide range of technical material of interest to geology and engineering students. There are a few new law volumes and one modern play, Herbert's "Kiss and Tell."

PACK PRINTS

By Madlen Maestretti, Sports Ed.

The air-minded man with a chamber of commerce attitude, Coach Jim Aiken, will direct the play of the Nevada Wolf Pack from the sidelines of a gridiron in Edmonton, Canada, Sunday afternoon. In the sports light this week were verbal bouquets for the progressiveness the sports directors of the University of Nevada have shown not only on this occasion but back when the Wolves flew to Los Angeles for a tilt with USC, to New Mexico and scheduled a flight to the Hawaiian Islands to play the University of Hawaii.

Nevada's Advantage

Setting for the daily scrimmage the past several days seemed to favor the boys as fall season forecast the winter with chilling winds and light rainfall. This may help them when they descend in Canada to play under like conditions.

The regular first string were prepared for the journey and game this week with the return of Gus Cammarano and Fred Klugge. Klugge, 200 pounder, after being rejected at the induction center, resumed his place at guard.

Packmen Going

Pudgy Gus, who was said to have been ill last week, seems to be o.k. now and will start at guard. It is not definite at this writing what members of the team are going, however, the list will undoubtedly include Green, Mackrides, Coren, Dieringer, Heinz, Klugge, Sinofsky, Hayes, Mussleman, Marmor, Cammarano, McClure, Sorenson and Noccio.

Schedule

The army transport arrived in Reno today and left with 20 members of the team, Coach Aiken and several college officials and downtown newspapermen aboard. The game at Edmonton is scheduled for Sunday afternoon and the team will return immediately afterwards.

Bob Stoddard of radio station KOH attempted this week to find a way to bring an account of the game in Canada into the homes of university students and Nevada fans but telephone connections in the northern region were inaccessible much to his regret and ours.

Sagens Will Make Pom Poms for Game

Sagens will make pom poms to sell at the next home football game, Saturday, November 11, when the Fleet City Blue Jackets play the Nevada Wolf Pack at Mackay stadium.

This report came from Leonore Hill, Sagen president, who also stated that this decision was made at the time members were making pom poms for the Homecoming game.

The Sagens will also sell programs at the game and help with various other activities connected with the event.

Charles Duncan Wins Promotion

Charles T. Duncan, professor of journalism at the University of Nevada now on leave for duty with the armed forces, has recently been promoted from the rank of lieutenant junior grade to that of full lieutenant.

Lieut. Duncan supervises the printing plant of the South Pacific Command and works with a contingent of 50 men.

He is stationed in New Caledonia where he is attached to Admiral Halsey's staff.

Coffee Hour Slated For Faculty-Students

A student-faculty coffee hour will be held in the near future, Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, dean of women, stated. This will be a social gathering and will probably take place once a month. It will be on a school night from 7:00 pm to 8:00 pm.

The purpose of the coffee hour will be to give the students an opportunity to become better acquainted with the faculty, she said.

Joan: What kind of a fellow is Joe?

Jane: Well, when we were together in the living room last night, the lights went out and he spent the rest of the evening fixing the fuse.

Lt. Col. Field Takes Command

Lt. Col. E. Lewis Field, professor of military science and tactics, took charge of the military department of the University of Nevada last week, as Major John C. Howard left for the University of California to accept command of the ROTC there.

Lt. Col. Field will assume duties which were to have been under the supervision of Lt. Col. William A. Hale of Spokane, Washington, who has retired.

Having been in the regular army since 1917, Colonel Field saw action overseas for more than 17 months with the first and fifth divisions, and served in the army of occupation in Germany for seven months.

A graduate of Northwestern University and the University of Southern California law school, Colonel Field was engaged in the practice of law in Los Angeles before the present war, then being a retired officer.

Called back into active service on December 9, 1941, he was appointed director of training at Ft. Lewis, Wash., and as inspector general of the army service forces training center, in which capacities he served until August of this year.

At that time he was assigned to the University of California as associate professor of military science and tactics. He came to the Nevada military department from there.

His older son, Winston L. Field, is a lieutenant colonel in the 16th army air force in France. A younger son, Edward, is a student at Castle Heights Military Academy, Lebanon, Tenn.

Now in Sarasota, Fla., his wife and daughter plan to join him here after the first of the year.

Results of Mental Tests Indicate Frosh Class Most Capable Group in Ten Years

By U of N News Service
Results of the mental tests for new students given recently at the University of Nevada indicate that the freshman class of this year, as a group, the most capable class in ten years, according to Dr. Ralph A. Irwin, professor of psychology, under whose direction the tests are given.

Average score for the 129 freshman women was approximately the same as that of the freshman group last year, while the 79 men of the incoming class rose several points above the score of those last year, equalling the average of the women of the class for the first time in three years.

Dr. Irwin indicated that the rise in the men's score probably was due in part to the fact that employment and high salaries are readily obtainable this year, and many young men have preferred war work, leaving only those definitely interested in acquiring a college education to comprise the incoming freshman men.

The tests, identical with those used over a period of years to facilitate comparison of scores, are designed to measure intelligence rather than special aptitudes or knowledge in special fields.

In addition to the freshman students, 24 upperclass transfer and special students took the tests. Upperclass men ranked several points higher than the women, as a group, and the average of these two was considerably higher than the freshman average for men and women combined.

This does not indicate that upperclassmen are necessarily more intelligent than freshmen, Irwin said, but many of the students who drop out of school during the succeeding semesters will be among the lower brackets, which raises the average intelligence of the class as the group progresses from freshmen to upperclassmen.

Results of the tests by colleges show that the men enrolled in the school of engineering have the highest score.

Dr. Irwin stated that engineering men usually score high in the tests for the reason that the engineering course is known to be difficult, in involving such subjects as mathematics, physics and chemistry, and students in the lower brackets do not usually attempt these courses.

Over a period of years, the tests have been found to correlate with scholarship records with remarkable accuracy, indicating that the tests have a definite value in aiding student advisers and vocational counselors in helping students become adjusted to college standards and to find a suitable field for their efforts.

Dr. Irwin emphasized that a low score does not prove inability to do college work. Many students in the lower brackets have done respectable college work. Achievement, he said, is dependent on many factors in addition to intelligence.

UN Receives Sum For Loan Fund Use

A fund of $50,000 was bequeathed to the University of Nevada in the will of William E. Goodfellow, who died October 27, 1944.

This sum is to be used as a revolving fund to make loans to needy students at the college. The board of regents will determine recipients of loans.

Goodfellow has been a resident of Reno since 1938. He bequeathed more than 95 per cent of his estate to educational and charitable institutions.

Women's Faculty Honors New Members

Mrs. John O. Moseley and other new members of the Women's Faculty Club will be honored at the November meeting, Saturday, November 4, in the home economics rooms of the Agriculture building, according to Mrs. C. E. Fleming, president.

Mrs. Jay A. Carpenter, chairman of the entertainment, is planning musical entertainment to include the campus women's robed choir, under the direction of Prof. Theodore H. Post.

The group is a social organization composed of women of the university faculty and faculty members' wives. Meetings are held the first Saturday of each month.

Barbs Are Next On Pix Schedule

Beginning Tuesday, the Independent students will have their Artemisia pictures taken at Conant Studios, Bette Poe, yearbook editor, stated yesterday.

Women are asked to wear light blue or green sweaters over pointed-collar blouses, while men students should wear light blue or green sweaters over white shirts.

All seniors are reminded to have their pictures taken in caps and gowns, which will be available at the studio. Senior men should wear white shirts and dark ties under the cap and gown, Miss Poe added.

GAMMA PHI'S INITIATE

Gamma Phi Beta will hold initiation ceremonies Friday night for Jeanne Swanhelm, Marjorie, Lou Long, Pauline Leveille and Betty Walker, according to Melba Trigo, initiation chairman. Kathleen Norris, chapter president, will preside.

A buffet supper will be served in honor of the new initiates, following the rites.

TRI-DELTS PLEDGE

Pat Ireland, Virginia Cole and Sylvie Geraghty, freshman students from White Pine High School in Ely, Nevada, were pledged by Delta Delta Delta Thursday evening with Marie Aldrich, president, presiding.

Following the ritual, a dinner was held at the Tri-Delt house.

MANZANITA HALL TO BE RENOVATED

"Painting and improvements at Manzanita Hall will be concluded with the painting of the front porch," stated Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, acting dean of women. Improvements include interior painting and papering.

Students Give Demonstrations

Newly Completed Kitchen Lab Used

By U of N News Service

A series of one-hour demonstrations of the preparation and serving of various foods, to which the public is invited, is now under way at the University of Nevada.

Presented by advanced students of the home economics school under the supervision of Professor Mildred Swift, head of the department, the demonstrations are held each Tuesday and Thursday morning.

In use for the first time is the new kitchen laboratory recently completed. This unit consists of two electric ranges to facilitate baking demonstrations, work tables and cabinets. Only item now lacking is the electric refrigerator, which war-time conditions have made unavailable but which will be added as soon as one can be obtained.

Students conduct the demonstrations as though actually preparing a meal at home, while the audience is seated in tiered rows in front of the unit so that no view is obstructed.

Included in the demonstrations, which will conclude November 16, are frozen foods and their use, honey as a food, potatoes and their many uses, and milk as an essential food.

Dehydrated foods, which have come into increasing popularity through the exigencies of war and which are expected to continue to be popular in post-war years are included, as well as, methods of making molded ice cream in the home.

Pastries, beans and various methods of preparing them, and a two-hour period devoted to yeast doughs, will conclude the series.

Each student must shop for her own materials, arrange the necessary utensils for the demonstration on the work tables, and prepare charts showing the relation of her particular topic to the basic seven foods.

Throughout the demonstration the student is graded on poise, appearance, technique, voice and the use of the English language, and audience reaction.

Miss Swift is of the opinion that such public appearances are invaluable in developing poise and self-confidence, which will be needed by the students when they enter the many professional careers for which home economics is the basic training.

Armistice Day Social Planned

Sagers are planning to hold a social on Saturday, November 11, according to Gordon Mills, president. The theme and place will be determined at a meeting to be held Tuesday, November 7.

This week Sagers set up the chairs for the fashion show on Thursday night, he added.

Sagers were very active during the Homecoming celebration. Among their activities were taking tickets and aiding backstage with the skits, taking tickets and helping with the dance, lining the football field, selling programs and wrapping the goal posts.

PI PHI'S PLEDGE

Homecoming Praised By Dean Thompson

By Helen Corica

Reuben C. Thompson, dean of men, stated in an interview this week that the 1944 Homecoming celebration was a credit to the university although it was attempted and carried out under trying circumstances.

"Full credit and appreciation should be extended to the Homecoming committee for a job well done. Keeping up the tradition of Wolves Frolic with the skit parade was a worthwhile project," he said.

Like Magic

is the way some candidates say they will solve the problems of their State, and the Nation, and the world in general.

Like magic, too, is the way some of the boys who don't like Pat McCarran try to hide the good things Pat has done.

But you can't pull peace and prosperity and jobs and western development and industrial decentralization out of a hat. It takes statesmanship and experience and brains and ability.

And trying to cover up Pat McCarran's 12-year record of accomplishments is like stretching a blanket over a hay stack. It's too big to hide.
